NATIVE POETRY.

In a brief article on the poetry of MICHAEL W. BECK, written for the Worcester Palladium by a native of this place, we find the following selections and remarks:

Among the popular poetical articles which our dailies, weeklies, and monthlies contain, the following has, every now and then, for the last ten years, showed itself; most frequently, too, without the author's name:

THE WORLD AS IT IS.

This world is not so bad a world
As some would like to make it;
Though, whether good, or whether bad,
Depends on how we take it.
For if we scold and fret all day,
From dewy morn till even;
This world will ne'er afford to man
A foretaste here of heaven.

This world in truth's as good a world,
As e'er was known to any
Who have not seen another yet;
(And these are very many;)
And if the men and women, too,
Have plenty of employment,
Those surely must be hard to please,
Who cannot find enjoyment.

This world is quite a pleasant world
In rain or pleasant weather,
If people would but learn to live
In harmony together;
Nor seek to burst the kindly bond
By love and peace cemented,
And learn that best of lessons yet,
To always be contented.

Then were the world a pleasant world,
And pleasant folks were in it;
The day would pass most pleasantly
To those who thus begin it.
And all the nameless grievances
Brought on by borrowed troubles,
Would prove, as certainly they are,
A mass of empty bubbles!

We have thought it might be well, in proposing this particular article for publication once more, to accompany it with some remarks in relation to its author, whose name deserves a better fate than obscurity, when we can justly speak of it in connexion with such sensible verse.

The poet was Michael W. Beck. He was born in Portsmouth, N. H., in 1817. His father died during the son's infancy; and Michael passed his early days, as a kind of favorite, we believe, in the family of his uncle, Gideon Beck, who was for many years proprietor of the N. H. Gazette.

Michael began his active business life as a practical printer. Soon after his apprenticeship in his uncle's office, he purchased in company with another, the "Maine Democrat," at Saco, Me. In the management of that paper he was both printer and editor; and so intense was his application to the business of the establishment, that his physical constitution became affected by a disease which ultimately terminated his earthly career. His intellectual powers were strong and active, well balanced, and for one of his years, well matured. His reputation as a political writer stood deservedly high. He also was a poet of no common capacity. Ready and easy in his versification it was but little effort for him to express his conceptions in the running numbers of the Muses. And he could here strike chords,

Now in flashes and outpourings of Pindaric wit, and now in serious contemplative strain. The effusion already quoted deserves a place in every house, and might well be learned by every child in our land.

Mr. Beck died early—in the very morning of his youth. He was taken away by consumption. He endured the workings of the insidious disease not only with patience, but in calmest trust and resignation. His cheerful maulines remained with him to the last.—Not long before his departure, he penned the following, as if in respect of his own visitation.

THE SOUL.

Whence came the intellectual ray,
That lights the eye with fire?
That earth ward will not abide its stay,
But heavenward, bids aspire?
Is it a spark from God's high throne
Given with our earliest breath!
And will he claim it as his own,
When we are chilled in death?

Oh precious faith! cling to my breast,
Be hallowed, pilgrim, there,
When to my bosom thou art prest,
How free I am from care.
Let sickness rage—let pain invade
My vitals for its food,
No doubt my faith shall make afraid,
Nor ought be mine but good.

Through death's dark valley I must tread,
Ere youth's fair sun is set,
Calmly, resigned, I bow my head,
And earth's vain joys forget.
The spark that gleams—the jewelled soul,
The casket thrown away,
Shall mingle with the perfect whole
That forms God's brightest day.

He died in Portsmouth, March 9, 1843, aged 27. His character was such as to command the unreserved love of his near friends, and the respect of all who knew him.

APPEARANCES ARE SOMETIMES DECEITFUL.—Mrs. S——, who, it seems, has recently moved into the city of Boston, and whose means are not very limited, after waiting during the ten days past, in vain, for a pleasant afternoon, to make some purchases for a poor niece who was soon to leave for California, ordered her carriage, and, attired in her stormy day clothing—(albeit Mrs. S. is in nowise particular about show)—told her driver to convey her to some extensive dry goods store. The driver hauled up at a retail house. Mrs. S. alighted and entered, and was told by the first attendant she met, that the flannels, cottons, &c. were at the farther counter. Mrs. S. selected, one after the other, the many articles which she desired, and was looking for something else, when the proprietor (for it was he who was waiting on her,) says, "madam, you are picking out a great many goods; I fear these things come to more than you expect. I'm afraid you are not able to pay for all you have selected." Well, sir, said Mrs. S., perhaps I can't; won't you add up the amounts. No sooner said than done. It is $37,87, madam. "Well" said Mrs. S., I don't believe I can afford to take them. Good morning, sir!" The manner of Mrs. S. caused the dealer to suspect that he had been a little too fast; Madam, said he, shan't I lend you an umbrella?—(it was raining fast.)- No, I thank you, said Mrs. S., "my carriage is at the door."

The Boston Commonwealth is responsible for the above story, which we deem quite too good to be lost.

COLLEGES OF THE UNITED STATES.—Two hundred and fifteen years have passed away since the first College—Harvard University—was founded in our country; and at the close of the seventeenth century the number had increased to only three—Harvard, in Massachusetts; the College of William and Mary, in Virginia; and Yale, in Connecticut. But within the past century a great change has come over the spirit of the scene. There are now 120 colleges in the United States. The number of under-graduates in these institutions is more than 10,000—which, increased by the students who are connected with their preparatory and professional departments, amounts to about 14,000. There are thirteen colleges in New England, some of which may be denominated national institutions, deriving their students more or less from every State, and sending forth their influence to all parts of the Union. These thirteen graduate about 500 students annually. Since their establishment they have graduated 25,000 students.—Most of the colleges of the United States have been founded and directed by the clergy and other members of the Congregational and Presbyterian denominations. Thirteen are now under the superintendence of Baptists, thirteen of Methodists, eight of Episcopalians, and eleven of Roman Catholics.

Besides the above institutions, or connected with them, there are 43 Theological Seminaries, nine of which are in New England; 35 Medical Schools, seven of which are supported in the Eastern States; and 13 Law Schools, two only of which are in New England—being those connected with Yale and Harvard Colleges.

The Fairmont Virginia, says it would astonish people who pay 20 cents a bushel for coal, to see that article dug out of our streets in grading them. Such was the case last week. In grading the street leading to the bridge, Mr. Martin the contractor, struck a vein from which he allowed persons to dig and haul away what they wanted, at the rate of one and a half cent per bushel.—Petersburg Express.

APPOINTMENT OF SENATOR.

We learn that the Governor has appointed Ex-Gov. Jared W. Williams of Lancaster to fill the vacancy in the U. S. Senate occasioned by the death of Mr. Atherton. The N. H. Patriot says, Gov. Williams is well known to the people of this State, having represented them in Congress four years and been two years their Governor—which, with various other offices, he has filled to the satisfaction of his constituents. He will be found a firm, reliable and trustworthy Senator, and a zealous, hearty and unyeilding supporter of the National Administration.

THE WINTER.

In some directions, the Winter is early; in others it seems reluctant to begin.

In Nova Scotia, the British schooners James McNabb, and Pioneer, returned to Halifax 19th inst., having been unable to perform the voyage to Quebec. The former had started from Halifax Oct. 19, and had been erroneously reported ashore at Cheticamp, all hands supposed lost. The latter left Halifax Nov. 1. Their return seems to indicate that the rigors of winter had commenced in the inhospitable region of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at an early period.

A Bangor dispatch of Monday morning says, that the river is closed by the ice. The steamers Boston, Daniel Webster, and Eastern State, with about 60 sail of vessels are all frozen in; the owners have contracted to have them cut out; a large force will be put on and the work will be accomplished as speedily as possible.

At Buffalo, Nov. 28, the weather continued warm and pleasant, with every indication of a late closing of navigation. The receipts by the Lake were fair, sailing vessels and propellers being in full blast. The shipments by canal are small, but there was some talk of shipping flour through, if the weather held fair till the 29th.

A VIRGINIA VIEW.

The Washington correspondent of the Portsmouth, Va. Transcript, who is evidently a supporter of Pres. Pierce's administration says:

The equanimity of the Cabinet has not been disturbed, and the effect of the course pursued by the 'Soft' and 'Hard' wings of the Empire State democracy in the late election, cannot be safely surmised until Congress meets. Then we shall see the full and positive strength of the President's policy.

The recent address of the democratic (Hard Shell) committee, of New York, is the subject of a long, but very injudicious and unjust leader in this morning's Union. The article referred to charges Mr. Dickinson with having originated the divisions in New-York—firstly, because of Marcy's elevation to the State Department, and secondly, on account of aspirations to the Presidency. How contemptible are these charges, and how unanimously will your people, and the whole South, brand the charges as base falsehoods, originating in absolute malice. The President ought to have sagacity enough to stop the organ-grinders in their mad career, for a steady pursuit of such policy, as the Union has lately pursued, will drive hundreds of thousands of good democrats from his support.

Brutified Men.—The Boston Chronicle says, that in the Police Court of that city on Tuesday, a man named Peter Hoyt was was charged with making an assault upon Charles Harrison, in a cell at the North watchhouse. Both had been committed as common drunkards, and were strangers to each other. During the evening the officers heard an unusual noise in the cell, and upon going to the spot saw Hoyt beating Harrison in the most outrageous manner; his eyes were nearly closed, and his face was much bruised. Hoyt was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, but appealed, and gave bonds in $200. Harrison was sent to the Island.

☞ The Phrenological Journal and the Water Cure Journal—Fowlers & Wells publishers, New York—commence new volumes in January; $1 per year. J. P. Morse agent. Both the sciences of which these able and popular monthlies respectively and particularly treat, are steadily advancing in the public estimation; and these are their sole organs in this country. They are richly worth their price to any family.

Mayor Seaver of Boston has been nominated by the Whig committee, for re-election. His previous nomination by the united liquor interest, in connection with this whig nomination, will probably secure his re-election.—The opposing candidate is Dr. J. V. C. Smith, styled the peoples' [temperance] candidate.

THE OLD SCHOOL HOUSE.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The New School House has been ushered into public notice by wise counsellors, eloquent orators and grave divines. Native bards have sung its praises: poetry and music have celebrated its birth. Patriotic ardor has baptized it into the name of the legislator, judge and statesman, Woodbury. And all this is well; it is as it should be. Long life to the new school house! may its teachers be wise and great, and its scholars become wiser and greater.

But the old school house, what of it? It is not destroyed, but sold and drawn away: It is passing, as men sometimes do, from public to private life, from notoriety to obscurity. But it must not descend thus, unwept, unhonored and unsung. Its friendly roof has sheltered Uncle Toby's head in many a storm, when it and he were younger; and now that it has gone out of fashion and stands back to make room for its successor, he will chronicle its history, sketch its beauties, and speak a good word, in memoriam, for some who taught and learned within its walls, and for those who raised those walls at the first.—The latter have all passed from the stage; many of the former have followed; and as the pen touches their memory, the thought that their successors must soon occupy all their places, comes over the writer like a vision, not gloomy and sad, but beautiful, and fit, and orderly, as it ought to be.

Something like four score years ago, Jeremy Dennett, John Shannon, Richard Pickering and Benjamin Miller, as the tradition runs, moved with the desire to have a school within walking distance of their houses, for the special benefit of their small children, put their wishes and efforts together, and built the first school house on Gravelly Ridge.—The two first named men lived on their respective farms in Portsmouth; Benjamin Miller and Richard Pickering lived in Newington, but for school purposes they joined in this enterprise, and their descendants at the homesteads, now belong to the Woodbury School.

These four builders erected their building, by leave, on land of Deacon Eliot and Jonathan Warner, Esq., where the new house now stands; and as they were so liberal in their building, the town seems to have been no less so in providing teachers. Exactly how they sped for the first thirty years, however, Uncle Toby cannot say; he knows only in general, that in no neighborhood were all the children more carefully taught the rudiments of useful knowledge. But of the School House, Scholars and Teachers, when he was "a man of three feet high," his recollection is distinct and perfect.

The House was about twenty feet square: as the new scholar entered the room, the large boys and girls sat on long benches round the sides, with their backs to the wall, and with their long writing desks before them. The central space was filled with shorter benches occupied by smaller children; and all the eyes were directed to the door as it opened. At the left hand stood, and as the new scholar was led in, bowed, the tall and graceful young teacher. The new school ar had seen but one schoolmaster before, viz: Parson Birch, dignified, stiff and severe.—But this new teacher in this new place, in a very few moments made a timid child feel certain that he had a friend and well-wisher as well as a schoolmaster, in the person of Charles Taft. The teacher was a little over six feet in height, and as he was very slender, and the story was low, he seemed to reach to the ceiling. He rarely sat down in his school, but kept up and doing; preserving good order without saying much about it, and with the smallest possible amount of punishment, for those days. But he loved to teach, and so busy did he keep his little flock of about thirty scholars, that they had no leisure to get into mischief. So kind and even was he, that they could not get into any fits of ill-nature.

The new scholar was first seated on a front bench, facing an open fireplace, six feet off, where glowed a heap of live coals that sent a genial heat across the room, and sent rather too much of it to those who were near. The good nature of the teacher soon found him a cooler place; and in the manner of doing this simple kindness, made him feel quite at ease, not only then, but through the season.

The chimney, which was not a very small one, stood at the western end of the house, with a small dark closet in the North West corner, and the entry in the South West. These three necessary appendages, occupied the whole west end.

The entry contained the boys' hats and coats, the closet contained those of the teacher; and the girls were allowed to hang their bonnets and cloaks in the school room over their seats, a privilege they never abused to any worse purpose than a little whispering beneath them now and then.

Glass was not cheap then; and the windows were only three in number, of twelve squares each. They were, moreover, rather low in the wall, and when all the large scholars stood up, as sometimes they did, the room was quite dark, or would have been, but for the fire light.

Lime was also dear, while boards were cheap and plenty: so the house was ceiled with boards throughout, and these, shrinking and having never been painted, made the apartment neither warm nor elegant.

Wood was plentiful: but we hardly ever had any dry; and as there was not a square foot of spare room n the school house, and no out buildings of any kind, our wood pile was in constant coalition with a snow bank; the great boys used to dig out and cut up the wood, and every body tended the fire. We had a large stone for a back log, two bricks for andirons, a piece of iron hoop for tongs, and a green stake for a poker. When the fire of green wood seemed loth to burn, Dudley Adams was called upon to blow the fire, which he accomplished by turning his back towards it, and fanning it between his knees with an old flapped hat he wore, which happened to be the largest in the school.

The whole of these fire works seem ludicrous at this day, but it never occurred to us that they were not all right. We were very busy, very happy; and many of us learned well. Our schoolroom was up to our times. Our school was a little beyond them.

But our space is filled, and we must make a second chapter.

A Lyceum Incident.—It is really pleasant passing an hour or so in the well filled and well lighted Temple, especially with the attraction of a good lecture. The regular auditors become familiar with each other, and a certain set of faces is expected to present themselves, "perhaps to see and be seen," as Mr. Quincy happily hath it. On Tuesday evening, a little extraneous affair served to put the audience in the best of humor, and to raise a bit of a laugh in which everybody joined, including the gentleman by whom it was excited. The hall is so filled, that any whose engagements will not allow of early attendance, may find a seat farther from the speaker than is desirable. So a professional gentleman, known in our city as well out of as in his profession, being the inventor of several machines and appliances for various purposes—one of which is a portable chair or seat, something after the style of a camp-seat—deemed it advisable to have one of these last-mentioned conveniences at hand, in case of need. The Dr. arrived just before the lecturer made his appearance—and having retired to one of the ante-rooms, brought out his chair and seated himself in a favorable position. This was the signal for universal, hearty, and oft-repeated applause,—which, while it in no wise disconcerted our hero, must have been a compliment either to the said chair or its inventor's providence. The Dr. acknowledged it by a smile—but a friend thinks he should have risen and made three of his best bows to the audience, in which case the joke would have been entirely on the other side.

City Lyceum.—The lecture before the City Lyceum this evening, will by Rev. Mr. Lane of Newburyport. The future lectures are so arranged, that Rev. Dr. Burroughs will lecture on the 8th of December; Rev. Mr. Moore on the 17th, and Rev. A. L. Stone of Park street Church, Boston on the 29th. There will also be lectures from Dr. O. W. Holmes of Boston, Rev. Messrs. Lamson, Willis and Armitage of this city. Season Tickets, for gentlemen $1, Ladies 50 cts. are still to be had;—and the merits of the remaining lectures are such as to make them well worth the money and attendance of an increased audience.

Fashion vs. the Dictionary.—Among other good things, the Water Cure Journal for December has a Punchy illustration of the difference between the proper definition of Bonnet in former times and at the present day. Webster gives it to be "A covering for the head"—the cut before us shows it to be now-a-days an appendage—at best but an ornament, to the back of a body's head, supported mutually by its strings and the wearer's shoulders, being kept in place by an occasional pull at the front, or a genteel shrug of the shoulders. Well, "the milliner's will make 'em so small." "O what a duck of a hat!" "What a love of a bonnet!"

An Ethiopian Hercules.—A negro in Petersburg, Va., took up and "toted" on his shoulder a hogshead of tobacco from the depot to the Centre Warehouse. It weighed 385 pounds. The Southside Democrat says this is a fact.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, an accident on the Eastern Railroad, near East Boston, resulted in the instant death of one man and the fatal injury of another. As the quarter past twelve outward train from East Boston was passing through a cut at Breed's Island, the engine and one or two cars were thrown off the track, by a large stone which rolled down the embankment and lodged upon the railroad. By this accident the fireman, —— Hall, had his ribs broken, and was so seriously injured internally that there is little hope or possibility of his recovery. He was a single man, and boarded on Webster street, East Boston.—He had been employed on the road but a few days, having recently left the Lowell Railroad.

About an hour after the occurrence of the accident an engine went from East Boston to the place, for the purpose of arranging the train to allow it to proceed, and after the cars had been properly shackled and the work nearly accomplished, Patrick Weston, an employee on the road, attempted to change a switch, when his foot caught in the "frog," and he fell upon his face lengthwise upon the rail, and at that instant the wheels of the forward car passed over his back, crushing him in the most shocking manner. He lived for two or three minutes only after being taken up. He leaves a wife and four children who live on Summer street. An inquest was held by Coroner Rice. The trains were detained for a time, though the cars were not materially damaged. We learn that the engineer of the train was seriously, though not fatally injurrd.—Chronicle.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.—The origin of the present difficulties between Russia and Turkey may be briefly stated as follows:—The Czar of Russia, as head of the Greek Church, demanded, in June last, certain guarantees from the Turkish government in regard to the rights of the Greek Church in the Ottoman empire, and made a pretext of occupying the provinces of Moldavia and Wallachia until these were given. The Sultan secured the required rights to the fullest extent, not only to Christians of the Greek church, but of all other denominations. The Czar still retains possession of the provinces, and the Sultan makes war with him for such invasion and occupation of part of the Turkish territory.—Boston Transcript.

SUICIDE.—The Buffalo Courier states that on Wednesday last, as the express train on the Buffalo, Lockport and Rochester Railroad was going out, a man, name unknown, was seen by the Engineer standing by the side of the road, about a mile from the city. As the train approached, and when it was within a few feet of the spot where he stood, the man stepped forward on to the track, kneeled down, threw up his arms and deliberately laid his head on the rails. The entire train passed over him, killing him instantly, and mangling his body in a horrible manner.

BURNING OF THE COOPER HOUSE.—We lately announced the fact of the burning of the late Fennimore Cooper's residence at Cooperstown, New York. Albert Ryckman and F. Ellerby have been arrested on suspicion of having set it on fire. It was fired in five places. They suddenly left Cooperstown under suspicious circumstances. It is supposed to have been burnt to secure the amount of $40,000 insurance upon it;—the former of these men being the owner, and the latter his agent in charge of the house. They are soon to be examined.

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—Two of the leading Democratic newspapers at the South, viz., the Richmond Enquirer and the Charlestown Mercury, have taken strong ground against all movements which tend to the annexation of the Sandwich Islands to the United States.

BROADWAY THEATRE NOT SOLD.—Messrs. Bowen & McNamee published a card in the New York Evening Post, in which they deny the truth of the rumor that they have purchased the Broadway Theatre. They state: "We have only to say that we have not bought the theatre and other property spoken of, and have no thought of doing so."

J. T. GILMAN.—Charles S. Davies, Esq., of Portland, will deliver an address in Exeter, N. H., on the 19th of December, comprising a biographical sketch of the life and character of John Taylor Gilman, before the New Hampshire Historical Society, that day being the centennial anniversary of the birth of that distinguished man.

A COW WORTH HAVING.—Col. Thorne, of Duchess county, N. Y., received from England by the Washington, a Durham cow, for which he paid three thousand dollars, besides the expense of her passage. This is probably the highest priced cow ever imported. She was accompanied by a two months old calf, which cost seven hundred and fifty dollars.

BURNT TO DEATH.—Mary Whiting, an old lady of nearly ninety years, was burned to death in Sutton, on Sabbath evening. She was alone in the house, the other members of the family being absent at an evening meeting. On their return they found her remains shockingly burned, and the house on fire.

A PRINTER'S GARDEN IN CALIFORNIA.—Mr. Eugene A. Upton, near the Mission Dolores, has a very extensive garden, in which are 6000 heads of cabbage, 1000 plants of asparagus, 15,000 cauliflowers, 10,000 strawberry plants, and a large quantity of peas, marrow fat squashes, celery, radishes, rutabaga turnips and rhubarb. Flowers abound in the garden, and pigs and poultry are provided for about the premises.

EARLY IN THE FIELD.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce in his last letter, in alluding to recent political movements in New York and Georgia, says: "It begins to look as if Dickinson and Cobb would be the national democratic Ticket for the Presidency and vice Presidency in 1853. The Empire States of the North and the South are to bring about this nomination."

Mrs. McBride, of Lowell, is in jail at New-Haven, for leaving her babe, a male child about a fortnight old, in the privy connected with the ladies' saloon, at the railroad depot in that city, on Thanksgiving day. Her husband is in California.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86⅔ lbs.—13⅓ lbs, is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105⅓ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

EDUCATION OF NURSES.—The project has been advocated in high places, of having a special course of instruction, in the Female Medical College, for nurses. This would be a popular movement. There is a woful degree of ignorance even among the best of that most useful and indispensable class. No one can better appreciate the services of a good, kind, intelligent nurse, than a physician. His efforts are often powerless, from the bad management and want of tact, in the person whose office it is to give the prescribed medicines, and attend to the varying demands of a sick patient. Every body admits that nurses are essential; and all agree in this, that as accomplished one is a treasure. But who has ever taken pains to assist in imparting a correct knowledge of their duties? If the Female Medical College will take this matter in hand, the community, far and near, will be gratified, and their graduated nurses will never lack for lucrative employment.—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

ANECDOTE.—The following anecdote is told by the Chicago Journal of Gov. Reynolds, whom they call the "Old Ranger" in Illinois, when for the first time in his life he visited the seaboard as a representative to Congress from the back settlement:

"Upon reaching Baltimore the Governor rose early in the morning and paid a visit to the shipping at the docks when the tide was full, and again at noon, when it was at ebb; and, not satisfied with the sudden change that had taken place, again in the evening, when the tide was in. Heretofore he had resolved to keep everything to himself, and go in pursuit of knowledge under difficulties on his own hook; but now his astonishment broke over its bounds. As he returned to the hotel the old ranger remarked that this was the curiousest country he had ever seed in his life—two freshets in one day, and nary drop of rain!"

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the great effect of this above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. HARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brewer, Boston. d&wtim jc22

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this recently sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been ascerted CAN BE DONE!

THE CELEBRATED

LOWELL COAL & GAS BURNER

For Anthracite Coal.

MANY futile attempts have been made to construct COAL STOVES which should consume the gases, and at the same time be simple and easily managed.

We think that Mr. D. G. LITTLEFIELD, the Patentee of this Stove, has been eminently successful in his efforts to produce this result—indeed it is so unlike all other stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them.

One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as TWO TONS consumed in any other Stove extant.

For a particular description we would refer the public to the following communication from Mr. Littlefield:

All skilful coal burners, and stove manufacturers, are conscious that a great error has pervaded the forms of all the apparatus for burning anthracite coal. No one, however, has been able to determine where the difficulty lay. Nearly all attempted improvements for consuming the gases, have been based upon the supposition that the common method of burning in a tight pot of some kind, either of cast iron or sheet iron lined with stone or brick, was correct, and their improvements have been made over and above this point in the apparatus. It is true the form of the pot has been changed from time to time, from the long cylinder with grate at the bottom, to the short and broad cylinder, and then to the bottle form, then square, then oval, and then contracted at the top, and then at the bottom, and then flat, low, each having its advantages and disadvantages, but all operating substantially in the same manner in one respect, namely, that the gases are expelled from the coal and immediately rise up burned to the upper part of the apparatus, where they cannot burn perfectly, being withdrawn from the action and greatest heat of the fire, and must either pass through the flues, or into the apartment to be heated, thus causing a great loss of heat, and the only unpleasant difference between heat produced by coal and that of the wood fire.

Carburetted and sulphuretted hydrogen are freely liberated in burning coal. These gases, altho' perfectly combustible, and therefore easily disposed of, are really the direct cause of nearly all the inconvenience in burning coal. Being very volatile, a large portion of them escape through the flues unburned, or into the room from open stoves, and through the joints of close stoves, producing various unpleasant sensations, such as langor and headache, so common among those who live in a room heated by coal. In addition to this, they act upon and in time destroy the stove and pipe, particularly that part near the chimney. In any city where anthracite coal is used to any extent, the effects can be seen in that part of the chimney above the roof of nearly every house which has been built five years.

I wish now to call the particular attention of the reader to the common method of burning coal in a cylinder, with a flat grate at the bottom. It is well known that when a hard coal fire is started, it is with charcoal or some other very combustible material. The first impression made on the anthracite coal is to heat it; this expels the gases or most inflammable portion of the coal, which being volatile, and the pot open at the top, immediately rises above the coal, and is consequently out of reach of the strongest action of the fire. It is a well-known principle that a gaseous substance, expelled from a solid body by the action of heat, rises above and mostly escapes any further action of the same heat which expelled it. The experience of every one that has given attention to coal burning is, that the best results are obtained with the common pot, by a very slow process of burning, covered with ashes, or wet and fine coal. The reason is obvious. By this method more of the volatile substances are retarded and consumed within the pot, and in contact with the coal, thereby producing a more perfect combustion of the fixed matter, as well as being burnt themselves, preventing the accumulation of old coal on the grate, and making no clinkers. Sometimes, with great care, a stove can be made to run from week to week, a result very desirable, but only obtained by the utmost care and skill. We need no better evidence that there is a radical defect in past construction of fire pots, than that with them the nicest calculation, prudence and judgment were necessary, to obtain comparatively poor results.—In fact, we may safely say that the form of pot open at the top, and with a grate at the bottom, for burning anthracite coal, is all wrong. The fire by its own action becomes wrong side up. The volatile matter, which is combustible, is expelled, and passes off imperfectly burned, instead of being consumed before it escapes, and helping as nature designed it, to consume the fixed matter in the bottom. A method of burning coal that accomplishes this object, that is, the combustion of the volatile matter in contact with the coal, is the only one that has any claim to be called scientific.

A stove constructed upon the principle above referred to, has been invented; and, after repeated experiments, has been so far perfected as to justify its introduction into the market. Its construction is exceedingly simple, requiring but little skill in the operator, when a fire is once started, (which is easily done); all that is necessary is a constant supply of coal, and a little attention from time to time, to keep a fire from mouth to mouth.

LOVE AND SUICIDE.

A most strange and eventful tragedy, having its beginning in an illicit and violent attachment, and marked throughout by a strong shading of romance, was yesterday brought to a bloody conclusion in the hitherto quiet precincts of Bourbon street. The chief hero was a Frenchman—none other than a fiery Gaul could have played out a role so bloody; and the heroine a French woman, young, fascinating, and endowed with a beauty that was at once her sole fortune and her curse. But, as a picture so strongly marked needs no touching at our hands, we will proceed at once to the facts which we design to relate.

Yesterday, about 10 o'clock, the inmates of the house, No. 80 Bourbon street, were startled by the sharp report of a pistol, and then another, followed by a fall as of heavy bodies on the floor of one of the inner rooms. Rushing into the room, the occupants of the house found a young and beautiful woman, Madame Ellenor Fouget, wife of Charles Sage, laying prostrate on the floor, purple with blood, and apparently struggling in the death agony. Near her lay the body of a man, whose bloody brains covered the floor, with his skull blown to pieces, and quite dead. In each hand he held a pistol, with one of which he had fired at the woman, and with the other had slain himself. It then appeared that a servant of the house had been present, who had seen both the attempted murder and the after suicide.

Having made strict enquiry, we learned the following facts: The woman was a native of France, married to Francis Sage, and the twain had lived in Cincinnati, where the deceased became acquainted with them. Madame Sage had kept a cigar store in that city, on Sixth street, between Main and Walnut. With her extreme beauty and attractiveness she drew around her a host of customers, among them the deceased, and the profits of the little shop were soon made the means of the purchase of other property. Sage removed with his wife to Latona Springs, on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river, and only two or three miles from Cincinnati, where he purchased a house. Thither the deceased, whose name was J. Bettford, followed them, having become so desperately enamored of Madame that living out of her presence was to him a thing unsupportable. Here also Bettford purchased a property, and falling into bad health, was taken to the house of Sage,—where he was nursed by Madame until his recovery. Her constant friendly visits to him during his sickness increased his passion, and on his convalescence he resolved to follow the pair to this city, whither Madame came to fill an engagement as an actress in vaudevilles in the Orleans theatre. They came down on the steamer J. S. Chenoweth, and having arrived here on Sunday, Madame and her husband took rooms at the house where the tragedy occurred. On the trip down, Bettford had taken frequent occasions to declare his passion for Madame, and even so far as to propose an elopement. This proposition, it would appear, she had rejected, and failed to make known the overtures made to her, fearing that from the desperate character of her admirer that some fatal violence might take place between him and her husband. Bettford had frequently threatened Madame that if she did not comply with his wishes he would take her life. Yesterday he resolved to renew his importunities, but finding the virtue of Madame proof against his seductive solicitations, entered her room, and the result was as we have related. He did not, however, proceed to extremities without having made a final effort to compass his desires. With the weapons in his hands and with words of burning attachment on his lips, he once more renewed his importunities; which failing, his hellish instincts were aroused, and the catastrophe occurred as was stated. Madame received a shot in her cheek, which passed to the other side, inflicting a frightful and probably fatal wound. With the remaining pistol the man blew out his own brains! At the last accounts Madame was lingering in extreme agony, and but slight hopes were entertained of her recovery.—N. O. Crescent, 16th inst.

REMITTING MONEY BY MAIL.—A very important case has recently come before the United States District Court at Richmond, Va., Chief Justice Taney presiding, in which the question arose, whether money remitted by mail from a debtor to a creditor, such money being lost before it reached its destination, was a release of the debtor from obligations of the debt. The Chief Justice decided that the plaintiff having requested his debtor to remit the money, without specifying or directing how it was to be sent, and the defendant having complied with the request by remitting through the mail as was the custom with others to do, the debtor would not be held obliged to make good the loss. The decision is in conflict with other cases involving the same principles, the Chief Justice holding that the former decisions were not correct.

AN ENDING OF CONNUBIAL BLISS.—A story was related to us yesterday which recently occurred in this city, disclosing an adventure of a young son of Erin, somewhat after the following manner:—It appears that a few years since an Irishman, of the name of Michael Travens, came to this city, and after remaining here a while took a strange fancy, notwithstanding the great disparity of age, to a widow lady, of the name of Harkens, living somewhere on Water street, and married her. They lived together for some time happily enough, for aught we know, and kept a tavern on Water street, between Market and Ferry; but, as the fates would have it, young Michael's felicity was very suddenly disturbed the other day, by the arrival here of a lady, who had come over from the old country to look after the young hero, and strange to say, found him acting in the capacity of landlord, and claimed him as her husband. She raised a noise about it, and threatened a suit of bigamy, as she had a perfect right to do; and Michael, not fancying the very peculiar aspect of affairs, made himself scarce, and has not been seen since.—Pittsburg Union.

A TOUGH COW STORY.—A Mr. Perry, who lives somewhere on the "hill road" between this place and the South Village, on getting up one morning last week, discovered the leg of a cow sticking out of an old well a short distance from the house. On going to the place he found said cow hanging in the well with her head downwards, her size being too large to admit of her slipping entirely through the opening at the top. The neighbors were rallied, and after considerable lifting the animal was extricated; when lo, a second cow was found in the bottom of the well, only in a reversed position, the head being up. An apparatus was arranged and cow number two was raised. But the best part of the whole story is the cows came out unscathed, and in less than an hour were engaged in a hard fight with each other. If any of our readers are inclined to doubt the story, we would respectfully remind them that "truth lies in a well."—Woodstock Age.

THE COST OF STRIKES.—It was stated at a late meeting of the operatives in Preston, that in one strike of the cotton spinners in Manchester which lasted four months, they spent £400,000 in loss of wages alone, and in two others they lost £600,000. In another strike at Stockport the cotton spinners lost £600,000 in wages, and in different strikes the wool combers of Bradford lost £400,000; the Mechanics of Leeds £180,000; the operatives of Lancashire £30,000; colliers of Northumberland £100,000; which, together with the losses by strikes at Stockport and Preston in 1848, making a total of £300,000 sterling, which, to all intent and purposes, has been spent in vain, as in nine out of ten cases the strikes completely failed in their object.

A JUDGE STRIKING FOR HIGHER PAY.—Hon. John C. Larue, Judge of the First District Court of New Orleans has written a letter to the Governor of Louisiana, tendering the resignation of his commission as Judge. He states that he would be happy to serve the State longer in the office which he now holds, but he cannot afford it; for although his salary was sufficient, several years since, to maintain his family, with strict economy, at present, in consequence of the great depreciation of the value of money, caused by the influx of gold and the increase of paper currency, it is utterly inadequate to their support.—His resignation takes effect on New Year's Day. In the meantime, perhaps, the Legislature will increase his salary to a suitable amount.

SUICIDE OF A MEDIUM.—The Herkimer Democrat contains an account of the suicide of Lewis A. Emery, in that town. He was a young man of 21 years of age, and had been a believer in spiritual mediums, and was himself a medium. He had been slightly deranged for some time before his death.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, DEC. 2. 1853.

To New Subscribers.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

The Union.—A Baltimore despatch of Nov. 30th, says:

"The Washington Union has an article on the union of the Democracy, in which it makes the remarkable assertion that if the Baltimore platform had expressly approved or disapproved of the compromise measures, the democrats would have met certain defeat. The friends of the measure never had strength to elect the President, and this fact ought to impress itself with force upon the minds of Democrats."

The above may or may not be exactly correct; but we are pretty certain that no man of any party can be chosen president merely because he is either the devotee of slavery, or merely because he is opposed to it. If a man could by any juggle get the full strength of either the democratic party that chose Pierce president, or of the whig party that voted for Scott; and could have any friends get it and keep it before the people, that he is on both sides of the union or slavery question; such a man could be chosen. Gen. Pierce's nomination was secured in a wonderful manner by an extraordinary union of the various wings of the democratic party—such an one as may never again occur.

Important from Washington.—The well informed Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce furnishes the following important information respecting the rumored treaty with Great Britain for Free Fisheries and Free Navigation. He says:

I have just received highly important information on the subject of the negotiation between the United States and Great Britain, respecting the Fisheries, Reciprocity, &c. A treaty embracing an adjustment of all these subjects was agreed upon by Mr. Marcy and Mr. Crampton, and was sent to England about seven weeks ago. It is supposed that it will meet with entire approbation there.

The general terms of the treaty are sufficiently well known to enable me to say that the treaty concedes American Registers to provincial vessels, and also allows them the coasting trade of the United States.

The treaty provides for the free interchange of wheat, Indian corn, provisions of all kinds, agricultural implements, &c. A general interchange of products is, in fine, provided for. We are to obtain the absolute freedom of the fisheries, and a market for our own agricultural and some other products, particularly instruments of agriculture.

It is only to be feared that our Protectives will oppose the treaty, on the ground of its granting registers to colonial vessels, and admitting them to our coasting trade. But the principles of free trade are yet to conquer.

Heresy in England.—A London correspondent of the New York Tribune says, "the dismissal of the Rev. Dr. Maurice from his theological chair at King's College, London University, excites great attention among the evangelical party. The heresy of which he is accused, is, that he does not believe in the eternity of punishment, but holds that God's love is greater and more universal than the wickedness of men. * * *

I am credibly informed that matters will not remain in the present position, since Dr. Maurice has been enabled by large subscription, to try the question in the law courts.—He is the son of a Unitarian clergyman, and himself highly respected by his numerous pupils, many of whom are clergymen of influence."

New Wheat from Ohio to Liverpool.—By the Sarah Sands, Mr. Ira Gould, of Montreal, sent to Liverpool five hundred barrels of flour, made from Ohio wheat of the present harvest. They will be in Liverpool within six weeks of the time when the wheat from which they were made left the farmer's yard, having in the meantime passed over some eight hundred miles by land and water to be manufactured, gone through all the necessary processes, and finally made another voyage of 3000 miles. This is a degree of expedition of which there are few examples, and we believe could not be accomplished by any other route than that by Montreal.—Portland State of Maine.

An Honorable Man.—A citizen of Bangor, whose embarrassments several years since compelled him to go into bankruptcy, has since paid out between nine and ten thousand dollars in payment of the debts he then owed, and on which the holders had no legal claim. The bankrupt law relieved him from embarrassment and enabled him to do business, and from the walls of that business, like an honest and true hearted man, he has been paying off his creditors.—State of Maine.

Mrs. Margaret Douglass has been convicted by the Superior Court held at Norfolk, Va., of teaching colored children to read and write. The jury, considering that she offended in ignorance of the law, and was actuated by motives of benevolence, imposed a fine of only one dollar. The term of imprisonment is to be fixed by the Judge. The maximum of penalty by the law of Virginia, is $100 fine and six months' imprisonment.

Dear Eating.—Benjamin Hadley, of South Boston, partook of a dinner on Thanksgiving day, which cost about ten dollars. He shot a tame duck, and had it dressed, and cooked, and feasted upon it. He has since been fined one dollar and costs for firing the gun, and five dollars and costs for killing and appropriating the duck.

Arrival of Kossta.—The bark Sultana, Capt. Watson, arrived at Boston on Wednesday from Smyrna, in 46 days passage. Martin Kozta came passenger in her.

LOCAL.

THE OLD SCHOOL HOUSE—No. 2.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The old Gravelly Ridge school house had no playground. The yard, so called, was a 7 by 9 affair, but just sufficient to hold a load of wood. No matter for that; we could run down the road half a mile, and still be in sight when the school-master's rap on the window caused the boys to rush for the door, as rush they must, unless they wished to get shot in the back by the snow balls which followed.—Besides, we could play on Burnt Hill, and at noon time could skate on the marsh in Mr. Warner's pasture.

Mr. Taft's school keeping there, extended only through one winter. A student of medicine, he went elsewhere to study, and practice, and die, we think, for if we recollect aright, he lived but a few years.

Another teacher there, to whom the writer went but a short time, was Mark Dennett, a son of one the builders. He taught there for many winters; and though educated on the spot and always living among his pupils and their parents, he enjoyed much of that honor among his own people, which prophets rarely receive, and must be set down in our chronicles as a thorough and successful teacher; not pretending to any thing he did not know or could not do, but in a patient and faithful manner administering instruction in a school whose interest and numbers gained year by year, till the old school house could no longer contain them.

The District, from which Master Dennett's large school was gathered, was not exactly limited by metes and bounds; but he had scholars from Noble's Island, from the Plains and Great Swamp, Beech Woods and Newington. From all these points but the last named, the boys might have reached the more central schools in Portsmouth, with much less travel. But they, with farmer-like manners, customs, and tastes, felt more at home in the Ridge School, and perhaps fancied that they were on the whole, better fitted for their business there than elsewhere.

The sports of such boys were of course athletic; some might call them rough: but they were generally good natured. Once our woodpile failed; the winter was broken and uneven, and the travelling was bad; and somebody whose business it was to haul a load of wood to the school house, had forgotten or neglected to do it. The great boys had split up the hard knots, and the little urchins had scraped up the chips at noon time, and by one o'clock we had only a great bed of coals left. The teacher said nothing; but when he came in from his dinner he brought a sharp axe, and one of the boys brought another. With these tools, two of the largest boys, men in size and strength, were silently sent off to the Alder swamp, which then filled the lowland, now the fine meadow of Benj. Hodgdon. The lessons were gone through with in a summary manner, the girls dismissed, and the boys were told they might go on the ice in the swamp and get wood. Every one went; and by sundown we had a pile of alder brush before the door, as high as the schoolhouse—and merry fires it made for a week, before the close of which we had fuel more substantial. The idea of stopping the school for want of wood found no place there, nor yet the idea that we should have no fire, while the alder swamp lasted. No better fun could have been offered, than the chance to get another lot of alders on our shoulders.

When the school, in its annual increase, was altogether too much crowded, then the town of Portsmouth, by their committee, entered the old schoolhouse, demolished the old chimney, and instead of it and the closet, placed the teacher's stand in the western end, by a window looking out on the highway: on the eastern end they added a new piece as large as the old house; under which new part, as the floor was elevated and the ground fell off, they made a cellar for wood.

New windows were added, the walls and ceiling plastered, a stove introduced; new books, new teachers and new fashions prevailed.

Mr. Dennett is still living, aged and infirm; and many of our highly esteemed teachers have been his successors in the Ridge school; among them Messrs. Alfred M. and Samuel Hoyt; James and Winthrop Pickering, Hazen Pickering, and John T. Tasker; and in later years still, grandsons of two of the original builders, viz. Messrs. Shannon and Dennett.

The old school house has had its time, done its work, and taken its discharge. The generation that built it has done its work also, and disappeared; those who rearranged and modified it are disappearing. The new building arises under new owners and better auspices—new and improved modes of teaching are to be used. Our successors on the benches enjoy better facilities for study. May they become better scholars and wiser men.

☞ Travellers should bear in mind that there has been some slight alteration of the trains on the Eastern Railroad.

City Council—Thursday, Dec. 1.

In Board of Aldermen—Mayor in the Chair. Jefferson Hall was granted to the ladies of the Universalist Society, for a fair to be holden a week previous to Christmas.

Chas. Roberts asked for a discharge from House of Correction—referred to the Mayor.

Gas lights were granted, on corner of State and Penhallow sts., corner of Islington and Ann streets, and near Morse's store, Congress street.

Resolution came up from Com. Council authorizing Chief Engineer to purchase 200 feet Hose. Concurred in.

Sundry bills were passed for payment.

Common Council,—President Rowe in the Chair. Concurred in resolution, respecting issuing of summons to tax delinquents.

Chief Engineer's Report accepted.

Passed resolution respecting purchase of Hose.

New Ship Yard.—A joint stock company has recently been organized in this city, for the purpose of building ships, and have leased a part of Noble's Island, near Messrs. Toby & Littlefield's yard, for that purpose.—The capital of the company consists of forty shares at $500 each—one half of which is to be paid down; the balance being held as a reserve capital. The stockholders are nearly all mecahnics, and most of them will be employed at some period, in the construction of the vessels. The affairs are to be conducted in the same manner as a Corporation,— by a President, Directors, &c.

☞ The Lecturer at the City Lyceum, in the Camencum on Thursday evening, was Rev. Mr. Lane of Newburyport, who announced his subject as the Influence of the Past on the present, and then went on to read us a strong moral lecture on Conscience, Memory and Retribution. The discourse would have been a good sermon, from the text "Be not deceived—that which a man soweth, shall he also reap." It was more abundant also, in its correct and apposite quotations of scripture, than most modern sermons. The orator exhibited his strength of mind, and did credit to his profession;—but was not fortunate in the selection of his topic for a lecture before the City Lyceum, nor in the freshness of his illustrations.

Stars.—The police of our city have, at last, put on their Stars, in accordance with the Ordinance passed July 1. In the centre of the star are the words "Portsmouth Police, 1849." It is attached to the coat with a pin and catch—secured with a chain.

Gold in Maine.—The Portland Advertiser has some information about the mining prospects in Franklin county. A gentleman from Phillips, states that the original discoverer of the gold, contemplates mining with fifty hands the coming season. It is rumored that $800 of gold has been taken from the mines the past season.

Fire and Loss of Life.—The dwelling house of Mr. John Hooper, in South St. George, Me., was destroyed by fire on Friday night last, and Mr. Hooper perished in the flames. He was upwards of seventy years of age, had no family and lived entirely alone.

Berkshire County—Courts, etc.—One of the editors of the Cleveland (Ohio) Herald, who was a few days since rambling among the hills of Berkshire, has sent home a glowing account of what passed under his observation. He writes:

This is the County seat of one of the roughest, most cultivated, most barren, most productive Counties in this part of the country or elsewhere. The triumph of Yankee energy is nowhere more apparent than here among the Berkshire hills. Their rocky acclivities are alive with intelligent and industrious men and blooded cattle, horses and flocks; the roar of the rapid streams is lost amid the rattle of a thousand mills, and the busy scene is made still more exciting by the arrival of immense railway trains, bearing at once the supplies, fruits and evidences of Yankee industry. The chief article of manufacture are woolen and cotton fabrics, cast iron ware and glass. The quarry at Lee, in this county, supplies the marble for the wings of the Capitol in Washington, now in progress.

Having visited the Court of Common Pleas then in session at Lenox, Judge Wells presiding, he proceeds in his correspondence to draw some striking and amusing contrasts between the Massachusetts Courts and the Ohio Courts. After referring to the perfect order and decorum that distinguish the proceedings of our Courts, to the respect manifested for the authority of Judge and Sheriff, and to the intelligence of those who compose our Juries, he says:

In the Ohio Courts this state of things is carefully inverted. There the Sheriff is a very respectable citizen usually, and is treated with respect so long as he is tolerant of disorder, and good-natured. It is very often difficult to tell who has the floor, the Court charging the Jury, the Sheriff stamping his foot, rapping with his knuckles and threatening, or the loud talking quidnuncs of every stripe and calling who are gathered within the bar.

In Ohio a full and regular Jury is past finding out. If half the Jurymen summoned, present themselves, the Sheriff is fortunate. But he places more steady reliance upon those seedy, but very respectable gentlemen, who are always on hand to glide into the gaps which occur, from whatever causes, in the regular Juries. This volunteer reserve corps is an invaluable institution. Without it, the glorious right of trial by Jury would prove a failure—it is almost a farce with it.

A white woman, a milliner, of industrious habits, and having a large family, was convicted last week at Charleston, S. C., of larceny, and sentenced to be imprisoned two months, and to receive one lash on the bare back.

INDIAN MASSACRE.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—The Salt Lake mail has arrived at Independence, bringing intelligence of the massacre of Capt. Gunnison and part of his exploring party. An express reached Gov. Young on the 31st of October from Capt. Morris, giving an account of the massacre, which was committed by a party of Indians on Servier River. Among the killed were Capt. Gunnison; Mr. Keen, the Topographical Engineer; Mr. Porter, a guide, two others and three privates of company A, mounted riflemen. The following are the particulars :—

Capt. Gunnison and twelve of his party had separated from the rest, and while at breakfast a band of Indians, intending to destroy a Mormon village near at hand, came upon them with rifles, and then used bows and arrows. Shots were returned by the Gunnison party, but they were overpowered, and only four escaped. Capt. Gunnison had 26 arrows shot in his body, and when found, one of his arms was off. The notes of the survey, which had been nearly completed, instruments, and the animals, were taken by the Indians. Gov. Young immediately sent Capt. Morris's aid to release him from his critical position in the midst of the treacherous Indians, and endeavor to obtain the lost property.

A party of Cheyennes surrounded the mail and demanded nearly all the provisions, which were given up to them.

A RAILROAD ACCIDENT AND AN ESCAPE.—On Wednesday morning, about half-past one o'clock, as the Stonington steamboat train from New York was moving along a little this side of Kingston, R. I., the forward axle-tree of one of the passenger cars broke, but the "safety beam" attached, prevented the car from dropping to the ground, which would have probably involved the loss of forty or fifty lives, as the train was travelling at the rate of thirty miles an hour, and upon an embankment twenty feet high. The disabled car was dragged along about a mile, one wheel being inside the track, striking against every sleeper, until the cars were stopped.—A gentleman who had a seat in the unfortunate car informs us, that in view of the imminent danger which all had escaped, the passengers looked with admiration upon the "beam" which had proved to be their "safety" in such a moment of peril, and they unanimously offered up their warm thanks to its originator, whoever he might be. We understand that this "safety beam," or "safety bar," was put in operation on the Eastern Railroad, some three or four years ago, and it was found to be so valuable and efficient that all the roads running out of Boston have since adopted the principle.—Boston Chronicle.

WASHINGTON NEWS.—New York, Nov. 30.—A Washington despatch says that Secretary [Guthrie I think—it is broken up] has been in correspondence with the comptrollers and auditors, touching the large outstanding balances due the United States. This indebtedness to the Government amounts at this time to $101,583,000; and 70,000,000 is due from one branch of the service, or on the books of one of the comptrollers.

We have seen this in many papers—but it is a very large story, and a frightful state of things.

Some other papers cut the figures down to $1,583,000 debt; and 700,000 from one branch of service. Rather more likely.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—A correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post, writing from Honolulu, presents a few facts as to the area and population of these islands. The native population of the seven inhabited islands may be estimated in round numbers as follows :—

Hawaii 20,000, Oahu 18,000, Niani 13,000, Kania 5,000, Molokai 2,500, Miihau 7000, Lanai 3000.

The islands contain in the whole 61,000 square miles. One-fifth only is arable land, although the mountain sides yield good pasturage at all seasons of the year. The ordinary time required for a sailing vessel to make the passage from San Francisco is ten days, and from the Islands to China double the time.

THE WHALING FLEET.—The Polynesian, in referring to the whaling fleet, says—"So far as the above results of the season's cruise up to the 7th of September, the catch seems to have been light, compared to that of last season, (averaging about 600 barrels to each vessel.) We hope, however, for more favorable news, as later ships come in, and in fact, many of the vessels reported by the last ships in, have nothing to complain of and several of them are full." The whaling has been mostly in latitude 68 to 68 1-2.

THE CAROLINA TWINS.—These remarkable children, now on exhibition at Charleston, (S. C.) are joined together at the back by the union of two spines in one, forming apparently a second edition in miniature of the famous Siamese twins. Some of their organs are in common, while others are perfectly distinct. They were born in Columbus county, N. C., where their parents still live in slavery.

AN OLD MERCHANT DECEASED.—Anson G. Phelps, Esq., of the well known firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., died in New York on Thursday morning, aged 74 years. He was the President of the New York Colonization Society, and one of our most prominent and benevolent merchants.

The proprietors of the Irving House, New York, are owners of a farm in Vermont, where they intend to raise their own vegetables and poultry, and thus avoid the extortionate New York prices.

Perhaps they will succeed—and if so, perhaps they will reduce their price for board; but it is not likely.

A Quebec paper says the new clipper ship Firefly, which sailed a few days ago, has been obliged to put back, as she has been found to be unable to bear canvass. She will be obliged to unload her cargo, take in more ballast, and reload, before she can again proceed to sea. And it is therefore likely that she will have to winter here.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¾ lbs.—13¼ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 5 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.
THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.
The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and efficacious remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and
Affections of the Lungs.
But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing
DISSOLVENT POWER.
By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore
Anti-Expectorant,
And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.
It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an
APPETIZER
It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom
AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.
Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.
It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.
Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have the unbiased testimony of thousands on this point. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States declared they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.
Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston.

THE CELEBRATED
LOWELL COAL & GAS BURNER

For Anthracite Coal.

MANY futile attempts have been made to consume the gases, and at the same time be simple and easily managed.
We think that Mr. D. G. LITTLEFIELD, the Patentee of this Stove, has been eminently successful in his efforts to produce this result—indeed it is so unlike all other stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them.
One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as TWO TONS consumed in any other Stove extant.
For a particular description we would refer the public to the following communication from Mr. Littlefield:
All skilful coal burners, and stove manufacturers, are conscious that a great error has pervaded the forms of all the apparatus for burning anthracite coal. No one, however, has been able to determine where the difficulty lay. Nearly all attempted improvements for consuming the gases, have been based upon the presumption that the common method of burning in a tight pot of some kind, either of cast iron or sheet iron lined with stone or brick, was correct, and their improvements have been made over and above this point in the apparatus. It is true the form of the pot has been changed from time to time, from the long cylinder with grate at the bottom, to the short and broad cylinder, and then to the bottle form, then square, then oval, and then contracted at the top, and then at the bottom, and very shallow, each having its advantages and disadvantages, but all operating substantially in the same manner in one respect, namely, that the gases are expelled from the coal and immediately rise unburned to the upper part of the apparatus, where they cannot burn perfectly, being withdrawn from the action and greatest heat of the fire, and must either pass through the flues, or into the apartment to be heated, thus causing a great loss of heat, and the only important difference between heat produced by coal and that of the wood fire.
Carburetted and sulphuretted hydrogen are freely liberated in burning coal; these gases, although perfectly combustible, and therefore easily disposed of, are really the direct cause of nearly all the inconvenience in burning coal. Being very volatile, a large portion of them escape through the flues unburned, or into the room from open stoves, and through the joints of close stoves, producing various unpleasant sensations, such as langor and headache, so common among those who live in a room heated by coal. In addition to this, they not upon and in time destroy the stove and pipe, particularly that part near the chimney. In any city where anthracite coal is used to any extent, the effects can be seen in that part of the chimney above the roof of nearly every house which has been built five years.
I wish now to call the particular attention of the reader to the common method of burning coal in a cylinder, with a flat grate at the bottom. It is well known that when a fresh coal fire is started, it is with charcoal or some other very combustible material. The first impression made on the anthracite coal is to heat it; this expels the gases or most inflammable portion of the coal, which being volatile, and the pot open at the top, immediately rises above the coal, and is consequently out of reach of the strongest action of the fire. It is a well-known principle that a gaseous substance, expelled from a solid body by the action of heat, rises above and mostly escapes any further action of the same heat which expelled it. The experience of every one that has given attention to coal burning is, that the best results are obtained with the common pot, by a very slow process of burning, covered with ashes, or wet and fine coal. The reason is obvious. By this method more of the volatile substances are retained and consumed within the pot, and in contact with the coal, thereby producing a more perfect combustion of the fixed matter, as well as being burnt themselves, preventing the accumulation of old coal on the grate, and making no clinkers. Sometimes, with great care, a stove can be made to run from week to week, a result very desirable, but only obtained by the utmost care and skill. We need no better evidence that there is a radical defect in past construction of fire pots, than that with them the nicest calculation, prudence and judgment were necessary, to obtain comparatively poor results.—In fact, we may safely say that the form of pot open at the top, and with a grate at the bottom, for burning anthracite coal, is all wrong. The fire by its own action becomes wrong side up. The volatile matter, which is combustible, is expelled, and passes off imperfectly burned, instead of being consumed before it escapes, and helping as nature designed it, to consume the fixed matter in the bottom. A stove on this principle, and that accomplishes this object, that is, the combustion of the volatile matter in contact with the coal, is the only one that has any claim to be called scientific.
A stove constructed upon the principle above referred to, has been invented; and, after repeated experiments, has been so far perfected as to justify its introduction into the market. Its construction is exceedingly simple, requiring but little skill in the operator, when a fire is once started, (which is easily done); all that is necessary is a constant supply of coal, and a little attention from time to time, to keep a fire from month to month.
The subscriber has secured the right to manufacture and sell this

RUSSIA—HER POWER.

The London Times very frequently alludes the "immense power of Russia," and now d then episodes on the comparative ease h which he could invade the United States n her American possessions. The power Russia, we think, is very much overrated. cholas has a vast number of men in his pire, but when we recollect that eight-ths of these men are slaves, his power to mischief is shorn of its vastness materially. he fifty three millions of inhabitants which sia contained in 1840, no less than forty millions were slaves; of these, fifteen mil-s were slaves of the Emperor. These s are productive of dissatisfaction, and y show that Russia has as many reasons keeping the peace, as the other nations of rope, and that in any war with the model public, a servile insurrection might at any e break out, which would completely par-ze the arm of the autocrat. Some may ob-t to these views, and say, the servitude ex-ing in Russia is not slavery; but we say it and as much so as that existing in Geor-or Alabama.

The Russian serf has no legal rights. The ministration of "justice" to them is invest-in the nobles who are their owners; and the crown estates the administration is olly with their task masters; the overseers appointed by the great slave-master, the ar. The cruelties perpetrated on the slaves limited only to the dread of retaliation on ir part; and sometimes their revenge as-nes a frightful form, savage murders and assinations, the burning of their tormen-rs, together with their families in their pal-s, occurring from time to time, marked by tures of savage atrocity. Only a few years o, an instance of this wild and ruthless re-nge was perpetrated on Prince Courakin his serfs, for his repeated cruelties to them. The Russians are not only slaves to their bles—they are also slaves to the soil. The al of Russia is valueless of itself; its value sists in the human property belonging to rom which the nobles derive their reve-es. Practically, the private serfs of Russia and above forty millions of such—is, life d limb, at the disposal of his owner, as mpletely as slaves have ever been in this untry; can be sold or hired out as a beast burden. The law, it is true, now wills t a certain portion of land must be sold th him, but land in Russia, as we have said, of mere nominal value. The master may move one or all of his slaves for life from r estate to another, though a thousand iles apart. In purchasing a slave, he has by to go through the formality of receiving om the former owner a few acres of land th him, of which he soon forgets the pos-ssion, and from which he may remove the ave, separating him forever from his wife d children, and dooming him to perpetual nishment from his home.

The Russian slave, male or female, can-t marry without permission of the owner. e master may at any time send his slave Siberia or for a soldier—and some he must stantly choose for this service. The own-may flog his slave to death, but the law ny permits him to be fined. The law for-ds any court to receive the evidence of a ave against his master. By a royal ukase sued by the monster Catharine, and since firmed by Nicholas, if a serf makes any nplaint to his superior against his lord, "he all be amenable to the punishment which e laws award,"—that is, to the punishment death!

But there is no law in Russia, except the spotic will of the head slave owner. Pusch-n, the Russian writer, emphatically observes, There is no law in Russia; the law is nailed o stake, and that stake wears a crown."

The question occurs, are the Russians will- slaves to their great slave holder, and ould they not be free if they could? The swer can be given only in one way. They e not willing to be slaves, and if they could ey would throw off their yoke to-morrow. he heavy, monstrous, prostrating oppression ages, has, it is true, produced a fearfully pressive effect upon the minds of the Rus-n peasantry; but from time to time, "the ld justice of revenge," bursting out in acts f sanguinary rebellion against their owners, hows that Russians, like other men, can feel ain and oppression, and rise up against it in heir own rough and savage way. Let this e fact, also, bear witness to the discontent f the Russian people under the frightful des-otism which weighs upon them, that the resent emperor, the great slave owner, Nich-las, has sent on the long weary journey to Siberia, not less than 250,000—a quarter of a million of individuals, and of these, three fifths were banished for political offences.

Two attempts have been made by the Rus-ian slaves to shake off their servitude: the rst time during the last generation in the re-bellion of Pugatcheff, and the second time in he memory of the present generation during the invasion of Russia by Napoleon. Pugat-cheff, a Cossack, on promising liberty to the rustic population, soon saw himself at the head of twenty thousand slaves, determined to be free. They marched on Moscow, and caused the Czarina, Catharine II. to tremble on her throne.

As we have said before, facts serve to show that the power of Russia is very much over-estimated. The power of a nation depends in a measure on the number of freemen it con-tains. Judging by this rule, the United States are more than twice as powerful as Nicholas ever was or ever will be.—N. Y. Dutchman.

TAGLIONI AND PASTA.—These two celebrated artistes—the one long regarded as the Queen of the Dance, the other as the Queen of Song—are now residing in romantic villas on the shores of the Lake of Como, surrounded by all the comforts and luxuries which taste can devise and wealth procure. A lady who lately travelled through that part of Italy gives the following interesting description of these two famous women:

"I know it will delight you to have a letter from me, written on the banks of Lake Como, surrounded by such scenery as the eye never beholds elsewhere. Fancy me seated at a small window overlooking this lovely scene, more lovely far than all the descriptions of tourists, pictures of artists, or romances of the poets. To traverse the placid waters, we took a row-boat, the most pleasant vehicle imaginable. I had a little table in the middle on which I wrote impressions of the scenery in my journal. Our two oarsmen were as talkative as Creoles, and gave me copious descriptions of all the remarkable places.

We passed the villa of Taglioni, within a few yards of the window, at which was seated that world renowned danseuse herself. We glided so slowly and so closely that I could see her almost as plainly as if in the same room. She looked faded, wrinkled, pallid and old. Oh! who could believe her so recently the graceful and lovely embodiment of La Sylphide? It is scarcely seven years since she retired. Taglioni is very rich, and owns quite a number of villas on the Lake, now rented out. By her side sat a fair and lovely young woman, her married daughter, the Princess Trabaskoe, and the flag of Russia floated over the pretty villa.

The next we came to was that of the renowned Pasta, the friend and preceptress of Parodi. Only think of two such celebrities—the fairy of the dance and the queen of song—side by side in early fame, and next door neighbors in their old age. We landed at Pasta's villa, and proceeded to pay a visit to its famous mistress. Unfortunately, she was on a visit in Genoa—unfortunate for us, but happily for her only child, a resident there. Still, her waiting maid—French—showed us all over the house, even to the bed-room of the great cantatrice: the floor of which is of pure marble, laid out in mosaic of the most exquisite workmanship. Busts and pictures of her, in all her great characters, were abundantly displayed."

THE MOON.—At a recent meeting of the British Scientific Association, Professor J. Phillips—who was one of a Committee appointed to draw up a report on the geology of the moon—exhibited a photographic portrait of that planet, giving a very interesting representation of her features. He stated that other enlarged and elegant photographic pictures of the moon were to be taken at sunrise, at noon, and towards sunset, whereby the three aspects of sunshine upon the lunar hills would be obtained with shadows in two directions. Photographs can be magnified to almost any extent, and Prof. Phillips stated that when all arrangements were completed, we should have a picture of the moon as she would appear at a distance of twenty-four miles from the earth. We shall then be able to see and measure her mountains and valleys, her coasts and cliffs, her glens and precipices, her morasses and sand banks, her craters and lava streams, with a degree of minuteness which is hardly anticipated at the present time. —Boston Journal.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, DEC. 3, 1853.

To New Subscribers.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

Facts.—Let us have them, good or bad.—The Maine Fountain, (temperance paper,) contains a letter from Thomaston, dated Nov. 28, describing the state of temperance, or intemperance, in and near Thomaston. It says:

"As yet we see no favorable omen in the state of the Temperance cause. Rum is sold and drank in the public houses at all times; besides there are some five or six private groggeries, where the old soakers can get their libations at a cheaper rate. Need I say, Mr. editor, that the syren song reverberates on our ear at all times, night or day; need I inform you that the drunkard is reeling and staggering about the streets; need I say that mothers and children are suffering what none can suffer but the wife and children of a drunken husband and father?"

He does not think much of moral suasion; but says:

"Now it is well known that moral suasion has long since exploded, and has no more power on the rum seller and rum drinker at the present day, than one drop of water has on the ocean. The time has gone by to reform the rum seller and rum drinker by kindness. All have been saved that can be by moral suasion. Something more powerful is needed, and we think the Maine law is just the think, with one additional clause, compel every town in the State to build a lock-up for the accommodation of ever intoxicated man or woman found in the streets, and let a heavy fine be imposed on every town that neglects to enforce the law, and the work is done."

This writer must have a very narrow idea of moral power, to suppose that the nature and effect of kindness first began to be useful when the reformed drunkards commenced the Washingtonian effort in Baltimore—or that its nature changed and its effects ceased, when that effort was mainly given over.

The friends of temperance, like the friends of other virtues, have something more to do than procure the passage of laws; especially when we consider that so large a portion of those men who are called upon to execute these laws, are wedded to the vice or folly against which the law is aimed.

The Irish Patriot.—This distinguished orator and patriot was born in the city of Londonderry in 1816. His father was a Unitarian clergyman settled in Newry, in which town young Mitchell was reared. The N. Y. Times says:

"He was intended for the Ministry by his father, but he declined that profession on the ground that he did not consider himself a "chosen vessel." On account of his disinclination to the ministry, he was apprenticed to a respectable solicitor, Mr. Quinn, of Newry; and, at the expiration of his term, entered into partnership with a Mr. Frazer, with whom he continued several years, during which he resided altogether in Banbridge. During his apprenticeship, when only 17 years old, he married Miss Verner, daughter of Captain Verner.

Up to September, 1845, Mr. Mitchell appears to have been occupied with his profession, and had not attracted much of the public attention, when the publication of the Life of Aodh, or Hugh O'Neil, the famous Earl of Tyrone, brought him at once into notice as a writer and politician. His career has been a public one ever since."

The Boston Pilot, in answer to the query of a subscriber, says, "John Mitchell is not a Catholic." He left the Catholics in 1848.

Opinions on Russia.—In an editorial essay on Nicholas, the Emperor of Russia, wherein he is truly represented as the reformer of abuses, and the enlarger of the serf's rights, the Boston Journal sums up its conclusions as follows.

"As we intimated in the beginning, we are no apologists for the ambition of Nicholas.—We are sorry to see a man who possesses so many good qualities, not content with expending his great abilities upon his own vast empire, which certainly offers an ample field for all his genius, all his benevolence, and all his time. But ambition, and especially the ambition of conquest, pervades all people. Even we, the democracy of America, who so loudly proclaim our belief in equal rights, are hardly content to let our neighbors enjoy themselves in their own way: we can declare war with them on paltry pretences, conquer their chief towns, rejoice over their capture as heartily as even Nicholas would over the fall of Constantinople before his armies, and then, as a condition of peace, demand and receive a large portion of their territory. We say success to the Turk in his war of defence, Turk though he be; success to the Circassians against their Russian invaders, Moslems though they are; but yet we are not disposed to consider the Emperor of Russia a ruthless tyrant and a demon, because he follows the example of England, France and the United States, in making war for conquest.

Father Gavazzi and the Bible.—Father Gavazzi states, in one of his lectures, that the "reading of the Bible is not permitted by the Romish church: but that in order to deceive Protestants, the Romish church has granted a general license for the reading of the Bible by Catholics, in England, Scotland and the United States." He also said that the Roman Catholic Priests in Italy do not read the bible from their pulpits, and do not advise and direct their people to read it in their families.

Harper's New Monthly, for December, is received by Fetridge & Co., Boston, and J. F. Shores, jr., Portsmouth.

There are three illustrated articles, viz:—Memoirs of the Holy Land, the Virginian Canaan, and a visit to Plymouth. The illustrative cuts in the last named arttcle, are correct as well as beautiful; those in the Virginia story are grotesque and ludicrous; and in the Holy Land, impressive. The whole book is done up in the good style of the Harpers.

A Slow Paragraph.—The Portland 'State of Maine" of Dec. 2, says,

Judge Curtis, in his charge to the Grand Jury, at the opening of the Circuit Court at Providence, Rhode Island, on Tuesday morning, decided that the law supposed to abolish flogging in the United States Navy, merely dispenses with the cat-o'nine-tails, and leaves other methods of flogging in full force.

Judge Curtis has made no such decision, though the papers said he had. His decision, almost directly opposite to this, has been published in many papers, and among others, in the State of Maine, in the next column to the above paragraph.

National Schools.—In a late lecture, Padre Gavazzi, after giving some account of the Roman Catholic schools in Canada, proceeded to state that in this country some people wanted German, some Irish, some French schools. If they wanted German schools, let them go back to Germany. If they want Irish schools, let them go to Ireland. When you are in America you should have true American schools. Therefore Americans, you must preserve your schools against all aggression.

Who is to be Mayor? is the question soon to be settled in this city. Heretofore no regular nomination has been made, and perhaps none will be now. We have heard mentioned for the office, the names of John Porter and Moses Davenport, and either of them would be every way suited to the office and the honors. Whoever may be the man, we hope he will be a good liberal whig. We have decided objections to any democratic nomination, because the democrats have had the mayor now ever since we have had a city, and a progressive whig will be more liberal in sentiment and action, than any democrat who could be elected. Let us have a whig, and a good whig, and all go in for him.—Newburyport Union.

It is quite possible, that the Union's liberality toward the whigs, may be somehow connected with a looseness of the screws in the democratic party.

Honors to Mitchel.—On Wednesday evening there was an immense concourse of Irishmen, including sixteen military companies, with music, banners, &c., assembled in Union street, Brooklyn, N. Y., to testify their respect towards John Mitchel. The bands played several appropriate airs.

Mr. Mitchel appeared on the rostrum and made a brief speech, in the course of which he stated that he came here to learn the decision of the American people in his cause, the cause of Ireland. "You here tonight," said Mr. M., "have given it me, and my heart is full of hope. I shall ever prove true to that cause; but it cannot be brought to a successful issue by the use of nice language only; it must be attained by horse, foot, and artillery."

Mr. T. F. Meagher followed Mr. Mitchel, and in the course of a brief speech held out the idea of another and early struggle for Irish independence. The multitude separated at a late hour.

Burial Place of Elihu Yale.—A gentleman writing from Wexham, Wales, says: "I have just been in the churchyard here—an ancient one. Who think you, lies there in his tomb? Elihu Yale, the founder of Yale College, in New Haven. The following I copied from his tomb-stone:

"ELIHU YALE, ESQ., was buried here the 22d of July, 1721.
Born in America, and in Europe bred—
In Afric travelled and in Asia wed,
Where long he lived, and then in London died.
Much good, some ill he did—so hope all's even,
And that his soul thro' mercy's gone to heaven.
You that survive, and tell the tale, take care
For this most certain end well to prepare.
When blessed in peace, the actions of the just Smell sweet and blossom in the silent dust."

Ecclesiastical.—The Dover Enquirer states that Mr. Alonzo H. Quint, late of the Andrews Theological Seminary, has received and accepted an unanimous call to the Pastorate of the Mather Church, at Jamaica Plain. The society, which was organized a few months since, will immediately proceed to the erection of a house of worship.

For Andrews (as we have seen it in twenty papers) read Andover, and then it will be plain.

A So-called "Sell."—Ding—dong—ding—boy lost! boy lost! echoed and re-echoed through the fog on Thursday last. "Hallo there, old fellow!" cried a shrill voice from some invisible varlet of the thousand and one who were scouting about the city, "who set you to work crying 'boy lost?'" The crier stopped and waited the approach of the saluter, answering that the bereaved parents of the 'boy' had promised him a dollar to cry their loss through all the Wards of the city, and three dollars if he found the boy. "Come on, then," said the boy, "we'll go together and go snacks in the trade if we find the boy, and if we don't, why, I won't ask a cent." "Agreed," was the word; and after putting the "bell boy" through a ring and a cry of a mile or two by way of exercise, the little rascal stopped before his own door, when his mother came out, rejoiced to meet him, with the three dollars in her hand. "Hold on, mother," said he, "half that money belongs to me, and you'll just be kind enough to pay it over!"—Detroit Advertiser.

LOCAL.

SABBATH SERVICES.

☞ Rev. Mr. Willis's Lecture at the Universalist Church, to-morrow morning, is to be on the End of the World, or the Elements melting with fervent heat, spoken of by St. Peter.

☞ Rev. Mr. Moore delivers the third Lecture of his Course on The Lord's Prayer, at the North Church to-morrow afternoon.

Lecture to Young Men.—If the weather is favorable, a Lecture to Young Men will be delivered at the Middle Street Church on Sabbath evening next. Services to commence at 7.

☞ Rev. Mr. Bryant will preach at the Pleasant Street Church to-morrow evening.

Notice.—A series of religious meetings will be holden at the Old South Church, commencing on Wednesday evening next at seven o'clock, and continuing through the week.—The preaching will be by the clergymen of this city, all of whom have been invited to attend and take part in the services. Rev. Dr. Peabody will deliver the first sermon. All our friends from other societies are invited to meet with and join us in the worship of God. Samuel Hoyt.

Germania Concert.—All persons who think of attending the proposed series of Concerts by the Germania Band, should subscribe at once, as it is absolutely necessary for the parties interested to decide forthwith whether to engage the Band or not. Let our city be not behind the little town of Biddeford, where 1200 tickets were disposed of, in less than 12 hours, for a concert by the same company.

The first Concert, if given at all, will take place on Monday evening, Dec. 12.

Launch.—The ship Brother Jonathan, of 800 tons, will be launched this day, at about half past one, from the yard of Messrs. Toby & Littlefield.

Concord Railroad.—Passengers on the road to New Market, first train, need not strart off quite so early, as this train now leaves this city at 8.45 A. M.

The advertisement of the road, on the outside of this paper, was printed before we received notice of the changes. It will appear corrected on Monday.

MR. KIMBALL'S SCHOOL at the Academy, having been closed a few days for repairs, will be re-opened on WEDNESDAY morning next. d3

LOST.—On Thursday, a Scotch Terrier Dog. Whoever will return him to 16 Deer street shall be suitably rewarded.

Shoeing Horses.—The following are the regulations of the British army upon this subject: They were prepared by a mixed commission of officers and eminent and experienced professional men, and have recently been issued.

1. The shoe is to be bevelled off so as to leave a space and prevent pressure to the sole. 2. It is not to be grooved or fettered, but simply punched, and the nails counter-sunk. 3. Calking is to be applied to the hind shoe only, and is to be confined to the outside heel. The inside heel is to be thickened in proportion. 4. The weight of the shoe is to be from 12 to 15 ounces, according to the size of the horse. 5. Horses are to be shod with not less than six nails in the fore, and seven in the hind shoe; nor is the shoe to be attached with less than three nails on each side. 6. In preparing the foot for the shoe, as little as possible should be pared out; and the operation should be confined to the removal of the exfoliating parts of the foot only. 7. Both the fore and the hind shoe are to be made with a single clip at the toes.

These rules may be of some value to blacksmiths, livery-men and horse owners.

Spontaneous Kindling of Fire in the Human Body.—The Courier de l'Eure communicates to the world an account of spontaneous kindling, though no combustion, in the person of a mantuamaker. This young lady was sewing one night by the light of a candle, when she felt an undue heat all over her body. She noticed at the same time that her forefinger was on fire. The flame was bluish, and emitted a sulphurous smell. She plunged her hand into cold water, and wrapped it in moistened cloths, but the burning still continued, and spread over her hand. Her apron caught fire, and she was obliged to take it off. The flame was only visible in the dark. The girl spent the night in efforts to extinguish the blaze, and only succeeded at day-break.

Heavy Fall of Snow.—In a letter Fred. Slimp, a highly respectable citizen of Johnson County, in this State, dated Oct. 25th, 1853, he says:—"Night before last we had a snow, which fell to the depth of thirteen inches on our mountains. The timber is cracked in all directions. Trees of the lagest size have fallen to the ground—some have broken up from the roots—others have broke off half way up from the ground, and others have bent their tops to the ground. No one at a distance could imagine the danger of travelling in the woods. A quantity of timber has been destroyed.—Brownlow's (Tenn.) Whig.

Practical.—Last Friday, William A. Clay left Gardiner, Me., with a company of thirty men—all tough, hearty and rugged.—They are going to cut hard pine in the southern part of Georgia. They are employed by a southerner by the name of McKee, who finds free labor much cheaper than that of his slaves. The wages of this company vary from 23 to 30 dollars per month, and expenses paid.—Fountain.

Railroad Meeting.

THE Citizens of Portsmouth who feel an interest in connecting this city with the country—and who does not?—are requested, one and all, to meet at the COURT HOUSE, on MONDAY EVENING, Dec. 5th, at 7 o'clock, to adopt such measures as may be necessary to secure the immediate building of the Railroad from Portsmouth to Dover.

An opportunity is now presented to connect Portsmouth, Dover and the interior of the State, which if not improved, is not likely soon to occur again. As this desirable object can be secured by a subscription to a stock guarantied to pay six cent. it is to be hoped that all will be disposed at one and the same time to secure a good investment and the completion of an enterprise of very great importance to this city.

Full and encouraging information from reliable sources will be given at the meeting.

Dover has subscribed sixty thousand dollars towards this enterprise, and, if Portsmouth will respond, the object can be very shortly secured.

SUICIDE IN BOSTON.—On Thursday at noon Mr. Israel C. Rice, of the firm of I. C. & W. Rice, pork merchants, Faneuil Hall Market, was found, in an attic room of his house, 14 Allen street, Boston, having committed suicide, by hanging. He was discovered fifteen minutes after the deed. The Jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by violence from his own hands, while in a state of mental aberation.

Mr. Rice (says the Bee) was a man who enjoyed the esteem of the community, and was noted for enterprise and integrity as a business man. He was an honored member of the Common Council, where he had performed good service, during this, his first year. He was 48 years old, and leaves a family. The primary cause of the suicide was pecuniary involvement.

MORALS AND MANNERS IN MARBLEHEAD.—The Newburyport Union of Nov. 30 says,

The Whigs are having some little rejoicings over their late victories, and they are entitled to the sports, for they have fairly won the field. The illuminations and firing of guns in this city, are trifling to what has occurred in other places. In Marblehead, the whole place was alive night before last; and as the supply of liquors had been pretty much used up during the election, a new importation was had for the evening ceremonies, and most of the night was passed in a jolly way. They marched through the streets under a white flag, with the word "Rum," in large letters upon it.

"I am very much inclined to doubt whether any distinct project of a treaty on the fishery question has been agreed upon between Mr. Crampton and Secretary Marcy. It is, however, very certain that Mr. Marcy has no idea of admitting British vessels, under the British flag, to a participation in our coasting trade. Even if disposed to let John Bull into equal competition with us in the California and Pacific trade, by thus enabling him to make one long coasting voyage from New York to San Francisco, there are difficulties in the way that are insurmountable. Prominent among these are the laws of the Southern States, which refuse to admit to their ports free colored seamen, and the trouble and dissatisfaction, annoyance and suspicion, which the frequent presence of these British coasters would give to our Southern neighbors, from the fear of their slaves being enticed away through that medium."

BANGOR, Dec. 1.—The ice jam in our river has started very suddenly to the joy of all. The steamboats Daniel Webster, Boston and Eastern State are getting up steam. Passengers are getting ready to depart. Shipping will soon be in motion, and our river will be free.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The ship Victoria, from London, had 50 deaths on the passage, out of 388 passengers.

Despatches from Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo, this evening, report the weather moderate, and navigation uninterrupted.

Washington, Dec. 1.—QUARREL ABOUT THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING.—Mr. Gideon, proprietor of the late Republic newspaper, has filed a bill of chancery against General Armstrong of the Union, claiming half of the profits arising from the contract of public printing. The alleged ground of Mr. Gideon's claim is a certain agreement of a secret nature between the proprietors of the Republic and Union and their respective friends in Congress, by which the contract was given to General Armstrong, with the understanding that he would share the spoils with Mr. Gideon, which the former now refuses to do.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1.—The brig "Socctio," bound from Havana for Boston, (perhaps Torcello, from Savannah for Boston,) arrived at Norfolk yesterday, reports that on the 19th ult., fell in with sch. James G. King, waterlogged. Took off her captain, Wainwright, who had been on the wreck for a period of seven days without food or water. Two of the hands were drowned. Three of the crew had been previously taken off by the schooner Henry Cole, of Staten Island.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Six special Mail Agents have been detailed by the Post Office Department, who leave to-night or early in the morning with copies of the President's Message, to be deposited with the post-masters in the principal cities. Several Senators arrived to-day, also 30 or 40 Representatives, making with previous arrivals upwards of 100 members of the House on hand. The Speakership is the absorbing topic. William Dizey is prominent and several new names are suggested, but Mr. Orr is understood to be supported by the friends of the Administration.

MURDER AT NIAGARA FALLS.—On Sunday last a man named Costello, decoyed another man with whom he had had some difficulty, to the bank of the river near the Suspension Bridge, and there threw him over the precipice, causing instant death. Costello fled across the bridge into Canada, and had not been captured at last accounts.

HEAVY DAMAGES FOR SEDUCTION.—A verdict of $10,000 has been rendered in Orange Co., N. C., against Col. J. Douglass, a wealthy married man, for the seduction of Margaret Holman.

We read in the papers that 36,758 lbs. of opium, were imported into England last month, and that the people of England and Ireland spend yearly above two hundred and fifty millions of dollars for intoxicating drinks.

At a recent meeting of the Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, a vote was passed increasing the salary of the President. The President declined to receive the advance, on the ground that the road needed the money more than he did.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¾ lbs.—13¼ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 50 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

CONDUCT OF LADIES IN THE STREET.—When three ladies are walking together, it is better for one to keep a little in advance of the other two, than for all three to persist in maintaining one unbroken line. They cannot all join in conversation without talking across each other—a thing that in-doors or out-of-doors, is awkward, inconvenient, ungentleel, and should always be avoided. Also, three ladies walking abreast occupy too much of the pavement, and therefore incommode the other passengers. Three young men sometimes lounge along the pavement arm in arm. Three young gentlemen never do so.—Mrs. Leslie's Behavior Book.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have arisen to such almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 850,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent heretofore unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

THE CELEBRATED
LOWELL COAL & GAS BURNER

For Anthracite Coal.

MANY futile attempts have been made to construct COAL STOVES which should consume their gases, and at the same time be simple and easily managed.

We think that Mr. D. G. LITTLEFIELD, the Patentee of this Stove, has been eminently successful in his efforts to produce this result—indeed it is so unlike all other stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them.

One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as TWO TONS consumed in any other Stove extant.

For a particular description we would refer the public to the following communication from Mr. Littlefield:

All skilful coal burners, and stove manufacturers, are conscious that a great error has pervaded the forms of all the apparatus for burning anthracite coal. No one, however, has been able to determine where the difficulty lay. Nearly all attempted improvements for consuming the gases, have been based upon the presumption that the common method of burning in a tight pot of some kind, either of cast iron or sheet iron lined with stone or brick, was correct, and their improvements have been made over and above this point in the apparatus. It is true the form of the pot has been changed from time to time, from the long cylinder with grate at the bottom, to the short and broad cylinder, and then to the bottle form, then square, then oval, and then contracted at the top, and then at the bottom, and very shallow, each having its advantages and disadvantages, but all operating substantially in the same manner in one respect, namely, that the gases are expelled from the coal and immediately rise unburned to the upper part of the apparatus, where they cannot burn perfectly, being withdrawn from the action and greatest heat of the fire, and must either pass through the flues, or into the apartment to be heated, thus causing a great loss of heat, and the only unpleasant difference between heat produced by coal and that of the wood fire.

Carburetted and sulphuretted hydrogen are freely liberated in burning coal. These gases, altho' perfectly combustible, and therefore easily disposed of, are really the direct cause of nearly all the inconvenience in burning coal. Being very volatile, a large portion of them escape through the flues unburned, or into the room from open stoves, and through the joints of close stoves, producing various unpleasant sensations, such as langor and headache, so common among those who live in a room heated by coal. In addition to this, they act upon and in time destroy the stove and pipe, particularly that part near the chimney. In any city where anthracite coal is used to any extent, the effects can be seen in that part of the chimney above the roof of nearly every house which has been built five years.

I wish now to call the particular attention of the reader to the common method of burning coal in a cylinder, with a flat grate at the bottom. It is well known that when a hard coal fire is started, it is with charcoal or some other very combustible material. The first impression made on the anthracite coal is to heat it; this expels the gases or most inflammable portion of the coal, which being volatile, rise up in the open at the top, immediately rises above the coal, and is consequently out of reach of the strongest action of the fire. It is a well-known principle that a gaseous substance, expelled from a solid body by the action of heat, rises above and mostly escapes any further action of the same heat which expelled it. The experience of every one that has given attention to coal burning is, that the best results are obtained with the common pot, by a very slow process of burning, covered with ashes, or wet and fine coal. The reason is obvious. By this method more of the volatile substances are retained and consumed within the pot, and in contact with the coal, thereby producing a more perfect combustion of the fixed matter, as well as being burnt themselves, preventing the accumulation of old coal on the grate, and making no clinkers. Sometimes, with great care, a stove can be made to run from week to week, a result very desirable, but only obtained by the utmost care and skill. We need no better evidence that there is a radical defect in past construction of fire pots, than that with them the nicest calculation, prudence and judgment were necessary, to obtain comparatively poor results.—In fact, we may safely say that the form of pot open at the top, and with a grate at the bottom, for burning anthracite coal, is all wrong. The fire by its own action becomes wrong side up. The volatile matter, which is combustible, is expelled, and passes off imperfectly burned, instead of being consumed before it escapes, and helping as nature designed it, to consume the fixed matter in the bottom. A method of burning coal that accomplishes this object, that is, the combustion of the volatile matter in contact with the coal, is the only one that has any claim to be called scientific.

A stove construction on the principle above referred to, has been invented; and, after repeated experiments, has been so far perfected as to justify its introduction into the market. Its construction is exceedingly simple, requiring but little skill in its operation, when a fire is once started, (which is easily done); all that is necessary is a constant supply of coal, and a little attention from time to time, to keep a fire from month to month.

The subscriber has secured the right to manufacture and sell this

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Cholera, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

REV. SAMUEL McCLINTOCK.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

Chap. I.

Here, in the sketch which follows, and in the subsequent chapters, of which there will be one or two, Uncle Toby does not pretend to an acquaintance with the eminent revolutionary divine, nor even to the authorship of the articles. They are the workmanship of writers who need not be ashamed; and unless we greatly mistake, will be read with interest.

The father of Dr. Samuel McClintock, the subject of the present remarks, was born in Scotland. From thence he removed to Londonderry, in Ireland, probably in the latter part of the reign James II. When his intrigues in order to reinstate Catholicism were creating great uneasiness among his people, James endeavored by taking sides with the rich to overthrow the Episcopacy, for by thus pitting one party against another, and holding the balance of power, he hoped in the end to turn the scale and restore Catholicism. But the Presbyterians were too cunning for him. Strong as was their hatred of Episcopacy, their dislike for Catholicism was greater, and uniting with their Episcopal brethren, they showed themselves ready to receive his favors, but unwilling to enter into any of his plans. The civil wars of Charles I. were not however forgotten, and many men, fearing new changes, emigrated from all parts of the kingdom.—Among these was Mr. McClintock. He went where he found friends, for the eastern coast of Ireland and the west of Scotland have in all ages been inhabited by men of the same stock. But the war was transferred to Ireland, and James sat down before Londonderry, determined to press it by a slow seige. This was one of the most important and most obstinately contested seiges during the whole war. It continued from the month of December, 1688, until August, 1689. The garrison suffered all the miseries attendant on a protracted seige, which they bore with unflinching fortitude. King William at length relieved the place. Mr. McClintock and some others, emigrated to America, when the war was over. Their fortunes had probably been dissipated, and they hoped to find that religious peace and those worldly comforts which they sought for in vain in their own country, across the ocean. Mr. McClintock settled on Mystic river, but his companions travelled on to Londonderry, in this State, which they named after their parent town. Mr. McClintock continued quietly to till his farm without entering into any of the politics of the day—busy, with Scotch thrift, in increasing his property, and died at the advanced age of ninety. He was married three times, and left by his last wife one daughter and two sons.

Dr. Samuel McClintock was born in 1732. He was educated at Princeton College, under the care of President Burr, the father of the distinguished Aaron Burr. We may suppose that he finished his course with honor, for his sermons bear the marks of great mental discipline, and we have been told that throughout his life he was distinguished as one of the finest Latin scholars in New England.

After having finished his studies, stopping on a journey at Portsmouth, he was invited to preach before the Congregational Society of Greenland, who were in want of an assistant for their pastor, Mr. Allen—then very infirm with age; and so favorable was the impression he made, that he was immediately invited to share his labors. He soon after accepted and entered upon his duties. It is reported that the charms of a certain Mary Montgomery, of Scotch extraction, and who resided in Portsmouth, had a great influence in inducing Mr. McClintock to accept a charge which offered so little in a worldly point of view. This lady Dr. McClintock married, and if she induced him to accept the offer of the Greenland society, he never repented it. His salary was but $300 a year, with the parsonage,—a small and not over fertile farm. This seems little enough, when we recollect that the Dr. had fifteen children to support, and the tax upon his hospitality was somewhat heavy, as there were few hotels in those days, and the pastor was expected to entertain all the travelling clergymen of his own denomination, and other men of any note.—His children have amusingly related that whether the cow gave more milk or less, the quantity was always the same. It was to be sure, sometimes a trifle bluer.

Dr. McClintock had many calls to richer churches, but he preferred his own people, to whom he was endeared by a long ministry of forty-eight years of uninterrupted usefulness. During the revolution he strongly espoused the side of the people, as his temper was ardent; and he very easily broke the bond of allegiance to a government to which his religious principles were opposed, and from which his ancestors had suffered so much. His character gave weight to his opinions, and we must give him credit for courage, since he was so ready to stand forth boldly in a doubtful cause, when in case of defeat his ruin was certain. He was chaplain at the battle of Bunker Hill, and is represented in Trumbull's picture of that battle; and he has left a sermon on the adoption of the constitution, exhibiting the enlarged views of a patriot, and the temper of a christian. But Dr. McClintock suffered severely in the cause which he espoused with such boldness. Three of his sons perished in the war. One of them, Nathaniel, received a collegiate education at Harvard, but the war breaking out, he joined General Washington, and was raised to the rank of Major of Brigade. He was in the New Hampshire line in the battles before the capture of Burgoyne, on the 19th of September, and the 7th of October. After the capture, his regiment was ordered south, and he was with Washington at the memorable capture of the Hessians, at Trenton. He was then raised to the rank of Major of the line, over all the older captains; and as he was therefore regarded with jealousy by men in the army older than himself, but lower in rank, he resigned his commission and returned home, when he was induced to take the command of a company of marines which went out in a ship of war, and soon after perished in an engagement.

Another son of Dr. McClintock was an officer at the battle of Trenton, and there slain; and a third was lost at sea, serving as a midshipman and afterwards as lieutenant, in a ship of war.

HISTORY SET RIGHT.

The Boston Pilot contains a Historical Lecture, delivered in Liverpool, England, by the Rev. Dr. Cahill, an Irish priest of the Roman Church. In it we perceive the following sentences. If they are a fair specimen of the accuracy of the whole lecture, he will mislead more than he will instruct.

The whole story about Washington, will be news to all our readers.

The year 1760 is a most important period. George the Third came to the throne in perfect peace, and, having nothing to do, they were determined to tax the American people from the sole of their feet to the pomatum of their whigs. The Americans remonstrated and sent Washington to London to state their grievances. He waited on the Prime Minister several times in the outer court, to gain a hearing. He was treated so lightly, that at last, he said to the minister, "I call here frequently, and yet I get no conclusive answer; what shall I do?" The minister laughed at him; and when Washington got into the street, with his hat off, he vowed vengeance before God against England. (Rapturous cheering.) He returned home, and fired the zeal of his countrymen. In battle after he was victorious over the English, and in 1782 he lifted the flag of American Independence. (Applause.) I intend going to America shortly, and I will take a small bottle of Irish Potteen, and when within the nearest distance of Bunker Hill I will drink on deck to the American flag. (Cheers.)

Flogging in the Merchant Service.—We publish (says the Boston Transcript) brief reports of two decisions made in the United States Court in this city in regard to punishment in the merchant service. They give a very practical example of the result of Judge Curtis's ruling as to the force of the Act abolishing flogging. It is quite evident, we think, that the public will demand further action from Congress in regard to the subject. We do not believe that the narrow, technical rulings of the Courts, in respect to flogging, will be tolerated by the people of this country. There is a wide difference between proper discipline and petty despotism, and we fear the old English proverb is as true as ever, that some lawyers "have so keen a perception of Law that they are never able to see justice."

Both the cases reported, were cases of mutual ill-temper. Both the men who were struck by a captain and a mate, were insolent, and the captain and mate exhibited that overbearing air, which belongs to low men when slightly elevated. But there must be some way to secure prompt obedience on shipboard, and to put a stopper on insolence there. There must be a power residing somewhere, to curb a mutinous, sulky or grumbling man, who if suffered to go on, would soon spoil almost any crew.

It is proper to state, however, that a greater judge than Curtis, viz. Judge Story, in the case of Ryan and Cushman, held that no mere words of provocation would justify the master in resorting to blows.

Foresters' Boys' & Girls' Magazine commences a new Volume in January—the December number before us closing the sixth year of its publication. It is a nice little publication for children—as worthy of patronage as any with which we are acquainted. Mr. Morse has it. 81 per year. T. & G. C. Rand, publishers, 7 Cornhill, Boston.

☞ Boston papers chronicle the death on Friday, of Mr. Robert G. Shaw, Jr, son of the late Hon. Robert G. Shaw, a well known merchant, and formerly a partner in business with his father. He was an honorable merchant, and his decease will be lamented by a large circle of friends. He had been confined for several years by sickness.

LOCAL.

MUSIC IN BOSTON AND PORTSMOUTH.

The Boston Advertiser states that "Madame Sontag has announced her intention of giving two farewell concerts this week, the first being on Wednesday evening. The advertisement promises all sorts of music, and the names of Paul Jullien, Alfred Jaell and Rocco add to the attraction, as well as the promise of the Germania Society, which is such an important addition to almost all Boston concerts."

We publish this, partly as a Boston card for the Germanians, which may aid in securing their concert here—and partly to show some hypocrisies that by "all sorts of music" here, the writer does not intend bad or poor music. From this, they may infer, if they please, that when our musical critic says a concert "was excellent of its kind," he does not mean it was all kinds of a concert—but exactly what he says, viz:—a good concert of its kind.

A ballad singer may excel in his line—Paganini excelled in his—Jaell excels on the piano—the Germanians in their line, as a large and well trained band,—and Webb on the organ. Each of these excels in a performance of its own kind,—but no one of them can properly be said to excel the other, because it is difficult to make a fair comparison. But the richest concert of all is where all kinds of instruments, and a great collection of vocal power and skill, are grouped together by a director competent to lead and govern the whole.

We used to think Ostinelli realized this; it is said Jullien does it now. We do not expect it here: we are either unwilling or unable to pay for it. But it is now proposed to have some of the best music in one of these branches, viz: excellent playing by the Germania Band. Let all secure their seats forthwith, as this will be the last opportunity to listen to these eminent artists.

DOVER RAILROAD.

Does any citizen of Portsmouth doubt whether it is practicable or desirable to have a direct railroad between this city and Dover? We hope there is not one: but as there may be, we would request any such to attend the meeting advertised to be holden at the Court House this evening, and also to read the signatures of the men who call it—by which he will be satisfied that those who know most about the matter, and can best judge of its merits, are also most in earnest to see it underway.

P. Y. M. C. A.—The Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association have leased Washington Hall, having entrance next Mr. Bragdon's store, on Market street, and have nicely fitted it up for their use. The Hall and entrance way have been painted and papered, gas introduced, &c., and they have now a very pleasant place for meeting. Their library has been much increased during the last few months. The new Hall is to be opened this evening to the Association and invited friends, by an address from one of the members.

☞ The ship Brother Jonathan was launched on Saturday afternoon at about half past two, from the yard of Messrs. Toby & Littlefield.

The ship is 156 feet long, 33 feet wide and 22 feet deep, and will measure about 800 tons. She is owned, and is to be commanded by Richard H. Tucker of Wiscasset. She is intended for a Charleston and Liverpool trader. Messrs. T. & L. will immediately commence another ship on the same ways, of about 900 tons, for an Eastern house.

☞ A ship of about 1000 tons will be launched on Tuesday next, from the yard of Samuel Badger, Esq. She is to be commanded by Capt. Samuel Billings.

A Case of Conscience.—A few days ago, a letter passed through our Post-Office, directed, in a disguised hand, to Miss —— ——. Inside the cover there was a five dollar bill, and on the corner was written "Due your Father." The father had been dead about ten years.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

FOR THE GERMANIA CONCERT!

One Concert only.

ON MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 12TH.

THE Managers of the contemplated series of three Concerts by this CELEBRATED BAND regret the necessity to announce to the citizens that they have been unable to procure anything near the amount necessary to defray the expenses attending the series, and in consequence are reluctantly compelled to abandon ALL BUT ONE. In order to save themselves from great pecuniary loss with this as in the other Concert, the Temple must be FILLED. They hope the citizens will come forward immediately, to-day, and take up all the Tickets, and that the Germanians will be greeted with an OVERFLOWING HOUSE.—They well deserve it; their Music is superior to any Concert we have ever had, and as we are to have but one, let there not be a vacant seat.

Their Programme will be published in a day or two, and we assure the public that it will be the richest Musical treat ever listened to.

Don't fail to secure your seats to-day.

CITY LYCEUM.—At the Cameneum.—The next Lecture will be delivered on THURSDAY Evening next, by

Rev. Dr. BURROUGHS.

A Striking Similie.—A recent Swiss traveller describes a village in the Grison county, situated on the slope of a great mountain, of which the strata shelve in the direction of the place. Huge crags directly overhanging the village, and massy enough to sweep the whole of it into the torrent below, have become separated from the main body of the mountain in the course of ages, by great fissures, and now scarcely adhere to it. When they give way the village must perish; it is only a question of time, and the catastrophe may happen at any day. For years past, engineers have been sent from time to time to measure the width of the fissures, who report them constantly increasing. The villagers for more than one generation have been fully aware of their danger; subscriptions have been once or twice opened in the cantons and in Germany to enable them to remove; yet they live on in their doomed dwellings from year to year, fortified against the ultimate certainty and daily probability of destruction by the common sentiment—things may last their time and no longer. It is needless to say how much of this popular fatalism is exhibited in the habitual acquiescence of modern society in the political institutions under which it lives. The cracks and crevices in the mountain which overhang our old privilege-founded European system, are constantly sounded by explorers, and their reports are never reassuring; we are more and more convinced of the insecurity of thrones and commonwealths; political sagacity wholly fails to reveal to us the manner of their construction. Yet we live on in a kind of provisional safety, reconciled to the constant neighborhood of dangers, against which, apparently, we can no better guard ourselves than the villagers can prevent the fall of their rocks.—Edinburg Review.

Fisheries.—A despatch from Washington says intelligence has reached the department from our Minister in England, that the fishery treaty, sent out a few weeks since, would be ratified by the British Government.

Railroad Meeting.

THE Citizens of Portsmouth who feel an interest in connecting this city with the country—and who does not?—are requested, one and all, to meet at the COURT HOUSE, on MONDAY EVENING, Dec. 5th, at 7 o'clock, to adopt such measures as may be necessary to secure the immediate building of the Railroad from Portsmouth to Dover.

An opportunity is now presented to connect Portsmouth, Dover and the interior of the State, which if not improved, is not likely soon to occur again. As this desirable object can be secured by a subscription to a stock guaranteed to pay six cent. it is to be hoped that all will be disposed at one and the same time to secure a good investment and the completion of an enterprise of very great importance to this city.

Full and encouraging information from reliable sources will be given at the meeting.

Dover has subscribed sixty thousand dollars towards this enterprise, and, if Portsmouth will respond, the object can be very shortly secured.

MAN SHOT IN FAIRFIELD, ME.—We learn from the Kennebec Journal, that on Saturday evening last, an Irishman named Patrick Donnell, in the employ of the contractors on the Somerset and Kennebec Railroad, was shot by a man named Samuel Jacobs. It appears that Jacobs, having been annoyed by persons carrying off rails from fences on his grounds, kept watch with a gun, and finding Donnell with a rail in his hands, shot him with the contents of one barrel in the leg, and the other in his breast. At last accounts Donnell was in a critical situation; but the probabilities were in favor of his surviving. He is a married man with seven children, and has always been very quiet and inoffensive. Jacobs was arrested, and held to bail in the sum of $1000. He is a returned Californian.

He brought back the California Lynch Law with him. A civil action, wherein the poor wood-stealer could recover damages to himself, would be the right process here, if it could be sustained; but his own probable or attempted theft complicates the case. It would be for the interest of all parties for Jacobs to plead guilty and get off with a light fine and short imprisonment; and then without waiting for the civil suit, to fork over some gold to pay the doctor's bill for curing poor Pat, and some more gold to buy wood and bread for his wife and "the childer."

RECOVERY.—Abraham Hall, who was erroneously reported to have been killed by the accident on the Eastern Railroad at Breed's Island, on Tuesday last, is in a fair way to recover.

THE EMPIRE CLUB.—A correspondent of the New York Mirror says Captain Rynders has received an appointment from the Federal Government, as a secret Mail Agent, with a salary of fifteen hundred dollars and traveling expenses.

THE LIQUOR LAW IN VERMONT.—A despatch from Montpelier, of the 1st inst., says the bill repealing the liquor law of the last session, passed to be engrossed in the House by 13 majority. The Senate is said to be in favor of the law, with some modifications.

A RAILROAD CONDUCTOR KILLED.—Thursday morning, as the Cheshire freight train was passing between Ashburnham and Fitchburg, a journal on one of the cars broke, by which several of the cars were smashed up, and the conductor, Mr. Kirk Stone, almost instantly killed.

VEXATIOUS SUITS.—Pittsburg, Dec. 2.—Yesterday seventy suits, under the small note law, against the Pennsylvania R. R. Co.; six against the Citizens' Deposite Co.; fourteen against the Alleghany Savings Fund; sixty-two against the Ohio and Pennsylvania R. R. Co.; and thirteen against the Cleveland and Pittsburg R. R. Co., were instituted by Absalom Morris, late dry goods merchant of this city, and two others. The supposed object is to obtain half of the penalty, which will amount to a large sum.

RAILROAD EXTENSION.—Baltimore, Dec, 2. The second branch of the City Council tonight passed an ordinance to endorse the five million dollar bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

DIPLOMATIC.—At a meeting of the committee to receive the property included in Mr. Perham's "gifts" to the ticket holders in the fancy lottery, a Mr. Briggs reported that the horse in the catalogue was "sound and crank." Upon being questioned as to the age of his horse by some comical genius, Mr. Briggs said he was "as old as other people's horses."

INNOVATIONS.—The Belfast Journal says that the old custom of burying a bottle of liquor under the corner stone of a public buildin, is about to be abolished. The new era of affairs was commemorated in that city by placing under the corner stone of the new court-house, a broken bettle and a copy of the Maine law.

When Kossuth was in America, he again and again announced an impending attack of Russia on the Turkish empire. On May 26, 1851, in Faneuil Hall, Boston, he assigned it as his main reason for hastening back to Europe; yet statesmen have been quite surprised, and have exclaimed, (what Cicero declares so disgraceful) who would have thought it?—Boston Post.

AUX CAYES: SICKNESS.—By the arrival of the British brig Pilgrim, Capt. Kenney, at New York, we have advices from Aux Cayes to Nov. 2d. The fever was prevailing to an alarming extent at that place and was very fatal, especially among the shipping. The above vessel lost five men of her crew. Capt. Kenney reports having left in port a French brig, of and for Marseilles, which had loaded and got underweigh, but soon after returned with her captain sick with fever, of which he died; also his mate and six seamen, leaving only two of the crew alive. A number of other vessels in port had also lost a portion of their crew.

MRS. WALLEY.—The wife of Hon. S. H. Walley of Roxbury, Mass., died on Friday morning. She had been in feeble health for some weeks. She was the eldest daughter of the late Hon. Isaac C. Bates, of Northampton, formerly U. S. Senator, and was highly esteemed by a very large circle of friends and relatives. She leaves six children. He had assigned Saturday to leave his home, to enter upon his Congressional career. He had hoped that the health of his wife would permit her to reside with him in Washington during the winter, and had made arrangements to that effect.

GEN. FOOTE.—It is said that General Foote has issued a card declining to run as a candidate for the United States Senate. He says the Union men became discouraged by the elevation of a secessionist to the position of a Cabinet officer who by an honest, but too confiding President, was allowed to use executive patronage for the overthrow of the Union party.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¾ lbs. —14¼ lbs, is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

An Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

it probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

IN A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricophorous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricophorous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in round numbers, from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 250,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricophorous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discounts to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. 4twsm je22

THE CELEBRATED

LOWELL COAL & GAS BURNER

For Anthracite Coal.

MANY futile attempts have been made to construct COAL STOVES which should consume the gases, and at the same time be simple and easily managed.

We think that Mr. D. G. LITTLEFIELD, the Patentee of this Stove, has been eminently successful in his efforts to produce this result—indeed it is so unlike all other stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them.

One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as TWO TONS consumed in any other Stove extant.

For a particular description we would refer the public to the following communication from Mr. Littlefield:

All skilful coal burners, and stove manufacturers, are conscious that a great error has prevaded the forms of all the apparatus for burning anthracite coal. None, however, has been able to determine where the difficulty lay. Nearly all attempted improvements for consuming the gases, have been based upon the presumption that the common method of burning in a tight pot of some kind, either of cast iron or sheet iron lined with stone or brick, was correct, and their improvements have been made over and above this point in the apparatus. It is true the form of the pot has been changed from time to time, from the long cylinder with grate at the bottom, to the short and broad cylinder, and then to the bottle form, then square, then oval, and then contracted at the top, and then at the bottom, and very shallow, each having its advantages and disadvantages, but all operating substantially in the same manner in one respect, namely, that the gases are expelled from the coal and immediately rise unburned to the upper part of the apparatus, where they cannot burn freely, being withdrawn from the action and greatest heat of the fire, and must either pass through the flues, or into the apartment to be heated, thus causing a great loss of heat, and the results have occasioned difference between heat produced by coal and that of the wood fire.

Carburetted and sulphuretted hydrogen are freely liberated in burning coal. These gases, altho' perfectly combustible, are there easily disposed of, are really the direct cause of nearly all the inconvenience in burning coal. Being very volatile, a large portion of them escape through the flues unburned, or into the room from open stoves, and through the joints of close stoves, producing various unpleasant sensations, such as langor and headache, so common among those who live in a room heated by coal. In addition to this, they act upon and in time destroy the stove and pipe, particularly that part near the chimney. In any stove where anthracite coal is used to any extent, the effects can be seen in that part of the chimney above the roof of nearly every house which has been built five years.

I wish now to call the particular attention of the reader to the common method of burning coal in a cylinder, with a flat grate at the bottom. It is well known that when a hard coal fire is started, it is with charcoal or some other very combustible material. The first impression made on the anthracite coal is to heat it; this expels the gases or most inflammable portion of the coal, which being volatile, and the pot open at the top, immediately rises above the coal fire, and is consequently out of reach of the strongest action of the fire. It is a well-known principle that a gaseous substance, expelled from a solid body by the action of heat, rises above and nearly ceases any further action of the same heat which expelled it. The experience of every one that has given attention to coal burning is, that the best results are obtained with the common pot, by a very slow process of burning, covered with ashes, or wet small fine coal. The reason is obvious. By this method more of the volatile substances are retained and consumed within the pot, and in contact with the coal, thereby producing a more perfect combustion of the fixed matter, as well as being burnt themselves, preventing the accumulation of old coal on the grate, and making no clinkers. Sometimes, with great care, a stove can be made to run from week to week, a result very desirable, but can be obtained by the utmost care and skill. We need no better evidence that there is a radical defect in past construction of fire pots, than that with them the nicest calculation, prudence and judgment were necessary, to obtain comparatively poor results.—In fact, we may safely say that the form of pot open at the top, and with a grate at the bottom, for burning anthracite coal, is all wrong. The fire by its own action becomes worse side up. The volatile matter, which is combustible, is expelled, and passes off imperfectly burned, instead of being consumed before it escapes, and helping as nature designed it, to consume the fixed matter in the bottom. A method of burning coal that accomplishes this object, that is, the combustion of the volatile matter in contact with the coal, is the only one that has any claim to be called scientific.

A stove constructed upon the principle above referred to, has been invented; and, after repeated experiments, has been so far perfected as to justify its introduction into the market. Its construction is exceedingly simple, requiring but little skill in fitting up, or when a fire is once started, (which is easily done,) that it is necessary to a constant supply of coal, and a little attention from time to time, to keep a fire from month to month.

The subscriber has secured the right to manufacture and sell this

MEXICAN CALENDAR.

This head in itself is not very inviting. But under it we give an article which greatly interested us, as it opens to view the ancient myths of a nation which was abused by its Spanish conquerors, when it ought to have been admired. M. Ampere, in a journal of his travels in America, published in the Revue des Deux Mondes, for September, records his experiences in South America. He gives the following account of the Mexican Calendar:

"A Mexican antiquarian, Gama, has devoted to the examination of this stone a learned dissertation, to which I refer those of my readers who desire to make a more particular acquaintance with this curious astronomical monument—(the title of his dissertation is "Descripcion historica y chronologica de las des Piedras que . . . . se hallanson el ano de 1790, bor y Leon de Gama." I shall only say a few words about it. In the middle is the sun, the great divinity of the Mexicans, represented by a face with the tongue protruded; around it are represented the twenty solar months, of eighteen days each, of which the Mexican year of three hundred and sixty-five days is composed, including the five complementary days. It is exactly the Egyptian year with the Epagomenous days, and as the real year is nearly six hours longer, it was necessary for this calendar, like all the others, to make a correction, which at the end of a certain time made up what every Mexican year lost on the real year. A correction of this kind has been the problem to be solved in all calendars. It is well known how it has been settled in ours by the bissextile years which intercalate every four years one day more after the 28th of February, and suppress this additional day in the last year of three centuries out of four. The Egyptians remedied the difference of the year of three hundred and sixty-five days from the real year by their period of fourteen hundred and sixty years, at the end of which the two years were found to agree. The Mexicans did not wari so long. At the end of fifty two years, they added alternately twelve and thirteen days, which made twenty-five days at the end of an hundred and four years; and at the end of this time, the year of three hundred and sixty five days was brought back to the real year.—These hundred and four years form the great Mexican Cycle. Then as if the world had begun again a new existence, they renew all the objects of their worship, and even the furniture and utensils destined for domestic purposes, and relighted the sacred fire in their temples. Such was the system of the Mexican Calendar. Gama calls it the most perfect of all calendars—it was, certainly, ingenious, and proves a very advanced state of civilization of the people who invented it.

I return to the description of the Mexican astronomical stone. About the sun are indicated, by their symbols, the four other suns, who, according to Mexican ideas, had preceded our sun, and had died before him. The death of each of these suns had been accompanied by the destruction of the human race. The first time men were devoured by tigers at the end of a period of famine. The second time high winds overturned the houses, and men carried away by these tempests were changed into monkeys. The third time they were attacked by fire and changed into birds, and finally the fourth they were submerged by a deluge and changed into fishes. The present sun is also to die, and with it the whole human race is to disappear in a fire. So at the end of each cycle of a hundred and four years they fear that the destruction of the universe is to be accomplished, and the succeeding one is entered upon with great marks of joy, each person shedding a little of his own blood in honor of the gods, and what is sad, human victims are immolated. We find in most cosmogonies, particularly in that of the ancient Scandinavians, the idea of these successive epochs, separated by destructions and new creations produced by water and fire. It is not necessary to draw from this the conclusion of an historical connection between the nations who have had these ideas, and to see, as has been done, by some persons, in a wonderful personage of Mexican tradition named Votan, the Woden or Odin of Germanic nations. These analogies may have their origin in the unity of the human mind, which is naturally inclined to explain by similar suppositions the origin of things of which we are ignorant. The similitude of errors is a law of our nature as well as their variety. Perhaps in their belief of the periodical renovations of the world is hidden the traditional memory of ancient geological catastrophes. The revolutions of the terrestrial globe, the phases of organic life on its surface, seem according to opinions most generally, at this time, admitted in science, to have for their cause the great inundations produced by volcanic irruptions, which are accompanied by displacements in the beds of seas, and resemble nearly enough the periods separated by fires and deluges, as they are found among the Mexicans, the ancient Scandinavians, various people in the East, and such as have been transmitted to us by the philosophers and poets of antiquity.

Gama, and this opinion is, I believe, peculiar to him, thought he discovered in the circumference of the Mexican Stone, eight holes, in which he supposes were fixed hands between which were stretched, according to his idea, threads, the shadow of which, thrown upon the stone could indicate the equinoxes and the solstices. However this may be, this monument is so curious, that I have thought proper to say a few words by way of showing its value.

SLANDER.—There is a touching pathos in the following lines which will give them interest wherever the old fashioned ideas of truth, virtue, and christian forbearance are not entirely obsolete. In the present day, when the very tongues of men and women seem to have caught the locomotive spirit of the age, it is scarcely to be supposed that truth should always be adhered to, or that the innocent should not occasionally suffer from the slanders of the guilty. It has occasionally occurred to a friend on reading these beautiful lines of Mrs. Osgood, that their publication might do some good, even here. Fully agreeing with her in sentiment, we "take the responsibility," though we greatly fear that those who most need it, will be the last to be startled by the stirring reproof which is here appropriately administered.—Savannah Republican.

SLANDER.

BY FRANCES S. OSGOOD.

A whisper woke the air—
A soft light tone and slow,
Yet barbed with shame and woe:
Now, might it only perish there!
Nor farther go!

Ah me! a quick and eager ear,
Caught up the little meaning sound;
Another voice has breathed it clear,
And so it wanders round,
From ear to lip—from lip to ear—
Until it reached a gentle heart,
And that—it broke.

It was the only heart it found,
The only heart 'twas meant to find,
When first its accents woke;
It reached that tender heart at last,
And that—it broke.

Low as it seemed to others' ears,
It came—a thunder crash to her,—
That fragile girl so fair and gay,—
That guileless girl so pure and true!

'Tis said a lovely humming bird,
That in a fragrant lilly lay,
And dreamed the summer morn away,
Was killed, but by the gun's report,
Some idle boy had fired in sport!
The very sound—a death-blow came!

And thus her happy heart that beat
With love and hope so fast and sweet,
(Shrined in its lilly too,
For who the maid that knew
But owned the delicate, flower-like grace
Of her young form and face?)
When first that word
Her light heart heard,
It fluttered like the frightened bird,
Then shut its wings and sighed,
And with a silent shudder—died.

REV. SAMUEL McCLINTOCK, D. D.

BY UNCLE TOBY.—CHAP. II.

Dr. McClintock bore all these trials with Christian fortitude. He was loved and esteemed by his parish, and in the latter part of his life received a diploma of Doctor of Divinity, from Princeton College, where he was educated. He enjoyed uninterrupted good health, and was only ill a few days before his death, which took place at the age of 72. In his writing desk were found the following instructions to his son John:

"I feel myself sinking in the vale of years, near the house appointed, and have had for some time a premonition that the time of my departure is near. It may be imagined, however, considering that I have exceeded the stated period of human life, that I am drawing near the great period. My only hope of being happy beyond the grave, is founded on the mercy of God, and the merits of a Divine Redeemer. May you—long after I shall be here no more, enjoy happiness in the endearments of an agreeable companion and pleasant children. You know that I have appointed you executor of my will, and that therein I have expressed my desire that the solemnity of my funeral should be conducted in the manner that is customary at the funerals of my parishioners, without any parade or sermon, which has commonly been the custom at the funerals of those who have sustained any public characters in life. If you should think it proper (about which I am perfectly indifferent) to erect a head stone at my grave, which in that case I wish may be quite a plain one, I would have you inscribe on it the following epitaph, without any addition or alteration, except filling up the blanks for the month and year of my decease, and age and standing in the ministry:

To the memory of Samuel McClintock, D. D., who died —— in the year of —— aged — and the —— of his ministry. His body rests in the certain hope of a resurrection to life and immortality, when Christ shall appear the second time to destroy the last enemy, death, and to consummate the great design of his mediatorial kingdom. April, 1804.

Dr. McClintock had two wives: his first wife, Mary Montgomery, died at the early age of forty-eight; his last wife was a widow, Mrs. Darling, and survived him. Dr. McClintock's religious views were strictly Calvinistic in the early part of his ministry.—Like those of most of his brethren in New England, they were harsh and little tempered by the law of love. This is not surprising, when we consider the troubled times in which these men were educated—in violent struggles for civil and religious liberty, when even their prejudices seemed sanctified by their blood. Men who had so long followed the pillar of fire, might easily forget that there were souls who needed the refreshing shadow of the cloud.

The opinions of Dr. McClintock were however much milder in the latter portion of his life, that he was always strenuous in his appeals, with something of the enthusiasm and the better part of the perseverance of his Scotch ancestors. Full of simplicity and honesty—it is not too great praise to say that if his head sometimes failed, his heart was nearly always right.

NOTE.

The son John, mentioned as executor of Rev. Dr. McClintock's will, is our well known and highly respected fellow citizen, John McClintock, Esq., who lives and moves among us at the advanced age of ninety-three, not only holding an office in the Custom House, but constant in his attendance there, and regular in the performance of the duties of the office.

A stranger to him and to his fortunes, might very properly ask, why it is that a man so aged, performs such duties, or why he was appointed at an age so advanced, to fill such an office. We should answer, that his history is known here, to every merchant and shipmaster, and almost every citizen; and that he is held in such respect and veneration, not only for his great age, but for his energy and honorable traits as a merchant and man of business, that no one would ask to have him removed, but every one would protest against it if it were attempted.

His energy and activity in early life, laid the foundation of a property that would have made him rich. But he was one of the sufferers by French Spoliations more than fifty years ago; and our own government, by treaty with France, transferred his claim, and all others like it, commonly termed the Old French Claims, so that the claimants cannot call upon France,—but they have called upon Congress for more than thirty years,—hitherto in vain.

Captain McClintock was thus crippled in his resources, at the period of life when his family was the most numerous and expensive; and by subsequent losses and calamities has seen his property so reduced, that instead of retiring from active business in middle life, or even at three score years and ten, it is only by industry as well as economy, that he is made comfortable in extreme age.

To this we must add, that his high desert as a mariner, a merchant and a patriot, have given him favor with several administrations of the National Government, among which we are happy to number the present; and we cannot but hope that the New Hampshire President may signalize himself by the official signature of an Act of Congress, which by paying these claims shall do a simple act of justice towards this old friend and compatriot of his father,—and call not only for his blessing, but for that of many who are ready to perish.

"THE PRAYER ON BUNKER HILL."

During the battle of Bunker Hill, a venerable clergyman (Rev. Dr. McClintock, of Greenland, N. H.) knelt on the field, with hands upraised, and grey head uncovered; and, while the bullets whistled around him, prayed for the success of his compatriots, and the deliverance of his country. This incident has prompted the following beautiful ode from the pen of Mrs. Lydia H. Sigourney.

"It was an hour of fear and dread,—
High rose the battle-cry,
And round, in heavy volumes, spread
The war-cloud to the sky.
'Twas not, as when in rival strength
Contending nations meet,
Or love of conquest madly hurls
A monarch from his seat:

Yet one was there, unused to tread
The path of mortal strife,
Who but the Savior's flock had fed
Beside the fount of life.
He knelt him where the black smoke wreathed,
His head was bowed and bare,—
While, for an infant land, he breathed
The agony of prayer.

The column, red with early morn,
May tower o'er Bunker's height,
And proudly tell a race unborn
Their patriot fathers' might;
But thou, O patriarch, old and grey,
Thou prophet of the free,
Who knelt among the dead that day,
What fame shall rise to thee?

It is not meet that brass or stone
Which feel the touch of time,
Should keep the record of a faith
That woke thy deed sublime:
We trace it on a tablet fair,
Which glows when stars wax pale,
A promise that the good man's prayer
Shall with his God prevail."

Knaebel, the German-American composer, arranged some fine music for this poetry,—but Jullien would not have it played by his band, because he [Jullien] has an English wife, and had made money in England. He thought the song and the prayer, both reflected on England.

Tragedy in North Carolina.—Rev. G. W. Carawan, a popular preacher of the Baptist Church, has been tried at Hyde county, N. C., for shooting C. H. Lassiter, whom he had accused of being too intimate with his wife, who is fifty years old. Lassiter had brought a suit for slander against him, laying damages at $2000. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, whereupon Carawan fired off two loaded pistols, one at Mr. Warren, the prosecuting officer, which struck just above the heart of the latter, and the ball from the other went through his own head.—Boston Courier.

We have seen a popular preacher who often "looked daggers" at those who offended him; but he did not often shoot them, except with paper bullets on vocal blasts. By the way, that must have been an odd sort of a court to be trying a murderer with pistols in his pocket. In this part of the country the sheriff commonly searches all felons, and takes away their knives, dirks and pistols, if they have any.

It is rather a singular circumstance, that in the above article, as we copy it, there is no distinct statement that Carawan killed Lassiter, Warren or himself. He shot all three, and the act is called a tragedy, from which circumstances we infer that somebody is killed, but who, or how many, we cannot tell: "the paper don't say."

Another paper does however. Carawan killed Lassiter, and also himself. Mr. Warren was but slightly hurt, the ball glancing.

Patent Agency for Inventors.—We would call attention to the advertisement of R. H. Eddy, Esq., Boston, 22 State street. His facilities for forwarding the interests of inventors in procuring patents have been collected by an experience of many years in this branch of business, and persons applying for Patents will find in him advantages difficult if not impossible for others to possess. He has an extensive library on foreign and domestic Patent Laws and Inventions, including an immense collection of specifications heretofore granted. Mr. E. may be said to possess an experience unequalled by any other of his profession in this country, all of which is at the service of Inventors.

VISIONS SEEN BY GAS LIGHT.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

Some of the elders are fond of having clean shoes well polished. Uncle Toby is one of them, and therefore in the evening he often walks around Market Square on the clean flagstones, though he might go across through the mud in a shorter time. That beautiful gas light, on the corner of Daniel street, discloses some scenes for the pencil. As the old gentleman was rejoicing in the light, and enjoying the smiles of the readers in the Athenæum, who were very happy in looking over the evening papers, he was very much puzzled all at once, to find he could neither get inside nor outside a couple of nice young men who did not seem very large, but who yet, arm in arm, appeared to occupy the whole breadth of the ample sidewalk. When he aimed to go inside they were there,—and outside, they were there! High street was dark, and into it they seemed to stagger. One of them was evidently sober, and entirely silent, but the other was talkative, and tossed his head and legs about in a strange way.

Just then the City Marshal came along, and Uncle Toby hurried by, without giving the Marshal a chance to ask the young men's names. He soon came to Fleet street and went through that part of it which used to lead to Major Gaines's dooryard. Here was a new gas light, and here another young man seemed to be making Virginia fence on the narrow pavement, calling out, "gen'l-man! gen'l-man! I say, gen'l-man! where's the bowling-alley?" The old gentleman, fearing the youngster would not be welcome in that plight, did not offer to show him the way, but gave him a wide berth, and so the inquirer blundered off to the southward, leaving the old man to reflect on the folly of putting up gaslights to shine on scenes like these, and to puzzle himself about the causes which produced phenomena so startling. He would not charge these young men who appeared to him in this vision, with being drunkards, nor with being habitual drinkers; but he would venture to suggest that they are not total abstinents—but those who occasionally indulge in spirituous beverages in a mild form.

It seems strange that such effects result from causes so innocent or trifling. But in these days, when invisible spirits rap and overturn tables, it is not impossible that visible and tangible spirits may bewilder and befool such men, young or old, as put them in their mouths to steal away their brains.

☞ Rev. Mr. Lamson's lecture to young men, being the first of a series which he is to preach by request, was delivered on Sunday evening in the Middle Street Church, to a housefull of people. His text was, "one thing thou lackest:" and the points he made were, that true religion is the one thing needful, and that this is the special need of young men, as their only reliable safeguard against temptation and disgrace, misery and ruin.

The address was conceived in a catholic spirit, and delivered with great fidelity, and earnest kindness.

A course of such lectures cannot but be creditable to the lecturer, and useful to the hearers.

The interest and pleasure of the meeting were greatly increased by excellent music from a good united choir, and on the organ by Mr. Moses.

PORTSMOUTH & DOVER RAILROAD.

A goodly number of our citizens of Portsmouth met at the Court House, in this city on Monday evening, agreeably to a call signed by some of our principal business men.

Mayor Walker was called to the chair, and James P. Bartlett chosen secretary.

Addresses were made by John H. Wiggins, Esq., of Dover, and by Messrs. Hatch, Hackett, A. W. Haven, Swasey, Lefavour, Emery and Clement of this city. A good spirit prevailed throughout, and the following resolutions were passed unanimously.

Resolved, That it is the interest and duty of the citizens of Portsmouth to secure the construction of the Railroad to Dover.

Resolved, That a committee of three be nominated to appoint a committee of five persons, to wait on the citizens of Portsmouth and procure subscriptions to the stock of the Railroad.

The Chairman appointed Messrs. Albert R. Hatch, Lyman B. Spalding and John N. Handy, to be the Committee.

Dedication.—The Young Men's Christian Association having leased Washington Hall, in Market street, availed themselves of the opportunity of its dedication—which took place on Monday evening—to invite ladies, and others not members of the Association, to attend, which they did, the hall being filled to overflowing. The exercises commenced by an anthem from the choir; prayer was then offered, after which a hymn was sung by the choir. The President then announced that the exercises would be conducted in the same manner as at their regular weekly meetings, viz.: reading, and declaiming. An address was then delivered by Horace Webster, Esq., and the exercises closed by singing Old Hundred, in which all joined.

Newburyport Sable Minstrels.—This band, seven in number, are to give a Concert of vocal and instrumental music, at the Cameneum this evening. The Newburyport Union "would advise all lovers of good music to go and hear them—their music is of the newest kind, and their delineations of the negro character, perfect. During the evening Mr. Charles F. Williams will appear in a burlesque imitation of Richard III., which will well be worth the fifteen cents paid for admission."

☞ The launch of Mr. Badger's ship, announced for to-day, will take place at about 4 o'clock. She has been rigged on the stocks. Her name is the Granite State.

Very Good.—The nett proceeds of the ball, beneficient to the injured fireman, at Newburyport, the other night, was about a hundred and forty dollars.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—On the assembling of the House to-day, the Hon. Linn Boyd, of Kentucky, was elected Speaker by 143 votes out of 217.

A NEW COURSE OF TRADE.—Portland presents no better advantages for trade than some other ports—but her people are fairly awake. The Portland Argus states that parties interested have been in that city, within a few days, with a view to mark out and carry through a new course of trade—at least, new for Portland. It is proposed for vessels to leave Yarmouth, (Nova Scotia) loaded with lumber, for Curacoa, &c., there disposing of their cargo, to load with Salt and come to Portland, there leaving their Salt, they propose to load with flour and bread-stuffs, for Yarmouth; thus making a triangular voyage; and, as it is said, with every prospect of the enterprise being a successful one.

A LEGACY TO PRESIDENT PIERCE.—There has been considerable conversation relative to the will of the late Hon. Charles G. Atherton and the disposal of his property. We learn that the document was opened on Friday, and that after leaving a handsome competency to his wife, he gives ten thousand dollars to President Pierce, and the balance of his property, upwards of one hundred thousand dollars, he has divided equally among sixteen cousins whom he named, omitting those who are already provided for, and bestowing his bounty upon those who required it.—Boston Gazette.

HEAVY DAMAGES.—A gentleman, whose daughter was killed at the collision on the Providence and Worcester Railroad, at Valley Falls, last July, demands $50,000 as damages. This is his ultimatum, and the company having refused it, are to be allowed one year for reflection on the subject. The gentleman referred to is a man of wealth, and declares that although no amount of money could possibly repair the injury done to his family from this railroad murder, the corporation shall be made to pay the sum above named sum, or he will spend a like sum in prosecuting his suit—his object being to warn railroad companies to exercise the utmost vigilance in running their trains.

FRIGATE SARANAC.—The U. S. Steam Frigate Saranac, Captain Long, sailed from Norfolk on Sunday the 20th ult., for Constantinople, with the Hon. Carroll Spence, Minister to Turkey, and suite, as passengers.

LOSS OF BARK HYPERION OF KENNEBUNK.—The Boston Courier's correspondent at Kennebunkport states that letters were received at that place on the evening of the 30th, from Captain John White of ship Orlando, at Havana, stating that six of the crew of the Hyperion, from New York for Jamaica, arrived at that place via Cardenas, on the 14th of November, reporting that when three days out from New York the ship was disabled in a great gale, and the stern windows stove in, &c. On first sounding the pumps 12 feet of water was found, and very soon after the ship was found to settle very fast. A boat was got out and the men proceeded to leave, against the wishes of Captain Perkins, who, with the mates, was in the cabin when the six men left. Captain White mentions that the statement of the men was not generally believed in Havana, but he had long conversations with them, and is perfectly satisfied of the honesty of their statement. From some minor circumstances mentioned by the men it appears certain the men belonged to the Hyperion, that the ship is lost, and that Capt. Perkins, his mates and three men, have perished in her. The owners of the ship at Kennebunkport, credit the statement, while others of good judgment think there may have been foul play. The Hyperion was five years old, 390 tons, and insured in Boston for $18,000; freight insured for $3000. Captain Perkins was well known as a shipmaster, and leaves a wife and four children at Kennebunkport. The mate's name was Hartley; the others left aboard are as yet unknown.

The Cheapest and Best.

THE approach of another Winter, with its usual leisure for Farmers and others, induces the publishers again to call attention to the

WEEKLY CHRONICLE,
AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER,
At $1 per Annum, in advance.

Being published in connection with the DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE, we are enabled to offer a record of news more thorough than Weeklies generally and being entirely independent of the "arbitrary sway" of any and all parties and sects, our record of passing events we trust is clear and impartial.

The coming year seems big with events of great political interest, and a paper having no party bias will be found interesting as a chronicle of the doings of ALL parties.

LOCAL MATTERS

Have a prominent place in the Weekly Chronicle, so that natives of Portsmouth resident at home or abroad, will here find mention of all matters of interest in this vicinity.

The Weekly Chronicle is of medium size, printed on good paper, and contains but few advertisements—giving twenty columns of news and miscellaneous reading each week, at the low price of one dollar a year.

☞ All Postmasters will act as Agents, and any person sending five subscribers, with pay for a year, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¾ lbs.—13¼ lbs, is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 3 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the pub.ic as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

N. B.—BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS, and observe the following Promissory Note, with the fac simile signature of the proprietor, on every genuine box:

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and
Affections of the Lungs.
But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing
DISSOLVENT POWER.
By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore
Anti-Expectorant,
And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S EXPRESS RESTORER for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an
APPETISER
It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom
AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.
Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, scalp and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has now been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m je22*
For sale in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as if it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PANAMA RAILROAD.

This road is making good progress, considering its location and other circumstances; and will, except the highest part, soon be completed. That will occupy a year or so; and in the mean time a good carriage road is to be provided.

The Boston Advertiser, whose editor is well posted up in Railroad matters, says of it:

This route in comparison with all the projected routes to the Pacific, has the advantage of priority, which under existing circumstances, is a very important one. It the road prove to be very successful, it will be likely, from that reason to be capable of standing a competition with any others that may follow it. If the success proves to be moderate, the route will be likely to stand for a long time without rivals. The demonstration, by the example of this road, of the heavy cost of a work of this nature under a tropical climate, and at so great a distance from any country where hardy and skilful laborers can be obtained, will serve to deter capitalists from embarking rashly in any rival undertaking. Our impression therefore is that this road, when completed, will enjoy a monopoly, in a good degree, of the transport of passengers and freight from one ocean to the other, except such portion of it as may be sent round Cape Horn, for a considerable length of time. The route has also the advantage of being the shortest railroad route likely to be attempted between the two oceans; and as to any interference with it by the opening of a ship canal, we believe that the proprietors of the stock may feel safe against any such interference during the present generation.

CLIPPERS.—An Australian correspondent of the Post (G. F. T.) in his letter of Aug. 22, says:

"Most of the American fleet is in. A few stragglers, that sailed in March and April, and then all will be here: for I am confident that shippers will wait for advices from their agents before going on again. How I should like to introduce the Flying Cloud or the Sovereign of the Seas to the natives. I have not seen a clipper since I left. The Marco Polo, so widely celebrated, is a perfect tub—having neither shape or comliness. She looked to me as full as the commonest cotton ship, and her great success in passages may be credited to the captain, who cuts across lots—circle sailing did it. Forbes told me he went up 53° south coming out, and intended to go 60° returning, if possible. The Marco Polo was built at St. Johns, is about 1600 tons, and has made thus far three trips, two out and one home, and is now returning again. She has averaged about 75 days each way. Her owners must have made well by her. The first voyage gained about £15,000 both ways. The last £18,000.

VALUE OF PROPERTY IN NEW ORLEANS.—The New Orleans Bulletin of the 26th ult., estimates that the aggregate increase of the value of real estate alone, in the four districts of the first municipality of the city, as compared with the last year, will be about five millions of dollars. In the first district, the following is the increase:—Real Estate $2,248,250, slaves $271,900, and capital $732,655.

SUICIDE.—George Curtis, of Plaistow, a man of 45 or 50 years of age, committed suicide on Tuesday last, by hanging himself to his bed post. He was in ill health at the time, and was no doubt induced to commit the act by the apprehension that he was about to suffer a severe attack of the colic, to which he was subject. Curtis has made his home at Chute's tavern for the past few months.—Exeter News Letter.

CURTAILING.—Much merriment was occasioned in the Philadelphia Court of Sessions last week; in a trial in which the defendant was charged with malicious mischief, in throwing a chair on a dog's tail and cutting a piece of it off. Judge Thompson refused to discharge the prisoner. He said that it was a matter of taste, altogether, with regard to the length of a dog's tail, and the owner of the dog in question preferred a long one.

Mr. John Sandborn, of East Kingston, raised the present season on an acre of ground, ninety-three bushels six quarts of corn, a cart load of pumpkins, and a quantity of beans and turnips.—Exeter News Letter.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Owing to some culpable negligence or blunder, the arrangement which was proposed, for depositing copies of the Message with Post Masters, to be given to printers simultaneously, was not carried out in regard to this city; and we were consequently left to get the message as we could, or go without.

We therefore had to wait for the message to be reprinted in Boston, and forwarded over the Railroad, before we could commence on the work of printing it here, which circumstance gave us the not very enviable job of setting it up by gas-light.

We must also say, in justice to ourselves as well as the President, that the copy from which we set up the message, (the Boston Traveller,) was so mangled in making up, as to cost us much labor in re-arranging it, and that there are some errors which we cannot correct.

ORGANIZATION OF THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.

Mr. Forney, Clerk, called the House to order at 12 o'clock. Two hundred and seventeen members answered to their names.

The House proceeded to elect a Speaker by the following vote:—Linn Boyd, of Kentucky, 143, Joseph R. Chandler, of Philadelphia, 25, James L. Orr, of South Carolina, 4, and Solomon G. Havens, of New York, 6.—Mr. Boyd was then declared elected.

Messrs. Olds, Chandler and Bayly were appointed a committee to wait upon the President and inform him that the House had organized.

The House next proceeded to the election of Clerk. The whole number of votes cast was two hundred. (!) J. W. Forney received 121, Richard M. Young 27, B. B. Fringle 18, and D. Hutchinson 15. Mr. Forney was then declared elected

The remaining officers were re-appointed by resolution, several notices of bills were given, and the House adjourned.

In the Senate, Mr. Badger moved that Senators be allowed five daily newspapers each.

Mr. Seward called for the correspondence between the United States and the Sandwich Islands. The resolution was laid over.

Mr. Fish, of New York, moved a resolution of enquiry, relative to the causes and extent of sickness on board of emigrant ships, and asked for a committee of five to investigate and report.

Mr. Bright's resolution, appointing a Chaplain to each House, was adopted, and the Senate adjourned.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Fellow Citizens of the Senate
and of the House of Representatives:

The interest with which the people of the Republic anticipate the assembling of Congress, and the fulfilment, on that occasion, of the duty imposed on a new President, is one of the best evidences of their capacity to realize the hopes of the founders of a political system, at once complex and symmetrical.—While the different branches of the government are, to a certain extent, independent of each other, the duties of all, alike, have direct reference to the source of power. Fortunately, under this system, no man is so high, and none so humble, in the scale of public station, as to escape from the scrutiny, or to be exempt from the responsibility which all official functions imply.

Upon the justice and intelligence of the masses, in a government thus organized, is the sole reliance of the confederacy, and the only security for honest and earnest devotion to its interests, against the usurpations and encroachments of power, on the one hand, and the assaults of personal ambition on the other.

The interest of which I have spoken, is inseparable from an inquiring, self-governing community, but stimulated, doubtless, at the present time by the unsettled condition of our relations with several foreign powers; by the new obligations resulting from a sudden extension of the field of enterprise, by the spirit with which that field has been entered, and the amazing energy with which its resources for meeting the demands of humanity have been developed.

Although disease, assuming at one time the characteristics of a wide spread and devastating pestilence, has left its sad traces upon some portions of our country, we have still the most abundant cause for reverent thankfulness to God for an accumulation of signal mercies showered upon us a nation. It is well that a consciousness of rapid advancement and increasing strength be habitually associated with an abiding sense of dependence upon Him who holds in His hands the destiny of men and of nations.

Recognising the wisdom of the broad principle of absolute religious toleration proclaimed in our fundamental law, and rejoicing in the benign influence which it has exerted upon our social and political condition, I should shrink from a clear duty, did I fail to express my deepest conviction, that we can place no secure reliance upon any apparent progress, if it be not sustained by national integrity, resting upon the great truths affirmed and illustrated by divine revelation. In the midst of sorrow for the afflicted and suffering, it has been consoling to see how disaster made true neighbors of districts and cities separated widely from each other, and cheering to watch the strength of that common bond of brotherhood, which unites all hearts, in all parts of this Union, when danger threatens from abroad, or calamity impends over us at home.

Our diplomatic relations with foreign powers have undergone no essential change since the adjournment of the last Congress. With some of them, questions of a disturbing character are still pending, but there are good reasons to believe that these may all be amicably adjusted.

For some years past, Great Britain has so construed the first article of the Convention of the 20th of April, 1818, in regard to the fisheries on the northwestern coast, as to exclude our citizens from some of the fishing grounds, to which they freely resorted for nearly a quarter of a century subsequent to the date of that treaty. The United States have never acquiesced in this construction, but have always claimed for their fishermen all the rights which they had so long enjoyed without molestation. With a view to remove all difficulties on the subject, to extend the rights of our fishermen beyond the limits fixed by the convention of 1818, and to regulate trade between the United States and the British North American provinces, a negotiation has been opened with a fair prospect of a favorable result.

To protect our fishermen in the enjoyment of their rights, and prevent collision between them and the British fishermen, I deemed it expedient to station a naval force in that quarter during the fishing season.

Embarrassing questions have also arisen between the two governments in regard to Central America. Great Britain has proposed to settle them by an amicable arrangement, and our minister at London is instructed to enter into negotiations on that subject.

A commission for adjusting the claims of our citizens against Great Britain, and those of British subjects against the United States, organized under the convention of the 8th of February last, is now sitting in London for the transaction of business.

It is in many respects desirable that the boundary line between the United States and the British Provinces in the northwest, as designated in the convention of the 15th of June, 1846, and especially that part which separates the Territory of Washington from the British possessions on the north, should be traced and marked. I therefore present the subject to your notice.

With France our relations continue on the most friendly footing. The extensive commerce between the United States and that country, might, it is conceived, be released from some unnecessary restrictions, to the mutual advantage of both parties. With a view to this object, some progress has been made in negotiating a treaty of commerce and navigation.

Independently of our valuable trade with Spain, we have important political relations with her, growing out of our neighborhood to the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico. I am happy to announce that since the last Congress, no attempts have been made by unauthorized expeditions within the United States against either of those colonies. Should any movement be manifested within our limits, all the means at my command will be vigorously exerted to repress it. Several annoying occurrences have taken place at Havana, or in the vicinity of the island of Cuba, between our citizens and the Spanish authorities.—Considering the proximity of that island to our shores; lying, as it does, in the track of of trade between some of our principal cities, and the suspicious vigilance with which foreign intercourse, particularly that with the United States, is there guarded, a repetition of such occurrences may well be apprehended.—As no diplomatic intercourse is allowed between our Consul at Havana and the Captain General of Cuba, ready explanations cannot be made, or prompt redress afforded, where injury has resulted.

All complaint on the part of our citizens under the present arrangement, must be, in the first place, presented to this government, and then referred to Spain. Spain again refers it to her local authorities in Cuba for investigation, and postpones an answer until she has heard from those authorities. To avoid these irritating and vexatious delays, a proposition has been made to provide for a direct appeal for redress to the Captain General by our consul, in behalf of our injured fellow citizens. Hitherto, the Government of Spain has declined to enter into any such arrangement. This course on her part is deeply regretted: for, without some arrangement of this kind, the good understanding betewen the two countries may be exposed to occasional interruption. Our minister at Madrid is instructed to renew the proposition, and to press it again upon the consideration of her Catholic Majesty's government.

For several years Spain has been calling the attention of this government to a claim for losses, by some of her subjects, is the case of the schooner Amistad. This claim is believed to rest on the obligations imposed by our existing treaty with that country. Its justice was admitted, in our diplomatic correspondence with the Spanish government, as early as March, 1847; and one of my predecessors, in his annual message of that year, recommended that provision should be made for its payment. In January last it was again submitted to Congress by the Executive. It has received a favorable consideration by committees of both branches, but as yet there has been no final action upon it. I conceive that good faith requires its prompt adjustment, and I present it to your early and favorable consideration.

Martin Koszta, a Hungarian by birth, came to this country in 1850, and declared his intention in due form of law, to become a citizen of the United States. After remaining here nearly two years, he visited Turkey.—While at Smyrna, he was forcibly seized, taken on board an Austrian brig of war, then lying in the harbor of that place, and there confined in irons, with the avowed design to take him into the dominions of Austria. Our consul at Smyrna and legation at Constantinople interposed for his release, but their efforts were ineffectual.

While thus imprisoned, Commander Ingraham, with the United States sloop of war St. Louis, arrived at Smyrna, and, after inquiring into the circumstances of the case, came to the conclusion that Koszta was entitled to the protection of this government, and took energetic and prompt measures for his release. Under an arrangement between the agents of the United States and of Austria, he was transferred to the custody of the French consul-general, at Smyrna, there to remain until he should be disposed of by the mutual agreement of the consuls of the respective governments at that place. Pursuant, however, to that agreement, he has been released, and is now on his way to the United States. The Emperor of Austria has made the conduct of our officers who took part in this transaction a subject of grave complaint.—Regarding Koszta as still his subject, and claiming a right to seize him within the limits of the Turkish empire, he demanded of this government its consent to the surrender of the prisoner, a disavowal of the acts of its agents, and satisfaction for the alleged outrage.

After a careful consideration of the case, I came to the conclusion that Koszta was seized without legal authority at Smyrna; that he was wrongfully detained on board of the Austrian brig of war; that at the time of his seizure he was clothed with the nationality of the United States, and that the acts of our officers, under the circumstances of the case, were justifiable, and their conduct has been fully approved by me, and a compliance with the several demands of the Emperor of Austria has been declined.

For a more full account of this transaction and my views in regard to it, I refer to the correspondence between the Charge d'Affairs of Austria and the Secretary of State, which is herewith transmitted. The principles and policy therein maintained on the part of the United States, will, whenever a proper occasion occurs, be applied and enforced.

The condition of China at this time, renders it probable that some important changes will occur in that vast empire, which will lead to a more unrestricted intercourse with it. The commissioner to that country, who has been recently appointed, is instructed to avail himself of all occasions to open and extend our commercial relations, not only with the empire of China, but with other Asiatic nations.

In 1852 an expedition was sent to Japan, under command of Commodore Perry, for the purpose of opening commercial intercourse with that island. Intelligence has been received of his arrival there, and of his having made known to the Emperor of Japan the object of his visit; but it is not yet ascertained how far the Emperor will be disposed to abandon his restrictive policy, and open that populous country to a commercial intercourse with the United States.

It has been my earnest desire to maintain friendly intercourse with the goverments upon this continent, and to aid them in preserving a good understanding among themselves. With Mexico a dispute has arisen, as to the true boundary between our territory of New Mexico and the Mexican State of Chihuahua.

A former commissioner of the United States, employed in running that line pursuant to the treaty of Gandaloupe Hidalgo, made a serious mistake in determining the initial point on the Rio Grande; but instead of his decision was clearly a departure from the directions for tracing the boundary contained in that treaty, and was not concurred in by the surveyor on the part of the United States, whose concurrence was necessary to give validity to that decision, this government is not concluded thereby; but that of Mexico takes a different view of the subject.

There are also other questions of considerable magnitude pending between the two republics. Our minister in Mexico has ample instructions to adjust them. Negotiations have been opened, but sufficient progress has not been made to enable me to speak of the probable result. Impressed with the importance of maintaining amicable relations with that republic, and of yielding with liberality to all her just claims, it is reasonable to expect that an arrangement mutually satisfactory to both countries may be concluded, and a lasting friendship between them confirmed and perpetuated.

Congress having provided for a full mission to the States of Central America, a minister was sent thither in July last. As yet he has had time to visit only one of these states, Nicaragua, where he was received in the most friendly manner. It is hoped that his presence and good offices will have a benign effect in composing the dissensions which prevail among them, and in establishing still more intimate and friendly relations between them respectively, and between each of them and the United States.

Considering the vast regions of this continent, and the number of states which would be made accessible by the free navigation of the river Amazon, particular attention has been given to this subject. Brazil, through whose territories it passes into the ocean, has hitherto persisted in a policy so restrictive in regard to the use of this river, as to obstruct and nearly exclude foreign commercial intercourse with the states which lie upon its tributaries and upper branches.

Our minister to that country is instructed to obtain a relaxation of that policy, and to use his efforts to induce the Brazilian government to open to common use, under proper safeguards, this great natural highway for international trade. Several of the South American States are deeply interested in this attempt to secure the free navigation of the Amazon, and it is reasonable to expect their co-operation in the measure.

As the advantages of free commercial intercourse among nations are better understood, more liberal views are generally entertained as to the common rights of all to the free use of those means which nature has provided for international communication, and in these more liberal and enlightened views, it is hoped that Brazil will conform her policy, and remove all unnecessary restrictions upon the free use of a river, which traverses so many states and so large a part of the continent.

I am happy to inform you that the Republic of Paraguay and the Argentine Confederation have yielded to the liberal views still resisted by Brazil, in regard to the navigable rivers within their respective territories. Treaties embracing this subject among others have been negotiated with these governments, which will be submitted to the Senate at the present session.

A new branch of commerce, important to the agricultural interests of the United States, has, within a few years past, been opened with Peru.—Notwithstanding the inexhaustible deposits of guano upon the islands of that country, considerable difficulties are experienced in obtaining the requisite supply. Measures have been taken to remove these difficulties, and to secure a more abundant importation of the article.

Unfortunately there has been a serious collision between our citizens, who have resorted to the Chincha Islands for it, and the Peruvian authorities stationed there. Redress for the outrages committed by the latter was promptly demanded by our minister at Lima. This subject is now under consideration, and there is reason to believe that Peru is disposed to offer adequate indemnity to the aggrieved parties.

We are thus not only at peace with all foreign countries, but, in regard to political affairs, are exempt from any cause of serious disquietude in our domestic relations.

The controversies, which have agitated the country, heretofore, are passing away with the causes which produced them and the passions which they have awakened or, if any trace of them remains, it may be reasonably hoped that it will only be perceived in the zealous rivalry of all good citizens to testify their respect for the rights of the States, their devotion to the Union, and their common determination that each one of the States, its institutions, its welfare, and its domestic peace shall be held alike secure under the sacred ægis of the constitution.

The new league of amity and of mutual confidence and support, into which the people of the republic have entered, happily affords inducement and opportunity for the adoption of a more comprehensive and unembarassed line of policy and action, as to the great material interests of the country, whether regarded in themselves or in connexion with the powers of the civilized world.

The United States have continued gradually and steadily to expand, through acquisitions of territory, which, however much soever some of them may have been questioned, are now universally seen and admitted to have been wise in policy, just in character, and a great element in the advancement of our country, and, with it, of the human race, in freedom, in prosperity, and in happiness. The thirteen States have grown to be thirty-one, with relations reaching to Europe on the one side, and on the other to the distant realms of Asia.

I am deeply sensible of the immense responsibility which the present magnitude of the republic, and the diversity and multiplicity of its interests, devolves upon me; the alleviation of which, so far as relates to the immediate conduct of the public business, is, first, in my reliance on the wisdom and patriotism of the two Houses of Congress; and, secondly, in the directions afforded me by the principles of public policy, affirmed by our fathers of the epoch of 1798, sanctioned by long experience and consecrated anew by the overwhelming voice of the people of the United States.

Recurring to those principles, which constitute the organic basis of union, we perceive that, vast as are the functions and the duties of the federal government, vested in, or entrusted to, its three great departments, the legislative, executive and judicial, yet the substantive power, the popular and material developement, exist in the respective States, which, all being of themselves well constituted republics, as they preceded, so they alone are capable of maintaining and perpetuating, the American Union. The federal government has its appropriate line of action in the specific and limited powers conferred on it by the constitution, chiefly as to those things in which the States have a common interest in their relations to one another, and to foreign governments; while the great mass of interests which belong to cultivated men, the ordinary business of life, the springs of industry, all the diversified personal and domestic affairs of society, rest securely upon the general reserved powers of the people of the several States. There is the effective democracy of the nation, and there the vital essence of its being and its greatness.

Of the practical consequences which flow from the nature of the federal government, the primary one is the duty of administering with integrity the high trust reposed in it by the constitution, especially in the application of the public funds, as drawn by taxation from the people, and appropriated to specific objects by Congress. Happily I have no occasion to suggest any radical changes in the financial policy of the government.

Ours is almost, if not absolutely, the solitary power of Christendom having a surplus revenue, drawn immediately from imposts on commerce, and therefore measured by the spontaneous enterprise and national prosperity of the country, with such indirect relation to agriculture, manufactures and the products of the earth and sea, as to violate no constitutional doctrine, and yet vigorously promote the general welfare.

Neither as to the sources of the public treasure, nor as to the manner of keeping and managing it, does any grave controversy now prevail, there being a general acquiescence in the wisdom of the present system.

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury will exhibit, in detail, the state of the public finances, and the condition of the various branches of the public service administered by that department of the government.

The revenue of the country, levied almost insensibly to the tax-payer, goes on from year to year increasing beyond either the interests or the prospective wants of the government.

At the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1852, there remained in the treasury a balance of fourteen million six hundred and thirty-two thousand one hundred and thirty-six dollars. The public revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1853, amounted to fifty-eight million nine hundred and thirty-one thousand eight hundred and sixty five dollars from customs, and two million four hundred and five thousand seven hundred and eight dollars from public lands and other miscellaneous sources, amounting together to sixty-one million three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred and seventy-four dollars, while the public expenditure for the same period, exclusive of payments on account of the public debt, amounted to forty-three million five hundred and fifty-four thousand two hundred and sixty-two dollars; leaving a balance of thirty-two million four hundred and twenty-five thousand four hundred and forty-seven dollars of receipts above expenditures.

This fact of increasing surplus in the treasury, became the subject of anxious consideration at a very early period of my administration, and the path of duty in regard to it seemed to me obvious and clear, namely: first, to apply the surplus revenue to the discharge of the public debt, so far as it could be judiciously done; and secondly to devise means for the gradual reduction of the revenue to the standard of the public exigencies.

Of these objects, the first has been in the course of accomplishment, in a manner and to a degree highly satisfactory. The amount of the public debt of all classes, was, on the 4th of March, 1853, sixty-nine million one hundred and ninety thousand and thirty-seven dollars; payments on account of which have been made, since that period, to the amount of twelve million seven hundred and three thousand three hundred and twenty-nine dollars, leaving unpaid, and in the continuous course of liquidation, the sum of fifty-six million four hundred and eighty-six thousand seven hundred and eight dollars.

You will find in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, also, abundant proof of the entire adequacy of the present fiscal system to meet all the requirements of the public service, and that, while properly administered, it operates to the advantage of the community in ordinary business transactions.

I respectfully ask your attention to sundry suggestions of improvements in the settlement of accounts, especially as regards the large sums of outstanding arrears due to the government, and of other reforms in the administrative action of his department, which are indicated by the Secretary; as also to the progress made in the construction of marine hospitals, custom houses, and of a new mint in California and assay office in the city of New York, heretofore provided for by Congress; and also to the eminently successful progress of the Coast Survey and of the Light House Board.

Among the objects meriting your attention will be important recommendations from the Secretaries of War and Navy. I am fully satisfied that the navy of the United States is not in a state of strength and efficiency commensurate with the magnitude of our commercial and other interests; and commend to your special attention the suggestions on this subject made by the Secretary of the Navy.—I respectfully submit that the army, which, under our system, must always be regarded with the highest interest, as a nucleus around which the volunteer forces of the nation gather in the hour of danger, requires augmentation or modification, to adapt it to the present extended limits and frontier relations of the country, and the condition of the Indian tribes in the interior of the continent; the necessity of which will appear in the communications of the Secretaries of War and the Interior.

In the administration of the post office department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1853, the gross expenditure was seven million nine hundred and eighty two thousand seven hundred and fifty-six dollars; and the gross receipts during the same period five million nine hundred forty two thousand seven hundred thirty four dollars; showing that the current revenue failed to meet the current expenses of the department by the sum of two million forty two thousand and thirty two dollars. The causes which, under the present postal system and laws, led inevitably to this result, are fully explained by the report of the Postmaster General; one great cause being the enormous rates the department has been compelled to pay for mail services rendered by railroad companies.

The exhibit of the report of the Postmaster General of the income and expenditures by mail steamers, will be found peculiarly interesting, and of a character to demand the immediate action of Congress.

From the nature of these claims, the remoteness of the tribunals to pass upon them, and the mode in which the proof is of necessity furnished, temptations to crime have been greatly stimulated by the obvious difficulties of detection. The defects of the law upon this subject are so apparent and so fatal to the ends of justice, that your early action relating to it is most desirable.

During the last fiscal year nine million eight hundred and nineteen thousand four hundred and eleven acres of the public lands have been surveyed, and ten million three hundred and sixty three thousand eight hundred and ninety one acres brought into market.

Within the same period, the sales by public purchase and private entry amounted to one million eighty three thousand four hundred and ninety five acres; located under military bounty land warrants, six million one hundred and forty two thousand three hundred and sixty acres; located under other certificates, nine thousand four hundred and twenty seven acres; ceded to the states as swamp land, sixteen million six hundred and eighty four thousand two hundred and fifty three acres; selected for railroads and other objects, under acts of congress, one million four hundred and twenty seven thousand four hundred and fifty seven acres.

Total amount of lands disposed of within the fiscal year, twenty five million three hundred and forty six thousand nine hundred and ninety two acres; which is an increase in quantity sold, and located under land warrants and grants, of twelve million two hundred and thirty one thousand eight hundred eighteen acres over the fiscal year immediately preceding.

It is believed that experience has verified the wisdom and justice of the present system with regard to the public domain, in most essential particulars.

You will perceive, from the report of the Secretary of the Interior, that opinions which have often been expressed in relation to the operation of the land system as not being a source of revenue to the federal treasury were erroneous. The net profits from the sale of public lands to June 30 1853 amounted to the sum of fifty three million two hundred and sixty acres; making a total of twenty-five millions three hundred eighty nine thousand four hundred and sixty five dollars.

The quantity of land sold during the second and third quarters of 1852, was three hundred and thirty four thousand four hundred and fifty one acres. The amount received, therefore, was six hundred and twenty three thousand six hundred and eighty seven dollars.

Warrants have been issued to 30th September last, under the act of 11th February 1847, calling for twelve million eight hundred and seventy nine thousand two hundred and eighty acres; under acts of September 28, 1850, and March 22, 1852, calling for twelve million five hundred and five thousand three hundred and eighty four thousand six hundred and forty acres.

The whole number of land warrants issued under existing laws, prior to the 30th of September last, was two hundred and sixty-six thousand and forty-two; of which there were outstanding, at that date, sixty-six thousand nine hundred forty-seven. The quantity of land required to satisfy these outstanding warrants, is four million seven-hundred and seventy-eight thousand one hundred and twenty acres.

I recommend the extension of the land system over the territories of Utah and New Mexico, with such modifications as their peculiar laws may require.

Regarding our public domain as chiefly valuable to provide homes for the industrious and enterprising, I am not prepared to recommend any essential change in the land system, except by modifications in favor of the actual settler, and an extension of the pre-emption principle in certain cases, for reasons, and on grounds which will be fully developed in the reports to be laid before you.

I have omitted to ask your favorable consideration for the estimates of works of a local character in twenty seven of the thirty-one States, amounting to one million seven hundred and fifty-four thousand five hundred dollars, because, independently of the grounds which have so often been urged against the application of the federal revenue for works of this character, inequality with the consequent injustice is inherent in the nature of the proposition, and because the plan has proved entirely inadequate to the accomplishment of the objects sought.

The subject of internal improvements, claiming alike the interest and good will of all, has, nevertheless, been the basis of much political discussion, and has stood as a deep graven line of division between statesmen of eminent ability and patriotism. The rule of strict construction of all powers delegated by the States to the general government has arrayed itself, from time to time, against the rapid progress of expenditures from the national treasury on works of a local character within the States.

Memorable as an epoch in the history of this subject, is the message of President Jackson, of the 27th of May, 1830, which met the system of internal improvements in its comparative infancy; but so rapid had been its growth, that the projected appropriations in that year for works of this character had risen to the alarming amount of more than one hundred millions of dollars.

In that message the President admitted the difficulty of bringing back the operations of the government to the construction of the constitution set up in 1798, and marked it as an admonitory proof of the necessity of guarding that instrument with sleepless vigilance against the authority of precedents, which had not the sanction of its most plainly defined powers.

Our government exits under a written compact between sovereign States, uniting for specific objects, and with specific grants, to their general agent. If then, in the progress of its administration, there have been departures from the terms and intents of the compact, it is, and will ever be, proper to refer back to the fixed standard which our fathers left us, and to make a stern effort to conform our action to it.

It would seem that the fact of a principle having been resisted from the first by many of the wisest and most patriotic men of the republic, and a policy having provoked constant strife, without arriving at a conclusion which can be regarded as satisfactory to the most earnest advocates, should suggest the inquiry whether there may not be a plan likely to be crowned by happier results.

Without perceiving any sound distinction, or intending to assert any principle as opposed to improvements needed for the protection of internal commerce, which does not equally apply to improvements on the seaboard for the protection of foreign commerce, I submit to you, whether it may not be safely anticipated that, if the policy were once settled against appropriations by the general government for local improvements for the benefit of commerce, localities requiring expenditures would not, by modes and means clearly legitimate and proper, raise the funds necessary for such constructions as the safety or other interests of their commerce might require.

If that be regarded as a system, which, in the experience of more than thirty years, has at no time so commanded the public judgment as to give it the character of a settled policy—which, though it has produced some works of conceded importance, has been attended with an expenditure quite disproportionate to its value,—and has resulted in squandering large sums upon objects which have answered no valuable purpose,—the interest of all the States require it to be abandoned, unless hopes may be indulged for the future which find no warrant in their past.

With an anxious desire for the completion of the works which are regarded by all good citizens with sincere interest, I have deemed it my duty to ask at your hands a deliberate reconsideration of the question, with a hope, that animated by a desire to promote the permanent and substantial interests of the country, your wisdom may prove equal to the task of devising and maturing a plan which, applied to this subject, may promise something better than constant strife, the suspension of the powers of local enterprise, the exciting of vain hopes, and the disappointment of cherished expectations.

In extending the appropriations made by the last Congress, several cases have arisen in relation to works for the improvement of harbors, which involve questions as to the right of soil and jurisdiction, and have threatened conflict between the authority of the State and the general governments. The right to construct a breakwater, jetty or dam, would seem, necessarily, to carry with it the power to protect and preserve such construction.

This can only be effectually done by having jurisdiction over the soil. But no clause of the constitution is found, on which to rest the claim of the United States to exercise jurisdiction over the soil of a State, except that conferred by the eighth section of the first article of the constitution. It is, then, submitted, whether, in all cases where constructions are to be erected by the general government, the right of soil should not be first obtained, and legislative provision be made to meet all such cases.

For the progress made in the construction of roads within the territories, as provided for in the appropriations of the last congress, I refer you to the report of the secretary of War.

There is one subject of a domestic nature, which from its intrinsic importance and the many interesting questions of future policy which it involves, cannot fail to receive your early attention. I allude to the means of communication, by which different parts of the wide expanse of our country are to be placed in closer connection for purposes both of defence and commercial intercourse, and more especially such as appertain to the communication of those great divisions of the Union, which lie on the opposite sides of the Rocky Mountains.

That the government has not been unmindful of this heretofore, is apparent from the aid it has afforded through appropriations for mail facilities and other purposes. But the general subject will now present itself under aspects more imposing and more purely national, by reason of the surveys ordered by Congress, and now in the process of completion, for communication by railway across the continent, and wholly within the limits of the United States.

The power to declare war, to raise and support armies, to provide and maintain a navy, and to call forth the militia to execute the laws, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions, was conferred upon Congress, as means to provide for the common defence, and to protect a territory and a population widespread and vastly multiplied. As incidental and indispensable for the exercise of this power, it must sometimes be necessary to construct military roads and protect harbors of refuge.

These necessary links, the enterprise and energy of our people are steadily and boldly struggling to supply. All experience affirms that, wherever private enterprise will avail, it is most wise for the general government to leave to that and individual watchfulness the location and execution of all means of communication.

To appropriations by Congress for such objects, no sound objection can be raised. Happily for our country, its peaceful policy and rapidly increasing population impose upon us no urgent necessity for preparation, and leave but few trackless deserts between assailable points and a patriotic people ever ready and generally able to protect them.

The means and time being both limited, it is not to be expected that all the accurate knowledge desired will be obtained, but it is hoped that much and important information will be added to the stock previously possessed, and that partial, if not full reports of the surveys ordered will be received in time for transmission to the two houses of Congress, on or before the first Monday in February next, as required by the act of appropriation.

The surveys before alluded to were designed to ascertain the most practicable and economical route for a railroad from the river Mississippi to the Pacific ocean. Parties are now in the field making explorations, where previous examinations had not supplied sufficient data, and where there was the best reason to hope the object sought might be found.

The magnitude of the enterprise contemplated has aroused, and will doubtless continue to excite a very general interest throughout the country. In its political, its commercial, and its military bearings, it has varied, great, and increasing claims to consideration. The heavy expense, the great delay, and at times, fatality attending travel by either of the isthmus routes, have demonstrated the advantage which would result from interterritorial communication by such safe and rapid means as a railroad would supply.

These difficulties, which have been encountered in a period of peace, would be magnified and still further increased in time of war. But whilst the embarrassments already encountered, and others under new contingencies to be anticipated, may serve strikingly to exhibit the importance of such a work, neither these, nor all considerations combined, can have an appreciable value, when weighed against the obligation strictly to adhere to the constitution, and faithfully to execute the powers it confers.

Within this limit and to the extent of the interest of the government involved, it would seem both expedient and proper, if an economical and practicable route shall be found, to aid, by all constitutional means, in the construction of a road, which will unite, by speedy transit, the populations of the Pacific and Atlantic States.

To guard against misconception, it should be remarked that, although the power to construct, or aid in the construction of, a road within the limits of a territory is not embarrassed by that question of jurisdiction which would arise within the limits of a State, it is nevertheless held to be of doubtful power, and more than doubtful propriety, even within the limits of a territory, for the general government to undertake to administer the affairs of a railroad, a canal, or other similar construction, and therefore that its connection with a work of this character should be incidental rather than primary.

I will only add, at present, that, fully appreciating the magnitude of the subject, and solicitous that the Atlantic and Pacific shores of the republic may be bound together by inseparable ties of common interest, as well as of common fealty and attachment to the Union, I shall be disposed, so far as my own action is concerned, to follow the lights of the constitution, as expounded and illustrated by those, whose opinions and expositions constitute the standard of my political faith in regard to the powers of the federal government. It is, I trust, not necessary to say, that no grandeur of enterprise, and no present urgent inducement promising popular favor, will lead me to disregard these lights, or to depart from that path which experience has proved to be safe, and which is now radiant with the glow of prosperity and legitimate constitutional progress. We can afford to wait, but we cannot afford to overlook the ark of our security.

It is no part of my purpose to give prominence to any subject, which may properly be regarded as set at rest by the deliberate judgment of the people. But while the present is bright with promise, and the future full of demand and inducement for the exercise of active intelligence, the past can never be without useful lessons of admonition and instruction. If its dangers serve not as beacons, they will evidently fail to fulfil the object of their wise design.

When the grave shall have closed over all, who are now endeavoring to meet the obligations of duty, the year 1850 will be recurred to as a period filled with anxious apprehension. A successful war had just terminated Peace brought with it a vast augmentation of territory. Disturbing questions arose, bearing upon the domestic institutions of one portion of the confederacy, and involving the constitutional rights of the States.

But, notwithstanding differences of opinion and sentiment, which then existed in relation to details and specific provisions, the acquiescence of distinguished citizens whose devotion to the union can never be doubted, has given renewed vigor to our institutions, and restored a sense of repose and security to the public mind throughout the confederacy.—That this repose is to suffer no shock during my official term, if I have power to avert it, those who placed me here may be assured.

The wisdom of men, who knew what independence cost,—who had put all at stake upon the issue of the revolutionary struggle,—disposed of the subject to which I refer, in the only way consistent with the union of these States, and with the march of power and prosperity which has made us what we are.

It is a significant fact, that from the adoption of the constitution until the officers and soldiers of the revolution had passed to their graves, or, through the infirmities of age and wounds, had ceased to participate actively in public affairs, there was not merely a quiet acquiescence in, but a prompt vindication of the constitutional rights of the States.

The reserved powers were scrupulously respected. No statesman put forth the narrow views of casuists to justify interference and agitation, but the spirit of the compact was regarded as sacred in the eye of honor, and indispensible for the great experiment of civil liberty, which, environed by inherent difficulties, was yet borne forward in apparent weakness by a power superior to all obstacles.

There is no condemnation, which the voice of freedom will not pronounce upon us, should we prove faithless to this great trust.

While men inhabiting different parts of this vast continent can no more be expected to hold the same opinions, or entertain the same sentiments, than every variety of climate or soil can be expected to furnish the same agricultural products, they can unite in a common object and sustain common principles essential to the maintenance of that object.

The gallant men of the south and the north could stand together during the struggle of the Revolution; they could stand together in the more trying period which succeeded the clangor of arms.

As their united valor was adequate to all the trials of the camp and dangers of the field, so their united wisdom proved equal to the greater task of founding, upon a deep and broad basis, institutions, which it has been our privilege to enjoy, and will ever be our most sacred duty to sustain.

The growth of our population has now brought us, in the destined career of our national history, to a point at which it well behoves us to expand our vision over the vast prospective.

The successive decennial returns of the census since the adoption of the constitution have revealed a law of steady progressive development, which may be stated, in general terms, as a duplication every quarter-century.

Carried forward, from the point already reached, for only a short period of time as applicable to the existence of a nation, this law of progress, if unchecked, will bring us to almost incredible results.

A large allowance for a diminished proportional effect of emigration would not very materially reduce the estimate, while the increased average duration of human life, known to have already resulted from the scientific and hygienic improvements of the past fifty years, will tend to keep up through the next fifty or perhaps half a hundred years the same rapid growth, which has been thus revealed in our past progress; and to the influence of those causes may be added the influx of laboring masses from Eastern Asia to the Pacific side of our possessions, together with the probable accession of the population already existing in other parts of our hemesphere, which, within the period in question, will feel, with yearly increasing force, the natural attraction of so vast, powerful and prosperous a confederation, of self-governing republics, and will seek the privilege of being admitted within its safe and happy bosom, transferring with themselves, by a peaceful and healthy process of incorporation, spacious regions of virgin and exuberant soil, which are destined to swarm with vast-growing and vast-spreading millions of our race.

These considerations seem fully to justify the presumption, that the law of population above stated will continue to exhibit an undiminished effect, through at least the next half century; and that thousands of persons who have already arrived at maturity, and are now exercising the rights of freemen, will close their eyes on the spectacle of more than one hundred millions of population embraced within the majestic proportions of the American Union. It is not merely as an interesting topic of speculation, that I present these views for your consideration. They have important practical bearings upon the political duties we are called upon to perform. Heretofore, our system of government has worked on what may be termed a miniature scale, in comparison with its development, which it must thus assume, with a future so near at hand, as scarcely to be beyond the present of the existing generation.

It is evident that a confederation so vast and so varied both in numbers and in territorial extent, in habits and in interests, could only be kept in national cohesion by the strictest fidelity to the Constitution as understood by those who have adhered to the most restricted construction of the powers granted by the people and the States. Interpreted and applied according to those principles, the great compact adapts itself with healthy ease and freedom to an unlimited extension of that benign system of federative self-government of which it is our glorious, and, I trust, immortal charter. Let us then, with unrelaxed vigilance, be on our guard against yielding to the temptation of the exercise of doubtful powers, even under the pressure of the motives of conceded temporary advantage and apparent temporary expediency.

The minimum of federal government compatible with the maintenance of national unity and efficient action in our relations with the rest of the world should afford the rule and measure of construction of our powers under the general clauses of the constitution. A spirit of strict deference to the sovereign rights and dignity of every State, rather than a disposition to subordinate the States into a provincial relation to the central authority, should characterise all our exercise of the respective powers temporarily vested in us as a sacred trust from the generous confidence of our constituents.

In still another point of view, is an important practical duty suggested by the consideration of the magnitude of dimensions, to which our political system with its corresponding machinery of government, to cultivate the cardinal virtues of public frugality and official integrity and purity. Public affairs conducted so that a settled conviction shall pervade the entire Union, that nothing short of the highest tone and standard of public morality marks every part of the administration and legislation of the general government. Thus will the federal system, whatever expansion time and progress may give it, continue more and more deeply rooted in the love and confidence of the people.

That wise economy, which is as far removed from parsimony as from corrupt and corrupting extravagance, that single regard for the public good, which will frown upon all attempts to approach the treasury with insidious projects of private interest cloaked under public pretexts,—that sound fiscal administration, which, in the legislative department, guards against the dangerous temptations incident to overfulness, against the tendency of all national expenditure to extravagance,—while they are admitted elementary political duties, may, by more impressive sense of that necessity, which is directly suggested by the considerations now presented.

Congress, representing the proprietors of the territorial domain, and charged especially with power to dispose of territory belonging to the U. States, has for a long course of years, beginning with the administration of Mr. Jefferson, exercised the power to construct roads within the territories: and there are so many and obvious distinctions between this exercise of power and that of making roads within the States, that the former has never been considered subject to such objections as apply to the latter, and such may now be considered the settled construction of the power of the federal government upon the subject.

Numerous applications have been, and no doubt will continue to be, made for grants of land in aid of the construction of railways. It is not believed to be within the intent and meaning of the constitution, that the power to dispose of the public domain should be used otherwise than might be expected from a prudent proprietor, and therefore that grants of lands to aid in the construction of roads should be restricted to cases where it would be for the interest of a proprietor, under like circumstances, thus to contribute to the construction of these works.

For the practical operation of such grants thus far, in advancing the interests of the States in which the works are located, and at the same time the substantial interests of all the other States, by enhancing the value and promoting the rapid sale of the public domain, I refer you to the report of the Secretary of the Interior.

A careful examination, however, will show that this experience is the result of a just discrimination, and will be far from affording encouragement to a reckless or indiscriminate extension of the principle.

I commend to your favorable consideration the men of genius of our country, who by their inventions and discoveries in science and art, have contributed largely to the improvements of the age, without, in many instances, securing for themselves anything like an adequate compensation.—For many interesting details upon this subject, I refer you to the appropriate reports, and especially urge upon your attention the apparently slight but really-important modifications of existing laws therein suggested.

The liberal spirit which has so long marked the action of Congress in relation to the District of Columbia, will, I have no doubt, continue to be manifested.

The erection of an asylum for the insane of the District of Columbia, and of the army and navy of the United States, has been somewhat retarded, by the great demand for materials and labor during the past summer: but full preparation for the reception of patients before the return of another winter is anticipated, and there is the best reason to believe, from the plan and contemplated arrangements which have been devised, with the large experience furnished within the last few years in relation to the nature and treatment of the disease, that it will prove an asylum indeed to this most helpless and afflicted class of sufferers, and stand as a noble monument of wisdom and mercy.

Under the acts of Congress of Aug. 31. 1852, and of March 3, 1853, designed to secure for the cities of Washington and Georgetown an abundant supply of good and wholesome water, it became my duty to examine the report and plans of the engineer who had charge of the surveys under the act first-named. The best, if not the only plan, calculated to secure permanently the object sought, was that which contemplates taking the water from the Great Falls of the Potomac, and, consequently, I gave it my approval.

For the progress and present condition of this important work, and for its demands, so far as appropriations are concerned, I refer you to the report of the Secretary of War.

The present judicial system of the United States has now been in operation for so long a period of time, and has, in its general theory and much of its details, become so familiar to the country, and acquired so entirely the public confidence, that if modified in any respect, it should only be in those particulars which may adapt it to the increased extent, population, and legal business of the U. S.

In this relation, the organization of the courts is we confessedly inadequate to the duties to be performed by them: in consequence of which, the States of Florida, Wisconsin, Iowa, Texas, and California, and districts of other States, are in effect excluded from the full benefits of the general system, by the functions of the circuit-court being devolved on the district judges in all those States or parts of States.

The spirit of the constitution and a due regard to justice require that all the States of the Union should be placed on the same footing in regard to the judicial tribunals. I therefore commend to your consideration this important subject, which, in my judgment, demands the speedy action of Congress. I will present to you, if deemed desirable, a plan, which I am prepared to recommend, for the enlargement and modification of the present judicial system.

The Act of Congress establishing the Smithsonian Institution provided that the President of the United States, the other persons therein designated, should constitute an "establishment" by that name, and that the members should hold stated and special meetings for the supervision of the affairs of the Institution.

Since the adjournment of Congress, the Vice President of the United States has passed from the scenes of earth, without having entered upon the duties of the station to which he had been called by the voice of his country men. Having occupied, almost continuously, for more than thirty years, a seat in one or the other of the two Houses of Congress, and having, by his singular purity and wisdom, secured unbounded confidence and universal respect, his failing health was watched by the nation with painful solicitude.—His loss to the country, under all the circumstances, has been justly regarded as irreparable.

In compliance with the act of Congress of March 2, 1853, the tomb of other was administered to him on the 24th of that month, at Adriadne Estata, near Matanzas, in the island of Cuba; but his strength gradually declined, and was hardly sufficient to enable him to return to his home in Alabama, where on the 18th day of April, in the most calm and peaceful way, his long and eminently useful career was terminated.

I have thus briefly presented such suggestions as seem to me especially worthy your consideration. In providing for the present, you can hardly fail to avail yourselves of the light, which the experience of the past cast upon the future.

Entertaining unlimited confidence in your intelligent and patriotic devotion to the public interest, and being conscious of no motives on my part which are not inseparable from the honor and advancement of my country, I hope it may be my privilege to deserve and secure, not only your cordial co-operation in great public measures, but also those relations of mutual confidence and regard, which it is always so desirable to cultivate between members of co-ordinate branches of the government.

3 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE EUROPA.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.

The Europa has experienced heavy weather during her passage. She brings 48 passengers.

Large transactions had occurred in American securities.

Reports from the Seat of War are contradictory. Reports are current of a Turkish and a Russian defeat, which are about equally balanced so far as regards reliability; but there is no possibility of ascertaining the truth. It seems most probable that no decisive action has been fought since the last advices.

The Turkish detachment at Oltenitza had destroyed the works of defence there and retired back across the Danube.

Nothing more recent has been received from the principalities, but all the previous successes of the Turks in Europe and Asia are confirmed.

The Sultan officially announces that he will himself take the field at the head of the army in the Spring.

A new note is said to have been proposed by the European powers, but neither the Czar nor Sultan will listen to it.

The course that Great Britain will take on the subject is kept secret.

Direct French correspondence says that Napoleon is amassing troops between Strasburg and Marseilles, so that he can send off in less than five days, if necessary, one hundred thousand men for foreign service.

Latest.—The Turks have re-crossed the Danube everywhere except at Kalafat, which they still hold. They crossed without giving battle, with the view to concentrate their forces.

Still Later and Important.—The Turks have again re-crossed the Danube, and are said to have attacked Braila and Golatz.

[We suppose this latest despatch to mean, that after re-crossing the Danube to concentrate, they have again crossed to the Principalities, and attacked the places above stated.]

France has formally announced to Austria that if she gives refuge to the armed Russians retreating from the Turks, France will regard it as a declaration of war.

Commercial Intelligence.—Liverpool, Nov. 18.—Breadstuffs—Wheat and Flour were in fair demand during the week. Wheat at former quotations to one penny dearer. Flour at 6d a 1s dearer. Indian Corn maintained its price without animation.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does so can find a dozen ready to pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant.

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Blended by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book find that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1853, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidence of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration, and restore the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

N. B.—BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS, and observe the following Promissory Note, with the fac simile signature of the proprietor, on every genuine box:

BY MILLERS & GRAY. PORTSMOUTH, N. H., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1853. VOLUME 3. NO. 111.

THE DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE

FRANK W. MILLER, SAMUEL GRAY, & THOS. W. MILLER,
At No. 4 Exchange Buildings,
Pleasant Street,.....PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

TERMS $4 a year, or $3 if paid strictly in advance.

The Weekly Chronicle,

A family newspaper, containing the news of the week, with carefully selected miscellany, &c., is published every Saturday morning—at $1 a year in advance.

ADVERTISING.—For a Square of sixteen lines nonpareil, or less, one insertion 50 cts., three insertions $1, and liberal terms for continuance.

Yearly, quarterly or monthly advertisers liberally accommodated—and their advertisements inserted in both papers without extra charge, thus affording unequalled facilities to business men.

☞ All accounts settled semi-annually.

JOB AND CARD PRINTING promptly executed.

THE PENOBSCOT.—The ice went down on Friday, and the breaking up was assisted by the soft weather of Friday and Saturday. Under the head of "Navigation Clear," the Bangor Whig of Saturday says:—

At noon a brig was hurriedly launched from the ship-yard of Isaac Dunning, Esq., and joined the fleet of vessels that spread their sails yesterday for down river. This opening of the river by its own force at this season of the year is a marked event, and has probably saved our city from an overflow next spring, and is, on that account, as well as on that of allowing the shipping to escape, a matter of rejoicing and thankfulness. There were several cases of hair-breadth escapes on the starting of the ice, but we believe no serious accident occurred except to one man, an Irishman, who was drowned.

The Whig of Monday adds:—

The clearing out of the ice that obstructed the navigation of our river, and the escape of the steamers and the shipping, have been a matter of rejoicing, and in their various incidents have occasioned much remark. All parties meant to act honorably and generously, and a subscription paper, signed by the owners and masters of the shipping, agreed to pay between two and three thousand dollars to defray the expense of cutting and breaking open the channel, in which business there was expended about one thousand dollars, when, under the combined influence of the cutting and breaking, the high tides, the strong current and the accumulated head of water, the ice gave way and rushed down river, greatly to the saving of money and much to the joy of all interested.

REFORMERS AND CHRISTIANS.—The editor of the Newburyport Union, in noticing the receipt of an engraving of Elder D. P. Pike of that city, says he is "a brave, true-hearted reformer, that does honor to himself and his calling by striving to better the condition of men in this life, that they may be prepared for the life which is to come. That is beginning the right end of the matter. He is sure of what he gets, as he goes; and if it should prove that the world is a different affair from what some preach, life will not be thrown away, as in that case it would be, if he only talked of eternity."

The Union also mentions the receipt of the pictures of several others of their resident clergymen, and says "we shall be glad if the collection soon includes the other clergymen of the town. Upon the wall they would look like the happy family, and represent a future day of unity, for which even the clergy are not yet prepared."

Slave property in Missouri is said by the St. Louis Republican, to be in a very insecure condition, and in the counties where this description of property is mostly held, a general alarm prevails. Slaves escape in gangs across the Mississippi continually. In Marion county a public meeting has been held—a society formed to prevent the escape of slaves, and a system of patrols adopted. A complete description of all the slaves held by members of the association is required of them. Another meeting of the same kind has been held in Howard county, at which it was resolved to expel all free blacks from the county, and to have patrols, &c.

THE TRAGEDY ENDED.—Some days since we published an account of a woman residing in South Boston, who was urged to join the Catholic Church by her husband, but cut her throat at the time appointed for her baptism. Her wounds did not prove fatal, and the woman went to Hopkinton on a visit. She had fully recovered her strength, and was thought to be rational, when she again took a razor and inflicted so serious a wound as to cause her death. Her name was Maloney, and she leaves several small children.

This poor woman died a victim to an honest but pitiable fanaticism, which is quite too common.

A BENEFACTOR.—Died in Newburyport, Nov. 23, Mrs. Mary Greenleaf, in the 85th year of her age. Religion, Education and Humanity have here lost a true friend. She had the disposal of the income of a large property, and reserving for herself only the means of a frugal living, the remainder was cheerfully bestowed for charitable purposes.—Each of the great benevolent societies sustained by evangelical christians in New England, received from her annually a generous donation, and severally of them were kindly remembered in her bequests. Her hand was ever open for the most liberal and extensive private charities.

They have a pig in Ohio so thoroughly educated that he has taken to music. They regulate him by twisting his tail—the greater the twist, the higher the notes.

HAVANA.—A great excitement was created at Havana a few days prior to the arrival of the Black Warrior, caused by a most brutal murder perpetrated by an actor belonging to the company performing at the "Tacon Theatre," upon his wife, Signora Matilda Domenguez, who was attached to the same company, and Prima Donna of the Spanish Opera. With a poniard he inflicted thirty-two wounds, (causing almost instant death,) upon his victim; he then stabbed himself eleven times, but not fatally. In his wounded state he was taken to prison and placed under a strong guard. Sentence of death has already been pronounced upon him, and as soon as he has sufficiently recovered, he will be garroted. The cause assigned for the murder is said to be jealousy, and the refusal of his wife to furnish him with money.—N. Y. Journal Commerce.

THE METHODIST CHURCH CONTROVERSY SETTLED.—The complete and satisfactory settlement of the late bitter and protracted protracted controversy, as to the division of the Methodist Church property between the northern and southern sections of that denomination has been officially announced. The precise terms of settlement will not be made public until after the withdrawal, by consent, from the law courts of the suits therein pending; but it is understood that the property is to be equally divided between the North and South. It is also intimated by parties professing to be well informed on the subject, that there is a good prospect now of a complete reunion of the Methodist churches.

REPORT OF THE LOSS OF BARK HYPERION OF BOSTON CONFIRMED.—Capt. Read, of the brig Crocus, which arrived at Cardenas Nov. 9th, from Boston, reports having picked up at sea (no date given) five seamen, in an open boat, the only survivors of bark Hyperion of Boston, Capt. Perkins, from New York for Jamaica, which vessel foundered at sea the night previous to the Crocus falling in with them. The seamen picked up are the same that arrived at Havana and reported the loss of the bark as before stated.

BOSTON BOOT AND SHOE MARKET, Dec. 3. The Boot and Shoe trade has continued rather quiet during the week. A few Western and Southern buyers have already made their appearance, but have made no purchases as yet. Manufacturers are busily at work on goods adapted to the Spring trade, and as the cost is much higher than in previous years, the market is expected to open at very full prices. There is some inquiry for suitable kinds for California trade. Among the exports of the week we notice 1750 cases from this port, and 462 cases from New York to San Francisco.—Shipping List.

CAUGHT.—Squires, the depot robber, whose escape from the Concord, N. H. State Prison we recorded last week, was re-arrested at his residence in Concord on Saturday. It seems that after making his escape, he left his clothes upon the bank of the river, in order, probably, to give the impression that he had committed suicide, and then fled into the woods, where he stayed for two days, and supposing that search for him at his own residence was over with, returned to it. When recaptured it was found that his feet were so badly frozen that it is feared that they will have to be amputated.

Clergymen, public speakers and singers will find them a very valuable remedy. Sold only by W. R. PRESTON, Apothecary. Many clergymen have used them, and will attest to their efficacy. 1mn14

GROWLS OVER THE MESSAGE.

The press is boiling over with indignation, all round the pot. Some papers complain with good reason because they did not get it, as it was advertised they should; others because a rival paper was favored with it in advance, by some fraud or collusion, trick or theft.

To be more particular, No Messages were received, as they ought to have been, in Lowell, Portland or this city. The Lowell Courier says:

"The Government Messenger, whose duty it was to deliver copies of the Message, in advance, to the Post Masters of the principal cities, has failed to do his duty. No Messages have been furnished the Lowell Postmaster. The Messenger was in Boston last week."

Can somebody give us his name, and let us recommend and respect him accordingly?

The Portland Advertiser says:

Portland is too far east, or is not yet big enough to receive the usual executive favors. We are unable to indulge in any comment on the Message. We are sorry to see that President Pierce is more forgetful of the cities of his native New England, as the Argus admits, than Mr. Fillmore.

The Boston Post—to the exclusion of all other establishments in the city—was in possession of a President's message for several days; and yesterday, at the moment the signal was given directing the postmaster to deliver the copies intended for the press, the Post issued an extra which contained the document in full. This enterprise on the part of our Water street neighbor quite frustrated the plans of the "Traveller" and "Journal." The proprietors of these papers employed some eighty printers each, with a view of issuing the message to the public in an hour after its receipt at their respective establishments, but the Post anticipated them. The President does well, even in this small way, to reward the few newspapers that are willing to sustain and endorse his Abolition appointments. This is the first instance upon record in which the President of the United States has furnished to a partizan editor a copy of his message to the exclusion of other presses.

We should have been very glad if the eighty printers who set up the message for the Traveller, had been favored with a foreman who knew how to use a piece of chalk. For want of such an officer, that office sent out the greatest piece of botchcraft we have ever seen in any document set up from printed copy. It appears as if each man of the eighty had emptied his stick or galley into the form at random, without regard to connexion; to say nothing of about two squares being printed twice, and double that quantity omitted entirely. It was a puzzler for the brain, to arrange it into something like readable order.

The "Underground Railroad."—The Rochester Democrat says that the underground line has more than quadrupled its business since the passage of the fugitive slave act, and that passengers by it seldom fail to reach their destination. The line is said to be wholly managed by negroes, and chiefly by fugitives. A recent number of the Voice of the Fugitive, published in Canada, notices the safe arrival in that province of six fugitives in one lot, formerly belonging to the Rev. Mr. Jackson of Tennessee; in another train, fifteen able bodied men from Missouri; four more from Kentucky, and forty more landed at Amherstburg, all in one company, the same week.

So it seems that those wooly headed statesmen do not, (to use the words of the President's message,) "put forth the narrow views of casuists," but regard their railroad "as sacred in the eye of honor, and indispensible for the great experiment of liberty, which, environed by inherent difficulties, was yet borne forward in apparent weakness by a power superior to all obstacles." And we may go farther, and say, in the words of the same illustrious author, "there is no condemnation, which the voice of freedom will not pronounce upon them should they prove faithless to this great trust."

We have no doubt "they can unite in a common object and sustain common principles essential to the maintenance of that object," to wit,—having run away themselves, all for liberty, and as some say for misery, they help others also to run away and be as miserable as themselves.

This is all plain and natural; for misery loves company, as we see it illustrated every day, in the folly of the Irish, who came away from the maternal government of England's noble Queen, to this poor country;—is Gavazzi, who ran away from the paternal government of the popes; and lastly in Kossta, whom we (the American Navy, President and people) wrested from the Austrian Government, which claimed him as its property.

Miserable as all these foreigners must be in this country, with nobody to take care of them, still the cry is—they come! Misery loves company.

☞ Mrs. Sarah J. Burroughs, aged 28, wife of Mr. Holbrook Burroughs, of Salisbury, Mass., left her home on Friday, 2d inst., to visit Newburyport, and has not since been heard of.

The National Magazine.—This is the title of a large and well-executed monthly magazine, which we have just seen for the first time, and the December number of which we have carefully examined. It is said to be "devoted to literature, art and religion;" and the contents of this number fully justify the assertion. The articles on China and its rulers, Spirit Rappings, Christmas and the poets, and the Troubles and Adventures of Young Housekeepers, with many others, are worthy of extensive perusal. There are 20 illustrations, and eighteen articles of some length, besides numerous editorial notes, items, &c. The work is lively without being too light; substantial without being heavy. It may be read with pleasure by persons of good taste, and cannot be offensive or injurious to any. A new volume will commence in January, so that the present is the right time to subscribe. The numbers are sold for 19 cents each, and the work may be seen on application to Rev. Justin Spaulding, who is agent for this city and vicinity.

"Hot Corn," or Life Scenes in New York Illustrated."—Since the publication in the New York Tribune, of the stories under the titles—Hot Corn, the Two-Penny Marriage, Madalina the Rag-Picker's Daughter, Wild Maggie, &c., the author (Solon Robinson, of the Tribune,) has been solicited to publish the complete work from which these thrilling and widely-copied stories have been selected.—Messrs. Dewitt & Davenport, 160 and 162 Nassau st., New York, announce that they will soon issue the entire work with the above title, in a volume of over 400 pages, (price $1.25, cloth, gilt,) with eight beautifully engraved illustrations—the whole got up in the handsomest style, and which from the very high encomiums passed upon the "Scenes" already published, the author hopes will prove an acceptable offering in behalf of the good cause.

The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post is to commence the coming year with an unrivalled array of talent as editors and contributors, including Mrs. Southworth, Emerson, Bennett, Mrs. Dennison, Grace Greenwood, Fanny Fern, and other stars.—Besides Novelettes, Sketches, &c., from these brilliant and attractive writers, engravings will be regularly given.

The terms of the Post are $2 per annum, payable in advance; four copies $5; eight copies $10; thirteen copies $15; twenty copies $20, (one extra copy for the getter up of each club)—the money for Clubs always to be sent in advance. The postage to any part of the United States, paid quarterly in advance, is 26 cents a year. Deacon & Peterson, Publishers, No. 66 South Third Street, Philadelphia.

A Scene in Church.—On Sunday afternoon, at one of our churches, the pastor preached a sermon somewhat strongly tinctured with old-fashioned religious doctrines. When the sermon was concluded, a lady arose, and throwing her veil aside, declared to the pastor, that "the sermon is false from the begining to the end—I don't believe a word of it." The pastor was much abashed—a part of the congregation smiled,—and the more thoughtless among the congregation were disposed to have a good laugh. When the pastor made a prayer, the good lady would not rise, and when he offered the benediction, she turned her back upon him. One suggestive fact is here presented, that "Young America" is not exclusively confined to the rising generation, but that the elder portion of our people, of both sexes, entertain "progressive" ideas. They are not willing to be wholly lost, without a word to say in the matter.—Providence Post.

A scene not unlike the above, occurred at the Universalist Church in this city, last Sunday, when a visiter, who was said to be a sort of Adventist Shaker, interrupted the speaker, who had just named his text: he was not indignant, however, but elated and happy.

Going.—We learn from the Haverhill Banner that Rev. J. E. Pomfret, editor of the Essex County Freeman, has received and accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Universalist Society in Haverhill. He will commence his labors on the second Sabbath of the present month.

Well: what becomes of the Freeman?—Does that also go to Haverhill?

Accident from Burning Fluid.—A girl, a domestic in the family of Rev. Frederick Hinckley, of Hartford, was badly burned on Sunday morning by her clothes taking fire. A few minutes previous she had broken a small fluid lamp, and probably saturated portions of her dress with the fluid. In taking a kettle from the cooking stove her clothing took fire and instantly enveloped her in flames, consuming her dress almost entirely, and burning her very severely.

A mistake. General Wilson has been married for years, and is an exemplary husband and father.—Boston Chronicle.

Misfortune to Shepard Cary.—The Bangor Democrat informs us that a few days ago Hon. Shepard Cary of Houlton, while in usual health, attending to his ordinary business, suddenly received a paralytic shock, which was shortly followed by another. He afterwards rallied and it is believed he will recover.

LOCAL.

MONUMENT TO MESHECH WEARE.

Some time ago we noticed the removal of several heavy blocks of hewn granite, from this city to Hampton Falls, where they were to form a part of the monument which is there in process of erection, to the Memory of President Weare.

The marble portions of said monument are now all wrought into their proper shape and finish, with appropriate devices and inscriptions, and these pieces are about to be transported to their destined place.

The devices are, the arms of the State, tablets, wreaths, &c.; and the inscriptions on the four sides are as follow:

GOV. WEARE:
He was one of those good men
"Who dare to love their country and be poor."

Hon. Meshech Weare,
Born in Hampton Falls, June 16, 1713,
Graduated at Harvard College 1735.
Speaker of the House of Representatives 1752.
Commissioner to Congress at Albany 1754.
President of New Hampshire from 1776 to 1784,
At the same time
Counsellor from Rockingham,
Chairman of the Committee of Safety,
President of the Council,
and
Chief Justice of the Superior Court.
In public service 45 years.
Died Jan. 14, 1786.

Erected
A. D. 1853,
By the State of New Hampshire,
To perpetuate the memory of her illustrious son,
whose early efforts, sage counsels and persevering labors, contributed largely toward establishing his country's independence and shaping the future destiny of his native State.

George H. Dodge,
J. Everett Sargeant,
John H. Wiggin.

On the base,
Allen Treat,
Portsmouth,
N. H.

We deem this the proper time to say, that the sum appropriated by the State, and entrusted to the above committee, was found to be entirely too small to make any thing decently honorable to the State, as a monument. And the committee were unanimously opposed to making such a contracted and diminutive thing as the scanty appropriation would cover. They have therefore made themselves liable to Mr. Treat, the artist whose skill prepares the monument, for about one thousand dollars, which sum is not more than sufficient to secure him against absolute loss. It cannot reasonably be doubted that the State will appropriate the requisite sum to supply the deficiency.

Prof. Hitchcock's Lecture before the New Lyceum at the Temple on Thursday evening, was delivered to the usual full audience; and was lengthened out to an hour and a half, by request, when at the end of an hour the orator proposed to conclude.

We were not in season to hear his subject announced; but his lecture was on The American Nation, the elements of which it was composed, its present character, a few of its duties, and its destiny.

He considered our realm, already so widely spread, as destined to expand so as to cover the whole North American Continent. He did rather severe justice to the Indian, (we were somewhat disposed to call it injustice:) and gave beautiful characteristic sketches of the different nations of Europe from which we trace our descent. He noticed also all the nations which had discovered and settled any of the shores of the continent.

He described our national peculiarity to be, that of a Protestant Republic, in which civil and religious freedom were alike sacred and fundamental: and while he agreed with John Adams, that such a nation needed the meeting-house, the school-house and the training-field; he would reverse the order, and put the training-field first.

His reason for this reversed order was not very complimentary to the nations of the earth, whose policy was likened to that of highwaymen. Nor was his reason why we should cease to feel hard and jealous toward England, very complimentary to ourselves, though quite true. To be sure, said he, she is grasping and overbearing, but so are we.

Our purpose is not, however, to subject the lecture to a close analysis,—much less to do it justice in a worthy abstract of some length, but rather to say that the lecturer, though a clergyman, did not merely preach, but made his hearers, think; and though we should not agree with him on all points, yet we could not but feel pleased with his perspicuity, independence and pungency.

Launch by Firelight.—Ship Granite State, not being launched into the Piscataqua, on account of the storm, on Tuesday, was slipped off early the next morning; and for the purpose of preparation, bonfires were kept burning from 3 o'clock A. M., till daylight.

CITY LYCEUM.

The lecturer for this evening, at the Cameneum, is Rev. Dr. Burroughs, a speaker who needs no introduction to a Portsmouth audience, nor letters of commendation to literary men generally;—but one of the early friends and efficient supporters of the Portsmouth Lyceum, and one whose contributions to the stock of valuable lectures in this city have been neither few nor small.

☞ Rev. Mr. Moore is to preach at the Old South Church this evening, and Rev. Mr. Lamson on Friday evening.

MARRIED.

In this city, on Sunday morning last, Dec. 4, by Rev. Mr. Hoyt, Mr. William Britton of Saugus, Mass., to Miss Elina Trefethen of this city.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
FOR THE GERMANIA CONCERT!
One Concert only.
ON MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 12TH.
THE Managers of the contemplated series of three Concerts by this CELEBRATED BAND regret the necessity to announce to the citizens that they have been unable to procure anything near the amount necessary to defray the expenses attending the series, and in consequence are reluctantly compelled to abandon ALL BUT ONE. In order to save themselves from great pecuniary loss with this as in the other Concert, the Temple must be FILLED. They hope the citizens will come forward immediately, to-day, and take up all the Tickets, and that the Germanians will be greeted with an OVERFLOWING HOUSE.—They well deserve it; their Music is superior to any Concert we have ever had, and as we are to have but one, let there not be a vacant seat.
Their Programme will be published in a day or two, and we assure the public that it will be the richest Musical treat ever listened to.
Don't fail to secure your seats to-day.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

STEAMSHIP HUMBOLDT WRECKED.

Halifax, Dec. 6.—The steamship Humboldt, Capt. Lines, from Cowes, Nov. 23, P. M., for New York, put in here short of coal. The H. was obliged to take Newcastle coal at Cowes, which proved bad. Had to come slowly most of the passage, having westerly winds to encounter.

When entering the harbor the Humboldt ran ashore on the Sisters, about 12 miles from Halifax, near the mouth of the harbor, and will prove a total loss. She was full of water at last accounts. A portion of the cargo will be saved in a damaged state. The passengers were all safe.

The H. brings 90 passengers and 450 tons of freight.

The steamship Euxine left Southampton on the 20th ult., with the East India and China mail, also Lord Elphinstone, the new Governor of Bombay, and freight and specie of the value of £485,000 sterling, principally silver bars and dollars for China and India.

A telegraphic despatch via Paris, announces that Donna Maria Second de Gloria, Queen of Portugal, died on the 15th ult., at noon, in childbed. The King was immediately declared Regent until the majority of the Prince, according to the laws of that kingdom.

Lisbon was tranquil.

The Superior Court of Paris had given a decision in the affair of foreign correspondence, affirming the decision of the Imperial Court of Rome, which was to the effect that the prefect of police has the right to seize and open letters which have been entrusted to the post office.

A private of the 10th regiment had been arrested in Lyons on account of posting revolutionary proclamations on the walls at Orleans on the 19th ult. A number of seditious placards were discovered posted about the city making an appeal to arms and insurrection on plea of want of work and dearness of bread.

From the Seat of War.—The intelligence of the retreat of the Turkish army beyond the Danube, is now officially confirmed. This retrograde movement was not preceded by any fresh collisions of the two armies. The passage of the river was effected with order and without interruption. The Turks continued to hold Kalefat and the villages around with 25,000 men. This corps was receiving reinforcements from Widdin and Sophia.—The state of the weather and the improbability of being able to defeat the Russians at Bucharest, and the desirability of not being beaten with the Danube in the rear, were the causes which induced Omar Pacha to retire.

Advices from St. Petersburg confirm the news of the Russian fleet having been dismantled and sent into winter quarters on the Baltic.

From the Bosnian frontier it is stated that the contingent of that province, a corps of 12,000 men, is preparing to join the Turkish army, and the commander was preparing to cross the Servian territories, with or without leave.

A great sensation had been caused at Constantinople by the issue of a notice from the French Consulate, inviting tenders for the supply of provisions to the French fleet during the winter in the Black Sea. This indicated an intention on the part of the fleet to cruise there, and it was said that the Russian Ambassadors at Paris and London had orders to demand their passports should such movements take place.

The Irish grain markets were said to be slowly receding, and in some places there was a complete glut of provisions. The farmers were sending great quantities of potatoes to market, and a number of cargoes were being exported to England.

Foreign wheat was in fair request, but an advance of 1s per quarter by sellers had checked business.

Flour was in good demand, and an advance of 1s 6d for fresh qualities.

CONGRESS.—On Tuesday 6th Dec. in the House, a resolve was passed, to choose two Chaplains for the entire Congress, (both sessions.) The usual opposition was made.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., objected, being of the opinion that it was unconstitutional to employ preachers or chaplains; and believed it a burlesque on the christian religion to have them. He moved to lay the resolution on the table,—but the House refused, 18 to 89.

In the Senate.—Mr. Gwin introduced a bill granting land to California, for a railroad from San Francisco via the valley of the Sacramento to the boundary of Oregon. He said that at the close of the last session, at the time he was urging the passage of the Pacific Railroad Bill, he promised that at this session he would aim at the passage of the Homestead Bill. In order to redeem that promise, he now gave notice that he would at an early day, introduce the bill generally known as the Homestead Bill. The President to-day nominated, and the Senate confirmed A. G. Seaman as Superintendent of the Public Printing, vice Towers, whose term has expired.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Treasurer's report, containing 296 pages, was laid before Congress to-day. The total estimate for the year ending 30th of June, 1855, amounts to $51,000,277.

The estimate of the Army proper amounts to $10,151,000.

The Navy estimates reach the sum of $10,234,000, and the Steam Mill service $1,496,000.

New Orleans, Dec. 5.—The Board of Health report the number of interments during the past week as being 372, of which 214 are reported as caused by cholera.

FUGITIVE ARRESTED.—Last week Constable J. C Harrington, of Boston, with an executive warrant, proceeded to Maine in search of Henry K. Hinkley, charged with forging labels, stamps, &c., of Dr. Jayne of Philadelphia. On Saturday he found Hinkley in Portland, took him to Boston, and committed him to jail. It is alleged that the offence was committed in Boston, and Edward A. Teulon, engraver, 113 Washington street, is accused of engraving the forged papers.

SCARCITY OF SEAMEN AND VESSELS.—It is seldom that vessels of all descriptions, and seamen to man such as are on hand, are so scarce in our port as just at this time. This is the case too in most of other principal ports on the Atlantic coast, the large shipments to distant points, and especially to Europe, of breadstuffs, taking up all that can be obtained. The wages of seamen were scarcely ever so high before, $40 to $50 per month being offered.—Baltimore Patriot.

THE LATE MR. PHELPS.—The Derby Journal says that the estate of Anson G. Phelps, Esq., just deceased, is estimated at two millions of dollars. He owned a vast amount of property in this State, as well as elsewhere—and with all this it is generally supposed by those who knew him best, that he has long been carefully laying up treasures in Heaven. Would that all rich men were as good and as generous as he has been.—New Haven Palladium.

PROPERTY AFLOAT.—The Sage Harbor (L. I.) Corrector of Saturday, says a large amount of property, supposed to be of the value of $10,000 or more, consisting of timber, lumber of various kinds, hats, part of a railroad bridge, &c., supposed to have come from the Housatonic river, has gone ashore near Wading river, in that county.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 106½ lbs. of more nutritious and nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians in New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases resulting from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Also an Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Recommended by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&wém je22

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

THIS beautiful article was introduced to the public last season; and as it can instantly be changed from an open to a close Stove, and vice versa, it fully meets the wants of all those who prefer to burn wood only. The exterior never becomes sufficiently heated to burn off the polish, and consequently can be kept bright and clean, with very little trouble. MICHAEL W. BECK'S POEMS.

A few other specimens of the poetry of Mr. Beck, we think the readers of this paper might be disposed to notice, and so we submit them. Here is one, full of the sharpness and fire of a full grown admirer of our republican institutions. One could hardly read it in a low tone of voice, specially on town meeting day.

THE BALLOT BOX.

Casket of a priceless gem,
Nobler heritage of power
Than imperial diadem!
Corner-stone on which was reared
Liberty's triumphal dome,
When her glorious form appeared
'Midst our own green mountain home!

Purchased by as noble blood
As in mortal veins e'er run,
By the toil of those who stood
By the side of Washington—
By the hearts that met the foe
On their native battle plain,
Where the arm that strikes the blow,
Never needs to strike again!

Guard it freemen! guard it well!
Spotless as your maidens' fame!
Never let your children tell
Of your weakness—of your shame!
That their fathers basely sold
What was bought with blood and toil;
That you bartered right for gold,
Here on Freedom's sacred soil!

Let your eagle's quenchless eye,
Fixed, unerring, sleepless, bright,
Watch, when danger hovers nigh,
From his lofty mountain height;
While the stars and stripes shall wave
O'er this treasure pure and free,
The land's palladium, it shall save
The home and shrine of liberty.

The two "Reflections" which follow, are "in season" about these days.

THANKSGIVING REFLECTIONS.

Aye, strut in mighty pomp and state,
Ye turkeys, in your warm house penned,
And raise your crests with joy elate;
Ye dream not of your awful end!
With what a grace ye gobble down
Your daily quantity of dough,
And seem, in turkish pride, to frown
On other fowls a grade below!

Ye hens, with crops well crammed with corn,
Your life glides by in moments sweet;
From dewy eve till blushing morn,
Your only business is—to eat;
Nor chanticleer, with stately pride,
Nor chickens, groaning 'neath your food,
Dream not that aught will e'er betide,
Nor ill your solitude intrude.

Ye geese, who hiss at passers by
And stretch your neck at naughty boys!
Ye deem not that ye soon must die,
And soon relinquish present joys.
Ye ducks, who raise your caucus quack,
And waddle with your fattened weight!
Ye drakes, with necks so glossy black,
Ye dream not of a future state.

Quack, quack, ye ducks, with all your might;
Hiss, hiss, with all your strength, ye geese;
Strut, strut, ye turkeys, with delight,
And revel, hens, in bread and cheese!
Above your head there gleams a knife,
A murderous arm is stretching bare,
And blood is streaming everywhere.

Ye all shall die—that prating duck,
That turkey, goose and modest hen;
Upon your necks the blows are struck,
By bloody hands of bloody men.
And gentle woman, love shall quit,
To pluck the feathers from your wings,
And stretch your bones upon a spit,
And roast ye, miserable things!

And men shall tear those limbs in twain,
Elastic once with hope of life,
And laughter mingle with the strain,
The music of the carving knife.
Where then your majesty, your speed,
Ye hosts of fowl unthinking sinners?
Ye fools, you're fattened thus to feed
Your betters with Thanksgiving dinners!

THANKSGIVING WEEK.

All hail, our yearly Carnival!
Our great Thanksgiving week!
Full many a premonition strong,
Its coming doth bespeak;
Ah, sad the havoc was and wild,
On Orleans' gory plain,
But sadder will the havoc be,
This week among the slain!

If every pumpkin's lordly form
Were piled upon the other,
And each long Squash with crooked neck,
Lain sidelong with its brother;—
Which womankind will mutilate
To manufacture pies:—
Taller than Egypt's pyramids,
That pile would upward rise!

If every dying groan of goose,
Duck, chicken, turkey, hen,
In one loud chorus could swell up
From hill, and dale, and glen,
Which in this week will feel the knife
And fall upon the floor,
'Twould louder be than ocean's wave,
Than loud Niagara's roar!

If all the blood that will be spilled
This same Thanksgiving week,
Were formed into one standing pool,
Nor outlet had, nor leak,— Zounds, what a river it would be!
Broad, mighty, deep and wide,
Where whales might gambol merrily,
And big ships proudly ride!

If all the faces that will smile,
Upon Thanksgiving day,
While round the festive board they meet,
Or else in joyous play,—
If these could smile out all at once,
In mirthfulness and fun,
'Twould dim the modest moon's soft light,
And e'en eclipse the sun!

If all upon that festal day
Would feed and clothe the poor,
And give what each can well afford,
In basket and in store,—
To drive the tear from sorrow's eye—
Bid her pale sons be gay—
Then we should have in very deed,
A good Thanksgiving Day!

We have one more offering. It speaks for itself.

THE INDIAN SUMMER.

It comes, it comes with golden sheaf,
In the time of the sere and yellow leaf,
And it flings the fruit from the bended tree,
And it scatters it round in its reckless glee;
And parts, with its fingers, her raven hair.

It comes, it comes, and its minstrels wing
O'er the glassy lake is quivering,
With music soft as the mellow's rain
Of zephyrs o'er the swelling main;
It gladdens the vales as it floats along,
And stream and mountain re-echo the song.

It comes, it comes, like a fairy sprite,
Arrayed in robes of gossamer white,
And the carpet of leaves on the ground is spread,
And the flowers yield 'neath its conquering tread;
For it strides along in its kingly way,
Like shadows that flit at the close of day.

It comes, it comes, and the ripened grain
Is wreathing crowns for its golden reign,
And the bright eye sparkles with liquid light,
Like the star enthroned on the brow of night,
And the teeming fields their offerings bring
At the sainted shrine of the autumn king.

Surely, a genius thus expressing itself, is worthy of remembrance and honor. Thus believing, we have ventured this meagre word, expressing in it our esteem for a true soul, and knowing that others better acquainted with the lamented author than we were, will be glad that we have thus spoken. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

By a fortuitous "concatenation of causes," we have read the President's Message through, three times. At the first reading, the President seemed to favor the Pacific Railroad, at the second he seemed to object to it as a government measure, and at the third we could not tell exactly what he does really propose.

We therefore make the following extracts from the Boston Post and the Advertiser, on this topic. First, from the Post.

The considerations connected with the prosecution of this great enterprise, however grand and important, have no appreciable value when weighed against the obligation to adhere strictly to the constitution, and to faithfully execute the powers it confers. For the general government to administer the affairs of a railroad or a canal, would be the exercise of doubtful power and of more doubtful propriety. Its connection with a work of this character should be incidental rather than primary. While all constitutional means ought to be rendered towards the construction of a road to unite the Pacific and Atlantic population, yet no grandeur of enterprise will tempt the President to disregard that construction of the constitution which has been illustrated by those whose opinions constitute the standard of his political faith.

Next, from the Advertiser.

He states the grounds on which he disapproves of the appropriation of the national revenue to objects of local improvement, making no distinction between those which are designed for the protection of foreign commerce and those for the protection of internal commerce. He however declares an opinion in favor of a Pacific railroad, "if an economical and practical route shall be found," as a means of public defence, incidental to the power of declaring war, raising armies, &c.—He would not however have such rail road made under the administration of the government itself, but merely by affording incidental aid to such an enterprise undertaken by other parties. The specific mode of furnishing such aid is not indicated.

Putting these two expositions together, we come to the conclusion, that our neighbors, like ourselves, do not know what the administration policy is to be on this important subject.

A New Sight in Washington.—A correspondent at Washington writes:—"A full blown Bloomer is passing along the avenue. It is a novelty in this city. By the way, Mr. Gerrit Smith is here, and the lady in question is said to be his daughter. So the eccentrics of New York are getting down this way; abolitionism, spiritualism, and Bloomerism are to be exhibited for the benefit of the congregated wisdom."—Boston Chronicle.

Well,—Mormonism is there; toadyism, egotism and demagogue-ism in large doses. All the elements of our great republic should be commingled there. And, by the way, few kinder or better men are there, than Gerrit Smith. Though his views on many subjects may not be popular or always judicious;—no one who knows him will fail to respect him as a benevolent and worthy man.

A Mermaid.—The Halifax Chronicle says—"A most extraordinary fish was caught in the salmon net of Mr. Azet Hamilton, of Dundoran, in the Donegal Bay, last week. It is a beautiful creature—the head, shoulders, and waist resemble a woman, the lower part that of a salmon. When we saw it, it was alive in a vessel of salt water, and Mr. Hamilton hoped to preserve it alive in that way. The eyes are beautiful, and its arms when touched become stiff, and the whole body appeared sensitive to the touch. Many persons considered it a young mermaid."

A marvellous fish story this. The net in which she was caught, was probably baited with a beautiful bug called Humbug, whose portrait was in the last number of Harper's Magazine.

New York Apples.—The Buffalo Courier of Friday last says,—"Apples would seem to be very plenty in this region, judging from the fact that one firm alone have sold and shipped over four thousand barrels this fall."

A few have got along this way, and been sold at a great price. A very large lot would be disposed of at fair rates, if such a thing could happen in this year of general inflation.

Congress.—On Wednesday, Dec. 7, the Senate elected Rev. Mr. Sliezer as Chaplain, and the House made choice of Rev. Wm. H. Wilburn for the same office. Both are Methodists. In the House, Mike Walsh voted for the Rev. Miss Antoinette Brown.

In the House, Mr. Armstrong was elected printer, having 127 votes, all others 91.

Death from Exposure.—The Salem Gazette says that Thomas Williams, aged 23, a native of Sandwich, N. H., and of Indian extraction, who had recently worked at shoemaking at North Danvers, perished from the cold on Saturday night, by lodging on Salem Common while intoxicated.

☞ Jacob Sleeper, Esq. of Boston, is in nomination by the "Young Men's [temperance] League," as Mayor of Boston. Nevertheless we think Mayor Seaver will be re-elected.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

It appears, from the New York Evening Post, that by some fraud or favoritism, the New York Times and the Tribune, were in possession of the President's Message long before the telegraphic despatch authorized other printers to take a copy from the Post office.

The Boston Post gives the following account of the manner in which it anticipated the other Boston papers:

Some of the Boston Papers are very much provoked because we published the message on an extra sheet half an hour in advance of them, and utter all kinds of surmises as to the causes which enabled us to do so. Some papers intimate that Mr. Bailey must have allowed us the use of the message in advance of the other papers—there is no truth in this insinuation, for Mr. Bailey did not break the seal of the package containing the message until he was authorised to do so by a telegraphic despatch, and then immediately distributed its contents to all editors alike. We obtained the message in a manner entirely satisfactory to ourselves, and used it as we thought proper, without violation of any pledge, or of confidence.

The last sentence, which we have put in italics, is the only material sentence in the piece; and in it the Post gives the public to understand that the President himself sent or caused to be sent his message in advance to that newspaper. We were not exactly prepared for a statement of this kind: but we find another so much like it, in the Concord Reporter, that there seems to be something in it. The Reporter's statement is as follows:

The arrangements for delivering the Message to the printers in this State, if indeed there was any arrangement at all, were on this occasion, the most bungling and vexatious imaginable. It was given out that the Message would be sent by special mail agents and deposited with Postmasters in all the principal places, to be delivered to editors the moment that the telegraph announced its delivery. Resting on this, and not doubting that our Postmaster had the Message, what was our surprise to learn, that not a copy was in the hands of our Postmaster, and that not one had been sent to this State, except to the New Hampshire Patriot, which paper had a copy as soon as Monday, the day before it was delivered. How the Patriot could be supplied with a copy when it was withheld from every other editor, without involving a betrayal of confidence, or a breach of trust, on the part of some of the agents, or gross partiality on the part of some one else, we cannot see. We should like to have the matter explained.

A RAILROAD MOBBED.

Despatches from Erie, Penn., of Wednesday, state that the railroad company commenced opening the gauge (?) at the state line that morning. At 9 A. M. a cannon was fired to call out the citizens, to tear down the bridges, &c. A mob of 700 rowdies assembled, filled the depot, and tore up the railroad track. Mr. Hart, the ticket agent, was mobbed whilst endeavoring to take down the names of those engaged in the outrage, and only escaped with his life.

The mob next began the work of demolishing the bridges, and by 2 P. M. the bridges across French and State streets were torn down.

The passengers from the lightning train were taken around the city to connect with the line on the other side.

Police officer Ferguson, who had been engaged by the railroad company, in taking down the names of the rioters, was taken before the police magistrate, and made to give bonds to keep the peace.

The Boston Courier explains these strange doings in part, by saying that the citizens of Erie wish to have a stopping of railway trains at their place, and that the railroad company have made a track which runs around their town, and which connects immediately with the trains coming west. The difference between the two parties is merely whether Erie shall be a place for stopping upon the road, and it is a very serious one with the citizens of that place.

The Navy.—The report of the Secretary of the Navy advocates the re-organization of the navy, and recommends the appropriation of five millions for building six first class steam propeller frigates. He also recommends that the Santee, at Kittery, and the Sabine, at New York, on the stocks since 1819, be altered and finished, as substitutes for two frigates of the same class withdrawn as worthless. The old ship Franklin is being repaired at Kittery, and her model changed, with a view of converting her into a first class steam frigate. We have already stated that the report would recommend the establishment of machine shops. To the restoration of flogging in the navy he is decidedly opposed. He advises a retired list, discharge of the inefficient, promotion of merit, pay according to sea service, and rewards and punishments and honorable discharge as a means of encouraging longer enlistments. These are radical changes, in which public opinion will support Mr. Dobbin.

So says the Boston Post, and generally so say we. Particularly, we agree with him in not going back to flogging, but forward to rewards for sailors; and we would add better pay, and the abrogation of bounties.

We would like to see the Santee finished and rigged here, and the Franklin repaired.

☞ Those who wish to secure good seats in the Temple, to hear the Germanians' Concert, had better do it this day.

CITY LYCEUM.

Rev. Dr. Burroughs, of this city, gave us on Thursday evening, at the Cameneum, a carefully written and well arranged lecture on Woman's Rights, in which he dissented widely from the views advanced by some modern reformers and agitators, who have held conventions and published tracts, for the promotion of women's rights, as they understand them.

In the commencement of the lecture, he characterized our day as the age of problems, in which nothing was acknowledged to be settled; but he could not admit all changes to be improvements, nor pronounce all revolutions to be salutary.

In the discussion of the subject the lecturer gave us a brief but satisfactory history of the ancient struggles of women for their rights; and made some sharp shots at the reformers, ancient and modern, several of whose sayings he quoted and criticised.

In the closing and practical part of the lecture, he expressed truly liberal views of needful improvements in the laws which regulate and control women's property; of improvements in female education, even to the highest degree of mental culture; and of her employment and compensation compared with men. And in the spirit of a wise and christian conservatism, above all things he commended the culture of the moral qualities and religious affections, as the high privilege and dearest right of woman. He quoted with approbation, the saying of an English Chancellor, that in order to do justice to woman as to property, the whole English law must be changed—and also that of Madam Maintenon, who, when Bonaparte asked her What was the greatest want of France?—answered, "Good Mothers."

The Newburyport Sable Minstrels.—This new band of eight singers and players, gave Concerts at the Cameneum in this city, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The first evening they had a small audience (a hundred and fifty or so); the next night they had but a pretence of a house, forty or fifty persons being present. Hence we judge either that the public could not have appreciated their music, or else that the performances were not worth patronizing. Their printing bills here not having been paid, their baggage was detained at the depot, but afterwards released on security being given for the amount. It is due to the company to state, that they employed an agent to transact their business, and that, as they say, he took all their funds and the cars for Portland, instad of going with them to New Market where they had announced a concert for Friday evening—leaving unsettled bills here, which he represented as paid.

We believe an "Ethiopian" entertainment never met with genial, liberal patronage here—though some of these troupes have made the most beautiful music, the old Harmonians, for instance. We doubt if Christy himself could draw a full house. The thing has never been popular here, and we begin to think never will be.

There have been three exhitions in Portsmouth, within a year, by citizens of Newburyport, from each of which we have been troubled to get our dues for printing. As regards this band, it is altogether too large to travel—four would be much better than nine, unless they were superior and well-known performers. Some members of the club evinced considerable talent, especially the "bones," who handled his clappers very creditably, besides doing some fine dancing. The tamborine and violin also performed passably well, and these three made about all the music. We never heard eight singers whose united voices afforded so little volume or so narrow compass, or whose music so lacked "shading."

These Minstrels are mechanics, who left their workshops for a professional tour—but who, we take it, will be content with this experience in concertizing. It is not every man who can sing, that knows how to give a concert—and certainly he does not who omits to settle with the printer. If ever this company ventures in public again, we advise them to secure an efficient leader.

Mortality in Portsmouth.—The deaths in this city during the month of November, were as follows, Males eleven—aged 1 year, 1, 2, 6, 8, 14, 16, 52, 63, 83, 84. Females four—aged 2 years, 2, 34, 72.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

FOR THE GERMANIA CONCERT!

One Concert only.

ON MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 12TH.

THE Managers of the contemplated series of three Concerts by this CELEBRATED BAND regret the necessity to announce to the citizens that they have been unable to procure anything near the amount necessary to defray the expenses attending the series, and in consequence are reluctantly compelled to abandon ALL BUT ONE. In order to save themselves from great pecuniary loss with this as in the other Concert, the Temple must be FILLED. They hope the citizens will come forward immediately, to-day, and take up all the Tickets, and that the Germanians will be greeted with an OVERFLOWING HOUSE—They well deserve it; their Music is superior to any Concert we have ever had, and as we are to have but one, let there not be a vacant seat.

Their Programme will be published in a day or two, and we assure the public that it will be the richest Musical treat ever listened to.

Don't fail to secure your seats to-day.

HAVANA.

The following brief but graphic chapter of life and manners in Cuba, especially in Havana, is from the Boston Post, and is sad enough.

Canedo, captain general of Cuba, has issued secret regulations, displaying the cruel extent to which tyranny may be driven by fear. The Cuban government is alarmed about another invasion. The new captain general, Pezuela, is daily expected, and his rule will be worse than that of his predecessors. Our New York contemporaries, with recent letters from Havana, are anticipating the last crisis in the affairs of Cuba, and are again talking of the secret treaty between Spain, England and France, to keep the fair island out of the hands of the Americans.

Matilda Dominguez, the actress, was followed to the grave at Havana on the 24th ult., by thousands of people, who had beheld her with delight at the Tacon Theatre. The body was embalmed, the face painted, and she was carried to the sepulchre upon the shoulders of some of her fellow-comedians, with the upper part of her person exposed to the gaze of the rabble which followed the numerous procession. She appeared as if in a trance. The name of Canedo, the governor general, is associated with the cause of her tragic end. Her husband and murderer, Valdez, will probably not be executed till the new governor-general arrives. A letter from Havana says—

"What 'La Dominguez' was as an actress, is due to her extraordinary talents—what she became in morals and couduct, the miserable wretch her husband should be answerable for, as forced upon her by his authority for the means of his own licentious existence. The story cannot all be written of this ill-fated daughter of an ill-fated mother, who perished in the same way, and for like cause, by her husband, ten or twelve years since—he, with the same weapon, terminating his own life, leaving the orphan Matilda to the chance care of relatives or charitable friends."

THE "INVASION" EXCITEMENT AT HAVANA.—The Empire City arrived at New York with late dates from Havana, brings news that the Captain General of Cuba has issued an important circular, bearing date Oct. 28, to the several Captains of Partidos, (sections of country) of a character which indicates a new alarm from the United States. The circular affirms that the superior authority has been surely informed that the traitors, enemies of her Majesty, favored by the magnanimous indulgence with which they have hitherto been treated, by the Queen, and hypocritically protected by the new Administration of the United States, are projecting a fresh invasion of the island, with considerable force; and as it is deemed necessary to repress the revolutionary tendencies of the native inhabitants of the country with the strong hand, it is therefore ordered, that the said captains be invested with authority to compel all persons suspected of partiality to the Americans and to freedom, to offer their persons and property for the Spanish service. In case of the landing of the invaders, every native is to be called out who is capable of bearing arms, and where money is not forthcoming peacably, it is to be taken forcibly, with whatever property can be found. All who resist the law are to be shot.

It is also ordered that all the principal Creoles who are distinguished and influential through their intelligence, wealth and revolutionary spirit, shall be obliged to subscribe their names to a declaration, under the general voluntary offering of provisions and property. Each of the Captains of Partidos are authorised, in case of necessity, to exact from her majesty's subjects a forced loan of two million dollars, for the support of the war. These loans are to be secured bonds, which bonds must be endorsed and guaranteed by all the above mentioned Creoles. These Creoles must be watched and kept by trusty guards, ostensibly for the purpose of shielding them from the vengeance of their countrymen, but really to prevent their joining the insurgents or invaders; and in case an exemplary chastisement should be deemed necessary, to impose respect and absolute submission, one or more of them may be shot.

It is thought that the rigorous policy thus marked out, foreshadows the course which Gen. Pezuela, the new Captain General, who at the last accounts, was hourly expected at Havana, has been instructed to pursue. He will probably come invested with powers more absolute than were ever wielded by his predecessors.

SHIP GREAT REPUBLIC—FIVE POINTS HOUSE OF INDUSTRY—HOME IN THE COUNTRY.—We are glad to learn that Capt. McKay and Messrs. Grinnell & Minturn have kindly proffered a part of the proceeds of the exhibition of their noble ship while in this port, to aid in the erection of suitable buildings on the farm recently purchased by the directors of this Institution. We understand that twenty thousand dollars is the sum fixed upon as the amount requisite for building purposes.—N. Y. Courier.

EDUCATION OF CHILDREN.—Rudimental education is greatly neglected in our schools. There is a world of truth in the recent remarks of the North American, the editor of which is well known as a man of great experience in the matter, that children now a days carry to and from our schools loads of books, and recite from them daily, without understanding even the meaning of the subject they are studying; the basis, the elements of knowledge, are overlooked, while high sounding names (all the same ologies) are paraded before the minds of ambitious parents through the medium of promising relations.

Meanwhile the good old fashioned arts of spelling and reading and understanding what you read, are neglected as too common place for classes that have reached geology, astronomy and moral philosophy. We believe that more useful information may be gained by children from simple reading before they reach their teens, if accompanied by explanations from their teachers, than by all the book cramming which is now the practice of our schools. Reform is greatly needed in this particular.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of making bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 83 lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers it warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merits than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and efficacious remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNRIVALLED.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidence of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Druggists and Dealers throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m je22

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, DEC. 10, 1853.

TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

A STRUGGLE FOR THE CUSTODY OF A CHILD.—On Saturday last a delicate looking boy, about ten years of age, was brought by his mother before Judge Thompson, in Philadelphia, in compliance with a writ of habeas corpus which had been served upon her at the instance of Dominick J. Burke, who claimed the boy as his apprentice at the shoe-making business. The facts of the case appeared to be that the mother, a widow, being unable to provide for her children, was about to place the boy in the Girard College, where he would have been properly instructed and cared for. This fact became known to the authorities of the Catholic Church, and they placed the boy in the St. John's Orphan Asylum, the managers of which subsequently bound him over to Mr. Burke. The latter individual imposed unusual and severe employment on the boy, who consequently returned to his mother, with whom he desired to remain. The scene in Court was very affecting—the sympathies of every one present being excited in behalf of the mother and child. Judge Thompson decided that the writ of habeas corpus was not a regular proceeding, the proper course being to arrest the boy as an absconding apprentice; and he referred the parties to their proper remedy. Proceedings were subsequently commenced by Mr. O'Neil, the counsel for the mother, to test the right of the managers of the Asylum to bind the boy as an apprentice, against his own and his mother's will.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.—The Portland Argus of Thursday says:

As a man was passing out of Mr. Jordan's gate-way, about two miles from this city, yesterday at 2 o'clock, his wagon suddenly became minus one wheel, upsetting it and frightening the horse, and causing him to run at full speed towards the city. Coming in collision with a four horse team on the top of Mitchell's hill, they also became frightened, and wheeled round towards the city and started with great speed down the hill, which is long and steep, loaded with several hogsheads of molasses and several barrels of pork, flour, &c., when two of the horses fell and were badly injured. At the foot of the hill a yoke of oxen and a horse were going up, when this load struck a wheel of the ox-cart, breaking the axle, and so frightening the team that they took the same course, and all finally reached the city, where they were all restored alive, although considerably injured to their owners. The owner of the oxen was slightly injured.

RESULTS OF A RACE.—As the propeller Lord Elgin and the steamer Crescent were racing on the Beauharnois Canal, near Montreal, on the 28th ult., the Lord Elgin having on too great a headway, struck the outer gates of the lock, shattering them to fragments. The lock was full at the time, containing three barges and a steamer. Two of the barges, with the steamer, were swept through with great violence, actually leaping over the sill into the lock below. One of the barges was sunk by the commotion. The damages cannot be repaired this season, and the navigation is therefore closed, thus stopping a very large amount of tonnage which is now lying at Montreal for Upper Canada.

NEWSPAPERS.—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher in his discourse on Thanksgiving day, said:

Newspapers must be honored. They are not merely journals of news; they are daily encyclopædias, books of science, with this advantage over books, that if they make a mistake to-day, they can correct it to-morrow, which books cannot. Some papers contain more religious literary, and scientific matter than many magazines professedly devoted to such subjects. The literature of such newspapers was of the highest, because the most useful kind. It was, in itself, a whole library. It created an atmosphere of thought, in which we lived. The system of reporting too, was excellent. It gave a lecturer or speaker ubiquity. He who sperks to-night to 500, shall to-morrow speak to 50,000.

The Salem Gazette has been told by clothing dealers that cloth made from cast off rags is stronger than that made from new wool.—Post.

Very likely they told it so; but was such a venerable paper as the Gazette, verdant enough to believe it?

In Philadelphia Mr. Donnelly cut the throat of a cow which was dying of disease, dressed the meat and tried to sell it to several butchers, who detected its character. Afterwards he sold it for five dollars to feed dogs. Judge Kelley discharged him on the ground that he had not rendered himself amenable to the law because he did not succeed in his attempt to sell it as good meat. The justice is as rank as the meat.—Boston Post.

THE SLEEP OF DEATH.—The engine was thrown from the track near Greenfield, Mass., lately in the evening by running over the bodies of two men who were "sleeping upon the track!" One was instantly killed, and the other horribly mangled. Such stupidity is amazing. Probably the men had been drinking.

AN ADDRESS TO YOUNG MEN,

Delivered at the Dedication of the Hall of the Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association, Dec. 5th, 1853—by a Member.

"'Tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus,
"Our bodies are our gardens, to which our minds are the gardeners."

In these lines of the bard of Avon is forcibly expressed, and beautifully illustrated the proposition that mankind are the architects of their own fortunes,—that the developement of the resources of the mind necessary to the successful prosecution of any chosen vocation or purpose of life, depends rather upon the private personal industry and force of character of each individual, than upon any public prescribed course of discipline. It is a fitting theme upon which to address you on this occasion. Our fraternity consists chiefly of those who have chosen and entered upon callings which forbid a systematic course of mental discipline in the school or the University—but there is not one of us for whom a substantial education of the intellect has not the highest value.

The impression is too common, especially among young persons, that knowledge of books and the developement of mental power, is reserved to the liberally educated and the so-called learned professions—that one is encouraged to aspire to the reputation and privileges of the scholar according as he enjoys these facilities or not—in a word, that the outward circumstances of the man determine his manhood. Nay, 'tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus. A man may boast himself an artium baccalaureus from the most time-honored University, or have received the diploma of the best professional school, and yet be a dunce, and die, leaving his only record on the catalogue of his Alma mater; while another who has graduated only from the common school or workshop, may become by the depth of his learning, the soundness of his philosophy, or the comprehensiveness of his statesmanship and diplomacy, the benefactor of the world.

There is no royal road to knowledge in the University more than out of it. If indeed the road is there laid out and graded past the high hills and over the deeper ravines, it is yet a rough and ascending grade, and he who would pass over it must do it not at his ease by express train, but working his ever-toilsome passage in the hand car—or still more securely thread his weary way on foot.

It is not my purpose to decry seminaries of learning, nor would I deter one from availing himself of the facilities afforded in such institutions. But I shall endeavor to show that it is in the power of every person of ordinary ability, without the discipline of an academical course of study, but by the judicious employment of such leisure time as is in the control of every individual, to acquire a substantial education, which shall be a lever of powerful influence to him who wields it, and gain for him respect as a man of intelligence and learning.

The peculiarity of an academical course consists in the variety of studies pursued, and the systematic manner of the pursuit.—In variety it embraces the classics, the mathematics, the metaphysics, the physical sciences, the modern languages, rhetoric and history, with a smattering of law, medicine, and theology—and each of these departments embraces almost as many sub divisions. This course is made up both of studies designed to discipline and those designed to instruct, and is so extended as to permit the student to do little else than form a general acquaintance with the field of knowledge, without becoming a thorough scholar in any one branch of it; but it is pursued with advantage by those who devote their whole lives to books, and can thus fill up the outline according to their tastes.—But the private student who gains discipline and habits of industry by grappling with and mastering the labors, difficulties and responsibilities of his chosen vocation, and is trained to concentrativeness from lack of time, may well omit those designed for discipline, and while he thus merely lessens the variety, will more than proportionally increase his thoroughness in what remains, and may still more improve the quality of his knowledge by limiting his pursuit to some one department and even to some one subject of that department.

There is an old maxim, "Beware of the man of one book," which at first blush might seem to convey an idea derogatory to the character "of a man of one book," that he was to be shunned as a despicable fellow. But I suppose the meaning to be quite the opposite.—Beware how you meet him lest he be an over match for you—lest what seems his weakness may prove his strength. The expert swordsman, though he seems slightly armed, is proof against any weapon in close combat. I remember to have once heard an anecdote of a sailor who went out from this port during the last war with Great Britain. The ship being boarded by the enemy the sailor thought to crush with a blow from a handspike, an officer whom he saw armed with only a sword—but great was his surprise and chagrin to find not only his well directed blow easily warded off by the skilful swordsman, but himself levelled with the deck with a cautionary slap from the sword of his antagonist. Beware then, how variously soever you may be armed, how you attack him who is the master of any one weapon. Beware how you despise the man who is the master of one book. The clergyman is the man of one book—the bible; the lawyer is the man of one book—the law book; the physician is the man of one book—the science of medicine. Newton was a man of one book, Bunyan was a man of one book. Audubon was a man of one book, Agassiz is a man of one book. We need not multiply examples. No important discovery has been made in science, or useful service rendered to the field of knowledge, except by such men.

If I be answered that these are men of va-

fied acquirements, I answer, their other acquirements serve but to illustrate their one book, and the private student will be surprised at the variety of knowledge which he will soon find himself possessed of by tracing out the ramifications of his chosen book—or if it be said that some men have been pre eminent in various departments, I answer, that while some blessed with sound minds, clear heads, and long lives, after becoming the masters of one book, have been enabled to sound the depths of another or still others thousands, by despising to be "men of one book," and over-greedy in aiming to grasp the whole range of knowledge, have found themselves like the dog in the fable.

But I would distinguish between the man of one book and the man of one idea; the former may be as comprehensive and liberal in his ideas as the man of many. The man of one idea is more likely to be formed by the superficial study of many, than the thorough study of one.

Let not then the private student aspire to variety of pursuit, but let him choose some one subject and pursue it with system, and it shall be with him a tower of strength.

But to pursue to advantage even one book, system is required. System in study consists in assigning a certain portion of each day to some chosen subject—and perseveringly and uncompromisingly pursuing that subject during that time. Such a course may be adopted by those who have been articled to an apprenticeship as well as by those who have been matriculated in the University. But while it is most simple in theory it is most rare in practice. Young persons are disposed to regard the leisure hours they have from their business as too trifling to be turned to any useful account, or to employ them in such an irregular manner as to accomplish nothing in them. I once read of a man who composed a book while making calls with his wife, in the time that elapsed after she had gotten up to take leave of her friends—another I think committed to memory Milton's Paradise Lost by improving similar shreds of time. The Rev. Albert Barnes, amidst the toils and responsibilities of a most laborious pastoral charge, has been enabled without infringing on the duties of his pastorate, to compose his invaluable commentaries on the old and new testaments, amounting to some twelve volumes I think, by employing the morning hours before nine o'clock.

And after consideration, I will venture the assertion that a young man who will at fifteen begin to devote two hours a day to a judicious course of study and reading, will at twenty-five find himself possessed of a more available education than a majority of those who graduate at our colleges. 'Tis, then, in ourselves that we are thus or thus.

But without having time to follow out farther my argument, I would invite your attention to a sketch of the early life of Benjamin Franklin, which affords a most admirable illustration of my subject, and is most instructive and encouraging to the young man in pursuit of knowledge under difficulties. He was an apprentice, untaught in the schools, not raised above our imitation by inborn genius; but, using the same means which we may employ, acquired, aside from a remarkable skill and success in his chosen profession, a fund of learning, and a style of conveying his learning to others, which made him—as a political, scientific and general writer, a diplomatist, and philosopher—one of the most successful and distinguished men that ever lived.

The speaker here gave a judiciously-selected, interesting epitome of the principal events in the early life of the great printer-philosopher, for which we have not room. He closed with the following remarks:—

Mr. President and Brethren: To-night is an era in the history of our fraternity—to-night we launch our bark out into deeper soundings, and spread broader canvass,—having received confidence by eighteen months trial, that she is able, by her own strength and the improved skill of her navigators, to traverse wider seas and return heavier and richer freights to those who with earnest and loving toil designed and builded her, and to those who confidently invest in her a portion of their precious capital of time and talent.

We use our National Festivals, and each return of the New Year, and especially the anniversaries of our natal day, as stand-points from which to review the past, and under the influence of its experiences and chastenings, to form resolutions and adopt plans for the future. Be it so with this era of our Fraternity.

One year and a half ago, this society was formed, as the expression of the inward conviction of its founders, that it was in themselves to give direction to their lives, which were opening before them. It was founded for the purpose of affording facilities for the developement of the mental, the social and the christian character of such young men of our city as should unite themselves with it, by furnishing them with reading for their leisure hours, and an opportunity of meeting together on common ground in christian fellowship, for conversation, friendly discussion, and the more carefully considered instruction of the Essay.

Our city furnishes too few—perhaps I might say—no facilities for the mental and social improvement of such young men as chiefly compose our Fraternity. We have no public libraries—our circulating libraries are destitute of such healthy nutriment as Franklin fed and grew upon. He who should confine his reading to them, would find his mind in the condition of the glutton who had fed upon the over-seasoned and innutritious meats of the confectioner—his taste would be vitiated, his appetite would become a craving for something that, being obtained, would not satisfy; digestion would be impaired, growth checked, vigor destroyed, and the whole system pine away in passion and excitement. The realities and sobrieties of actual life would become too slow coaches for such fast individuals to travel in. History and biography, while they furnish healthful food for the intellect and stimulus to the energies, afford also sufficient interest to make them attractive to the reader, if put within his reach. Nor is the play house, the gaming room, or the private whist circle, a legitimate or safe place for the cultivation of the social qualities.

To supply in a measure these deficiences to the clerk, the apprentice and the stranger, our Fraternity, and its cotemporary the Mercantile Library Association, whose members we are happy to welcome here to-night, were formed. Our childhood has been vigorous: who will predict what may be our manhood?

The public have regarded us with generous sympathy, and our library has been increased by donations, until its well-furnished shelves fill us with pride and gratitude. And by their generous contributions of material aid we are enabled to secure these rooms, which afford improved facilities for our stated meetings, and also to enable us to open a reading room which shall be an attractive place of resort during our leisure hours. But the advantages of our Fraternity, our Library, and these convenient rooms, will profit us little, unless we determine perseveringly and faithfully to avail ourselves of them.

With new facilities come new responsibilities and new motives for effort—and

"Though influences circle us on all sides, yet must we answer for our actions,
For the being that is master of himself, bendeth events to his will,
But the slave to selfish passion, is the wavering creature of circumstance."

Then, with your permission, and in your behalf, be these rooms dedicated to the developement of the mental, social and Christian character of our Fraternity and each of us, upon the principle that

"'Tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus."

MORE OF THE ERIE MOB.

We have already published some account of the mob at Erie, Penn., which was said to be on account of "opening the gauge." It now proves to be altering the gauge of a railroad; and the matter is made somewhat plainer by the following statement from the Boston Advertiser.

"Erie is situated in the North Western extremity of Pensylvania, bordering upon Lake Erie between the States of Ohio and New York. The gauge or distance between the rails of the track on the Hudson River Railroad, from New York to Albany and Troy, and on the New York Central Railroad from Albany and Troy to Buffalo, is the same as that on most of the railroads in New England, viz.: 4 feet 8½ inches. From Buffalo the rails are laid through Dunkirk to the Pennsylvania line near Erie, on a gauge of four feet ten inches. From this point west to Erie, a distance of 18 miles, the gauge is now 6 feet, and from Erie west, all the way to Cincinnati, the gauge is 4 feet 10 inches, the same as on the connecting railroads in Ohio generally. It thus appears that freight can be transported all the way from Ohio to Tidewater, through, with but a single break at Buffalo, where the change is from 4 feet 10 inches to 4 feet 8½ inches, if the 18 miles in Pennsylvania, east of Erie, were changed from the 6 feet gauge to that of 4 feet 10 inches. Unless such change is made, it is necessary to make three breaks, first at Erie from 4.10 to 6; next, at the Pennsylvania and New York line from 6 back to 4.10; and third, at Buffalo from 4.10 to 4. 8 1 2.

The utility and convenience of such a change are so obvious, that it is surprising that any serious objection is made to it. The directors, having control of the eighteen miles of railroad in Pennsylvania, are desirous of making the change; but the people of Erie oppose it on local grounds, thinking it advantageous to their city to have the cars stopped there."

The mob, so called, is got up by the people, mayor and city government of Erie, and the mayor has published a statement, embracing the legal opinion of three lawyers, sustaining Erie in the position taken by her people and authorities.

On Wednesday morning last, (as before stated,) the Railroad Company began to change the gauge at the State line. The citizens were summoned by a salute of cannon to assemble and tear down the railroad bridges, &c., &c.

An Erie despatch of the 8th says,

The railroad rioters this morning entered the House Telegraph office in this city and threatened the operator with personal violence and demolition of the office, for sending accounts of their proceedings to the press.

The Erie people, mayor, lawyers, mob and bullies, are all wrong. These are not the days when a town can prosper by stopping business and intercourse; but it must be by helping it along, or not at all. The people who are afraid to have their doings reported, may generally be set down as not doing right.

DEATH OF JONAS CHICKERING.—This excellent mechanic, well and widely known as piano-forte maker, died in Boston on Thursday evening, suddenly. While visiting at the house of a neighboring friend, he was attacked with apoplexy. A message was at once despatched to his family, and they conveyed him to his own home, where he died soon after his arrival. These tidings will excite much sadness. Mr. Chickering was distinguished for his genius as a mechanic, and for his worth as a citizen. His age was sixty-six.

PRESENCE OF MIND.—At a concert in Boston, in the great Music Hall, on Sunday evening, while Miss Stone was singing the recitative, "There were Shepherds," the skirt of her dress caught fire from a foot light, and blazed so that those of the audience in the balconies saw the flame. Mrs. Wentworth and Sontag occupied seats at the side of Miss Stone. The former took hold of the folds of the burning dress, with great presence of mind, and extinguished the fire, while Miss Stone did not at all hesitate in the execution of her piece.

LOCAL.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The services at the Dedication of Washington Hall in this city, to the service of the Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association, on Monday evening last, were quite interesting. The Hall was filled with about two hundred persons, mostly young men and ladies. The exercises were opened with an appropriate anthem by a good choir, after which prayer, singing, reading, declamation, in the usual order of proceedings at the Society's meetings—followed by the Dedicatory Address, written and delivered by Horace Webster, Esq., a member of the Association, which at our request we have been permitted to publish (on our first page) this morning. We give it, hoping it may benefit the society, and because it is worthy of a more extended hearing than it was originally intended for. All, certainly all young men, may derive some good from its perusal.

The exercises were closed by singing to the tune of Old Hundred, the hymn "Be thou, O God, exalted high," in which the audience joined. The singing was accompanied with playing on a melodeon,—amply sufficient for a score or two of good full voices. We could not here help calling to mind an instance of want of judgment which recently came under our observation, where an organist playing a psalm tune for a choir not a quarter so heavy as this, put on "organ" sufficient for a hundred or more voices; causing us to think of a cur's barking at a locomotive thundering by, so obviously secondary to the instrument did the vocal part of the performance become.

☞ Rev. Mr. Willis will deliver the 7th and last of a series of doctrinal lectures, on Sunday morning, at the Universalist Church. Subject, the Resurrection of Damnation, spoken of in the 5th chap. of St. John.

WINTER is upon us—all save good sleighing. There never was better weather than we have enjoyed for the last three days. The boys, the men, and some of the girls, are taking advantage of the fine skating—both mill-ponds are thickly spotted, day and night; and in the evening present a beautiful spectacle, the glaring bon-fires and the moon's clear light guiding the way of the skaters, as their lithe forms flit o'er the glittering ice. To be sure, sleighs and coasting-sleds have not come in demand yet, (more 's the pity;) but we hear of some ingenious young men being about to bring out an ice-boat, which shall astonish all—being supplied with sail and rudder, and so rigged as to sail on a wind as well or better than before it.

TOOTH SOAP.—Many of our readers will remember an article by this name advertised in our columns last summer, which gave such universal satisfaction. J. H. Thacher of this city, one of the agents for the soap, having disposed of his entire stock, made inquiries for the manufacturer, but did not succeed in finding either him or the article for sale. To supply the deficiency he turned his attention to its manufacture, and now offers it for sale in any quantity, neatly put up in tin foil and enclosed in handsome boxes, at reasonable prices. It is in reality a first rate article for the teeth.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.—Robbery Detected.—Mr. Lamprey of North Hamptou, on retiring to rest some time since, hung his coat, as was his custom, on the bed post. Next morning, having occasion to examine his wallet, which was in his coat pocket, several bills and half of a $5 were missing, for which he was unable to account, until a few days since Mrs. L., while heating her oven, discovered in the ash place a mouse-nest. Thinking she would take a shovel full of coals and burn it, she saw what proved to be three one-dollar bills, one two-dollar bill, half of a five-dollar bill, and fragments of other bills, with four young mice wrapped up in the same.—Messenger.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Sandwich Islands.—Mr. Lyons, the Independent member of Congress from New York, has a memorial from the inhabitants of the Sandwich Islands, asking for the admission of their Island into the Union.

Messrs. Severance and Allen, our late Commissioner and Consul, are also strongly urging annexation.

The armory commission adjourned sine die at Washington on Monday, after having made their reports and delivered over their record to the war department. We presume the truth to be that four favor the civil system, and the other two (Cols. Andrews and Steptoe) the military.—Boston Post.

Mr. Giddings administered the oath to Speaker Boyd. Senator Petitt afterwards asked Giddings if he swore Boyd strong.—Giddings replied, "Yes, I swore him in well, on the 'higher law.'"

GENERAL POST OFFICE.—The Post Master's report shows that at the present date there are 22,680 post offices, and that the cost of transmission of the mails for the last fiscal year was $4,495,968.

The total expenditures of the Department was $7,982,758, and the gross revenue from all sources was $5,940,724, showing a deficiency of $2,042,034.

DECLINE IN FLOUR.—A despatch from Cincinnati, of the 8th December, says, the river has six feet of water in the channel and is receding. Freights are advancing. Flour $5.20 a 5.25. Hogs in fair demand, but prices freely supported. Provisions are dull.

The New York Express remarks that the Europa's news did not have any marked influence on the produce market there on Tuesday. The demand for flour was not very active, and prices, though somewhat firmer, did not materially vary from the quotations preceding her arrival. The supplies here are large just now, and the continued mildness of the weather, keeping the canals open, is likely to increase the quantity going into store.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE.—This is the title of a large and well-executed monthly magazine, which we have just seen for the first time, and the December number of which we have carefully examined. It is said to be "devoted to literature, art and religion;" and the contents of this number fully justify the assertion. The articles on China and its rulers, Spirit Rappings, Christmas and the poets, and the Troubles and Adventures of Young Housekeepers, with many others, are worthy of extensive perusal. There are 20 illustrations, and eighteen articles of some length, besides numerous editorial notes, items, &c. The work is lively without being too light; substantial without being heavy. It may be read with pleasure by persons of good taste, and cannot be offensive or injurious to any. A new volume will commence in January, so that the present is the right time to subscribe. The numbers are sold for 19 cents each, and the work may be seen on application to Rev. Justin Spaulding, who is agent for this city and vicinity.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

FOR THE GERMANIA CONCERT!

One Concert only.

ON MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 12TH.

THE Managers of the contemplated series of three Concerts by this CELEBRATED BAND regret the necessity to announce to the citizens that they have been unable to procure anything near the amount necessary to defray the expenses attending the series, and in consequence are reluctantly compelled to abandon ALL BUT ONE. In order to save themselves from great pecuniary loss with this as in the other Concert, the Temple must be FILLED. They hope the citizens will come forward immediately, to-day, and take up all the Tickets, and that the Germanians will be greeted with an OVERFLOWING HOUSE.—They well deserve it; their Music is superior to any Concert we have ever had, and as we are to have but one, let there not be a vacant seat.

Their Programme will be published in a day or two, and we assure the public that it will be the richest Musical treat ever listened to.

Don't fail to secure your seats to-day.

LATER FOREIGN NEWS.

By the Niagara, we have Liverpool dates to Saturday, Nov. 26.

The steamship Golden Gate refuses to carry the mails to Australia on the small terms offered by the British government, but Capt. Porter notifies the public that she will carry private letters without charge. She was to sail on the 28th ult.

The steamer Sarah Sands sailed on Saturday the 26th for Portland, Me.

The Turkish War.—For the present, hostilities have ceased all along the Moldavia and Wallachia lines. The floods in the Danube prevent operations, but when the frost sets in it is expected that the fighting will be resumed.

Latest from Constantinople.—Letters of the 11th November show that the operations at Oltenitza were a feigned attack, intended to deceive Gortshakoff as to Omer Pacha's real intentions. The plan succeeded, and he is combining his troops to attack the division of Gen. Luders in Bessarabia. The Ottoman fleet in the Black Sea is to co-operate with the land forces in that attack.

The Porte is said to have received from the English and French Ambassadors assurance, in case of need, that it may count on an effective co-operation of France and England, and that it may send its fleet into the Black Sea without fear of leaving the capital exposed to surprise.

The Paris Patrie states, under date of Vienna, 20th, that the Russian army had received orders to assume the offensive, and cross the Danube, and march towards Adrianople, if the Turks will let them.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.

HOUSE.—On motion of Mr. Riddle, members were allowed five daily papers each during the session.

Mr. Bailey, of Virginia, offered a resolution providing for the election of a librarian, who, he said, had heretofore been appointed by the clerk as a matter of sufference. The House refused to table this resolution by a majority of 12. Further proceedings were interrupted by the reception of the Senate resolution respectful to the memory of the late Vice President, Wm. R. King.

Mr. Harris, of Alabama, delivered a glowing eulogy on the deceased, and was followed by six other memqers, when appropriate resolutions were adopted and the House adjourned until Monday. [Both Houses adj.]

SWINDLING AND PROBABLE MURDER.—From the papers of Thursday, it appeared that one Dr. John K. Seymour and his wife Jane have played the tallest kind of panel game at New York upon John R. Stuyvesant. The doctor and doctress are "magnetic physicians," and Mr. Stuyvesant had a pain in his breast, for which he consulted them, paid money and took prescriptions, until the lady's great magnetic power overcame him to that degree that he, believing her story that her husband had gone to Boston, was about to go to bed with her, when "the doctor" rushed in, drew his sword, and made such a fuss that nothing would pacify him but Stuyvesant's making over to him a house and lot in 16th street, worth about $10,000! This was on the 20th of May, and after trying to get back his property by a civil suit, Mr. S. made a deposition before the police, upon which "the doctor" was arrested and put in prison on a charge of conspiracy

A despatch of the 8th, states that on that morning, the case "came up in court, but after some time intelligence was brought in that Mr. Stuyvesant had died very suddenly of Asiatic cholera. It is rumored, however, that he committed suicide."

It might be cholera, or suicide—but we should suspect poison, administered by or for the medical robbers or their accomplices.

THE MESSAGE.—The wise heads at Washington decided not to send the message to Portland, by express, thus treating us not so well, in that respect, as Fillmore's administration. We hope to receive it from the Boston papers to-night. If we do, we shall publish it to-morrow. Maine is of importance about voting time, we suppose, if on no other occasion.—Portland Argus, 6th.

We say ditto, to that. We expected our postmaster had a copy in his hands for us, and that we should get it in season for our paper this week, by delaying our issue a day.—But if it must come second-hand, through the Boston papers, we won't wait. So we go to press as usual, regretting that such an arrangement was made as to give the Message one day earlier to old federal Massachusetts than to democratic Maine. Our readers shall have the Message in full next week.—Bath Times.

The Boston Journal says:

It has been rumored that copies of the Message were sent on in advance, through the Post office to certain newspapers or, individuals in New York and Boston, by a member of the cabinet, and this is not unlikely.

In Worcester, Springfield, Lowell, New Bedford, Providence, and other populous places, the printers had made arrangements to issue the Message in the usual manner, but when the time arrived, it was found that the Postmasters had been overlooked in the distribution, by the authorities at Washington.

MR. SOULE.—Mr. Soule, our Minister to the Court of Spain, has, it is said, recently purchased a splendid estate near Castillon, his birth place, in the French department of the Aridge.

The Cheapest and Best.

THE approach of another Winter, with its usual leisure for Farmers and others, induces the publishers again to call attention to the

AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER,

At $1 per Annum, in advance.

Being published in connection with the DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE, we are enabled to offer a record of news more thorough than Weeklies generally; and being entirely independent of the "arbitrary sway" of any and all parties and sects, our record of passing events we trust is clear and impartial.

The coming year seems big with events of great political interest, and a paper having no party bias will be found interesting as a chronicle of the doings of ALL parties.

LOCAL MATTERS

Have a prominent place in the Weekly Chronicle, so that natives of Portsmouth resident at home or abroad, will here find mention of all matters of interest in this vicinity.

The Weekly Chronicle is of medium size, printed on good paper, and contains but few advertisements—giving twenty columns of news and miscellaneous reading each week, at the low price of one dollar a year.

☞ All Postmasters will act as Agents, and any person sending five subscribers, with pay for a year, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

1,000 DOLLARS

Will be given to any person, who is in need of money, who will produce so many well authenticated certificates from intelligent patients and scientific Physicians, of permanent cure of Nervous Diseases, a list of which may be found in a pamphlet of 36 pages, to be had (gratis) of the only Agent in Portsmouth, DAVID KIMBALL. Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications properly made and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as fire is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Chills, Sprains, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are prescribing the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 500,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Depot: nd manufactory, No. 137 Broadway, New York. Retail price 25 cents a large bottle.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m je22

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease, that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

SAD FATE OF GENIUS.—How precious few people in the world know even the name of the author of "Sweet Home," though its melody has fell upon the ear and rested on the tongue of the million. A writer from Washington, alluding to the life of Payne, and its vicissitudes, says:—

As I sit in my garret here in Washington, watching the course of great men, and the destiny of party, I meet often with strange contradictions in this eventful life. The most remarkable was that of J. Howard Payne, author of "Sweet Home." I knew him personally. He occupied the rooms under me for some time, and his conversation was so captivating that I often spent whole days in his apartment. He was an applicant for office at the time—consul to Tunis—from which he had been removed. What a sad thing it was to see the poet subjected to all the humiliation of office seeking. Of an evening we would walk along the streets. Once in a while we would see some family circle so happy, and forming so beautiful a group, that we would both stop and then pass silently on.

On such occasions he would give a history of his wanderings—his trials, and all the cares incident to his sensitive nature and poverty. "How often," said he once, "I have been in the heart of Paris, Berlin, and London, or some other city, and heard persons singing, or the hand organ playing 'Sweet Home,' without a shilling to buy the next meal, or a place to lay my head. The world has literally sung my song until every heart is familiar with its melody. Yet, I have been a wanderer from my boyhood. My country has turned me ruthlessly from my office; and in my old age I have to submit to humiliation for bread." Thus he would complain of his hapless lot. His only wish was to die in a foreign land, to be buried by strangers, and sleep in obscurity.

I met him one day looking unusually sad. "Have you got your consulate?" said I.

"Yes, and leave in a week for Tunis; I shall never return."

The last expression was not a political feint. Far from it. Poor Payne! his wish was realized, he died at Tunis. Whether his remains have been brought to this country I know not. They should be, and if none others would do it, let the homeless throughout the world give a penny, for a monument to Payne. I knew him, and will give my penny, for an inscription like the following:

Here lies J. Howard Payne.
The Author of "Sweet Home."
A Wanderer in life; he whose songs were sung in every tongue, and found an echo in every heart, never had a home.
He died in a Foreign Land.

BOSTON GIRLS.

———, Tenn., Oct. 24, 1853.

Dear sir:—Will you be so kind as to inform me whether one or two female printers, could, in case of emergency, be obtained in your city, and induced to come to this place? 2d, At what rates they work? and 3d, whether they set type with facility, make clean proof &c?

We receive every week, from all parts of the country, inquiries similar to the foregoing; and to save trouble "all around," have concluded, as Warren in "Uncle Tom" says, to answer them in a mass "generally," and to reply to this one from Tennessee "particularly."

In Boston, probably there are some two hundred girls in printing offices, most of whose families reside in this city or in its immediate vicinity. They can, if they have a good common school education, learn to set type with facility in three months' practice—The price paid is from eighteen to twenty cents per thousand ems, or say two thirds the price paid to men. A girl can set type as fast as a man can; and in our office, our best female compositors, working eight or nine hours a day, earn from seven to eight dollars per week.

Now for our friend "particularly." Every girl in Boston, who is old enough to work in a printing office, or any other office, has a lover, who she would be just as likely to trade off for a Tennessee article as she would for a grizzly bear. The idea of a Boston girl, who goes to operas, patronizes Jullien's concerts, waltzes once a week, eats ice-creams, rides in the omnibus, wears satin slippers, and sometimes kisses the editor, going to Tennessee, except she goes there as the wife of one of your first class citizens—editors excepted—is truly ridiculous. Wouldn't a girl in a nice silk dress, lace-edged pantalettes, and shiny gaiter boots, look well, trudging through the mud and mire of Nashville to an old barn of a printing office, the walls of which are stuck all over with posters offering rewards for runaway niggers, while in one corner of the room two old darkies are jerking away at a ramage press, and in the other squirting tobacco juice all over the floor? Wouldn't she be in a nice fix when some great brute of a fellow whom he had offended, got playing at the game of shooting revolvers across the office at each other's heads! Who would make the fire when the d—l had run off, and the editor was drunk? Who'd go home with her dark nights? Who'd take her out to ride Saturday afternoons, and go to church with her on Sundays? No sir—a Boston girl wouldn't go to Tennessee for love nor money. She can get enough of both nearer home.—Boston Olive Branch.

LOVE AND LUCRE—An Allegory.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Love and Lucre met one day,
In chill November weather,
And so, to while the time away,
They held discourse together.

Love at first was rather shy,
As thinking there was danger
In venturing so very nigh
The haughty-looking stranger;

But Lucre managed to employ
Behavior so potential,
That in a trice the bashful boy
Grew bold and confidential.

"I hear," quoth Lucre, bowing low,
"With all your hearts and honey,
You sometimes suffer—is it so?—
For lack of mortal money."

Love owned that he was poor in aught
Except in golden fancies,
And ne'er, as yet, had given a thought
To mending his finances.

"Besides, I've heard"—thus Love went on,
The other's hint improving—
"That gold, however sought or won,
Is not a friend to loving."

"An arrant lie—as you shall see—
Full long ago invented,
(By knaves who know not you nor me!)
To tickle the demented."

And Lucre waved his wand—and lo!
By magical expansion,
Love saw his little hovel grow
Into a stately mansion!

And where before he used to sup
Untended in his cottage,
And grumble o'er the earthen cup
That held his meagre pottage;

Now, smoking viands crown his board,
And many a flowing chalice;
His larder was with plenty stored,
And beauty filled the palace!

And Love, though rather lean at first,
And tinged with melancholy,
On generous wines and puddings nurst,
Grew very stout and jolly!

Yet mindful of his truest friend,
He never turns detractor,
But prays that blessings may attend
His worthy benefactor;

And when his friends are gay above
Their evening whist or euchre,
And drink a brimming "Health to Love!"
He drinks, "Success to Lucre!"

STEAMER MONTREAL.—The Quebec Gazette of Saturday says—"The steamer Montreal is, we regret to say, a total wreck. A sheet of ice has struck the ill-fated steamer with such force as to cut her in two as far down as the engines, and at the same time it sent the steamer Point Levi, which was attempting to get the Montreal off, hard ashore."

TIT FOR TAT.—It needed New Hampshire potash to unite the oil and water to form the "soft" soap of the present government.—Hartford Courant.

Yes—and it has put a clean face on public affairs, while whiggery has been drowned in the "suds."—Boston Post.

FOOLISH SUICIDE.—John Brown, of Lisbon, Wisconsin, a rusty, crusty old bachelor, hung himself on the 8th November. An engagement to marry is supposed to have affected his mind. After being rash enough to enter into the nuptial contract, the poor fellow trembled at the consequences of being tied up for life, hence the tragic result stated above.

CUBA.—A letter from Havana, in the Star, intimates that England had a hand in the appointment of the Consul General, and states that he is an aristocrat, and opposed to slavery.

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, DEC. 12. 1853.

JONAS CHICKERING.

Mr. Chickering, who died in Boston on Thursday night, Dec. 8, was born in New Ipswich, N. H., and was educated at the town school of the place. At the age of 17 he began to learn the cabinet maker's trade.—While engaged in his work, he accidentally was called to repair a piano forte. It was the first instrument of the kind he had ever seen; but he was able, by his ingenuity, to restore it to usefulness. He went to Boston, February 15th, 1818. He worked for one year at his trade, and on the first anniversary of his advent into the city he entered into the employ of one of the pioneer manufacturers of piano fortes. On the 15th of February, 1823, he commenced business with a partner, and soon acquired a reputation which has always been sustained. On the 12th anniversary of his entrance into the city, he became associated with Mr. Mackay, and his business was much extended. The 15th of February (says the Transcript) seems to have been the day on which four of the great enterprises of life have been undertaken.

Of his worth, says the Chronicle, it is hardly necessary to say a single word, for wherever his name has been pronounced it has been coupled with all that was generous, noble, enterprising and good. As a business man, he stood at the head of his profession, and was more extensively engaged at the time of his death than at any former period.

Mr. Chickering, by his own unaided efforts, had accumulated a handsome property. In his official relations, as a member of the Legislature, President of the Handel and Haydn Society, and President of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, which last named office he filled at the time of his death, he was held in high regard by his associates. No needy artist ever applied to him for assistance in vain, and to all musicians he acted the part of a brother and a disinterested friend. This trait of character he carried into all his dealings.

The deceased was 67 years of age, and has left behind him four children—three sons and one daughter, the two oldest sons being married.

DANIEL ABBOT.—The Nashua Gazette thus notices the Hon. Daniel Abbot, who died in that city on Saturday Dec. 3, aged 78:

Mr. Abbot was one of the fathers of the place, having located here in 1802, when there was nothing but a forest on its present site. He possessed the entire confidence of this community, and has discharged many public trusts with fidelity and to the satisfaction of all. He was President of the Nashua and Lowell R. R. from its start until two years ago. He has been a Senator from this District in our Legislature, and represented the old town of Dunstable for many years. He graduated at Harvard University in the class of 1797, and at the time of his decease was the eldest member of the Hillsborough Co. bar. In his death the place has suffered a heavy loss.

REPORT OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL.—According to the Report of the Postmaster General, the whole number of Post-Offices in the United States at the close of the last official year, ending June 30, 1853, was 23,320. Of this number 255 are of the largest class, the Postmasters of which are appointed by the President.

At the present date, Dec. 1, 1853, the total number of Post-Offices is 22,688. During the past year, commencing July 1, 1852, 1898 Post-Offices were established; 479 were discontinued; and there were appointed to office during said year, besides the 1898 Postmasters to the newly established offices aforesaid, 3850 upon resignation, 225 on death, 182 by change of site, 91 where the Postmasters had moved away, and 2321 on the removal of prior incumbents; being 8567 Postmasters appointed during the year ending June 30, 1853.

At the close of the fiscal year, ending on the 30th June last, there were in operation within the United States 6,692 mail routes. Their aggregate length was 217,743 miles, and 5583 contractors were employed thereon.

The annual transportation of the mails on those routes was 61,892,542 miles, and the annual cost thereof, $4,495,968, being about seven cents two mills per mile. Of these 61,892,542 miles of annual transportation, 12,985,705 miles are required to be performed on railroads, at a cost of $1,601,321, being about twelve cents three mills per mile; 6,685,066 miles in steamboats, at a cost of $632,868, being about nine cents four mills per mile; 21,330,326 miles in coaches at a cost of $1,296,958, being about five cents six mills per mile; and 20,890,446 miles in modes not specified, at a cost of $1,055,313, being about five cents per mile.

The expenditures of the Department during the last fiscal year were $7,982,758. The gross revenue from all sources was $5,940,724.

It appears from the foregoing statement that the gross revenue of the year, ending June 30, 1853, falls short of the expenditures by the sum of $2,042,034.

$1,571,000 of this deficiency is supplied by the balance on the Auditor's books on July 1, 1852, and by the appropriations to supply deficiencies, amounting to upward of $1,000,000, leaving $546,000 to be provided by Congress for the service of the year ending June 30, 1853.

The American Linen Mill at Fall River, is progressing finely toward completion. Operatives are now employed in spinning, and in a few weeks the process of weaving will be commenced.

CORRECT WRITING AND SPEAKING.

For the benefit of persons young or old, desirous of improving their style of writing and debating, we give below a couple of extracts from the sketch of the life of Franklin, included in Mr. Webster's Address before the Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association, last week.

Franklin's attention, which before had been directed to the acquisition of knowledge, being now turned to the manner of conveying that knowledge to others, he chanced to fall in with an odd volume of Addison's Spectator—a book which has perhaps done more than any other prose work in the English language towards forming a correct taste in composition. This he read over and over, and was so pleased with the beauty of its style, that he determined to make it a model for his imitation. As the manner in which he proceeded to correct his own bungling style of composition, and by which he succeeded in acquiring one of singular purity, perspicuity and beauty, may be successfully and profitably followed by all young persons desirous of improving their language in writing and speaking, I give it in his own words, as follows:

"With that view I took some of the papers (of the Spectator,) and making short hints of the sentiments of each sentence, laid them by a few days; and then without looking at the book, tried to complete the papers again by expressing each hinted sentiment at length, and as fully as it had been expressed before, in any suitable words that should occur to me. Then I compared my Spectator with the original, discovered some of my faults, and corrected them. But I found I wanted a stock of words, or a readiness in recollecting and using them. Therefore I took some of the tales in the Spectator and turned them into verse; and after a time, when I had pretty well forgotten the prose, turned them back again. I also sometimes jumbled my collection of hints into confusion, and after some weeks endeavored to reduce them into the best order, before I began to form the full sentences and complete the subject. This was to teach me method in the arrangement of the thoughts. By comparing my work with the original, I discovered many faults, and corrected them."

I would here remark that the authoress of our own city, whose writings for children and youth are so much to be admired for the simplicity, terseness and clearness of the language, as well as for the interest of the narrative and instructiveness of the moral, formed her style from the same model and by pursuing a similar method.

By studying rhetoric, Franklin improved his style of disputation—dropping abrupt contradiction and positive argumentation, and assuming the part of an humble enquirer or modest suggester. His remarks on his manner of expressing himself in debate or conversation, are worthy the adoption of us all.—They are as follows:

"I retain the habit of expressing myself in terms of modest diffidence, never using, when I advance anything that may possibly be disputed, the words certainly, undoubtedly, or any others that give the air of positiveness to an opinion: but rather saying, I conceive or apprehend a thing to be so and so; it appears to me, or, I should not think it, so or so, for such and such reasons; or, I imagine it to be so; or, it is so if I am not mistaken. This habit I believe has been of great advantage to me, when I have had occasion to inculcate my opinions, and persuade men into measures that I have been from time to time engaged in promoting. I wish well meaning and sensible men would not lessen their power of doing good by a positive, assuming manner, that seldom fails to disgust, tends to create opposition, and to defeat most of those purposes for which speech was given to us."

TIMBER LANDS IN CANADA.—We learn from a correspondent that Mr. Ephraim Paulk, of Bangor, in connection with a gentleman of Boston, has recently purchased the fee, of two old French Seigniaries; amounting to about one hundred and eighty thousand acres, on the Rivers St. Lawrence and Ristigouche, in the British Provinces. We understand that it is not often that the fee can be obtained to lands in the Provinces, except by the purchase of these old French grants. Our correspondent remarks that nobody knows the value of timber lands better than our neighbors of Maine.—Boston Adv.

There is no need of wondering why the British Provinces are behind New England in most respects, when the land is held by landlords or great men, and not by the men who till it.

HEAVY FAILURE AND REPORTED FORGERY.—The Norwich Weekly Courier states that Mr. Abner T. Pierce, of that place, who has been largely engaged in the manufacture of cars in Norwich and also at the eastern terminus of the Erie Railroad, has been obliged to suspend payments. To this announcement the Courier adds the following painful statement:

"Since the above was in type we learn that the failure of Mr. Pierce has brought to light another and more startling act, viz.: that he has been engaged in forgeries to a heavy amount—not less than $90,000 of his spurious paper having been found in the banks of this city. Mr. Pierce meanwhile has disappeared from Norwich, and it is conjectured that he has left the country. The hour at which we send our paper to press precludes further details to-day, further than to add that before leaving Mr. Pierce executed mortgages, and made assignments partially protecting some of the parties most largely involved in his ruin."

THE "MILLION FUND."—A meeting was held in New Bedford Friday evening, to obtain subscriptions to the "Million Fund" to enforce the liquor law. Mr. Dunbar of Easton, said that $200,000 had already been subscribed towards it in other parts of Bristol county. A committee was appointed to visit those who sell liquor, and warn them of the impending danger, if they continue the traffic.

Fitchburg is to be lighted with gas about the 1st of January.

YOUNG MEN OF PORTSMOUTH.

Within a year or two, three Societies have been organized in this city, designed especially for the benefit of the younger men in the community. These are the Christian Association, the Eureka Club of Temperance Watchmen, and the Mercantile Library Association—naming them in the order in which they were established.

The Christian and Mercantile Associations have recently come to be more generally noticed, by persons at home and abroad, interested in the welfare of our city. Liberal donations of money and books have been and still continue to be conferred upon each, and both are advancing toward a degree of prosperity in which they will be able to wield a mighty influence for good.

The Eureka Club has never been brought before the public, as its secret organization allows its form of proceedings to be known alone to members of the Order. Its claims to the notice and support of all temperance men, however, are soon to be publicly presented by a prominent member of the Order in Maine.

Organizations similar to these have long been wanted among us—and for the good of our city, all should be liberally encouraged by those whose means will allow. Such Societies not only incite to and develope in youth, the power of public speaking and ready thinking, by engaging in the debate and the essay; but by supplying a cheerful place of meeting with suitable companions, and good newspapers, periodicals and books to read, may be the means of permanently benefitting many. It would be well for our citizens to "think on these things," and give these Societies all the encouragement in their power.

THE GERMANIANS' CONCERT.—This evening, at the Temple, our citizens will enjoy another opportunity, probably the last, to hear the excellent playing of the Germania Musical Society, with the singing of two good vocalists. We hope the house will be filled.

BERWICK ACADEMY.

The new academy building in South Berwick, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on Tuesday, Dec. 6. The address on the occasion was by Rev. B. R. Allen, and is characterized in the Boston Advertiser, as an elaborate and interesting performance.

In the address, the importance of preserving the Bible in our schools, as a standard for the regulation of study, was dwelt upon at length, in connexion with the fact, that one of the original trustees and patrons of the Academy, the Hon. John Lord, had established a fund from the proceeds of which a Bible had been given to every student since the year 1818. Mr. Allen gave a minute historical account of this Academy, which is the oldest institution of the kind in the State of Maine, having been founded in the year 1791. Three Academy buildings have been successively erected since 1791, on the commanding site belong to the institution. The present building is an elegant and commodious edifice, much larger than either of the former buildings. It is 77 feet in length by 45 in width, and has been built according to the plans and under the superintendence of Richard Upjohn, Esq., of New York, and reflects honor upon the taste and ability of that distinguished architect. At the meeting of trustees, Hon. Wm. P. Haines, of Biddeford, resigned his seat at the board, and Ichabod Goodwin, Esq. of this city, was elected to fill the vacancy.

"LOWELL" MANUFACTURES.—Mr. Carleton has advertised a new stove, called the "Lowell Coal and Gas Burner," said to be the best out; and two of our cotemporaries last week advertised a "Lowell Mare" for sale by E. A. Stevens. This is a breed of horses little known about here. Mr. S. has a sorrel mare for sale, we believe.

DISASTER TO THE CALIFORNIA PACKET, AND FIFTEEN LIVES LOST.—Advices from Limerick, Ireland, state that the brig California Packet, McNelly, sailed from Broadhaven on 3d ult. with four hundred tons of iron, and fifty passengers, for New York. On the next day having sprung aleak, her crew and passengers were compelled to take to the boats, two of which floated about the sea for several days, during which 15 persons, after great suffering, died. The rest were subsequently picked up.

THE HUMBOLDT STEAMER.—The owners of the Humboldt have received the following despatch from Halifax, dated Dec. 7:—"We have now no hopes of saving the ship; have just left her; engines settling through the bottom. Capt. Lines doing all in his power to save the cargo; can only work at low water. All cargo and material saved and brought here in small steamers."

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 9.—Cold Weather. Last night was the coldest we have yet experienced. The canal was frozen over, and no boats passed to-day until 3 o'clock. It is clear this evening with indications of a frosty night.

The governor of South Carolina has granted a pardon to the white woman who was ordered to be whipped in Charleston.

At Salmon Falls, Miss Harriet Dudley, daughter of Mr William K. and Mrs. Hannah B. Dudley of Kingfield, Me, aged 19 years.

In Epping, Dec. 6th, of consumption, Capt. John Washington Morrill, aged 35 years. He was highly esteemed by his townsmen and a large circle of friends, and had already received marks of public approbation. He was for several years town clerk of Epping; had for a number of years prior to his death filled the office of Deputy Sheriff for Rockingham county, to the satisfaction of the public, and had held honorable stations in the associations and societies in the town, in all of which he acquitted himself with honor and fidelity. He was an active man, being engaged extensively in mercantile business, agriculture, &c. He was truly a valuable citizen, being public spirited, and always ready to contribute to any meritorious public enterprise. And for his private acts of charity and benevolence, the blessing of the poor and the just tribute of praise from the "lowly," will add fragrance to the memoy of departed worth. His family has lost a kind and affectionate husband and father; the public a faithful and efficient officer; society one of its most enterprising, intelligent and useful members; and young men a bright example of moral excellence, worthy their imitation.—Com.

They hope the citizens will come forward immediately, to-day, and take up all the Tickets, and that the Germanians will be greeted with an OVERFLOWING HOUSE.—They well deserve it; their Music is superior to any Concert we have ever had, and as we are to have but one, let there not be a vacant seat.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.—Washington, Dec. 9.—The War Department has advices from Capt. Morris confirmatory of the previous accounts of the massacre of the Gunnison party. The Star says that Capt. M. found the bodies so mutilated by wolves that they could not remove or even bury them. Capt. Gunnison was shot with fifteen arrows, and Mr. Kearn, the draftsman of the party, was shot through the heart with a rifle ball, and both his arms torn off. Nothing but a watch-guard was found on his body.

NAVAL.—Assistant Surgeon Williamson is ordered to the coast survey steamer Walker, and Passed Assistant Surgeon William A. Harris has been ordered to ship Pennsylvania. The other officers ordered to the Walker are Lieutenant B. F. Sands (to command her,) S. S. Bassett, acting master. Passed Midshipmen R. C. Nones, Jr., has been ordered to coast survey steamer Legare.

The Home Squadron has been ordered to rendezvous at St. Thomas to receive instructions.

The Fulton will sail in a few days and the Albany in a week.

THE ARMY.—The Secretary of War, states the actual strength of our army to be 10,417, officers and men, about all of whom are employed on the frontier. He estimates that 4,600 recruits will be wanted for the ensuing year, to maintain the full authorized strength of the army,—13,821. To prevent desertions and keep the ranks full, he recommends an increase of pay to the soldier, and an additional increase for every five years he shall serve; also provisions for the promotion of non-commissioned officers to the lowest grade of commissioned officers.

Rev. Mr. Elliot, the Unitarian clergyman at St. Louis, corrects the report that has been in circulation, that all the members of his church had emancipated their slaves. He says, that, "in the course of five or ten years past, several of the members have emancipated slaves, and upon this fact has grown the larger statement of a general Church action on the subject." Mr. Elliot claims to be the friend of the negro, and of freedom, but says, "I do not hesitate to say, although by saying it I forfeit the good opinion of some, who have intended to exalt me by their praise, that I know of instances in my society, in which I would not advise the present emancipation of those held in bondage."

POSTAGE IN ENGLAND.—Letter Postage is cheap in England, and the number of letters transmitted by mail has amazingly increased since the cheap system was adopted. It is stated that there now pass daily through the post-office 156,000 letters, and 40,000 papers more than in 1846; the number of letters per week is 7,700,000—more than 400 millions in a year. But even now John Bull grumbles at the rate of postage, and gravely puts the following puzzling query: "Why is it that a passenger and his baggage, weighing together from 200 to 300 pounds, can be carried from London to Paris for £3, and that a similar weight of letters cannot be conveyed over the same ground for less than £1386 13s. 4d."

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Five persons dangerously injured.—A very serious accident occurred about ten o'clock last evening, on the New York and New Haven Railroad, near Bergen Cut. The emigrant train which left Jersey City for the West at 9 1-3 o'clock P. M., came in collision with the day express train from Dunkirk, at a point about three miles from Jersey City. The place where the accident happened is about a quarter of a mile from the Patterson depot, which is but a mere shed. No dwelling houses are within the distance of half a mile of thereabouts.

The passengers in the day express train suffered severely by the collision. Five of them, three men and two ladies, were brought to this city last night, and of these, probably; two or three will not recover from their injuries.

The names of the injured are as follows:—Thomas Furguson, left leg cut off at the ancle joint, not a particle of the foot remaining attached; will probably die. Mrs. Davidson, aged 28, resides at Brooklyn; leg broken. She will probably recover, although otherwise injured about the body. Mrs. Elizabeth Little, wife of Dr. Lyman Little of Zanesville, Ohio, very badly injured in the back. Mrs. Little was found doubled up among the fragments of the seats, bent over backwards, and suffering from internal injuries. She is in a critical condition. John Post, baggage master of New York and Erie Railroad, leg broken. William C. Allen, residing at No. 35 Grand street, Williamsburg, aged about 22, leg injured, and body badly bruised; will recover.—New York Times of Friday.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¾ lbs.—13¼ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¾ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attestions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. It was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs at tholent are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

EDITORS.

Fanny Fern says—"I tell you that Editors are just the fattest, sleekest, most rolicsome, the cleverest, brightest, most intelligent and loveable set of humans in existence; and the only reason they don't "own up" is, because they don't want to let the world in general know how many little favors and perquisites fall to their lot!

They go down to the office after a careful toilet and a comforting breakfast, make up a fire in the stove, hot enough to roast an Icelander, "hermetically seal" every door and window, put on a pair of old slippers, light a cigar, draw up a huge easy chair, stick their feet up twice as high as their head, and proceed to business; that is to say, between the whiffs of that cigar they tell excruciatingly funny stories, poke each other in the ribs, agree to join the Mutual Admiration Society, retail all the wire-pulling behind the scenes, calculate which way the political cat is going to jump, and shape the paragraphs accordingly; tell who threw that large boquet at the last night's concert, to Madame Fitz Humbug; shake hands and make room for all the "hail fellows well met" that drop in to see them; keep their intellects sharpened up by collision with the bright and gifted—in short live in one perpetual clover field, and when they die, all the newspapers write their fine obituary notices and give them a free pass to paradise. I would like to know if that looks like a "vexed existence?"

Proud would feel we to tell of the wedding cake and flowers and fruits and animals, embroidered purses and tasseled smoking caps, pretty little notes, braided watch chains, the handkerchiefs they get perfumed, and gloves mended for nothing. How every body nudges his neighbor, when they appear at lecture or concert or opera, and says "There's that clever fellow the editor of the Comet!" How he has a season ticket by a Frog Pond; How he has—but there is no use in telling all a body knows! Christopher Columbus! an Editor's life a "vexed existence!"

Let those laugh now who never laughed before,

COMPLIMENT FOR MRS. PARTINGTON "OF OURS" FROM A HIGH SOURCE.—Dr. O. W. Holmes, in the course of his closing lecture in New York, on modern English poets, on Friday evening, referring to Hood, said—"There is plenty of wit in the poetry of our country, but the preparing of wit is so purely intellectual a process, that it can be ordered beforehand, like ice-cream. Much, if not all of Hood's fun is of this kind. Humor is infinitely rarer than wit. I think there has been very little of it since Burns. Humor must have feeling in it; wit needs none. Voltaire was a wit, but Mrs. Partington's conversation with the omnibus driver has more feeling and humor than all he ever uttered. As laughter and weeping are closely allied, so pathos and humor are akin."—

"How do you do, dear?" said Mrs. Partington, smilingly, shaking hands with Burbank, in the Dock square omnibus, as he held out his five dexter digits towards her. "Fare, ma'am," said he, in reply to her inquiry.—"Well, I'm shore, I'm glad of it, and how are the folks at home?" "Fare, ma'am," continued he, still extending his hand. The passengers were interested. "How do you like Boston?" screamed she, as the omnibus rattled over the stones. "Fare, ma'am," shouted he without drawing back his hand; "I want you to pay me for your ride." "Oh," murmured she, "I thought it was some one that knowed me," and rummaged down in the bottom of her ridicule for a ticket, finding at last five copper cents tied up in the corner of her handkerchief—the "last war" handkerchief, with the stars and stripes involved in it, and the action of the Constitution and Guerriere stamped upon it. But the smile she had given him at first was not withdrawn—there was no allowance made for mistakes at that counter—and he went out, with a lighter heart and a heavier pocket to catch t'other coach.—Boston Post.

CROWDS AT WASHINGTON.—Letters from the capital state that the influx of strangers there to be present at the commencement of Congress, is very large—so much so that the hotels and public places are literally black with people. This large increase of comers has caused a rise in the price at the hotels from $2 to $2 50 per day, and in other matters the prices have been raised. The milkmen even sympathise with the upward tendency of things, and now charge ten cents a quart for milk.

EDITORIAL "ARM CHAIR."—The editor pro tem. of the Herald, in the interior of California, retires from his post in a suitable valedictory, in the course of which he says:—"I shall abdicate with dignity the arm chair, in favor of its legitimate proprietor. By the way, this arm chair is but a pleasant fiction—the only seat in the Herald office being the empty nail keg, which I have occupied while writing my leaders upon the inverted sugar box, that answers the purpose of a table.—But such is life."

THE SAILOR'S GRAVE.

He's gone to sleep; He's gone to sleep,
Where the wild sea washes o'er him;
He rests upon the ocean's breast,
With its treasures spread before him.

He sleeps where the waves, in storm or calm,
Are dancing o'er his pillow;
And when the sea breeze lifts his curls,
His cheek is wet by the billow.

The sea-nymphs chant their symphonies
Where the sailor is lying low;
And 'mid the roar of the breaking surge,
Is mingled a tone of woe.

He rests, far from his childhood's home,
No willow is o'er him weeping,
But sea nymphs roam, and wild waves come,
Where the sailor boy is sleeping.

Far from his own fair native land,
And his gentle Annie's eyes,
He sleeps beneath the blue below,
'Neath the blue of foreign skies.

The dashing wave is his last, long home,
The spray is his winding sheet;
The coral is his head stone high,
And pearl is the stone at his feet.

He hears no more the wild watch-cry,
Nor starts at the "sail ahoy;"
The quick life pulse in his life is still,
And it throbs not with pain or joy.

But the wind whistles merrily over
The tomb that is fit for a seaman's child,
The resting place of the rover.

He loved the sea in his dreamy life,
And he could not rest in peace,
If all the sounds of the ocean's strife,
And the waves' wild march should cease.

He could not rest, if wild flowers fair,
And violets over him bending,
To the gentle breath of the evening air,
Their perfume sweet were lending.

Up he would start from his restless sleep,
And up from his cold earth pillow,
And hie him away to the dashing deep,
To a grave beneath the billow.

There shall he rest till the last dread day,
And the summons that comes to all;
When e'en from the sea, the dead are piped
Aloft by the trumpet call.

THE POPE IN THE PULPIT.—A spectacle of rare interest was presented in the Roman Forum on a recent Sunday afternoon, being no less than a sermon from Pope Pio Nono to the people. It was delivered to the assembled multitude from the steps of the Church of San Guiseppi dei Falegnami, over the Mamertine Prison, whither the ancient crucifix, which has been adored there for many centuries, had just been brought back in the midst of a splendid processional train, after its fifteen days' sojourn in the Church of San Carlo al Sorso. The Pope's sermon was just 24 minutes in duration.

Mrs. Douglass, convicted at Norfolk of learning negro children to read and write, has escaped to the North.

TALK ON TEMPERANCE.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

There is no subject on which it is more desirable to be in possession of facts, than on that of Temperance compared with Intemperance. And yet there seems to be hardly a subject on which more people deceive themselves and each other. That there should be a difference of opinion as to what ought to be done to promote temperance, seems quite natural; and also as to what temperance is, and how far it ought to be promoted. Men's different interests, appetites and habits, hopes and fears, all tend to shape their opinions here, and consequently to make them differ.

But it seems strange that any person should wish to be deceived in regard to the present and past facts which bear on the questions of temperance and intemperance. It is not so strange that any one feeling that he has a case to make out, should stretch the facts as much as they will bear, and make some desperate leaps at conclusions, from very scanty premises.

We do not regard it as either a strange or a bad symptom, when we see men sensitive at the bare imputation of a bad habit, real or supposed. It shows, on the contrary, that the public and private conscience is not dead; and though it may sleep, yet it can be roused and made to act.

It is the purpose of the writer, who has looked the subject steadily and soberly in the face for more than forty years, to bring out a series of facts and anecdotes which are within his own knowledge and observation, and others which are well attested. This will be done in the hope and belief, that readers of all classes and all opinions will take notice of them; contradict and disprove them if they deem them false, and correct them if erroneous.

The statements will be comparative as well as positive, and will be accompanied with extracts from different sources, for comment, controversy, or support.

The first extract is from the Boston Transcript of Dec. 9, under the head of Social Life in Boston.

We trust our country friends will not credit the various stories which are told with so much pathos, and we may with truth add, bathos, in regard to the great increase of crime in Boston. The fact is, the increase of crime in this city has not by any means kept pace with the increase of our population. The records of our courts show, that thirty years ago there was actually more crime in proportion to the number of people than there is at present, and this notwithstanding the vast increase in our foreign population. If our visitors from the country would not furnish business to our officers and courts to the degree they do at present, the result would be still more favorable to the character of our resident citizens.

We have no doubt whatever, that in the main, these statements are correct. Thirty years ago there was doubtless more crime on the records of Boston, pro rata, than now.—So also, thirty-three years ago, there was more intemperance in Boston, pro rata, than there is now, notwithstanding all the boasting and groaning to the contrary. At that time it was no "stigma" for any man to be styled "a habitual drinker," for the practice of drinking strong drinks among all classes of laborers and mechanics, was regular, systematic and almost universal. So nearly, that in a mechanical establishment where thirty men and boys were employed, two only were excepted; and, it being an indoor business where no liquors were furnished, twenty of the thirty went regularly out to drink, forenoon and afternoon. Eight of the number were then, what would now be called hard drinkers; yet the circumstance then occasioned no odium, and was only a topic of occasional remark.

Out door workmen of all sorts, as masons, joiners, house and ship carpenters, riggers and laborers, were furnished with a half pint of rum each per day, without exception; and in all gangs of men it was expected they should drink it up—and with a few exceptions they did it. In order that they might do it systematically and artistically, a Church Bell was rung every working day at 11 o'clock, that all labor in Boston might cease for a moment, while all the laborers should drink their grog in concert.

The bell selected for this "peculiar institution," was that on the Old North, the same bell now hanging in the belfry of the Methodist Church in Hanover street—as at that time carpenters, riggers, &c., abounded in that neighborhood. Nor was there any thing ludicrous then, to Uncle Toby or to any body else, in the idea of ringing a church bell for grog-time, though every body will take the liberty to smile at it now.

It must not be supposed that because these laborers drank so much at their work, they drank no where else. A very few did not, but the vast majority drank elsewhere, occasionally, freely and frequently. Nor was drinking confined to laborers or workmen.

The gentlemen and idlers drank; the clergy and laity, the lawyer and doctor, the sexton and nurse drank, at wedding and funeral, birth and christening.—The stage driver and passenger drank together as they started and when they stopped. And ladies and gentlemen drank together and separately, at home and abroad. There was a bar in the Boston Theatre, in the Lion Theatre, and a bar in every public house, great and small, in Boston, where liquors were freely sold and temptingly offered by day and night. Every confectioner sold cordials—and all grog shops and bars,—(they were not then ashamed of these names then) sold all the rum and other liquors they could. And did they all find customers? Yes indeed, for almost everybody drank.

As few families, at that time, in Boston, could be found without liquor or wines, as could now be found without Cochituate water—and any decent family at that time would have felt ashamed of a deficiency so uncommon and inexcusable.

No man will say that these things remain unchanged: we say they have changed greatly—and some of them have changed twice, once for the better, and then again for the worse. But they have not yet, as the public know full well, any of them, got quite back into their old position,—nor have we room to speak of them in this chapter, but reserve some thoughts for the next.

DESTRUCTION OF THE HARPERS' BOOK ESTABLISHMENT AT NEW YORK.—At one o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the great book establishment of Harper & Brothers, the most extensive in its operations and character, probably, in the world, was discovered to be on fire in one of its rooms, and the end was the loss of nearly the whole property. The fire broke out when the hands had just returned from dinner. It is attributed to the dropping of one of those accessories of incendiarism—a camphene lamp—in one of the rooms of the establishment, and also to a defect in the steam machinery and to the bursting of a steam chest. The flames spread over the rooms as quickly as they were kindled, involving a fearful destruction, but the operatives escaped, although some of them were placed in jeopardy. A couple of girls leaped from the windows, and were not essentially injured.

The establishment of the Harpers consisted of six lofty buildings, extending through from Pearl street to Cliff street, all of which were destroyed. When the fire broke out, the wind was northerly, but it gradually shifted to the west, and carried the flames across Pearl street, setting fire to the Mansion House, and the Pearl street Hotel, which buildings were badly burned in the upper stories. The blank book manufactory of George T. Cooledge & Brother, No. 323 Pearl street, adjoining the Harper's buildings, was destroyed. The loss to the Harpers is immense, involving the destruction of their extensive catalogue of books, the entire set of their stereotype plates, the immense amount of material stored upon the premises—the loss of the Magazine, enjoying a circulation unprecedented in the annals of periodical literature. By this calamity five or six hundred operatives are thrown out of employment. It is said, however, that the stereotype plates of the company have been preserved in their safes. The fire destroyed in all six teen buildings, and the entire loss is estimated at three quarters of a million dollars, of which about one-half fall on Messrs. Harper & Brothers, who are, however, largely insured in New York city offices.—Boston Courier.

MAIL BURNED.—Great Loss of Baggage.—The Chicago Journal of Tuesday evening states that about six o'clock that morning, a car containing mails and baggage, on the Michigan Southern Railroad, going west, a few miles from the Ainsworth station, was discovered to be on fire, and most of its contents were destroyed. The mail was contained in five or six canvas and leather bags, the latter suffering most. Some portions of the letters and packages can be deciphered, and will reach their destination. The greater part are hopelessly destroyed. The car contained some thirty or forty trunks, most of which were consumed or so badly damaged as to be nearly valueless. The fire is supposed to have been caused by some combustibles improperly contained in the passengers' baggage.

A YOUNG LADY FOUND DEAD—SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCE.—Yesterday morning, at an early hour, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, named Annie Maria Hare, was found lying in her bed a corpse, by one of her domestics employed in the house. There seemed to be something wrong in the matter, which even the Coroner's inquisition did not make known, as the evidence reveals nothing having a real bearing on the matter except that the deceased was excessively fond of gin. The deceased was just past two and twenty, and for beauty has enjoyed the reputation of being the belle of Harlem. Latterly, the fair damsel resided alone at a costly cottage on the corner of Fourth avenue and One hundred and Twenty-fifth street, Harlem, where she was surrounded with servants, but no other constant companions.—N. Y. Times.

LOSS OF THE REVENUE CUTTER HAMILTON AND SEVERAL LIVES.—A despatch from Charleston of the 9th states that the revenue cutter Hamilton left the dry docks there on Wednesday for a cruise, having on board Thomas E. Rudolph of St. Mary, Ga., Captain; Camillus Saunders, 1st; E. C. Hines, 2d Lieutenant; and a crew of twelve men.—It blew a hurricane at night, during which the Hamilton was lost off Fully Breakers, Charleston Bay. The officers and crew took to two life-boats, one of which had not been heard of at last accounts; the other (containing Captain Rudolph, the Quarter-master and four men, who were all drowned, with the exception of one seaman, who was lashed to the boat,) was picked up by a Savannah steamer.

BOSTON ELECTION.—Monday was the day for choice of Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council. At noon, Mayor Seaver was 23 votes in the majority over all others, in 4000 votes. Rather a close run.

MADAME SONTAG.

Next on the list of amusements for the citizens of our good city, stands the Combination Concert of Madame Sontag, on Wednesday evening at the Temple, when this gifted songstress and admirable woman is engaged, with other talented and eminent musicians, to delight our ears and move our hearts. Rare indeed in this city, are such musical treats as we may confidently expect from Madame Sontag's troupe to-morrow evening. See programme in another column.

As there appears to be an idea with some of our citizens, that Madame Sontag is the lady whose agent so insulted and humbugged our citizens last summer, we deem it proper to say that it is Bochsa and Madame Anna Bishop's agent to whom they "owe a grudge," and none of the present able and popular troupe.

☞ The business of Rockingham County before the Superior Court of Judicature, will be taken up for consideration, to-day—at the Court House in Concord. Strafford County Docket is in order for Thursday.

☞ A change of carrier on our West list may account for any omissions in that part of the city—which we will endeavor to correct as soon as discovered.

EDITORS must be a most fortunate set of humans, according to Fanny Fern's story—which will be found on our outside. Well, they do occasionally receive some of "the small sweet courtesies of life"—the which, if more generally thought of among all classes of men, would make life more worth the living. Among other favors, we have to thank our neighbor Head for a trifle from his stock of fancy goods—a Bill-Hook, very convenient in the office or the counting-room; also Mr. Yeaton, for a sample of the new Congress Blacking he advertises. Perhaps if we were over-sensitive, we might construe this present into an insult—but as we are not, we read in it that the giver sends us this as the best article yet for polishing our boots, and not a hint to keep them clean. For a beautiful and tastefully-arranged boquet of delicious house-flowers, we are much indebted to some unknown fair hand. May flowers the brightest earth knows, bloom in her path, till called to roam the golden sands, 'mid flowers whose verdure and perfume know no fading. F.

LATER NEWS FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7, P. M.—The steamers Daniel Webster, from San Juan de Nicaragua, and the El Dorado, from Aspinwall, have reached this city, bringing advices from San Francisco to Nov. 16th, two weeks later than previously received.

There have been several fires in different portions of San Francisco, since the departure of the last steamer, but the loss in each instance was not heavy. Sonora, Stockton, Downieville and Sacramento, have also suffered.

From the mines, the news is highly encouraging, and the miners in many of the localities are doing better than ever.

A massive lump of gold, weighing eleven pounds, had been found.

A brutal and disgusting prize fight had taken place in San Francisco—the combatants being John Carey and ——— Carrigan.—There were thirty rounds fought, each of which was severely contested. Carrigan was the victor. The purse was for $1000 a side.

Nothing further has transpired regarding the Sonora expedition, and no farther movements in that direction are reported.

An earthquake had occurred in Humboldt Bay, but no serious damage ensued.

The San Francisco papers record more than the usual number of murders. The health of California was generally good, and the weather favorable.

In the markets the transactions were rather more brisk, but the prices of nearly all descriptions of produce ruled low.

Capt. Brown, of the ship Ontario, was accidentally killed a few days previous to the sailing of the steamer.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—There is but little news of interest from these islands. The small pox continues to prevail, with no apparent signs of abatement. No further change in the Ministry had taken place.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA.—Files of papers from Valparaiso report that immense discoveries of gold had been made in the valley of the Amazon, and that expeditions had been fitted out both from Peru and Ecuador, in search of the precious metal. Great excitement prevailed in consequence of these discoveries.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon as an outward freight train on the Old Colony railroad approached the draw-bridge across Neponset river, the draw was discovered to be open, and before the train could be stopped the engine and one or two freight cars were plunged into the river. No one was seriously injured. Had it been a passenger train there would probably have been a sad loss of life.

Anson G. Phelps, recently deceased, after providing amply for his widow and family, bequeathed $581,000 for religious and benevolent purposes, including $100,000 to the American Bible Society; $100,000 to the American Board of Commissioners for foreign missions; $100,000 to the American Home Missionary Society, and $50,000 to Literary and Social Education in Liberia.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE.—This is the title of a large and well-executed monthly magazine, which we have just seen for the first time, and the December number of which we have carefully examined. It is said to be "devoted to literature, art and religion;" and the contents of this number fully justify the assertion. The articles on China and its rulers, Spirit Rappings, Christmas and the poets, and the Troubles and Adventures of Young Housekeepers, with many others, are worthy of extensive perusal. There are 20 illustrations, and eighteen articles of some length, besides numerous editorial notes, items, &c. The work is lively without being too light; substantial without being heavy. It may be read with pleasure by persons of good taste, and cannot be offensive or injurious to any. A new volume will commence in January, so that the present is the right time to subscribe. The numbers are sold for 19 cents each, and the work may be seen on application to Rev. Justin Spaulding, who is agent for this city and vicinity.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE ARCTIC.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

The American clipper Nightingale has arrived from Shanghae in 112 days.

The Arctic brings 93 passengers, among whom is J. C. B. Davis, Esq., bearer of despatches from London and Paris.

SUMMARY.—Nothing had occurred along the Danube. A heavy snow and rain had set in.

There were rumors of an armistice, but it is doubted. It was also rumored that the Turks and Servians had an engagement, but this was also considered doubtful.

Omer Pacha's conduct was sanctioned by the government, and the Sultan has sent him the present of a horse.

The allied fleets are at Beycos. The Turkish fleet had gone to the Black Sea to keep open the coast of Circassia.

It is reported, contrary to former advices, that Dost Mahommed was hostile to the Russians, as were all the Mahomedan tribes of India.

Some trouble is reported in Baden between the government and the clergy. Large forces of artillery have been ordered to Hungary.

Turkey demands of Greece to dismiss a certain professor from Athens who wrote a libel in the "Æoniz," but Greece refuses.

Two days later news from Melbourne, being to August 29th, have been received. Markets were moderately active.

SPAIN.—At a ball given at Madrid by the French Ambassador, a disturbance occurred between young Soule, (son of the American Minister,) and the Duke of Alba, (the brother-in-law of the French Empress). The latter had made some insulting allusion concerning the dress of Mrs. Soule, which Young Soule overheard, and he immediately approached the Duke, and made a slight assault upon him. Much excitement ensued, and Young Soule was taken away by his father. Young Soule afterwards challenged the Duke, who refused to accept.

AUSTRIA.—Something important is evidently about to transpire in Hungary. A correspondent of the London Times, under date of the 22d November, mentions that men and artillery were being hurried off from Vienna to the Hungarian provinces. During the previous three days 98 guns had left, and the directors of the railroad had been ordered to stop sending goods for eight days, as their freight trains will be required in sending military stores to Hungary. The 9th army corps has received orders to hold itself ready to march.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.—No event of importance had yet taken place along the Moldavia and Wallachia line.

Omar Pacha's operations had received the entire sanction of his government, and discretion was left him to act where and how he may have the best chance of success. His retreat across the Danube was in consequence of the concentration of the Russians on a point not defensible; and the step is approved of by military men. The movement not having been anticipated by the Russians, appears to have baffled Prince Gortschakoff, and to have forced him to adopt new combinations. The Russians do not believe that the retreat of the Turks is ultimate. Complete ignorance prevails as to their movements, and they were expected to make their appearance at any moment and at any point on the left bank of the Danube. The Russians do not appear to have adopted any definite plan. They remain encamped at Oitenitza, Bondechty and Niggorjeschti.

Rain and snow had been heavy in part of Wallachia, so that operations were, to a great extent, impracticable.

On the 15th four hundred vessels were loading corn at Odessa. It is confirmed that a Russian sloop-of-war ran ashore, and went to pieces. Of the crew and troops, of whom it had 1600 men on board, 1400 perished, and the remaining 200 were rescued by the Turks, and sent as prisoners to Constantinople.—Another ship is reported to have been lost near Sebastapool.

In Paris it was generally expected that a battle would be fought on or soon after the 23d of November in the locality between Krajova and Kalafat. We do not see how this could be known beforehand, and therefore attach but slight value to these surmises of battles to come.

They say, but we are not told on what authority, that the Czar has declared that he will not accept any further advices from the four powers, but may, perhaps, negotiate with the Sultan direct.

LATEST FROM CHINA.

The China news is important. The insurgents became masters of Shanghae, almost without resistance, on the 7th of September, and organized plans were said to be in existence for a simultaneous rising in Sun-keang, Soo-chow, Tae-tsang and other places. The natives say that Shanghae was the soul of Keang-nan, and that being lost, the whole province may be considered as gone.

Canton was threatened, and there was little doubt that it would have changed masters before the despatch of the next mail.

The naval force of the Imperialists now seem to be concentrated around the island of Amoy. One-tenth of them it is said would be sufficient to overpower the rebel fleet in the inner harbor. Only once has such an attempt been made, and on that occasion one of the Imperialist admirals is said to have displayed considerable courage, but to have been altogether unsupported. The land forces do not even pretend to approach within shot of the rebel troops, and the principal sufferers from the three weeks' fighting before Amoy have been the non-combatants.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 87 cts. each, with directions attached.

For sale by JOHN YEATON,

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers advertising it unfriendly to a man who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 250,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

OBITUARY.

The Maine Liquor Law having been adopted by a popular vote in Michigan, the Detroit Tribune publishes the following:—

DIED—On the 20th inst., Peter C. Brandy, Esq., of dropsy. This event is not altogether unexpected, as the departed had been afflicted with the disease which caused his death for a long time. Of late the quantity of water accumulating in his system was immense, and he had been tapped by his physicians several times, but without effect. He had a large number of doctors, and some are mean enough to say that that hastened his decease. His loss will be sensibly felt by his many friends who were accustomed to see him daily in our streets.

Also, on the same day, R. G. Brandy, Esq., familiarly known by the soubriquet of "Rot Gut," and brother of P. C., whose death we chronicle above. He took a large quantity of poison (by mistake, it is supposed,) several years ago. No bad effects were realized at first, but for a few years past it has been spreading through his system, and has finally caused his death. It is to be hoped that his death will be a warning to those who have been in the habit of taking poison for a medicine.

Also, on the same day, H. Gin, Esq. The deceased was a member of the Brandy family and a relative by marriage. He was a native of Holland, and fled to the United States several years ago, in consequence of having been actively engaged in one of the revolutions that characterize the country. He was pursued by the police, but secreted himself in a cask and landed safely in New York. Since then many of his family have made their escape in the same manner. He left a large family of children, most of whom were born in this country, but we are sorry to say, are not characterized by any of the traits of their distinguished father.

Also on the same day, Rye Whiskey, Esq. Mr. W. was one of the first settlers of Michigan. In early life he was an industrious, hardworking man. He has done much to build up our railroads and public works, and could always be found in the harvest fields early and late. Some few of our farmers thought they could not harvest their wheat unless Mr. W. was with them to cheer up their hands. How they will manage since his death, we are unable to say. It may lead to disastrous results, and it is feared by some that our farmers may cease to grow wheat, which would inevitably raise the price of flour.

Of late years, however, Mr. W. had grown shiftless, noisy and quarrelsome, and any neighborhood that he visited was sure to be the scene of disturbance of every nature. The too frequent occurrence of street fights got up by Mr. W. was the ultimate cause of his death. He was killed by a blow on the head with a ballot-box, in open daylight. The perpetrators of the deed are not fully known, but suspicion rests upon two men whose names we believe are Mr. Law and Mr. Order. Several men from the Free Press office are on the watch, and ere this no doubt they have apprehended them.

It is seldom that we have to announce the death of an entire family, thus swept away at one fell swoop. They were all men well known in our State and have acted in many public capacities, some one of them has been a member of every Legislature since our organization as a State. In primary meetings and caucuses, they have succeeded in nominating their own friends to office, and afterwards in electing them.

There is hardly an officer in the State but what owes to them his election.

At the request of the friends of the deceased, their remains will not be interred until December next. Those who wish to take "a last fond look" can do so at most of the groceries and saloons in town.

PHILOSOPHY.

Some of our readers, who remember a strange cow-story which came out a week ago, may be amused if not instructed, by the following dissertation on cow accidents, furnished by a correspondent of the Portland Advertiser:

I have a word of comment on a story of the cows in the well, copied from a western paper awhile since, one with her head downward and her leg sticking out above the top, the other in the bottom, her head upward; and which the western editor himself seemed to think too big for credence. For one, I am not of that opinion—I neither think it impossible or a highly improbable occurrence, for it is well known that cows, though of the feminine gender, are in the habit of making battle with each other, in which their horns sometimes are pretty firmly locked together. We have only therefore to suppose what we often see here, and I suppose oftener in the west, an unfenced well, and two belligerent cows to meet near it, one pushing the other in that direction; and the rest is not at all improbable,—a very philosophical supposition—the smallest cow would be the one shoved backwards, and for the same reason would find the passage of the well large enough to let her stern-foremost to the bottom—the other, fast locked by the horns, would follow her adversary as far as her size would admit, leaving some portion of her hinder parts, or at least one leg, out of the well—looking, to be sure, rather lugubriously at each other. The oddest part of the story is, that in less than an hour one of the cows, spite her past experience, should try her warlike powers again; but this only proves that she was not a sensible cow, but like many of our own race, belonged to that class which will not learn wisdom by their own experience, or that of others. It will be observed that we have made out our case without supporting it by the adage lately referred to by another, that "truth lies in a well."

SCIENCE ANSWERING SIMPLE QUESTIONS.—Why is rain water soft?—Because it is not impregnated with earth and other minerals.

Why is it more easy to wash with soft water than with hard?—Because soft water unites freely with soap, and dissolves it, instead of decomposing it as hard water does.

Why do wood ashes make hard water soft? 1st, because the carbonic acid of wood ashes combines with the sulphate of lime in the hard water, and converts it into chalk; and 2d, wood ashes convert some of the soluble salts of water into insoluble, and throw them down as a sediment; by which the water runs more pure.

Why has rain water such an unpleasant smell when it is collected in a rain water tub or tank?—Because it is impregnated with decomposed organic matter, washed from roots, trees, or the casks in which it is collected.

Why does water melt salt?—Because very minute particles of water insinuate themselves into the pores of the salt by capillary attraction, and force the crystals apart from each other.

How does blowing hot foods make them cold?—It causes the air which has been heated by the food, to change more rapidly, and give place to fresh cold air.

Why do ladies fan themselves in hot weather?—That fresh particles of air may be brought in contact with their faces by the action of the fan; and as every fresh particle of air absorbs some heat from the skin, this constant change makes them cool.

Does a fan cool the air? No, it makes the air hotter, by imparting to it the heat of our face; but it cools our face, by transfering its heat to the air.

Why is there always a strong draught under the door and through the crevices on each side? Because cold air rushes from the hall to supply the void in the room caused by the escape of warm air up the chimney, etc.

If you open the lower sash of a window, there is more draught than if you open the upper sash. Explain the reason of this. If the lower sash be open cold external air will rush freely into the room, and cause a great draught inwards, but if the upper sash be open, the heated of the room will rush out, and, of course, there will be less draught inwards.

At the general convention of the American Church held at New York last month, a revolution was carried that the bishops be requested to take into consideration the necessity of a prayer for additional laborers. A reverend doctor, who seemed to be of the same creed as Lord Palmerston, very slily hinted that it would be as well to embody the idea that "the laborer is worthy of his reward."—Spectator.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 14. 1853.

THE HARPER FIRE, NEW YORK.

In the brief account which we gave on Tuesday, of the fire, which destroyed the great printing office and book store of the Harpers on Saturday, there was some confusion, and apparent contradiction, which we gave as we found them, not knowing how to make the account correct. It was stated in one place, that "the entire set of their stereotype plates were lost," and in another, that they were safe in vaults. By later accounts, the entire set of plates lost, were those of Harper's Magazine; and doubtless some others were lost. But the great bulk of their plates, worth at least $400,000, are safe in massive brick and stone vaults under the sidewalk of the street.

The fire doubtless had its origin in camphene. The warehouses were new first class buildings, constructed with reference to security against fire, from which element the firm had once before suffered, although to only a limited extent. No fires were allowed on the premises, except in the engine room which was made fire proof,—the entire establishment being heated by steam pipes, and it was by an extraordinary accident that the fire occurred. It is necessary to use camphene in washing the rollers of the presses, which are taken to a room specially prepared for the purpose, having zinc floor and walls. On Saturday it was necessary to do some plumber's work in this room, and the plumber, after lighting a paper, threw it as he supposed into a pan of water, but it proved to be a pan of camphene. An explosion followed, and in sixty minutes the entire establishment was a mass of fire.

Of Harper's Magazine, they print monthly, 135,000 copies. The entire number for January is destroyed,—there being not a sheet, stereotype plate, wood cut, proof, or a line of copy, even, saved. The whole Magazine is to be made over again. It will probably be impossible to prepare, engrave and work afresh any illustrated articles in season for that number:—but it will undoubtedly be issued in a creditable shape, very soon after the day on which it is due.

Mr. Adams, the artist who did the engraving for the splendid Pictorial Bible, issued a few years since, was half owner of the copies of that work which were destroyed. Ten days since, he was urged by one of the firm to insure his interest in them, but did not think it worth while. He was then offered $10,000 for it, but declined. His loss will probably be not far from $15,000.

The number of operatives employed on the premises was not less than six hundred: including the families of these not less than three thousand depended for their daily bread upon the employment furnished by the Harpers.

Most of the men employed in the Pressroom were compelled to rush out for their lives, being unable to seize even their hats and coats. All the presses were at work; but not one of them, not even one of the stereotype plates upon them, could be saved. As soon as the alarm was given in the business office, Col. John Harper, the financial partner, took $3000 which was lying in his desk, called the Bank clerk, gave him the book of a Bank where he knew his account had been slightly overdrawn, and sent him to deposit the amount—fearing lest the Bank officers should be uneasy after the fire. He then went to the head of the stairs leading to the Press Room,—and seeing the hopelessness of attempting to save anything,—directed the engineer to make his way to the boiler, and let off the steam. The other members of the firm gathered together all the books of accounts, subscriptions, receipts, &c., and put them into the large safe, which was dragged out and left on the sidewalk in Pearl street, where it still remains. Their desks, with their contents, were also saved.

The loss of Harper & Brothers by the fire is stated at $1,205,000; insured $250,00; Cooledge & Brothers $200,000, insured $100,000; several others nearly $200,000, making the total loss above insurance about $1,300,000. Of the Harpers' insurance $20,000 is by an English office who have an agent in Boston. They had 33 power presser and 11 hydraulic presses; the value of their stock of printed sheets is placed as high as $250,000. The Cooledges publish a famous spelling book, and occupied two large six story buildings.

The Harpers have more insurance money due them, than enough to pay all their debts; and as they have now on hand 450,000 dollars worth of moveables, and own their land and ruins, with houses besides, this loss of a million of money does not shake them.—They are now at 79 and 81 Cliff street, ready for business.

One pleasant feature of this terrible event, is the fact that no life was lost. At the time the fire broke out there were six hundred human beings in the establishment of the Messrs. Harper, men, women and children; and immediately upon giving the report of fire, the greatest consternation prevailed—every window was filled with frantic souls crying for help. We are told, (says the Herald,) there was abundance of time for every one to come down stairs safely, but in the terror of the moment all rushed for the windows. The firemen immediately mounted their ladders and brought all down in safety to the ground, periling their own lives in doing so.

MAYOR OF BOSTON.—Whole number of votes 13,831, of which Mr. Seaver has 5652, and therefore is not elected. J. V. C. Smith has 4692; Sleeper 2033; Allen 566; scat. 59. Only two Aldermen are chosen.

Last year, Mr. Seaver had 61 majority. This year he lacks 1737—or requires 865 votes changed to him from others.

CONGRESS.

The business of the session is just commencing; the committees in both Houses are appointed, and the chairmen announced. No member from New Hampshire is named as chairman of any committee of the House. In the Senate, Mr. Norris presides over the committee on the District of Columbia.

MONDAY, Dec. 12.

SENATE.—Mr. Wheeler presented the credentials of Mr. Williams, the Senator appointed from New Hampshire, in the place of Mr. Atherton, deceased. Mr. Williams appeared and was sworn.

Mr. Seward gave notice of a bill for aiding the State of New York to construct a ship canal around the Falls of Niagara.

Mr. Fish gave notice of a bill for reimbursing the city of New York for the expenses incurred in behalf of the New York volunteers.

Mr. Cass offered a resolution calling for the correspondence between the British government and the United States in relation to the treaty of Washington. Agreed to. It was afterwards reconsidered, and an amendment by Mr. Clayton added, and the whole adopted.

Beverly Tucker was chosen priater to the Senate. The vote was as follows:—Tucker 26, Armstrong 17.

Mr. James offered a resolution that the Select Committee appointed by the last Congress to investigate the manner of importation of merchandise into the United States, with a view to detect frauds, be permitted to make their report. Adopted.

The Chair presented a series of resolutions adopted by a meeting of the merchants of New York, protesting against the course of the Administration in removing Collector Bronson. Laid on the table.

Bills were then introduced for granting lands to Louisiana, Ohio, California and Iowa for railroad purposes.

On motion of Mr. Gwin, the Homestead Bill was referred to the Committee on Public Lands, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Bailey's resolution to elect a Librarian was negatived by two majority.

Mr. Gerrit Smith presented a petition from the New York Temperance Alliance, asking Congress to suppress the use of intoxicating drinks in the District of Columbia, and asking for a special Committee.

Mr. Richardson saying that he intended to discuss the subject, it went over.

Mr. Cobb introduced the Homestead Bill, which was referred to the Committee on Lands.

Mr. Wentworth, of Illinois, offered a resolution affirming that Congress has the power to provide for the construction of a railroad over the territories of the Union, and ought immediately to exercise it. Laid on the table by a vote of 126 to 72.

Mr. Washburn, of Illinois, offered a resolution that Congress has power to construct a railroad through the territories of the United States; to transport munitions of war, &c.

Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, moved to lay it on the table; pending which the House adjourned.

WHO DID IT?.

The Washington Union denies that the Times of New York, and Post of Boston, obtained the message from the President, his private Secretary, or the Union office.

This does not say a word about General Cushing,—nor touch the question, whether, if Gen. Cushing sent the Message, he had the President's order, consent or connivance in the premises,—or whether if General Cushing did not send it, somebody stole a few copies and sent them to the Post in Boston, the Patriot in Concord, and the Tribune and Times in New York. Moreover it does not go near the question, why the arrangements of last year, by which Fillmore's Message was distributed simultaneously all over the country, was not also carried out this year.

Indeed no one as yet seems to have taken much notice of this question, as connected with the others.

Last year, it was announced from Washington, that copies of the Message would be distributed in a certain way; and so it was done, to general satisfaction, without respect to parties or persons.

This year a similar announcement was made; at least sufficiently like the other to induce the expectation that a similar course would be followed. It is evident that this announcement came from some authority, from the facts that a messenger came as far east as Boston and brought messages, and that telegraphic despatches followed.

It appears, that Maine and New Hampshire were either neglected or forgotten; and it happened also that the Boston Post and Concord Patriot were furnished with copies. Now did these events happen to coincide accidentally? or did one man or set of men devise both of them?

So certain other points, within the range of the favored papers in New York and Boston, (as Worcester, Providence and Lowell,) were not visited. And the accident, by which all this happened, is not yet explained. Negatives cannot explain it. The public wish to know who did it, and why it was done.

THE LADY'S ALMANAC, for 1854, is one of the prettiest little books we have seen for a long time; being done up in cloth of blue and gold on the outside; and in neat woodcuts, good typography, and fine paper within: containing poetry, flowers and varieties. For sale by J. F. Shores, Jr.

The city of New London has voted to erect a City Hall at a cost of $50,000. The site of the proposed building is spoken of by the Chronicle as, in every respect, the finest in the city for the purpose to which it is to be appropriated.

MADAM SONTAG'S CONCERT.

This evening at the Temple, our citizens will have a rare opportunity to listen to a celebrated and eminent vocalist, the Countess of Rossi, better known in this country as Madam Sontag, whose character as a woman has stood deservedly high through more and greater vicissitudes than commonly fall to the lot of mortals; and whose celebrity as a vocalist came across the waters to us, in her youth, followed up by the report of her marriage, which gave her nobility and competency.

She sunk the public singer, in the wife and mother—and for years she was nothing to us—but her property is lost, and she comes out again in middle life, comes again before the public to sing,—and comes to this country, where the people have thus far encouraged her in her laudable attempt to earn an independent livelihood in her former profession.

We hope she will be encouraged here.

☞ The second Concert of the Germanians, which came off at the Temple on Monday evening, was more fully attended than the first—and was fully equal to it in the exact and finished performance of every piece taken up. As the ears of our people get accustomed to listening to good concerts of this kind, it will be impossible to please them with poor playing. And as they become accustomed to pay a more liberal sum than has been the late usage, for a musical treat; we hope the treat itself may be repeated, and a musical taste cultivated, that shall secure good and abundant music, in Church and Parlor, Hall and Lyceum.

☞ At the Lyceum in the Temple on Tuesday evening, Timothy Bigelow, Esq., of Boston, gave a Historic, Political and Religious Lecture on the Ottoman Empire. The historic portion was necessarily too long and too familiar to be presented to our readers in an abstract; but the political and religious speculations are worthy of special mention.

The Ottoman empire was described as containing within itself the seeds of decay, viz: the degrading Mahometan faith, and its demoralizing practices. The Russian invader was destined, by the lecturer, to defeat and disgrace, from a variety of causes, chiefly as we understood, because a sort of moral "Greek Fire" would break out against the Czar, and because the warm climate of the South would destroy myriads of his northern troops.

Yet the Mahometan religion and its votaries, would leave Turkey in Europe and retreat to Asia;—and Christian Civilization would plant free institutions in Turkey, and make a happy people to dwell in that fine country. We have no doubt they would; but we do not exactly see how the Civilization itself is to get there at present, to begin the plantation; and the lecturer did not make the modus operandi quite clear to our mind, though his own faith in a happy result seemed to be of that kind which removes mountains.

The delivery of the lecture was clear and distinct; but the oratory was neither forcible nor graceful.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Letters and papers from San Francisco, inform us that a mournful accident occurred on board the ship Venice, as she was getting under weigh from her anchorage, at that port, to go to sea on Wednesday morning, November 9. A young seaman on board her, while engaged in loosing the mizzen topsail, fell from the yard into the water, striking his head upon the crossjack yard, in the descent, with such force as, from the appearances on the yard, must have fractured the skull; and the body sank immediately. The lost seaman was Mr. Abner Blasdel Currier, aged 19, son of Mr. Joseph B. Currier of this city. Mr. Currier had been long attached to the ship, and always faithful to his engagement on board of her, remaining by her during her stay, and intending to complete the voyage for which he had shipped.—This bereavement is a heavy stroke to parents and friends.

NAVAL VICTORY.

A Victory, not of arms, but of speed, has been achieved by the U. S. ship Portsmouth, built at this naval station, over the clipper ship Harriet Hoxie. A letter from on board the ship Portsmouth, dated Honolulu, Oct. 6, and published in the San Francisco Herald, says:

We left Saucelito on the 15th September at 1 1-2 P. M.; at 3 P. M., the pilot left us at the Heads. The Harriet Hoxie, which went out two hours before us, was then hull down ahead of us, both of us steering to the south and westward. At sundown we had come up with her, and gained on her fast. Both ships now made all sail possible, and for three hours the contest was quite exciting. At midnight the H. H. began to drop astern; at daylight the next morning she was nearly out of sight, and by sunrise we lost sight of her, and saw no more of her until her arrival at this port on the 3d inst. We arrived here on the morning of the 2d. So you will see that the noble Portsmouth beat her a little over one day. The second day out, the Frigate Bird hove in sight, and during the whole day her commander did his best to pass us, but finding all attempts to do so fruitless, he gave up the chase.

CHEAP RIDING—great commotion among the Hackmen. See advertisements and bills.

ARRIVAL OF THE GEORGE LAW.

New York, Dec. 12.—The steamer George Law, from Aspinwall, Dec. 1, arrived this morning. She brings $888,000 on freight, 447 passengers, and the California mails of November 16th.

Intelligence had reached San Francisco of the intense excitement created in Sonora by the report of the sailing of the Fillibuster expedition. Troops were sent to Sonora from Guayamas, and it was reported that General Tacon was on the march with 2000 men.

The loss by the fire at Sonora on the 2d inst., was $30,000.

A company of U. S. dragoons had an engagement on the 1st, near Rogue river, with a party of Indians. Ten Indians were killed, and two Americans, and a number were wounded on both sides.

The squatters have had a large meeting at Sacramento and passed exciting resolutions. Among other things they declare Capt. Sutter's claims to be invalid, and that the lands upon which Sacramento is built belong to the United States as overflowed lands.

New fillibustering expeditions are talked of. It is said that a party is to follow the invaders of Sonora, and another is to go to the Amazon (?). It is also reported that a joint stock company is forming, with a capital of two and a half millions of dollars, to establish steam navigation on the Gila. The intentions of this company are looked upon with suspicion.

A private company, with a capital of ten millions, has been formed at San Francisco, for the establishment of steam communication with China.

The camphene factory of Knox & Co., in Happy Valley, was burnt on the 6th. Loss $5000.

The steamer Peytona, from New York, had arrived at San Francisco, to run to the Sandwich Islands. She brought out several adventurers to the gold mines of the Amazon.

James C. Hackett, the founder of Berford's express, was killed on the 14th, by being thrown from a buggy. Many murders had been committed since last dates. Among the victims was Mr. Jenkins, formerly of Maine, residing in Placer county.

Two attempts have been made to fire the city of Stockton.

Mayor Garrison had sent in his Message to the Common Council. The funded and floating debt of the city of San Francisco, is but little short of two millions. The estimated expenditures for the ensuing year are $896,000. The city was to be lighted with gas on the first of January.

The John L. Stephens, on her way down from San Francisco, reports 19th at 5 P. M., spoke bark Caroline, belonging to Walker's Sonora expedition. She reported having taken and declared the independence of Lower California. She has on board as prisoner the governor of that province. The bark Caroline also reported that Sonora had declared its independence of Mexico.

☞ Later news still from California, came to hand last evening. Steamer Star of the West arr. at New York, 13th, with $1,558,000. The Republic of Lower California is organized, and officers chosen, whose names sound like American fillibusters. The whole affair looks like a new edition of Texas.

THE ERIE RIOT.—A message from Erie, dated Monday evening says:

A message has just been received from Gov. Bigler, saying that his sympathies are with the people of Erie; that whatever he can do consistent with duty, and the law, shall be done; and if his presence shall be of any service in Erie he will cheerfully come. All is quiet here now.

This is a rich item. Whatever Gov. Bigler's sympathies may be, if he deems it his duty to enforce the laws, he must march the militia into Erie to put down the riot. As the case has come along in the papers, the Erie people are all wrong. But we have not yet seen their statement.

MUSICAL NOTICE—EXTRA.—A Washington Despatch of Monday says, "there is great rejoicing among the 'Hards' at the result of the election for printer in the Senate." From this we gather a thought, which we throw into the form of a preamble and resolutions, thus:

Whereas in the House, the Union or Soft Organ has the fat of the public printing;—and whereas, in the Senate, Mr. Beverly Tucker is appointed printer, on the ground that he edits a Hard Organ;—therefore

Resolved, That we shall certainly have Music from Washington all Winter, and probably along into the Summer till the 4th of July.

Resolved, That the people get their ears ready to catch the harmony, as it is wafted to them on the southern breezes.

Somebody, who probably had a desire to bring something before the public which ought to be there, started a rumor, that B. P. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) was preparing a poem, a la Saxe—(as though she would write after any other model than her own)—to deliver before lyceums. The statement was not correct; and poor Ben has been beset, of course, with applications for the poem. Now we should say, that the very best thing that Shillaber can do is to go ahead, and let us have the poem. He is fairly stumped, and is expected to be up to the "occasion." There are thousands of men, women and children, who want to read and hear Mrs. Partington. —Lynn News.

We have been informed that Ben has taken the "stump," and that in the course of the winter Mrs. Partington will "appear in public on the stage" beautifully dressed up in fools cap. No poetic lecturer would be received with more general favor.

In the Legislature of Georgia, last week, a bill was introduced to change the name of Mary Dolly Doxy Ann Lewis to Mary Dolly Doxy Ann Lapp.

SLAVERY IN BRAZIL.—A Brazilian newspaper publishes the following particulars of a bill which was adopted last year by the chamber of Deputies, but which failed in the other House:

1. That all the children born after the date of this law shall be free.

2. All those shall be considered free who are born in other countries, and come to Brazil after this date.

3. Every one who serves from birth to seven years of age, any of those included in Article 1, or who has to serve so many years, at the end of fourteen years shall be emancipated, and live as he chooses.

4. Every slave paying for his liberty a sum equal to that which he cost his master, or who shall gain it by honorable or gratuitous title, the master shall be obliged to give him a free paper, under penalty of Article 179 of the Criminal Code.

5. Where there is no stipulated price, or fixed value of the slave, it shall be determined by arbitrators, one of whom shall be the public promotor of the town.

7. The government is authorized to give precise regulations for the execution of this law, and also to form establishments necessary for taking care of those who, born after this date, may be abandoned by the owners of slaves.

8. Opposing laws and regulations are repealed.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Cream Tartar.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent office, under the Act of 1836) desires to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS—instead of twenty, as paid back by others,—will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV, late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who once had obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the Islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore A Sure Anti-Expectorant.

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETIESER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the great efficacy of this medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricophorous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricophorous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricophorous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&wém je22*

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fall disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

THIS beautiful article was introduced to the public last season; and as it can instantly be changed from an open to a close Stove, and vice versa, it fully meets the wants of those who prefer to burn wood only. The exterior never becomes sufficiently heated to burn off the polish, and consequently can be kept bright and clean, with very little trouble. TRAVELLING ON HORSEBACK AND ON FOOT.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, one of the editors of the New York "Independent," writes admirable letters to that journal. Few writers excel him in throwing an interest around a subject, and infusing into the reader a degree of the natural enthusiasm which possesses him. The most simple objects in Nature, clothed in the drapery of his language, become beautiful and full of instruction. His taste for rural pleasures, and his love for the sweet simplicities of Nature, relieve very effectively the sternness and boldness with which he sometimes utters his thoughts, and assure us that gentleness and power are not incompatible in the same individual. The following is an extract from one of his letters:

Men never see the country who fly through at the rate of thirty or forty miles an hour; even if the usual path of railroads lay through the most interesting portions. The very best method of travelling is upon horseback.—Next best, if you are young and hearty, or if you wish to become so, is foot-travelling. The pedestrian is, in all respects, the most independent; and if time is no importance, all the details of exploring trips should be made on foot.

If you are on horseback, you can do more in a shorter time. You abbreviate the time and labor of passing over the intermediate space between you and the point of interest. Then there is good company in a spirited horse—a thousand times more than in a flat man. You sit in your saddle at ease, giving him his own way, the bridle loose, while you search on either side the various features of way. Your nag becomes used to you and you to him; till a sympathetic connection is established, and he always seems to do, of his own reflection, just what you wanted him to do. Now a leisurely swinging walk; now a smart trot, then a spirited bit of canter, which imperceptibly dies out into an amble, pace, and walk. When you rise a hill to overlook a bold prospect, can anybody persuade you that your horse does not enjoy the sight too? His ears go forward, his eye lights up with a large and bright look, and he gazes for a moment with equine enthusiasm, till some succulent bough, or grassy tuft, converts his taste into a physical form. A good horse is a perfect gentleman. He meets you in the morning with unmistakable pleasure; if you are near the grain-bin, he will give you the most cordial invitation, if not to breakfast with him, at least to wait upon him in that interesting ceremony. There is no hoggish haste in his meals. His drink is particularly nice. He always loves running water, in the clearest brook, at the most sparkling place in it. No man shall make me believe that he does not observe and quietly enjoy the sunflash on the gravel beneath, and on the wavy surface above. He arches down his neck to the surface, his mane falls gracefully over his head, he drinks with hearty earnestness, and the throbbing swallows pulsate so audibly and musically that you feel a sympathetic thirst. Now he lifts his head, and looks first up the road to see who is coming, and then down the road, at those work-horses, turned loose, affecting gayety with their old stiff legs, and hard and hooped bellies, and then with a long breath he takes the after drink. Once more lifting his head, but now only a few inches above the surface, the drops trickle from his lips back to the brook. Finally he cleanses his mouth and chews his bit, and plays with the surface of the water with his lithe lip, and begins to paw the stream. Guiding him out you propose to yourself a real boy's drink. Selecting a favorable place, on a dry bank, where the stones give you a suitable rest, you lie flat down, at full length, and begin. Your luck will depend upon your judgement of places and skill of performance. Should you be too dignified to lie down, you will probably compromise and kneel, awkwardly protruding your head to the edge, where a little pool breaks over its rim, and then you will send the first drops down the wrong way. Musical as its crystal water, softly flowing over silver gravel, between fringed banks, its passage down the breathing tubes is anything but musical or graceful; and you will have an episode with your handkerchief behind the bushes—coughing, crying, and greatly exercised in various ways. But if you are willing to be a real boy, (and no one is fit to be a man after he has lost all the boy,) and lie level with the stream, careless of grass or gravel on vest, apply your lips gently just above the point of the ripple, where it breaks over the gravel, you shall quietly and relishfully quench your thirst; and, if you be handsome, or think yourself so, regale your eyes, too, with a fair face, seen in that original mirror, in which, long before quicksilver or polished metal, Adam and Eve made their toilet. There is yet another mode; with both your hands form a cup, by lapping the little finger of the left hand upon the corresponding part of the right, and then curving the whole to a bowl-form.—A little practice will enable you to lift and drink from this bucket with ease, where the ground does not permit recumbency. A good pair of hands, such as ours, ought to hold two large and one small mouthfuls. But that will depend somewhat on the size of the mouth.

But it was not to tell you how to drink, nor how good and companionable horses drink, that this sheet was begun. But to urge those who can command September or October leisure to avoid all beaten paths of pleasure, and make a tour through the mountain country of Western Connecticut and Massachusetts. If you are young, and not abundant in means, and can get a friend to accompany you, go-a-foot. If you are able, go on horseback. If you wish to take your wife, or a sister, or your mother, or other fair friend, then a light four-wheeled covered buggy is to be elected. If there be three or four of you, two horses and a two-seat light carriage, with a movable top. Limit your articles of dress to a few, and those not easily torn or soiled; for it is good and most morally wholesome for Americans once in a while to dress and to act, not upon the rule of "what will people think?" but according to their own real necessities and convenience.

And, above all, let every woman have a bloomer dress, for the sake of foot-excursions. We are not ultra on Bloomers. In the city or town, our eye is yet in bondage to the old forms. But in the country, where the fields are to be travelled, the rocks climbed, brooks crossed and re-crossed, and fences scaled, bushes and weeds navigated, a woman in a long dress and multitudinous petticoats is a ridiculous abomination. Something is always catching; the party is detained till each woman can gather up her flowing robes, and clutch them in her left hand, while a shawl, parasol and bonnet strings fill up the right. Thus she is engineered over and around the rocks or logs; and in spite of all pains and gallantry, returns home bedrabbled and ragged. A Bloomer costume leaves the motion free, dispenses with half the help from without, and, above all, avoids needless exposure of the person. If ignorant of what is best, a fair friend is caught in the country without such suitable dress, she is to be pitied, not blamed. But where one who may have them, rejects them for field excursions as unbecoming and ridiculous, let me assure such foolish persons, that it is the only dress that is really decent. I should think less of one's judgment and delicacy who, after a fair trial of either dress, in an excursion requiring much field walking, was not heartily converted to the theory of Bloomerism, and to its practice in the country.

LIBERALITY.—The Rev. Dr. Stow, of the Rowe street Baptist Church, Boston, in presenting the claims of an educated ministry to his society on Sunday afternoon, remarked incidentally that they had paid for various benevolent objects, since the first of January last, over eleven thousand dollars, besides large subscriptions to be paid hereafter. There was no apology on his part, nor any misgivings on theirs, when he announced that a second contribution for another object, would be taken in the evening. In the language of his text, such a society may be truly said to be "fellow helpers to the truth."—Boston Journal.

The Boston Pilot (Roman Catholic) says: "The statement which is going the rounds, that a Mr. Beck, of Somerville, Mass., has renounced Romanism, and conveyed to the Episcopal Church the large property known as the Catholic Orphan Asylum, in that town, is not true, for the following reasons: that Mr. Beck never was a Roman Catholic, and there is no such property in that town, known as a Catholic Orphan Asylum."

THURSDAY, DEC. 15, 1853.

TALK ON TEMPERENCE.

NOT BY UNCLE TOBY.

Uncle Toby stands back to-day, for the purpose of admitting an article against the Maine Law and its advocates, written by a gentleman who understands all about the liquor trade, having been engaged therein for many years.—It will be seen that he writes in favor of a singularly stringent license law; and that he rates the profits of spirits very high.

For the Chronicle.

All men and bodies of men who are placed in power, and make and put in execution the laws by which we are governed, should always be open to receive light on any subject that interests as a people.

Much has been said, and new laws created and put into operation in rather too hasty a manner for the people to clearly investigate the motives by which they were originated, and the results growing out of such laws being enforced: I mean the Maine Liquor Law. I have no doubt many families have been made much happier by the law, but are there no evils growing out of the same law also? It will readily be allowed that pure liquors are absolutely necessary in very many instances, in every city, village or town—in sickness and baths, or bathing. This article cannot be had pure after passing through many hands, after leaving the Custom House; and it must be a person who is well experienced in the trade, to be able to detect it when one half of the mixture is some poisonous, low priced article, that pays the vender from eight to ten hundred per cent. profit. The sick reap the reward of this trickery and profit, by being deceived through the treachery or ignorance of the agent, and made still more sick by the use of what they obtain for pure liquors, when every man thoroughly acquainted with the trade knows that not one gallon in five is of the kind of liquor the purchaser supposes he is getting when he buys.

Within a few days one of these men, who deals largely in liquors, to confirm his statement as to the pureness of the article with which his medicine was mixed, named the price of some port wine, which price hardly came up to the duties paid on pure port wine. I name this as attaching no blame whatever to the agent, but to show how the public are imposed on by the inexperienced who are authorised to deal out this article as a medicine. This is not all; it seems to me to come under the head of the language of scriptures, where it says, be not righteous overmuch. It seems to be the beginning of laws that will not finally result in good, for our law makers to say what the people shall eat or drink. On the same ground precisely, they may dictate to us how we shall worship God; and in fact, this of the two seems the most necessary, for we have in all our cities men, at present quite numerous, and rapidly increasing, who say to their followers: we are as God, holding in our hands the destinies of the souls of millions—granting any indulgence for money.—This with a thousand other things, might with as much propriety be a subject of legislation as that of the Maine Law. Was there not strong drink as well as wine in the days of our Savior? or why should he have warned the drinker against getting drunk, by saying, no drunkard hath eternal life abiding in him, or shall enter the kingdom of heaven. Are not thousands who go for this law, breaking it every day, and when the slightest occasion calls for something to remove a faint or sinking feeling at the stomach, resorting constantly to the use of liquors for the removal of such slight complaints. This law creates new men and means to get liquors to those who will have it in spite of laws or men. I know of one firm who had not been in the habit of dealing in liquor until after the Maine Law was put in operation, who now sell yearly, I should judge, from 800 to 1000 barrels of liquor, most of which go into the State of Maine. It may be asked, why this new beginning as the trade becomes more hazardous? I would answer because the profits are greater, and the greater the profits the more hazardous people become. How many valuable vessels have been thrown into trouble, and some even lost, by trying to smuggle a few pounds of tobacco on shore; and at the same time it was known that the vessel and cargo were hazarded in so doing. In this enterprising land, where nothing is at risk but the article itself, and that of but trifling cost, it is not at all surprising that liquor should become an article of speculation. Will not the spirit of a Yankee find means to put his plans in operation, and if defeated in one way will he not invent new ways?

What is to be done to save the people from drunkenness and misery? I would recommend a license law as the best plan when rightly managed. Should this State adopt such a law, leaving it to each town or city to fix the price of the license, (say in this city not over five hundred or under two hundred dollars,) and provide that no mixed liquors should be sold under any license, and that all the funds raised by licenses sold, should be for the purpose of administering relief to the poor and suffering, especially to all that are made so by drunken members of their families.

Can one single instance in the whole life of our Savior be named, in which force was resorted to, to accomplish any desirable end? I know not one. Or can one single good thing be named that has not an evil set over against it? Our mild and beautiful breezes are often turned to hurricanes which destroy thousands; our fires, from which we derive so many comforts, prove the ruin and death of thousands every year. In fact, I do not know of a single blessing that we are now in possession of, that has not its opposite to happiness; and it seems the will of him who made us that it should be so.

I am fully of the opinion that nothing ever will or can stop drunkenness in this country, but the revival of the religion of our Saviour. The spirit of Christ will lead mankind to love and help, and not to despise and devour each other. It will lead to manifest acts of kindness and forbearance towards the drunkard and his family. In the language of our Savior, Mark, 7: 14: There is nothing from without a man that entering into him can defile him; but the things which come out of him those are they which defile the man.

This language was drawn from the Savior by the Pharisees, who wished to enforce a law or custom, insisting that no man ought to eat until after washing his hands, &c.

Believing, as the writer does, that the sins of a drunkard are no worse in the sight of God than the selfish Pharisaical doings of any one that zealously engages in any public cause, however good it may be, with any other motives than the well being of the parties interested; and believing also, that in this and all other cities there cannot be found one man in twenty, or five men in every hundred, that does not use spirit in some way and at some times;—if this be the case, where shall pure spirit, which alone can do one any good, be found, and how obtained? May this be answered.

MR. TIPPLE-NONE.

Tipple-a-little, Tipple-more,
And Mr. Tipple-none,
Began to talk together once;
Thus did their language run:

Said Tipple-a-little to Tipple-none—
"My dearest sir, I think
'Tis wrong to banish from the land
All but tectotal drink.

Because a little spirit's good,
Whene'er the flesh is weak,
But then, to drink too much is wrong,
'Tis not for that I speak.

But when one's wet, or when one's dry,
Or when one's cold, or when
One's not exactly one of these,
I like a little then."

"That's just the thing," quoth Tipple-much,
Rising from where he sat,
And trying to balance as he walked—
"That's right, I'll stick to that.

But then to drink too much, why, that—
Why, that I should despise;"
"That's right, that's right," quoth Tipple-more,
Who looked more drunk than wise;

"That's just the talk I like," quoth he;
"Come, brother, join our band;
We'll take another glass on that,"
And seized him by the hand.

With blood-shot eyes and ragged clothes,
Came then poor Tipple-all,
To join his brothers at the bar,
And for the liquor call.

"Is Tipple-a-little then your friend?"
Good Tipple-none replied,
"You see how all these Tipples range
Themselves upon your side.

'Tis right they should, for one by one,
From grade to grade you fall;
Thus tipple-a-little comes at last
To be poor Tipple-all.

Yet each approves your arguments,
All say, Don't drink too much;
And every lane in Drunkendom
Is crowded full of such.

So let me caution all of you,
And counsel every one—
To take the only name that's safe,
And that is—TIPPLE-NONE."

FATAL RESULTS.—The Boston Courier of Wednesday, contains a Coroner's verdict on Ellen Duffy, aged 40,—death from intemperance: another verdict on Jeremiah Buckley, who died in jail,—death from injury in falling down stairs when intoxicated: and a third on James Rogers, who died from the effects of injuries sustained during a fight in an Ann street cellar, on the night of the 4th instant.

BOY DROWNED.—A boy about ten years of age, son of Mr. Isaac Adams, of Dover, was drowned in the pond near the Unitarian Church, on Monday forenoon. He went in company with his younger brother for the purpose of skating,—the pond being open in the middle, they both skated off into the water. One of them was rescued in season to save his life, but the other was dead.

Rev. James Thompson will complete his fiftieth year as pastor of the first parish (Unitarian) in Barre, Mass., on the 11th of January next, and preparations are being made to observe the occasion in a proper manner. On the forenoon of that day Mr. Thompson will preach a half-century sermon, and in the evening a levee is to be given.

LOCAL.

TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

☞ The present week has offered an unusual number of evening lectures, concerts, &c. of the first water. Rev. Mr. Moore lectures at the Cameneum this evening—when a rich treat may be expected. Parker Pillsbury also lectures at the Temple, on the French Revolution.

☞ Rev. Dr. Burroughs' first lecture of his usual winter course, will be delivered at the Chapel in State street, on Friday evening at a quarter past 7.

☞ Madame Sontag's Concert at the Temple last evening, was attended by a large and fashionable audience; who received the performances with the favor and applause they richly merited. The singers, Sontag and Rocco, were in excellant voice, and sang their pieces, old and new, with spirit and effect.—The youthful violinist, Julien, performed his parts admirably—and the piano, as a matter of course, owned itself in the hands of a master, when Jaell swept the strings.

The concert was of reasonable length only; and the selection of familiar music and old words for at least half of it, was quite as pleasing to the audience, as it could have been, if all were new, and we believe more so.

☞ Mr. Alfred M. Hoyt, who has been for twenty-four years an instructor of youth, and for the last seventeen years so ably presided over the South School in this city, has resigned his situation—his connexion with that school to close soon. He does this to go in with Mr. Israel Kimball, as Professor of Mathematics, in the large private school just opened by him in the Academy—a situation more lucrative and congenial to his tastes, and for which he is eminently fitted. This school now numbers nearly sixty scholars—and we doubt not that those parents whose means will allow, will continue to avail themselves of the services of such valuable teachers, who are thus lost to the public schools—in which they have been so successful:

Mr. Hoyt taught school first in Greenland, then in Durham and Newington—a winter each; then two years at Gravelly Ridge, two at Christian Shore, and is now near closing his seventeenth at the Haven Grammar School. He thus shows nearly a quarter of a century in the service; and he is a young man yet—having commenced very early in life.

THE HACKMEN'S STRIKE.—Unlike the generality of strikers, the hack-drivers of our city have struck for lower wages. The fare in cabs or coaches, within the compact part of Portsmouth, has for years been 12½ cents; until, fifteen months ago, on the 13th of September, 1852, there was a mutual agreement to double the rate, in consideration of the greatly increased price of all sorts of horse-fodder, as well as that of man. This agreement was entered into by all the hackmen then owning or driving; and was adhered to, at least in public, till within a few days, when a couple of the coaches coming into the hands of other persons, they privately cut down the fare, and sold a large number of the cheap tickets before the matter became known. The other drivers have "done likewise,"—only some of them more so; and if the reduction continues, nobody can afford to walk by-and-by. It remains to be seen which course will pay best—but it does seem that if they can now afford to carry at 8, 10 and 12 cents, with hay and grain at the present prices—they must have made money when feed was from 30 to 50 per cent. lower. However, we like low fares, and hope "the dear people" will improve the present opportunity to ride cheap.

DEATH IN THE STATE PRISON.—Bradbury Furguson, who shot his wife in the year 1840, at Exeter, N. H., died in Prison last month, aged 52.

His murdered wife, as will be remembered by many, was a native of Portsmouth, Eliza J. Frothingham. Furguson was a drunkard of that large class who torment and abuse their wives when they have been drinking: and his brutality to his wife had been of such a character, that the coup de grace by which he sent her out of the world, was a good deliverance for her. He was sentenced to the State Prison for life, and having passed a dozen sober and useful years in that asylum, has now closed a far better life than he would have done, had he been suffered to go at large. In his case, the operation of the law has been salutary.

NEVADA JOURNAL.—We have received a copy of the "Nevada Journal," printed at Nevada, California, by Budd & Sargent. Mr. Aaron A. Sargent is an old friend of ours, with whom we formerly worked in Newburyport. He went out to California several years ago, established himself in business; came home, was married in Newburyport, and returned with his young wife to Nevada. Mr. Edward A. Ham of this city returned with him, and we believe is now employed in his office; also Nath'l P. Brown of Newburyport. So the Journal seems like an old acquaintance. Success to it, and all concerned in it. F

A lot of ground on Pennsylvania avenue, Washington City, lately owned and occupied as the depot of the Baltimore and Washington Railroad, and which cost the company about $13,000 some years ago, was sold last week for the sum of $52,000.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE.—This is the title of a large and well-executed monthly magazine, which we have just seen for the first time, and the December number of which we have carefully examined. It is said to be "devoted to literature, art and religion;" and the contents of this number fully justify the assertion. The articles on China and its rulers, Spirit Rappings, Christmas and the poets, and the Troubles and Adventures of Young Housekeepers, with many others, are worthy of extensive perusal. There are 20 illustrations, and eighteen articles of some length, besides numerous editorial notes, items, &c. The work is lively without being too light; substantial without being heavy. It may be read with pleasure by persons of good taste, and cannot be offensive or injurious to any. A new volume will commence in January, so that the present is the right time to subscribe. The numbers are sold for 19 cents each, and the work may be seen on application to Rev. Justin Spaulding, who is agent for this city and vicinity.

CONGRESS.

TUESDAY, Dec. 13.

SENATE.—Mr. Bright reported a bill providing for the appointment of an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury by the President of the Senate. Passed.

Mr. Gwin introduced a bill establishing a line of mail steamers from San Francisco to Shanghae.

Mr. Adams introduced a bill to reduce and graduate the price of public lands—referred; also, a bill to suppress the circulation of bank notes of any denomination under five dollars in the District of Columbia. Referred.

HOUSE.—Mr. Maurice of New York moved a reconsideration of the vote by which Mr. Bayley's resolution, providing for the election of the House Librarian, was rejected. Tabled.

Mr. Stanton of Kentucky presented a memorial from Gen. Lane, contesting the seat of the delegate from New Mexico. Referred to the Committee on Elections.

The House considered Mr. Washburn's resolution affirming the power of Congress to construct railroads through the Territories of the United States, which, after considerable discussion, was ordered to lie on the table by a vote of 118 yeas to 74 nays.

Mr. Yates offered a resolution, asserting that a railroad through the territories is imperiously demanded, and that the people are favorable to the construction of such a road from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. After a discussion it was tabled—yeas 119, nays 68. The House then adjourned.

ERIE RAILROAD WAR.

A dispatch from Erie, dated the 13th, says

The Railroad Company have commenced relaying the track and rebuilding the bridge at Harbor Creek, this afternoon. It is thought, however, that it will be torn up again to-morrow.

In addition to the explanations already offered, we find the following:

The casus belli may be stated in few words. Erie county, in Pennsylvania, reaches Lake Erie, and the borough of Erie is its port. Through that county and borough, the Lake Shore Railroad, from Buffalo to Cleveland, passes—greatly to the advantage of both.—That road lies in three states, and requires, therefore, three distinct corporations. When it was built, the denizens of Erie, who were no less thrifty than heroic, contrived to have a change of gauge in their town, thus compelling a change of cars, and securing the sale of dinners and drinks to passengers. But the annoyance was complained of, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, laudably anxious to please the travelling public, procured an act of the Legislature of their state allowing them to conform their grade to that in New York and Ohio. At once the Erie people saw that their craft was in danger. The trade in dinners and drinks would be diminished—there would be less stopping for "refreshments"—and at once they took up arms.

The Dunkirk Journal, in an article evidently written by one who understands the entire subject of the Erie war, states that the citizens of that place are instigated to their riotous proceedings by the residents of Philadelphia, who desire to turn western travel and trade in that direction away from the New York roads. The writer states that these men furnish "means and counsel to a few individuals at Erie, who, on a former occasion have shown themselves to be proper subjects for bribery, to resist a change of gauge on the Erie and North East road."

The New York Herald says:

We have a report by telegraph that Governor Bigler, of Pennsylvania, sympathises with the rioters, which we can hardly credit. He is certainly, however, extremely remiss in his duty in not interposing the authority of the State to restrain the riotous proceedings of the citizens of Erie.

We have not, as yet, seen the first line or word of excuse for the conduct of the Erie mob, including the Mayor and three lawyers.

FOREIGN ITEMS.—All the Rothschild family will meet at Paris this month, to consult about public affairs, and 'the supplies.' They are disposed not to assist any belligerents. In 1848, the year of revolutions, it is believed that they lost five millions sterling, by the sudden depreciation of all funded railway property in Europe, on which they largely advanced, and in which they had heavy investments.

It turns out that instead of only £20,000 having been all that was left by the late Sir Charles Napier, he had evaded the legal duty by giving away, instead of bequeathing, £50,000 more to his relatives. He got £70,000 prize money by the conquest of Scinde.

As much as £6000 have been subscribed for the proposed statue of Prince Albert, on the site of the exhibition of 1851. The nobility, the toadying gentry and shopkeepers, and the persons in the employ of the government, have given this large sum, at which, and them, the Times sneers.

But, statue or no statue, Prince Albert is becoming unpopular—an idea having got abroad that his uncle, Leopold of Belgium, recently allied to the Emperor of Austria, has infected him with his own pro Russian politics, which Albert has pressed upon the ministry through the Queen.—London Cor. N. Y. Sunday Times.

HALIFAX, Dec. 13.—The Humboldt is breaking up. Her engines are going to pieces. Very little more can be saved. Only about 200 tons of goods have been got out.

The new Presbyterian church which has been built lately in St. Louis, is "tipped off" with a large gilt cross. This to us is something new in the history of Presbyterian houses of worship.

A VERDICT.—Drs. Ellis and Uhl and the coroner's jury agree that Mr. John R. Stuyvesant, the dupe of "Doctor" Seymour and his wife, died at New York of real Asiatic cholera. On Friday he dined on cabbage, corned beef, and cranberries, and drank two or three quarts of lemonade, while his bowels were deranged.

We are glad to find it was not murder;—but the verdict ought to be suicide by gormandizing.

WEEKLY CHRONICLE,

AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER,

At $1 per Annum, in advance.

Being published in connection with the DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE, we are enabled to offer a record of news more thorough than Weeklies generally; and being entirely independent of the "arbitrary sway" of any and all parties and sects, our record of passing events we trust is clear and impartial.

The coming year seems big with events of great political interest, and a paper having no party bias will be found interesting as a chronicle of the doings of ALL parties.

LOCAL MATTERS

Have a prominent place in the Weekly Chronicle, so that natives of Portsmouth resident at home or abroad, will here find mention of all matters of interest in this vicinity.

The Weekly Chronicle is of medium size, printed on good paper, and contains but few advertisements—giving twenty columns of news and miscellaneous reading each week, at the low price of one dollar a year.

SQUABBLE FOR A WIFE.—A few nights since the Philadelphia Arch street Theatre was the scene of a singular altercation in regard to a wife, between Mr. D. H. Erdman and Mr. J. G. Bowman. The causes of the difficulty appear to be as follows: Mr. Erdman was married about five years since. Two years after the marriage his wife left him, and on the 20th of August last she contracted matrimony before Alderman Hibbard with Mr. Bowman. The second husband left the city some time since, to visit some friends; in his absence the wife went back to her first choice. Mr. Bowman, on his return to the city, saw nothing of her until he accidentally encountered her at the theatre, in company with Mr. Erdman. An officer was summoned to quell the conflict which ensued, and Mr. and Mrs. Erdman were taken into custody, and lodged in the Cherry street station house. After a partial hearing of the case before the Mayor, Mrs. Erdman was held to bail in the sum of five hundred dollars to await a further examination.

KILLING A BEAR.—A correspondent of the Haverhill Gazette says, that on the 23d ult., two boys, sons of Mr. Brown, of Tamworth, N. H., aged respectively 14 and 11 years, took their fowling pieces and went into the woods to shoot squirrels. Presently several reports of guns were heard in the direction they had taken, followed by the hearty cheers of the boys. A gentleman near by, thinking there was too much noise for squirrel or partridge shooting, hastened to the spot, where he found a bear in his death struggle, and the oldest boy beating him over the head with a club. The boy said that they had discovered the bear eating beech nuts under a tree, and had fired upon it, and fortunately the shot from their guns had reached a vital part. The bear was a female, of large size, and very lean.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, prepared and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 83½ lbs. —14½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 106½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of its sales book, finds the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 960,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidence of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Druggists and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. 4tWeim je29

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as Narvan's Rheumatic Remedy, for removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom
AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered. Consumption can be cured! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full fairness offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

EXETER AFFAIRS.

EXETER, N. H., Dec., 1853.

Messrs. Editors :—I perceive that your columns contain but little with respect to Exeter—a staid old town which, imbedded anciently among savage tribes, established, if I am not mistaken, the first independent republic in the United States. You wait, perhaps, for a eulogy from some of its own citizens. You know, however, that it is one of the finest and most beautiful towns in New England. It is one of the oldest, too, and yet, out-growing its fogyism, it generally keeps pace with the improvements of the age. Lying on the Squamscot, at the head waters of alewives, it stretches out over an undulating country,—I need not tell how beautifully, for you know already. Its buildings, those especially of a recent erection, are fine specimens of architecture; and many of the old buildings are refitted and made to look almost "as good as new." And then the trees, leafless now to be sure, with which the streets are adorned, from the ancient elm down to the maple sapling, certainly do credit to the taste of the people, and render the place during the early summer, almost equal in point of rural enchantments, to the "Vale of Cashmere."

One of the most important places for the visiting stranger is the Squamscot House, kept, as you know, by Major Blake, a gentleman in his way of the first order—portly, affable, good natured, and accommodating.—He always has a house full in the summer, and knows exactly how to make every man at his house, cheerful, comfortable and happy in the winter.

The merchants and business men of the place stand fair, and for honor and fair dealing are not surpassed by the same class in other places. But one thing—some would call it a fault—deserves to be noticed in this business, namely, everybody keeps everything.—The various departments of business are not kept distinct, as in some other places, but seem to fuse and run into each other. Go into a store and you will find a heterogeneous collection of dry goods, groceries, hard ware, beef, confectionery, drugs, shoes, glass, beer, paints, spareribs, boots, crockery, and very bad New England rum! There are many exceptions to this remark, as in case of all general rules. Improvement is going on, and business men are falling gradually into single departments. It should be considered that Exeter is not quite ripe yet; its business is small, and navigation of the river is interrupted by small bridges. Bass, eels, and alewives make their appearance at the appropriate season, but the larger craft of windy and vaporish locomotion, as sloops, schooners, gondolas, and steamers, are not so frequent. But the town is growing, and promises, in due time, to become a place of great business, as it is now a place of great beauty and loveliness. Yours, ISAAC WALTON, JR.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

The Report of the Secretary of War is an elaborate statement of the condition and operations of the Department. The authorized strength of the army is 13,821, officers and men; and its actual strength 10,417. Of this number 8,378 are employed on the frontiers, or are on their route to frontier stations. The Indian depredations have decreased during the past year, but the necessity of maintaining a strong force on the Rio Grande to fulfil the obligations of our treaty with Mexico, and protect the inhabitants, is recognized by the present administration, and strongly urged by the Secretary, whose policy is to station the troops in large bodies, and reduce the number of small posts. This ensures greater efficiency, as well as security on the part of our troops.

The Secretary complains that the appropriations for the "amount of fortifications," have either been refused or reduced during the past three years, greatly, in his opinion, to the disadvantage of the service. The number of recruits required for the ensuing year is estimated at 4,600; and the Secretary doubts whether it will be possible to obtain this number of men at the present rate of pay; though he considers it important that they should be had, and the full complement of rank and file maintained.

Since the Mexican war, the average loss to the service by desertion has been 16 per cent, by discharges for debility and other causes 8 per cent, and by deaths 4 per cent. The discovery of gold in California has increased desertion, and reduced the number of enlistments. The disparity between the pay of the soldier and the value of labor in civil life, and the fact that length of service carries with it no reward, either in increased pay, rank or privilege, have produced dissatisfaction and desertion, and prevented the enlistment of good men. The consequence of this state of things is, that more than one-third of the army must every year be recruited, and transferred from their depots to their regiments. The Secretary of War, therefore, proposes several reforms.

1. An increase of the present pay of the soldier.

2. An additional increase for each successive period of five years, so long as he shall remain in the army.

3. Provisions for the promotion to the lowest grade of commissioned officers of such of the noncommissioned officers of the army as may be qualified for, and, by their conduct, character and services, entitled to such advancement.

He also recommends that

"The soldier honorably discharged, who shall reenlist within one month thereafter, shall be entitled to two dollars per month, in addition to the ordinary pay of his grade, for the first period of five years, and a further increase of one per month for each successive period; and that those now in the army who have served more than one period of five years, shall be entitled to the provisions named above; and also, that those who received a certificate of merit for services in Mexico shall have the additional two dollars per month."

The report contains suggestions for the improvement of the militia, and enters at length into the operations of the various exploring expeditions which have been commissioned of late.

AMUSING ERRATA OF REPORTERS AND TYPES.—Dr. Bethune in a lecture in New York, on Lectures and Lecturing, said:

Then there are the editors and reporters, whom I would not on any account offend, who are as a body eminently endowed with ability to give abstracts and fill notes, and to comment critically; but such is the imperfection of the best humanity, that some of them are sometimes liable to misconceive, and types sometimes play strange tricks. I once said, "I was not by descent, but only ecclesiastically, a Dutchman." Judge of my surprise on learning from a newspaper that "I was only an ecclesiastical deduction." When I said upon a certain event, "the devil would have a chance of sowing many tares," the translation of the short hand writer's notes made me utter the astounding prophecy that "the devil would saw many trees."

If, said the Dr., "you think such mistakes can be easily set right, let me give you three rules which will save you, if followed, a large share of this world's trouble—never dispute with a woman; never challenge a hotel keeper's charges; and never quarrel with an editor."

TALK ON TEMPERANCE.

BY UNCLE TOBY.—NO. II.

A friend puts the question, why in No. 1 the writer spoke of 33 years ago in Boston, when the Transcript spoke of 30. The answer is, because Uncle Toby dwelt there at the first named time, and knows the things whereof he affirms, and knows also that no material change in respect to drinking customs took place during those three years.—And having also resided there two years of the last five, he can compare the two extremes of about thirty years apart, with a good degree of confidence.

It cannot be denied, and ought not to be concealed, that during all these years, there has been a select, refined, wealthy and influential social circle in that place, into which temperance effort has been able to introduce but little change for the better; though it has done something, even there. There has, also, been an exceedingly low class of people, the degraded, out cast, criminal and forlorn dregs of society, where drinking has been, as a general thing, unchanged; though in many individual cases, reformation took or seemed to take place among these.

But in all the middle classes, of industrious, active, literary and working people, there have been great and valuable changes of habit, and these changes have prevented a great deal of pauperism and crime. And were it not that the influx of foreigners, mentioned by the Transcript, has recruited the ranks of both criminals and drunkards, Boston would present a comparatively clean bill. And though there may have been a partial return to habits of drinking, and a consequent increase of drunkenness, among some persons, still intemperance and its consequence, crime, now fall below the line where they stood in Boston, thirty years ago. The two things rise and fall together.

The quotation from the Boston Transcript was suggested in part, by a comparison proposed in the New Hampshire Gazette, of criminal statistics between Portsmouth and other cities and towns of like population in New England. We like the idea, and hope it may be carried out, and that the statistics of drinking and pauperism may be connected with those of crime.

We have already made a beginning, by stating that Portsmouth has 9 1-5 paupers to every 1000 people, or near one per cent: that Newburyport has 8 1-3 to the 1000: and Portland only 2 1 2: and that we know of no other cause for the difference than the different degrees of temperance.

Leaving this comparative view, between towns, we come home to our own city, and mak first, a brief extract from a late temperance sermon by Rev. Mr. Lamson, in which he says:

There is reason to believe that there has never been so much intemperance in Portsmouth as at this day; and what is worse still, there has not been for years such a prevalent apathy in reference to it. There has certainly been a great change in public sentiment, and a sad one, within a few years. A few years since to drink was disrepatable, and he who did it, apologized for it, or sought dark corners and secret places, in which to indulge his appetite. But it is not so now. Not to drink is to be singular—to step aside from the multitude. In conversation with a friend a few days since, he told me that one extensively acquainted with the young men of Portsmouth, did not think there were more than a dozen or twenty of our young men who did not habitually use ardent spirit. I think the remark incredible and extravagant. But I mentioned it to another friend, whose means of judging are ample, and he replied that he should not know where to find even so large a number who were totally abstinent. The statement alarms me. I look into the future, and this fact peoples itself with direful forms, and fills it with scenes of horror, and there comes back from it the wailings of indescribable woe. I am unwilling to admit the statement to its full extent.

Uncle Toby's own recollections can point to a time when there was much more intemperance in Portsmouth than now, viz: from 1810 to 1825. In 1815, there were 242 license taxes paid to the United States from retailers of spirits in Portsmouth. And during all the years mentioned, the regular daily drinking of workmen was precisely as noticed in Boston, except that no church bell was rung for grog-time. Many a time, in his boyhood, has Uncle Toby measured and carried the daily rum ration to a gang of joiners, masons and painters: hundreds of times has he carried it to the farmers; and has repeatedly examined the mechanics' books kept at the building of the Arsenal, Fort McClary, Portsmouth Academy, and other large buildings. The few old mechanics of those days, who read this chapter, will bear him out in saying that only a few drank less than their allowance, and that not more than one in twenty, perhaps not more than one in fifty, abstained entirely. The remarks made in regard to Boston mechanics, that besides drinking at work they drank at home, holds good here.

The writer has now in his possession, two ledgers, the last which were kept by a joiner who died here in 1813, but who would now be called a house carpenter, and who took many large jobs. On these books are accounts against forty working mechanics, of various trades, mostly then considered sober men—and there are gallons of rum charged to every one of them, which were taken home, more generally on Saturday night than any other, for family use and domestic comfort.

Mr. Lamson's other statements, above cited, are generally correct; his suggestions are important; and the following question of his must be answered. "Admit only (says he) that a majority of the young men of this city are habitual drinkers, and let the evil go unchecked, and what are to be its fruits for the next twenty years?"

Uncle Toby does not claim to be a prophet; but he has sometimes dabbled in historical sketches. Therefore, though he cannot exactly tell what habitual drinking will do, he can tell a few stories of what it used to be and do. Of course he cannot do all of it in this chapter,—but will close for the present, by stating that within the years between 1810 and 1815, not only half the young men were habitual drinkers,—but more than nineteen-twentieths of all the men in the place, drank regularly and daily; and that there was also twice as much extra, social drinking then, as there is now.

GOVERNOR GILMAN.

We are well pleased to announce the determination to take a suitable notice of another of New Hampshire's great men.

The Exeter News Letter states that the New Hampshire Historical Society made arrangements at its annual meeting to hold a special meeting in Exeter on Monday next, the 19th inst., at two o'clock, P. M., on which occasion Charles S. Davies, Esq., of Portland, will read a memoir of the late Gov. John Taylor Gilman.

Gov. Gilman was born in Exeter on the 19th of December, 1753. He was one of that noble band of volunteers who marched from Exeter to Cambridge on the morning after the arrival of the news of the battle of Lexington. He was elected to Congress in 1782; and in 1783, having resigned his seat, was elected State Treasurer, which office he held nine years. In 1794 he was elected Governor of the State, and continued to be re-elected until 1808. In 1810 and 1811 he represented Exeter in the State Legislature. In 1813, '14 and '15, he was again elected Governor; retiring from public life in 1816, having held the highest office in the State for a longer period than any of his predecessors. He died at Exeter on the 1st of September, 1828, in the 75th year of his age. A well written memoir of this distinguished man will be received with universal satisfaction.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association, on Wednesday evening last, in their new rooms, the following resolutions, acknowledging the favors conferred upon the Association, were unanimously adopted. We are happy to see such an Institution so generously countenanced by the public, and hope to see it increase in numbers and influence.

Resolved, That in entering our new rooms in Washington Hall, we gratefully acknowledge the liberal kindness of the many friends who have aided our enterprise, and by their substantial support strengthened and established in this city a Young Men's Christian Association; believing, as we do, that the tendency of such an institution is to elevate the moral and intellectual tone of the young men of our community, and to benefit vastly every one who comes within its influence.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt thanks to the recent donors to our funds, by whose liberality we have been aided in procuring these rooms and fitting them for our purposes, and to those who have in no small degree contributed to the extent and interest of our Library.

Resolved, That we extend our especial thanks to Hon. Horton D. Walker, Mayor of Portsmouth, for his liberal donation of twenty-five dollars to our funds, and that he be constituted a Life Member of the Association.

Resolved, That the various papers of this city be requested to publish these resolutions.

Horace Webster, Esq., President; William W. Dow and Moses Wheeler, Vice Presidents; Horace A. Martin, Recording Secretary; John H. Lowd, Corresponding Secretary; Charles W. Martin, Treasurer; John T. Leverton, Librarian; Amos S. Foster, Assistant Librarian.—Directors, Lewis W. Brewster, Elisha Tripp, Daniel H. Spinney, Jr., Charles A. Grant, Henry C. Barnabee, William M. Conant.

BUBBLES.—Kosta, at Washington, wishes our Government to send him back again to Turkey, where he was a merchant, (!) or else give him employment in the U. S. Service! We presume he will go back to Turkey.

Mr. Secretary Guthrie, has a difficulty with Senator Gwin and Mr. Latham, M. C. of California, on account of some alleged insult or slight by Mr. Guthrie, upon Gwin and Latham. We don't think any blood will be spilt in the case, though they are quite cross.

DEATH ON THE STONINGTON RAILROAD.—Hugh McLaughlin, a brakeman on the freight train from Stonington, was found dead on Tuesday morning on the car when the train stopped at the Warwick switch. He was probably killed instantly by hitting a bridge as the train passed. He was a resident of Stonington, and leaves a wife and[illegible] children.—Providence Journal.

Herr Driesbach, the "lion tamer," was considerably injured on Saturday evening last, at the Broadway Menagerie, by a Brazilian tiger, into whose cage he had entered. He was rescued with difficulty by the keeper.

MUSIC IN PORTSMOUTH.

Probably more money was paid in at the great combination concert on Wednesday evening, than was ever before given for a single entertainment in this city,—if we except the Gift Concert by Mr. Moses, two or three years ago. And this too, coming immediately after the good house of the Germanians on Monday night—the receipts at the two concerts being about five hundred dollars.—The money was not mis-spent—we regard it as a good sign when first-class artists are liberally patronized.

But let us see if something might not be done at home, to generate musical taste, disseminate knowledge of music, develop and cultivate all the musical talent in the community. As a first step, juvenile singing-schools should be liberally patronized—everybody's children ought to go; and not only one term, but as long and as regularly as they attend any school. Some years ago, a teacher of music was employed to devote certain hours each week to the teaching of rudimental music in our public schools. We know not the reason for the discontinuance of this healthful and desirable practice,—unless it was the appointing of committees without "music in their souls." A teacher of a school should always understand something of the science of music. The daily music lesson in school can have none other than a good effect. And there is no recreation or exercise better for young men or women than the evening singing school or rehearsal—provided a suitable teacher is at hand.

We think that there is at present less available musical knowledge in the community, than was formerly the case. And while we would rejoice at the success of any real artist visiting us, we would like to see a little more attention paid to the development of home talent.

City Council—Thursday, Dec. 15.

In Board of Aldermen—His Honor Mayor Walker in the Chair.—A petition from Jos. B. Adams and others asking the City to accept Dover street—referred to committee on streets, &c.

John M. Lord notified the City that he should expect $150 per annum, commencing Jan. 1st, 1854, for the room occupied by them in Hanover Street Chapel—referred to Committee on School Houses.

The Committee on Gas Lights were directed to have Gas put in the Watch House.

Sundry bills approved.

☞ A closely crowded audience at the Cameneum on Thursday evening, listened to a lecture from Rev. Mr. Moore of this city, who announced as his subject, the Language of Words and the Language of Sentiment. On this announcement not a few of the audience apprehended there might be an attempt "——to sever and divide

A hair 'twixt South and South-west side."

The orator, however, did not attempt the feat; but gave a very pleasant and in some parts really beautiful lecture on sentiment as the basis of conversation, public speaking, and writing for the press. He commended naturalness, ease and life; was somewhat severe on idle chat and chatterboxes; and on the whole made a lecture at once literary and popular, out of what at first appeared to be an unpromising theme.

Rev. Dr. Peabody was announced as the lecturer for next Thursday evening.

☞ The Fall Term of Mr. David Lamprey's Dancing Academy closed on Wednesday with an Afternoon and Evening Exhibition—the pupils showing good proficiency and improvement in the accomplishment. The school was a large one, and Rechab Hall was filled with the parents and friends of the scholars—who (the scholars) presented a fine appearance upon the floor. Four Misses went through with the difficult changes of the Hornpipe admirably, and five danced the Highland Fling to perfection. After the school had exhibited themselves to their own satisfaction, their teacher's, and that of the spectators—the grown-up boys and girls were permitted to show how well they remembered the steps and changes; which opportunity they well-improved till—about bed-time.—Good music was discoursed by Messrs. Lamprey and Haines of this city, and Mr. Goldsmith of Dover.

☞ Two or three small wood stoves, suitable for warming a sick chamber, are needed in poor families. A notice left at the City Missionary's office by any one who has such an article to lend will be thankfully received.

For Armstrong—Messrs. Allen of Rhode Island, Bell of Tennessee, Cass of Michigan, Dodge of Iowa, Dodge of Wisconsin, Gwin of California, Hamlin of Maine, Johnson of Arkansas, Petit of Indiana, Slidell of Louisiana, Williams of New Hampshire, Walker of Wisconsin, Wright of New Jersey.

We do not see Mr. Norris' name reported as voting on either side. It will be seen that the whigs, with one exception, voted for the hard candidate; we know not exactly on what ground, but imagine that it may be to testify their strong attachment to the Union of the States, and their dislike to the Washington Union.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13.—From Mexico.—A private letter, dated Vera Cruz, Dec. 8th, states that Gen. Santa Anna was proclaimed Dictator for ten years, with the consent of all the principal states and cities, excepting Obispa, which wanted him perpetual dictator.

It was reported that the American minister, Mr. Gadsden, had demanded of Mexico the immediate confirmation of the Garay grant, or the United States would take possession of the Mesilla Valley.

Nine powder wagons had exploded near Puebla, killing thirteen persons.

The deaths in New Orleans by cholera for the week past has been 111; for the previous week the number was 160.

CHARLESTON, Dec. 11.—From Havana.—General Canedo had returned to Spain about a week previously.

Mr. Clayton had been duly received as Consul at Havana.

The Cutter Hamilton.—The hull of the cutter Hamilton was discovered in three fathoms of water at North Point Stone Breakers. A total loss. The missing boat has not been heard from, nor have any bodies as yet been discovered.

THE STEAMER HUMBOLDT.—The Halifax Chronicle attributes the disaster of the Humboldt to the ignorance of the person who attempted to pilot her into the harbor, and intimates that he was not an authorised pilot. It says:—

"There never was a more flagrant case. A fisherman appears on the deck of a steamship, which, with her cargo, is valued at $800,000. He represents himself to be a pilot, and on being asked for his certificate, states falsely that he has left it in his boat or at home.—Confiding in his statement, and naturally anxious to secure for their passengers rest and refreshments in a friendly port, the officers give him charge of the ship. He alters her course contrary to their judgment. They remonstrate; he perseveres in his stupid ignorance, and in a few moments she strikes upon the 'Sisters,' and the sea rushes into her with such rapidity that there is no rescue for human life but by a frightful squandering and waste of an enormous amount of capital. To punish that pilot, then, ought to be the first wise thought of every man interested in the character and prosperity of this fine seaport."

At East Weare, N. H., last Saturday, as a Mr. Peaslee was raising the frame of his barn, one of the girders gave way, and Mr. Joseph M. Sargent fell to the ground, a distance of eighteen feet, striking upon a pile of rocks, breaking his back, and otherwise injuring him so that he cannot survive but a few days.

A robber in a hotel in Halifax, the other day, was found kneeling at a trunk in the room of a boarder, and on being discovered, said he was at his prayers, and begged not to be interrupted. He was politely left to finish his devotions and decamp with his booty.

In Claremont, N. H., a barn belonging to Mr. Curtis Stoddard was burnt last Sunday evening, together with fifteen tons of hay, and sixty bushels of corn; no insurance.

THE approach of another Winter, with its usual leisure for Farmers and others, induces the publishers again to call attention to the

AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER,

At $1 per Annum, in advance.

Being published in connection with the DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE, we are enabled to offer a record of news more thorough than Weeklies generally; and being entirely independent of the "arbitrary sway" of any and all parties and sects, our record of passing events we trust is clear and impartial.

The coming year seems big with events of great political interest, and a paper having no party bias will be found interesting as a chronicle of the doings of ALL parties.

LOCAL MATTERS

Have a prominent place in the Weekly Chronicle, so that natives of Portsmouth resident at home or abroad, will here find mention of all matters of interest in this vicinity.

The Weekly Chronicle is of medium size, printed on good paper, and contains but few advertisements—giving twenty columns of news and miscellaneous reading each week, at the low price of one dollar a year.

THE SHAWL OFFSET TO BLOOMERISM.—The Washington Union says little is said in that city about Bloomerism, but in lieu thereof there is much talk and excitement, because creatures in the shape of men are beginning to excite the public mind by assuming that almost indispensable article of ladies apparel—the shawl. Several odd looking individuals, part feminine and part masculine, are seen parading the Avenue, wearing shawls of various hues. The petticoat is now only wanting to complete the figure.' What would the Union editor say, if he were in Boston just now where there are more gentlemen than ladies who wear shawls.—Boston Chron.

Fie, fie, gentlemen editors! Don't you think the tout ensemble of a gentleman, with the peak of a shawl dangling among his coat tails is truly sublime? You are particularly requested not to suggest anything about its being ridiculous; for the shawl is certainly very comfortable, and if there were no coat tails in the way, it might be graceful.

UNLUCKY DAYS.—For ourselves, we would as soon commence business, set out on a journey, or even get married on Friday, as on any other day of the week; but not so with others. An old manuscript dating two centuries back, will enlarge a little the catalogue of unlucky days. It reads as follows:

"The first Monday in April, the day on which Cain was born and Abel was slain.

The second Monday in August, on which day Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed.

The 31st of December, on which day Judas was born who betrayed Christ.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, prepared and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86¼ lbs.—13¾ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Crops, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

My Clothes came from HAM'S, 22 Market st., up stairs. | Mine did'nt.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&wêm je22*

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attention of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

HANNAH DUSTIN.

The lively and intelligent Boston correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, treats his readers to the following interesting items of local history, in the Journal of Saturday last:

In visiting Essex county last week, the writer saw the identical pewter tankard that was presented to Mrs. Hannah Dustin, that heroine who was carried away from her home at Haverhill by the Indians, and, after killing several of them, made her escape and returned home. The tankard is in possession of Mr. Moses Coffin, of Newburyport, who married a descendant of Mrs. Dustin. It has inscribed upon the inside of the cover simply the imtials of her name, "H. D." Upon the outside, is the English coat of arms, and the initials "W. R.," which we interpret William Rex, or king. The tankard will hold a quart, and has been much used. It resembles the cup that was used in old times in New England, at the Lord's Supper. A set of these tankards are now in existence at West Newbury, and were lately used by the First Congregational Church. When the people of Newburyport have their Pilgrim Hall, or curiosity shop, this tankard, together with many other Pilgrim relics that could be gathered in that city and vicinity, would afford a nucleus for a fine antiquarian collection.

Mirick, in his History of Haverhill, gives a graphic account of this tragical affair. It seems that the Indians descended upon the westerly part of the town of Haverhill, that was for more than seventy years a frontier town, and often suffered the horrors of savage warfare, on the 15th of March, 1697, and approached the house of Mr. Thomas Dustin. Every reader of American history knows the rest; how Mr. Dustin mounted his horse after ordering seven of his children to flee, and how he determined to snatch up the child he loved most when he reached them, but with a father's love could not and so defended them all,—how the Indians fired the dwelling, after ordering out Mrs. Dustin and her nurse, with the young child seven days old,—how they dashed the life out of the child against an apple tree, and bore the adult captives up the Merrimack river to the mouth of the Contoocook at Concord, N. H., and there spent some days on what was called afterwards Dustin's Island.

It was on this island that the second tragedy was committed, (Mrs. Dustin planning the whole,) when the captives returned safe to Haverhill with their ten Indian scalps, tomahawk, &c. After recovering from the fatigue of their journey they visited Boston on the 21st of April. "They carried with them the gun and tomahawk and their ten scalps, those witnesses that would not lie; and while there, the General Court gave them fifty pounds as a reward for their heroism. The report of their daring deed soon spread into every part of the country, and when Col. Nicholson, Governor of Maryland, heard of it, he sent them a very valuable present, and many presents were also made to them by their neighbors." The tankard was presented to Mrs. Dustin alone, as the heroine of the tragedy. She was justified then for her conduct, and would be so now, in view of all the facts.

The good people of Haverhill have recently agitated the matter of erecting a suitable monument to the memory of Mrs. Dustin, either on the spot where the old house stood, or elsewhere. Several meetings have been held on the subject. At the last accounts, there was a difficulty in deciding upon the spot. We trust the matter will not be dropped, through a difference of opinions as to sites.

The Island where woman's courage was so wonderfully exhibited, I have often visited. It is triangular in form, it being washed on one side by the Merrimac River, and on two sides by the Contoocook. It contains, perhaps, an acre of land, that is dotted over with trees. It is every way a romantic spot. We believe it to be within the bounds of Concord, though on its extreme northern boundary, next to Boscawen. A station of the Northern railroad is quite near it, so that it is easily visited by strangers. No monument or slab tells the musing traveller of the deed of daring, enacted on that spot before the break of day of the 31st of March 1698. We do not learn that anything of the kind was ever projected. A city like Concord that can give the country a General President, will not always forget to honor the memory of the heroic Mrs. Dustin, and the Island that bears her name.

During the same visit to old Essex, your correspondent passed a few hours with Rev. Dr. Perry, of Groveland, formerly East Bradford. Last autumn he had been thirty-nine years sole pastor of the Congregational Church in that place. At that time, Rev. Daniel Webster Pickard was settled at his colleague. The Rev. divine still continues to preach occasionally, and divides the remainder of his time between agriculture and literature.

He is now preparing a work, that he may call Ecclesiastical Reports, to correspond with the volumes of Law Reports that have been published for a long time. He expects by editing these decisions of congregational ecclesiastical councils, and presenting them in a volume, or volumes, that future councils may be aided, if not governed by them.—These reports will make a curious if not a very useful work, and may be, in the end, more valuable, as showing the history of ecclesiastical opinion in New England, and in writing its religious history, than as precedent for future ecclesiastical councils.

Whether the boy at Chicago suffered his companions to drown him rather than consent to steal, or not, it is certain that a little orphan boy of nine years died in Marquette, Michigan, rather than tell a lie. He and his sister, two years older, were adopted by a farmer.—He discovered criminal conduct on the part of the farmer's wife; she persuaded her husband that the boy slandered her, when they suspended the child from the rafters of the house, and the farmer whipped him till his blood ran through the floor, the little victim replying to every inquiry, "Pa, I told the truth—I cannot tell a lie."

When released, the boy threw his arms around the neck of his murderer, kissed him, complained of being cold, and died. Upon the trial of the man and woman, it was proved that the boy told nothing but the truth. Instead of being hanged, the monsters were sent to the State prison for ten years. They were professors of religion, of the Baptist persuasion.—Boston Post.

CALIFORNIA LOSSES.—The San Francisco Times and Transcript of the 15th ult., contains an article which gives the views of a merchant of that city, in regard to the recklessness of Eastern shippers in forcing upon that market merchandise for which there is no immediate requirement, and which, in most instances, cannot be sold for cost and charges. He thinks that California can promise losses the present year to the amount of seven millions of dollars, and adds that while this fact is to be deeply regretted, the Eastern shippers may thank themselves for this loss.

And now, to make one last appeal to you, to cease shipments, not partially, but altogether, for four months. The sight of a clipper and cargo have changed from the pleasing to the revolting. You have loaded us, crushed us with goods, against fearfully ruinous prices, against a slowly increasing population, against good judgment, and a constantly falling market—against all these facts, reiterated every two weeks since last February.

A DEBT OF HONOR.—Some years ago, some Africans, kidnapped on the coast of Guinea, and destined to slavery in Cuba, by their own valor liberated themselves and landed in the United States. One would hardly think any civilized country would make claim in behalf of the pirates from whom the negroes escaped; yet Uncle Sam has been feeling in his breeches pockets for years after money enough to pay for those negroes; and to-day the Amistad claim is worth more than the whole French claim, that has been due now for a half century.—Newburyport (dem.) Union.

A NOBLE ACT.—We learn that the life of a boy was saved at Lawrence, yesterday, by Hon. Albert Currier of this city, who risked his own in the performance of the act. The boy had broken through the ice in the Spicket river, when he was seen by Mr. Currier from his work, on the Jail, who hurried to the spot as soon as possible; whither Mr. Currier plunged without stopping to divest himself of his garments or boots, and in a few moments was enabled to restore him, though nearly dead, to his distracted mother, who stood upon the banks of the stream. It was an act worthy of the man who performed it.—Newburyport Union.

SATURDAY, DEC. 17, 1853.

THE SOULE AFFAIR.

It now appears that young Soule, the son of our minister to Spain, pushed a Spaniard, the Duke of Alba, and told him that he was a rascal, because he (the Duke) had contemptuously called Mrs. Soule (the young man's mother,) Mary of Burgundy. It seems Mrs. Soule had either the modesty or the independence, or both, to wear a decent high necked dress. And if the son had possessed enough of the latter quality to take the slur as a compliment, he would have done better than he has now. But even as it is now, we think he has the best side in the extremely trifling controversy. The American reader who has never been abroad, may smile at the political turn in the last sentence of the following extract. Nevertheless it is true that in the Courts of Europe, fashions are of immense importance. When this grave question comes before Secretary Marcy and the President, we hope they will tell Spain and the world, that America has no court dress, and that if our Ministers abroad, and their wives if they have any, cannot appear in clothes of their own fashion, it is quite immaterial to us whether they are received at all.

The idea of Republican Ministers being required to obey the unwritten laws of fashion in regal courts, is a special absurdity. If any of them choose to do so, or if being in Rome they should kiss the Pope's toe, we should not object, if that is their taste. But the idea that they must do, should be scouted by every republican, especially by Secretary Marcy.

In the course of the evening, Mr. Soule, Jr., while walking through the ball-room with Mrs. Perry, the wife of the United States Secretary of Legation, overheard the Duke of Alba (who has recently been in Paris, and is therefore a judge of ladies' dress) make some contemptuous remark on the style of dress adopted by the wife of the American Minister (mother of young Soule.) It appears that the lady had adopted a costume which is not quite a la mode de Madrid, in so far that it covered her person up to the throat; whereas the most approved fashion among the Madrid damsels is to exhibit as many of the graces conferred upon them by nature, as come within the bounds of decency. The remark of the Duke was, "There goes Mary of Burgundy." Mr. Soule, on hearing the contemptuous expression, left the lady with whom he was walking, and going up to the Duke, informed him qu'il était une canaille, and accompanied this piece of information with a—push. Great excitement ensued, and Mr. Soule's father having interfered, took away the young man, who subsequently addressed a challenge to the Duke, which has not yet been accepted, the Duke having found it convenient to represent the whole affair as political—which it certainly is, if the dress of the American Minister's wife was not strictly in fashion.

SHAKING THE COMMONWEALTH.

Every reader of "the papers," has seen the story of the Constable in some country town of Massachusetts, who got a terrible shaking one day, from a rough fellow on whom he went to serve some process. The constable, as soon as he could recover his breath, protested against the assault, "Not that I care so much," said he, "about a little shaking; but you must remember, that whoever shakes me, shakes the Commonwealth."

So General Armstrong, of the Washington Union newspaper, in a notice of Beverly Tucker's election for printer, says of ten Democrats who voted for him, that their opposition was not to Armstrong personally; and adds, "as our support of the administration has been constant, earnest and zealous, we can attribute it to no other motive than opposition to the policy of the administration."

The Boston Courier remarks, rather mischievously, that "what the Union says with regard to "opposition to the policy of the administration," means opposition to the policy which discharged collector Bronson of New York, and it may be well to make a note of that, and see how well Senators stick to their sentiments of nationality and independence."

The 26 votes by which Mr. Tucker was elected, were those of all the whigs present except two, numbering 14—the two Free Soil Senators, and 10 democrats.

☞ James Neal, of Portland, was on Thursday, at a court in that city, found guilty of an assault with intent to kill. The assault was on a tavern keeper, who, it was said, refused him drink. The punishment for this offence is fixed by law at not less than one year's imprisonment.

Defendant filed a motion for a new trial, based on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

Mr. Severance.—The Calais, Me., Journal has a letter from some of the emigrants to the Pacific from that quarter, who state that they "saw Mr. Severance, Consul to Honolulu, formerly editor of the Kennebec Journal. They say he is afflicted with a cancer on his lip which will soon carry him to his grave."

Sporting.—At New Orleans, on Sunday, the 5th inst., Silver Tail beat Franklin Pierce, in harness, three straight heats. Time: 2.30½, 2.31, 2.36 1-2. At Nashville, recently, Compromise, a five year old, beat Cornelia Reed, a three year old, for ten thousand dollars.

Indignation Meeting in New York.—A meeting of American citizens was held in the Park, on Wednesday evening, to express their sentiments upon the arrest, on Sunday evening, of the Rev. Mr. Parsons, while preaching in the open air against Popery.—The proceedings were marked with much enthusiasm.

The Roman Church was denounced in the most unsparing manner, and the conduct of the Mayor and the other city officers concerned in the arrest of Mr. P., was severely condemned. Among the speakers was the Rev. Mr. Parsons, the person who had caused the excitement, who stated that he had been imprisoned for fifteen years by the Jesuits, in a foreign land, and that he still bears the marks of their cruel treatment. Towards the close of the meeting it was announced that Mr. Parsons would preach next Sunday on the very spot where he was arrested last Sabbath, and that he would be protected. The meeting then adjourned to meet in Metropolitan Hall, some evening next week. Several morning papers state that the number present at this meeting was as high as 10,000 to 15,000. No disturbance occurred.

Parsons is said to be an industrious and zealous man, who earns his own living by working six days in the week, and preaches on Sundays and some evenings, without fee or reward. In his speech, (as reported in the Herald) he says:

I have been laboring for twenty years; because I have been in those countries that are priest ridden, and where the people are oppressed, and have no bread to eat; and consequently I know these traitors and the power they have. I have got marks on me that I shall carry to judgment, received from the Jesuits—yes, from the Spanish Jesuits, and I was imprisoned last Sunday by command of the Irish Jesuits. (Cheering.) These are facts, my friends. Now I don't pretend to detain you, because this is not my place. I am a preacher of righteousness. I preach no sectarianism. I take the Bible for my counsel; that is my law and guide. George Washington gained the independence of this country on the word of God, and he trusted in his Maker when he retired and was beset on every hand. When he poured his supplications to his Maker, the great God heard and answered and he was the instrument in gaining our liberties; and shall we not retain them? (Cries of "Yes.") Yes, with the grace of God, we intend to. (Cheers.) When the country was in the most imminent danger, when there were traitors all around, when he did not know which way to turn, when one wrong step through one traitor might lose the cause, what was his command? "Trust in God, and place none but Americans on guard tonight." The time is come when we are surrounded by traitors—they fill all our offices, (cries of "yes,") and now we want none but Americans on guard. (Great cheering.)—Those men that will stand up for their rights are the men we want. I will stand up for my rights, and I am enabled to stand, though I know a price has been set upon my head as well as upon eight or ten more in this city. I fear not. I shall go forth in the path of duty, and I know if I fall an army greater than this will rise upon my ashes. (Cries of "yes," and cheers.) It matters not to me when I fall. I care nothing about my life. I know that if I fall I shall rise in resurrection, and I shall have the stand then, and will be able to defeat those Jesuits that are undermining our country.

In Lowell, as we learn from the Courier of Tuesday evening, Mayor Mack was re-elected, in spite of all opposition, by a majority of one hundred and forty-four. He received two hundred and ninety-one votes more than all other candidates. The Aldermen, Councilmen, &c., are also nearly all elected.

The re-election of Mayor Mack is considered as a victory of the liquor interest over the Massachusetts law.

Rev. Thomas F. Norris, who has for fifteen years been the editor and proprietor of the Boston Olive Branch newspaper, lies apparently near his end. It was thought that he would not live through Saturday last, but he has somewhat revived. He is a native of Vermont, and now, at the age of 61, has come to be widely known. If we may believe him, he was ordained as a regular Methodist preacher when he was fifteen years old. I know of no like case. Summerfield was not a regular preacher until he was twenty; nor Edward Everett until he was nineteen.—Cor. N. Y. Jour. Com.

Ebon Townsend, aged eighty years, died at Andover, Illinois, on the 29th November. Mr. Townsend was one of the earliest India merchants in this country. In 1795, he embarked in a ship belonging to himself and friends for the South Sea Islands, where, after two years of toil, he succeeded in taking a cargo of seals, curing their skins, and sailed for Canton, where he arrived, and was among the very first ships that hoisted the American flag in that distant port. He returned with his ship loaded with teas and silks, after the absence of more than three years, having sailed round the world, and made one of the most profitable voyages there is on record. He visited at that time all the islands in the Pacific at which the celebrated Captain Cook had touched, and followed immediately in his track: his reception with the natives was exceedingly interesting. After several years residence in his native town, New Haven, he removed to this city in 1807, and was a highly respectable merchant for many years; he also resided sometime in New Orleans. Some ten years ago he removed to Illinois, to be near his children, where he remained till his death. He was one of the leading, enterprising men of the day—a gentleman of great experience and worth—and universally respected and beloved for his many endearing qualities.—N. Y. Express.

LOCAL.

To New Subscribers.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

☞ Rev. Henry D. Moore will deliver the first of a Course of Lectures on "Popular Infidelity," on Sunday evening next, at 7 o'clock, in the North Church.

☞ In speaking of the Dancing Academy exhibition, yesterday, we named Mr. David Lamprey as the Teacher—when everybody knows that Mr. Samuel Lamprey is the only gentleman about here who teaches the poetry of motion. But two young girls, Misses Adams and Lowd danced the Hornpipe; five, Misses Hills, Lowd, Adams and Hartshorn, danced the Highland Fling—several others being only prevented by lack of costume.

Shocking Accident.—The Boston Journal says a man by the name of George Eddy of Portsmouth, N. H., in attempting to step from an inward bound Providence train, Thursday afternoon, fell upon the track and had both legs broken and his left hand terribly mutilated. Amputation of one or both limbs is considered necessary. The man lies in a critical condition, but it is believed he may recover.

☞ We learn that the Superior Court at Concord, on Thursday, announced that a decision in the Case P. & C. Railroad vs. Wm. Jones, would be had this term. Notice of the time would be given to their respective Counsel.

Our Senator.—Contradiction.—Mr. Bacon, the "law partner" of Mr. Wells of Exeter, contradicts the story that the latter favored the appointment of Mr. Williams as Senator, and states that "all who know anything of the matter, know that Mr. Wells did not favor the appointment referred to, and did nothing, directly or indirectly, to effect it."

Man Stabbed in Great Falls.—On Thursday night, a man named Moses Place was dangerously stabbed in the lungs, under the following circumstances:—He had hired a team of a stable-keeper of that place named E. Locke, and had some words about the payment of the bill. During the night, Mr. Place got into the room where Mr. Locke and his wife were sleeping, by breaking through two doors; and Mr. Locke, in self-defence, stabbed Mr. Place, whose life is thought to be in danger.

The stable keeper named, we presume is Mr. Edwin R. Locke, formerly of this city.

A Quiz.—The Lowell Christian Era, in an article from a correspondent, has the following quiz, on two criticisms of ours, wherein we had spoken of clergymen who preached before two lyceums.

The lawyer is allowed to bring his profession into a public lecture, and the physician introduces his, and why may not the minister? It is a mortal sin for a minister to speak of religion; so the world believes.

We do not happen to believe any such thing. On the contrary we go for the largest liberty in such matters; and would not only have lecturers "speak of religion"—but speak as christian men on all subjects. But a Lyceum Lecture ought not to be a Sermon; and our own clergymen in the city act upon the knowledge of the fact that the Pulpit and Forum are not exactly the same place. Two of them have already given us good lectures this season; and we expect no less from the others.

The New York Independent, Vol. VI., 1854.—This well-known and widely-circulated journal, conducted by pastors of Congregational churches in New York and vicinity, has nearly completed its fifth year. In addition to the regular editorial corps, Rev. G. B. Cheever, D. D., (C.), Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, (*), Mrs. Harriet E. Beecher Stowe (H. E. B. S.), Rev. C. L. Brace (C. L.) and "Minnie Myrtle," are stated contributors, engaged to write weekly, and will be assisted by most able Correspondents at home and abroad, who will do all in their power to make this journal an interesting religious and family paper. The Editors are, in truth, "independent," having full and sole control of the columns of the paper.

Terms—Two Dollars per annum, if paid strictly in advance. Clergymen and Postmasters are solicited to engage in the work of extending its circulation,—50 cents commission on each new subscriber will be allowed them. Address "Publisher of the Independent, No. 10 Spruce st., New York," prepaying postage, and money so sent will be considered at the publisher's risk. Subscriptions forwarded before the first of January will entitle subscribers to the remaining numbers of the present volume, free of charge.

As the morning train, bound east from Utica a few days since, on the Canandaigua and Niagara Falls Railroad, was passing the gravel pit near Caledonia, a man by the name of Sullivan, who ran on the track ahead of the engine to drive off a chicken, was caught by the cow-catcher, and instantly killed.

On Monday afternoon, as the afternoon train upon the Dedham Branch Railroad was entering the village of Dedham, a carpenter named Mayo, a resident of the town, who was upon the track, was run over, by which one of his legs was crushed so badly that amputation will probably be necessary.

The National Magazine.—This is the title of a large and well-executed monthly magazine, which we have just seen for the first time, and the December number of which we have carefully examined. It is said to be "devoted to literature, art and religion;" and the contents of this number fully justify the assertion. The articles on China and its rulers, Spirit Rappings, Christmas and the poets, and the Troubles and Adventures of Young Housekeepers, with many others, are worthy of extensive perusal. There are 20 illustrations, and eighteen articles of some length, besides numerous editorial notes, items, &c. The work is lively without being too light; substantial without being heavy. It may be read with pleasure by persons of good taste, and cannot be offensive or injurious to any. A new volume will commence in January, so that the present is the right time to subscribe. The numbers are sold for 19 cents each, and the work may be seen on application to Rev. Justin Spaulding, who is agent for this city and vicinity.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—The royal mail steamship Asia, from Liverpool, 11 A. M. Dec. 3, arrived at this port this evening.

No movement of magnitude had occurred along the Danube, but continual skirmishes were being made between small parties of troops, sometimes with pretty severe loss, as at Moknau Island, off Giurgevo, and Hirsova, where the fire was somewhat smart.

In Asia the Turkish success continues brilliant, they having captured the first class fortress of Louchun, Kale and Usurgheltic.

Hostilities have commenced on a small scale on the Black Sea. Turkish steamers have captured the Russian frigate Waldomir, and a Russian ship has taken an Egyptian steamer of ten guns after a desperate resistance.

The Anglo-French fleet remains idle at its anchorage. There was a report that the Turkish fleet intends to bombard Sebastoli, believing it to be vulnerable.

It is understood that Austria has proposed a new conference to be held at Vienna, London or Paris. The European powers are said to be favorable to the proposition, and Russia and Turkey will be invited to send delegates. A manifesto from the Czar is expected.

The Turks, after the 20th of November will seize Russian ships, and the Russians after the 22d will seize Turkish shipping.

The Sultan has declined to receive further supplies of Treasure from the Ulema, as he does not wish present hostilities to be regarded as a Holy war. Apartments are preparing at Adrianople for the Sultan.

Rumors were current that the Emperor Napoleon was hurt or assassinated, but they were quite untrue.

The Turks for several nights bombarded the Russian position at Giurgevo, but they were finally dislodged by the artillery under Gen. Termsdoff.

In consequence of the continued heavy rains along the whole Lower Danube, the making of extended military operations is impossible. Both Russian and Turkish Commanders were getting their troops under cover.

Omar Pacha had marched the bulk of his troops back to the quarters they occupied previous to their crossing the Danube. The Turks, however, had formed an intrenched camp between Kalafat and Krajova.

MADRID, Nov. 23.—The Spanish government has received a despatch from Lisbon announcing as a probability that the Portuguese government will in a few days proclaim the Prince Royal of age.

PARIS, Thursday.—Within the last eight days the price of grain, in most of the Departments, has experienced a decline of 1f. 50c. per hectolitre.

Liverpool Corn Market, Dec. 2.—Under the influence of large arrivals from America, prices of all articles have given way. Wheat 4 a 6d per bu, and Flour 1 a 2s, at which reduction however most holders declined to sell. Indian Corn in moderate request at previous rates. Phila and Balt Flour sold at 35 a 35s 6d, ex ship a 36s, ex store; W C No 1 34 a 34s 6d ex ship,—3 a 6d more from store.

CUTTER HAMILTON.

A despatch dated at Charleston on Wednesday, says:—Six more bodies have been found, supposed to have constituted part of the crew of the life boat of the Revenue Cutter Hamilton. It is now pretty certain that, as was originally reported, all were lost excepting one seaman.

This seaman was named James Hagan, and he was picked up at sea by the steamer Calhoun, on Friday, after being in or on a boat all Thursday night.

Hagan states that the Hamilton in trying to go to sea on Wednesday afternoon, got ashore in the breakers near the bar, but was finally got off after dark, but owing to the difficulty of getting under way near the shoals, it was deemed prudent to anchor until morning.

On Thursday morning early, it commenced blowing a gale from the northeast, which rendered it impossible to get the vessel under way in the position she then lay. All her anchors and chains were brought into service, but the gale continuing to increase, she parted one chain after another and was driven ashore on Folly Breakers on Thursday night. The masts soon going by the board and the vessel leaking very badly, it was thought best to abandon her, that being the only chance left of saving the lives of all on board. Captain Rudolph, Thomas Stone, quartermaster, (of Boston,) two boys and four men, took one life-boat, which, soon after being among the breakers, was turned over, and every soul in her drowned but our informant, James Hagan, and he was only saved by being lashed to the boat, none of the others having secured themselves in that way. The other life-boat had in her Camillus Saunders, 1st Lieutenant, E. C. Hine, 3d Lieutenant, (there being no 2d Lieutenant attached,) and the remainder of the crew, which probably consisted of the carpenter and four men. No information of this boat.

Nineteen lives were lost, unless the missing boat comes to hand.

A Remarkable Scene.—Died in Strong, Me., of the malignant "throat distemper" which baffled all the skill of physicians—on the 20th of November, Thomas Henry, aged 9 years—on the 26th, Abby Josephine, aged 6 years—on the 27th, Nancy, aged 11 years—and in five minutes afterwards, Jane, aged 14 years—all children of Mr. Thomas Kennedy. During the scene, a little infant daughter was added to the family. The three deceased daughters, after being placed in coffins, were each in turn brought to the bedside of the sick mother, at her earnest solicitation, for a parting look, after which they were deposited together in the cold and silent grave. These were all bright and affectionate children, and tenderly beloved. What a change in one short week!—Farmington Chronicle.

The reverend murderer, Carawan, who attempted to shoot himself and the county attorney, in court, in North Carolina, recently, it is now stated has for years been pursuing a course of guilt and crime, the evidence of which will astonish everybody. When the jury first returned, they stood six to six, and on the different ballottings afterwards, those who were for conviction gradually gained over the others.

One night last week a Mrs. Ward, a respectable woman, living in Ashley county, Arkansas, was, as she supposed, "informed by a spirit" that her left hand had offended her Maker, and that to make her peace she must part with it. Mrs. Ward immediately got out of bed, procured an axe, and cut off her hand at the wrist.

In Cincinnati, according to the newspapers of that city, beef or pork, which has become so tainted as to render it no longer merchantable, is purchased and prepared so as to divest it of offensiveness and appearance of decay, and after such preparation packed and sent to the markets on the seaboard. One of the journals of that city says this has become an extensive and profitable business.

P. T. Barnum and John N. Genin, of New York, have each given $1000 for the purpose of purchasing a farm for the friendless children picked up by Mr. Pease at the Five Points.

White Mountain Weather.—A letter from Randolph, N. H., adjoining Gorham, says there was snow on the ground in that place on Monday, to the depth of eight inches, with the thermometer at zero.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 106½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. cash, with directions attached.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded: all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours. Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Chole, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 350,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m jc22

CAR ETIQUETTE.

Somebody—not one of the drawing-room dilettanti, but one who has taken lessons in heart-politeness — must write the Railroad Chesterfield or the Wayfarer's book of Etiquette. It is curious to see how the "gentleman" and the "lady?" as well as the "hog and the bear," stick out in the little indications which people manifest in travelling, more than underany other circumstances.

PRETTY AND GRACEFUL.—It is now-a-days a very common affair to see two ladies enter a railroad car half an hour before the time for the leaving of the train, throw the back of one seat over so as to sit vis-a-vis, lumber the spare room with shawls, bundles and band-boxes—and then when the cars begin to fill up, take every precaution to prevent any one from occupying either of what should be vacant seats, and in many instances compelling passengers to stand, when a spirit of accommodation would allow them a comfortable position. Such persons, should be informed by the conductor, that when they buy a ticket, the purchase of a car is not included.

None of us but have had similar scenes come under our notice. We are reminded at this moment, of a singular movement on the part of an individual in the Central Railroad cars, which came under our observation a few weeks ago—a movement which combined in a striking degree at once, the judicial and the executive, in the person of a single self appointed righter of human wrongs.

Two ladies, fashionably dressed and apparently intelligent, but of the species indicated above, had taken their seats in the cars, facing each other, and eckeing out at the greatest possible extent what they called their "baggage," (though the live stock of the party were far worthier that name) with shawls, reticules and little "fixings," so as to effectually exclude all comers from the two vacant seats. The cars soon became uncomfortably crowded, several were standing, and many were the ineffectual applications made for the unoccupied places referred to, but all to no purpose. When, at last, an elderly gentleman and his wife, coming in, and meekly requesting a place, the young lady, who sat with her brazen face towards the passengers, consented to allow the lady of the new comers to sit opposite her, but no mortal would she permit to occupy the seat by her side. Consequently the husband was compelled to find an asylum in some remote part of the car. The indignation and contempt of all the passengers had, by this time, attained to about murmuring pitch, but things went on in this way a few stations further, when a stalwart, hoosier-looking chap, who sat directly opposite the elderly lady, on the other side of the aisle, seeming to have been visited by a sudden inspiration, rose, marched up to the self-complacent young pre-emptioner; and said, in a tone that would have made a nor'wester nervous:

"Hello! sa-ay—look o'here! I hin thinking we can make a better 'rangement than this. I should like to hev that old gen'lman and his wife sit together, I should. They'd ride a heap more comfortable. Now spos'n you and this other gal turn over this seat and sit together, and I'll fetch the old gen'lman and sit him down alongside of this woman."

With a superciliousness that was "beautiful to see," her ladyship replied:

"No, I thank you, sir. I want this seat for my baggage, and I shall not give it up to anybody," and up goes her nose into an angle of forty-five degrees.

"Wa-all, now," persisted Hooshierous, "that don't seem reasonable that you should litter up a hull seat with them little traps, when places is so scarce. Hang 'em up onto a nail; stick 'em under yo; there's lots o' ways to fix it."

Snap went the eyes again, and up cocked the little nose, as she retorted—

"I shall do no such thing, sir; and moreover, I'll be obliged to you, if you'll just mind your own business."

"Well, now, you see, I've set my heart unto fixing this, and it don's seem's tho' I could think of being disappointed. And I've about made up my mind that unless you fix it so, I shall be obliged to give up my seat to the old gen'lman, so as to bring him as nigh as possible to his wife, and I shall hev to come and sit along o' you. I duno but you'd like the 'rangement; I'm considered some among the girls where I live."

A look of determination began now to gleam from the corrugated face of the countryman, and the young lady, with mingled alarm and indignation, hastened to reply—

"You'd better take care what you do, sir; I'm not to be insulted with impunity."

"Oh, I'm responsible," was his only answer, as he led the old gentleman to his own seat, and immediately commenced crowding into a place by the side of the young lady. This movement she resisted, when, encircling her waist with his brawny arm, he lifted her up as though she were a child, and planted her down firmly at the further end of the seat, and settled himself comfortably into his place.

"There," said he, "that's the dandy. Now let's hev a little turn o' talk. You'll find me one of the pleasantest fellows you ever did see, in private conversation."

The reader may well suppose there were screams and struggles, and eyes that flashed through tears, and threats of vengeance by the quantity, while the passengers on every side staggered by the Cromwellian boldness of this coup d'etat, and more than doubtful of its propriety, but rejoicing, in spite of their misgivings, over the sudden retribution that had befallen the common enemy, were vainly striving to conceal their merriment.

"You brute! you villain! I never was so insulted in my life! It's outrageous for the passengers to permit it! Conductah! conductah! wa—augh—ow! Where's the conductah? We'll see if ladies are to be insulted in the cars with impunity.

"Fetch on your conductor!" says the imperturbable squatter, "I'd like to hev him tell us what a lady in a car is!"

Out bounded the lady in a rage. "I'd rather jump off upon the track than sit with such a beast!"

Immediately the Hoosier rose, turned over the revolving back, removed the lady's things carefully to the seat on which her companion, mute and terrified, was sitting, placed the passive old gentleman and his wife, (who obeyed him with an amusing reliance upon his superior ability,) into the vacant places, and returned quietly to his own seat, with the exegi monumentum air of a man who has "served his generation."

The ejected lady soon returned to the side of her companion, and in a crest-fallen and unobtrusive mood, retained her place to the close of the journey.

Our story is done. We hardly think we should have attempted it, had we anticipated it would prove so long a one. We'll not spin it out any farther with philosophizing, but let every reader make his own "improvements." We don't believe the all-pervading young lady on the cars, at any rate, is in any doubt about its MORAL.

HEAVY DAMAGES.—The jury in the case of Edward P. Fry, (manager of the Italian Opera House) against James G. Bennett, editor of the New York Herald, returned a verdict against the defendant, and assessed damages at $10,000. The head and front of Mr. Bennett's offending is thus described by Mr. A. C. Jordan, Mr. Fry's counsel:—

I beg leave to call your attention to the charges which are made against Mr. Fry. The libels charge him with disgraceful conduct, in attacking and libelling females in his employ, and packing the house with hirelings and loafers, to hiss down Benedetti, who was also in his employ—of being the author of disgraceful broils and broken promises—of supporting his opera and his balls by the patronage of gamblers, thieves and convicts, (Jack Harrison, for instance,) and prostitutes, who were permitted to mingle familiarly with all the company, all the ladies and gentlemen—the daughters, and wives, and sisters, of the respectable classes of the community. The libels ridicule him as a half-starved musical adventurer, a man made up of vanity, pretension and ignorance, in equal portions, utterly incompetent as a manager, but competent for sustaining the character of an ape, which it was his favorite employment to represent; and denounces him as quarreling with his artists for a base and dishonest purpose, disgusting them, and driving them to acts by which he could cancel their contracts, in order that he might pocket the money of the subscribers himself.

VERMONT.

A leading democratic paper in Vermont, complains that the legislature just adjourned, has not chosen a Senator to Congress, and has not passed the consolidation law, (of railroads we suppose;) but has "got along with the liquor law," and has chartered a lot of banks.

It is well known, that Vermont, having had a very stringent license law for some years, passed a new law similar to the "Maine law," about a year ago. In the election last fall, the temperance question entered largely into the election. The democracy professed to be hostile to the prohibitory law of 1852. They induced not a few whigs who wished to preserve the liquor trade by repealing the law, to believe that the only way to secure their object, the repeal of the law, was to give them the power, and from 4000 to 5000 went over to sustain their ticket. This defeated the whigs, but in the legislature it was necessary to call in the aid of a few free soilers to elect the governor.

The House of Representatives voted to repeal the law of 1852,—but the Senate did not pass it. Then the Senate passed a bill amending the present law, but not affecting its principles of seizure and forfeiture, in the least. And the House at once concurred by 35 majority, thus giving its sanction after all, to the Law. The strongest temperance men in the State give their hearty approval to the law, as amended.

Thus the legislature of Vermont, though politically changed, confirms that law, and keeps it in force one year longer—by which time the state politics may possibly change back again.

PLENTY OF BUTTER.

What makes butter so dear? said a little girl, who had heard her father say it was dearer than ever. Because it is scarce, was the answer. But where has it all gone? To this question no satisfactory answer was given: the father had got to the bottom of his knowledge; and the butter question was as mysterious as ever.

But murder will out; and so will butter come out from its hiding place, and come down in price. The Boston Courier says that those who are compelled to pay the existing high price for this necessary article, may have the satisfaction of knowing that although it is scarce and dear in this part of the Union, it may be found piled up in mountain loads at San Francisco, where it sells for about half the cost and charges incurred in shipping it from our own markets!

A San Francisco paper of November 15, in an article exposing the stupendous folly of our Eastern merchants in flooding California with commodities that will not sell, informs us that the stock of butter now in that market has already reached the enormous amount of five and a half millions of pounds! Yet the Eastern traders continue to send to that place from 8000 to 15,000 firkins per month—the consumption for that time being only 9000.

The Courier remarks, "we may expect next spring to eat re imported California New England butter." It must be pretty poor stuff by that time, and hardly fit to eat. But the check of this foolish export must tend to a speedy and considerable reduction in the price of the article here.

The following paragraph from the Melbourne Argus, is quite laughable to us, although he of the Argus thinks the "sell" was a serious matter to himself. It seems he had never before seen or used Lackawana or other American coal, and did not know how to manage it.

INCOMBUSTIBLE FUEL.—We feel bound to warn the public against a species of coal which at present is being offered for sale in Melbourne; and which, although it looks like coal, breaks like coal, smells like coal, and feels like coal, has this trifling difference,—that coal has a tendency to burn, and this has not. A greater imposture was never palmed off upon a fire loving world. The great blocks lie piled on the fire like stones; not only not burning, but apparently incapable of being warmed through sufficiently to fly. We were vivisected to the extent of a few tons, to the great disgust of our engine fires; and if useless for any other purpose, we can recommend them as the most effective fire annihilators that we ever saw or heard of. America, we believe, has the honor of the production of this valuable and most unique article. It is worthy of the land of wooden nutmegs!

The idea of manufacturing wooden nutmegs was good—was excellent—but that of manufacturing "great black blocks" of something that "looks like coal, breaks like coal, smells like coal, and fee s like coal," is truly amusing and original. The editor evidently thought he had been made the victim of a Yankee trick.

LAND SLIDE IN MAINE.—The Machias Union states that a few days since there was a great land slide on the river between Addison and Columbia. The first intimation had of it, the Columbians found the tide did not ebb at the appointed time, and upon seeking for the cause, they discovered the river completely dammed up by an avalanche of about an acre and a half of earth.

ASKING ADVICE.

Did the reader ever meet with a man who was often asking advice of others, but always went against it, unless it accorded with his own previous opinion? We have seen some such, and heard of others. One of the last cases of the sort has just occurred in Portland, and has made some stir in the daily papers of that city.

Rev. H. S. Carpenter, of the State street Church in Portland, was formerly a preacher in New York, and has recently had a call to go back—on which call a Council was convened to advise him what to do. The Council, consisting of Rev. Messrs. Carruthers, Dwight and Cummings, after having considered the pros and cons, found themselves agreeing with great unanimity, and were about prepared to express their views in a resolution refusing their assent to the dissolution of the relation, and urging its continuance; when the Council received a letter from Mr. Carpenter, amounting to a declaration that he must go. This letter brought the council to a decision, of which the following extract contains the pith.

This Council can see no good and sufficient reason for a dissolution of his pastoral relation to this Church. But

Whereas, Rev. Mr. Carpenter has by a written communication declared that whatever be their decision, he conceives his "duty, and of course his inclination to lie in the direction of New York;" that he shall feel it "a duty, with his present light, to go forward to New York, unless the people to whom he is especially committed there, volunteer his release, or the Presbytery of which he is a member, refuse to put the call into his hands,"—this Council refuse to give any advice in this case.

The Council have hit the nail on the head. They remember, we suppose, that "A man convinced against his will,

Is of the same opinion still."

PUNISHMENT OF A RAILROAD OBSTRUCTOR.—A man named Riley has been sent to the State Prison, at Clinton, N. Y., for a period of ten years and five months, for placing obstructions on the Utica and Schenectady Railroad. The particulars of this case have been given. Riley had sent several threatening letters to the Superintendent of the road, and it was the handwriting of these letters which led to his conviction.

THE SENATE PRINTER.—It is proper to state that the vote by which Beverly Tucker was elected printer in the Senate was by ballot, and also that the ballots were ordered to be burned immediately after the election. The statements of how Senators voted are thus in some degree conjectural. Messrs. James, of Rhode Island, and Dodge of Iowa, have published cards, stating that they voted for Armstrong and not Tucker.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Courier & Enquirer says "the defeat of General Armstrong is in part attributable to the article which lately appeared in the Union, menacing Senators with executive displeasure if they voted against the confirmation of Redfield, as Collector of New York. That attempt to coerce the action of Senators excited much indignant feeling among them, and having already caused the rejection of the organist of the Administration is likely to be followed by the dismissal of its favorite office-holder."

Some of the ladies who were passengers in the trains of the Lake Shore Railroad on Wednesday, manifested their indignation at the disorderly conduct of the people of Erie, by promptly refusing to eat even a cracker in the 'Sleepy Borough' and further, they would not ride in an Erie wagon, but travelled on foot across that portion of the track which had been torn up by the rioters.

DEATH OF A MISSIONARY'S WIFE.—The Rochester Democrat notices the death of Mrs. Nesbitt, wife of Rev. Mr. Nesbitt, of the Burmah mission. Mr. N. graduated at the Theological Seminary in Rochester, in July, 1852. He is now on his return to this country, having suffered not only from ill health since his departure, but from a mental malady, which, it is hoped, will be speedily overcome when he finds himself again in the midst of early friends.

A DRUNKARD'S DEATH.—A man named Samuel Dexter, went to Chatham Four Corners, a few week's since and built a little cabin on the mountain—having left Massachusetts, as he said, to get out of the way of the liquor law. On the 28th of November he was found burned to death in his cabin, with a jug by his side. He had probably got drunk, set his hut on fire and perished in the flames; after which the fire had gone out of its own accord. It is said that the deceased had a wife and children at North Wilbraham.

CLIPPER RACE.—Two clipper ships, the Challenge, an English built ship, and the Nightingale, an American, sailed from Shanghae for London about the same time, and a good deal of interest was felt in the result of the trial of speed between them. The Challenge arrived in the Downs Nov. 27, in 111 days, and the Nightingale on the 29th, in 112 days, the former gaining the race by about one day.

The ferrymen of Detroit say that 900 fugitive slaves have crossed into Canada the past year. It is supposed that 250 have crossed to Cleveland. It is supposed their market value must have been full one million of dollars.

U. S. ARMY.—Steamship Pennsylvania, from Tampa Bay for New York, with two hundred and fifty U. S. troops was below Charleston 11th inst. The troops had been serving on the Florida station for four years.

The Hard shell Democrats of New York fired a salute of five hundred guns in the Park on Tuesday night, in honor of the election of Beverly Tucker as printer to the Senate.

THE WEARE MONUMENT.

Mr. Gibbs:

I have seen in the Portsmouth Chronicle an account of the inscriptions upon the Monument to be erected to the memory of MESHECH WEARE. If they are accurately given, they contain several historical errors which will be corrected before the Monument is erected. I have had no conference with the rest of the committee in regard to these inscriptions, and only know what they are intended to be from the publication in the Chronicle. It is intended that the inscriptions shall be historically correct, at least, and this note is written to remove any wrong impressions which must arise in the minds of those acquainted with the life and history of President Weare, from reading the account of the inscriptions contained in the Portsmouth paper. These errors are too obvious to escape notice.

Yours, JOHN H. WIGGINS,
one of the Committee.

If Mr. Wiggins had stated what these errors are which are so obvious, made the needful corrections, and given his authority for making them, we would gladly have published the corrections.

We have destroyed our own memoranda which we copied from the monument; and the stone itself has gone to Hampton Falls, making it impossible to compare them. But we have compared our printed inscription with a note in Belknap, and find a difference of one day in the birth of Mr. Weare: and we also find, as to the day of his death, a difference of eleven days, i. e. a change from the old style to the new.

If anything else deemed erroneous, has escaped us, which is obvious to Mr. Wiggins, he will greatly oblige us by a note in which the matter shall be set right.

The monument is already erected, we believe; but any material error in an inscription can be corrected, nevertheless, as it ought to be.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

The Club of Temperance Watchmen, in this city, wishing to bring the benefits of their Order before the friends of temperance in this community, announce a Lecture for that purpose, at the Temple, this evening. Rev. Benjamin D. Peck, of Portland, who stands at the head of the Watchmen in Maine, where the Order was originated, has never spoken here; but he is said to be a fine orator and an able lecturer in the cause. He will doubtless be able to present some new facts, from his large experience in Maine and Massachusetts. He was in the employ of the Massachusetts State Temperance Society during the recent campaign.

It is due to the Club that every friend of Temperance in the community shall attend. Suitable music will be provided, and we doubt not the meeting will be one of interest.

☞ Prof. Taylor, the "world-renowned Oriental Wizard," opens at the Cameneum this evening. Perhaps if you go and see him, and watch close, you'll find out all his tricks. He says they are all "tricks," though many folks can hardly believe it.

☞ Dr. J. V. C. Smith, of Boston, is announced to occupy the desk at the Mechanics' Lyceum to-morrow evening. His subject is not announced. He recently lectured before the Biddeford Lyceum, and the Journal says gave "a great amount of interesting facts in regard to the Turks, Turkey, and Constantinople; the origin of the people, their religion, government, their lack of agriculture and trades, their social habits, schools, &c." The same lecture would be received with interest here at this time, when so much attention is turned toward those subjects.

☞ The alarm of fire, last evening was caused by the burning of a chimney of a house occupied by several Irish families, in Hancock street.

☞ Mr. Charles P. Weeks, formerly of this city, and for the last two years chief clerk in Fetridge & Co.'s news depot, Boston, has recently formed a copartnership with Mr. J. Federhen, under the title of Federhen & Co.; and the new firm succeed Hotchkiss & Co., in their extensive Newspaper and Periodical business, at Nos. 9 and 13 Court street, Boston.

Rev. James T. McCollom has asked for a dismission from the pastoral charge of the Orthodox Church in Great Falls. Mr. McCollom has occupied the desk of the above named church about nine years, has given the most perfect satisfaction, and been the means of largely increasing the society. His departure will be lamented, not only by the people of his own church and society, but by the townspeople generally.—Great Falls Journal.

The new Captain General of Cuba is heralded by an unfortunate fame. He is represented as bigoted, despotic and cruel.

The late Jonas Chickering was a native of Mason Village, N. H., not New Ipswich, as has been stated by some of the papers.

☞ Steamship Sarah Sands has arrived at Portland, 18 days from Liverpool. This is the first Trans-Atlantic Steamer to Portland.

"It Shines for All."

"MARSH'S PALENT OIL" was introduced to the citizens of Portsmouth, by the subscriber, in the winter of 1850, since which time the sale of the article has been steadily increasing. The following extract from a letter (received last week from the manufacturers) we deem it our duty to lay before the public.

"We are the only ones in the world who know how, or can make Marsh's Oil; the article which has gained such a wide reputation for being the safest, best, and cheapest known Fluid—it never explodes—but always gives satisfaction; and will be a benefit to whoever retails it in the various towns.

Owing to the high reputation our oil has gained, some have been so unprincipled as to color Fluid and represent it as being the same as our oil (which is not the case,) and charge some 2, 3, or 5 cents per gallon more, just as they can cheat their customers. These imitations do no real harm to us; but in some cases they have caused sad accidents; and even loss of life and a general complaint by the consumers that it is not so good as Burning Fluid—which is a fact—for it is impossible to color Fluid without injuring it—still there are those who will do this for the sake of 2 or 3 cents per gallon."

The subscriber will be constantly supplied with suitable Lamps and Wicks for burning it.

THE CATHOLIC DIFFICULTIES IN NEW YORK.—New York, Dec. 16.—Archbishop Hughes has issued an address to the clergy and laity of the Roman Catholic Church, exhorting them to keep away from the street preaching on Sunday, and to observe a peaceful and legal deportment in all the relations of life. He says further, "I do not wish you should degrade yourselves one iota below the highest level of American citizenship. If a conspiracy should arise unrebuked by the public authorities, to a point really menacing with destruction any portion of your property, whether private dwellings, churches, hospitals, orphan asylums, or other Catholic institutions, then, in case of an attack, let every man be prepared in God's name, to stand by the laws of the country, and the authorities of the city, in defence of such rights and property." The Bishop intimates that the existence of such a conspiracy has been insinuated, and that symptoms of so baneful a purpose are not by any means wanting.

FROM OREGON.—Dates from Oregon are to the 29th. The overland arrivals continued to be large. Many parties had suffered severely on the route, some having been reduced to eating their horses. Dr. Evans, of Governor Stevens' surveying expedition, arrived at Portland on the 28th. He reports favorable on the railroad route from the head of the Mississippi to Puget's Sound. General Lane is pledged to advocate a division of the Oregon Territory.

WISCONSIN.—The official returns for Governor, give the following results: Barstow, dem., 30,405; Holton, whig, 21,887; Baird, abol., 3,304; scattering 88. For a prohibitory liquor law 27,519; against it 34,109.—Majority in favor of prohibition 3410.

EXPLOSION OF A STEAM BOILER.—About 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, the boiler attached to the cordage factory of Messrs. Sewall, Day & Co., at the corner of Parker and Ruggles streets, Roxbury, exploded with tremendous force, starting the building from its foundations and blowing off the roof, besides otherwise shattering it. Mr. Henry Ready, the fireman, and his nephew, a boy, were badly scalded, and Mr. Ready had a shoulder dislocated, but fortunately no others were injured. The boiler was about 50 feet long and 6 in diameter, and a portion of it was found on the marsh at a distance of 500 feet.

P. S. Mr. Ready died of his injuries. He was about 55 years of age, and leaves a wife and six children residing in Mechanic street. The young man injured is also at the Hospital, in a critical condition.

A HEARTLESS SCOUNDREL.—The Manchester Mirror states that Warren F. Smith, formerly of Sanbornton, N. H., recently married a young woman of respectable standing in that city, when he has a wife still living in Lowell. What adds to the blackness of the affair, is the fact that his domestic relations in Lowell were pleasant, and while living in Manchester, he frequently visited his wife in Lowell, who was unsuspicious of the criminal conduct of her husband. Smith is said to have married his Manchester wife for the purpose of robbing her of her little property, in which, however, he failed. On the discovery of his guilty conduct, he fled to parts unknown.

THE FILLIBUSTERING EXPEDITION—A REPUBLIC ORGANIZED.—Advices from Lower California state that a new republic was organized at La Paz in November, under the title of the Republic of Lower California.—The following are its officers:—

William Walker, President; Frederick Emery, Secretary of State; John M. Jarnagin, Secretary of the Navy; John Chapman, Major of Battalion; William F. Mann, Captain of the Navy. The civil code of Louisiana has been adopted as the civil law of the land. The new government embarked on the 9th of November for Maggeleuna, where they intend establishing the seat of government for the present.

THE INVADERS OF SONORA.—It appears that the buccaneering party who delivered on board the steamer John L. Stevens the gasconading proclamation of the capture of two Governors, the massacre of half a dozen men, and the establishment of a new Republic in Lower California, constituted the whole republic, are on their retreat from the country they had so recently invaded, and that they were probably bound to San Diego. It is to be hoped that the United States officers will take care of them on their arrival.

THE CONSEQUENCE OF WHIPPING A BOY.—A schoolmaster whipped a boy in West Lynn very severely on Monday last, for refusing to sweep the school-room. The boy is not expected to live. There is a great excitement about the matter in Lynn and vicinity.—Bee.

The Wheeling Intelligencer says that twenty-five years ago, the father of M. P. Ward, who killed Prof. Taylor, of Louisville, was with difficulty restrained from attacking a teacher who had moderately chastised his son. The son is now a confined criminal, charged with killing the teacher of his youngest brother. "Verily the influence of a good or bad example reaches far, far into the future."

THE ERICSSON.—New York, Dec. 16.—The repairs on the caloric ship Ericsson are nearly completed, and she will probably make a trial trip soon. From experiments already made here, her owners are confident that she will attain at least a speed of nine miles per hour. The E. is to be placed on the route between this city and Havre, temporarily to replace the Humboldt.

DREAM OF A QUEEN.—A letter from London states that the recent death of the Queen of Portugal verifies a dream which Queen Victoria was said to have had last January, and which had rendered her extremely uneasy. It was to the effect that there would be a cold spring, a wet summer, a fine autumn, and a dead Queen. "We shivered in the cold spring, anathematised the incessant rain in the summer, which prevented so many anticipated benefits and enjoyments, have been glorifying the remarkably fine autumn with which we have been blessed, and suddenly we find towards the close of the year, the announcement of the death of the Queen of Portugal. The dream was as remarkable as its verification."

HUGH SCOBLE.

Hugh Scoble, Esq., editor of the British Colonist, at Toronto, Canada, died at that place on the 6th inst., after a short illness, leaving a widow and one child. As a liberal man and a friend of the American people, he deserves our tribute offered to his memory and worth, while his loss is mourned by many admirers of his writings.

Mr. Scoble was born in Scotland, in April, 1811. His father was captain in the 93d Highlanders. He studied law in Edinburgh, but on the death of his father he emigrated to Canada, in 1832, and settled at Toronto, where he acted as agent and contributor for Dr. Bartlett's New York Albion, until he started the British Colonist himself in 1838.

The course of that paper, in advocating the cause of civil and religious liberty, and Mr. Scoble's anxious endeavors to fraternize (individually and politically) with Americans, are too well known to require recapitulation on this announcement.

At the time of his death he was Vice President of the Northern Railroad, Secretary of the Board of Education for Upper Canada, Worshipful Master of St. Andrew's Lodge, editor of the Canadian Almanac, Compiler of the Municipal Manuals, and Superintendent of the Normal and Model Schools.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 89½ lbs. 10½ lbs. is lost by fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour and 9 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages to inventors, which are superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, (Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the first uninemed physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S
Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical line, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the public. Time was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal di-count to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Nonhamptonshire Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m je22*

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered! Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of fatal disease that so often bring woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy put into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

THE ROMANCE OF MAKING WILLS.

Some time ago I had occasion to go to Doctors Commons to look at the will of a dead man. The hand that signed it was in the grave long before—dust, perhaps; but the record of the will which animated that hand was there among those dusty folios, engraved in an almost undecipherable hand, which tells how all the real property in the country has been disposed of over again. I had no difficulty in finding it, for I had a note of the precise day the deceased died on. It is unnecessary to say anything about the contents of that will, however, for they have no relation to what I am writing. It is only the date which I have any business with. The will was dated the day before the man died. I of course, had heard of men making their wills when they were just at death's door, without any particular thought of being excited; but this time I was surprised, as a single fact very often does surprise us, when we have passed by a host of similar ones unnoticed. I knew the man who had made that will. He was a shrewd, prudent, sharp lawyer, who had risen from nothing to be a man of immense wealth. If he was distinguished for any qualities in particular, it was for punctuality and promptitude. None of the clerks of his office were ever five minutes too late. That was an offence not to be forgiven. No one ever knew him to be behind an appointment, or to let business go undone.—His housekeeper who managed his bachelor home for many years, only kept her place by being exact to time. Yet this man had not made his will till a few hours before his death, and therefore the possession of his property formed the subject of a very flourishing lawsuit.

When I went out of that dark dismal catacomb of dead men's wills, I went on thinking of all the similar cases of procrastination which I knew or had heard of—and they were not a few—for this is a piece of experience of one who was a law clerk before he quarreled with red tape. What a curious catalogue they were! There was an old lady, a toothless old dowager, who had a reprobate and discarded son, and a pretty gentle niece who lived with her. We used to manage all her affairs, and it is pretty well known in the office that the "nice girl with the curls" was to be the old lady's heir. Our head clerk, a red whiskered dandy, who had no mean opinion of himself, built, I could see, certain speculations on that basis. The old lady never came without Eliza; and when a visit was expected, Mr. Catchpole bruised his fiery hair into the most killing curls and changed the out-at the elbows coat, for the smart one he wore out of doors, and beautified himself as far as that was practicable. Well, a message came one day that the old lady was ill—very ill—with an urgent request that some one should go at once and make her will. Off went our Adonis as fast as promise of something liberal over the fare could urge the cabman.

I have heard of stories like this. One I remember of a miser who had ruined more than one family, and in his last moments wished to make such reperation as bequeathed gold could compass. Poor wretch! when the will was brought, catalepsy had seized him, and he lay there a living corpse—dead in all but mind. He could not move his hand; his tongue refused its office; only his eyes were free to move; and of those eyes I have been told a horrible tale. He was, as misers often are, a man of strong mind and iron nerve. Passive as he was in every other part, the eyes told all that was passing within. You could have seen in them intelligence when the will was read to him, the powerful volition brought to bear, and persevered in, when the written word which was to make it a testament was required; the terror and horror which came over him when he found the right hand, which had so often aided him for evil, would not help him for good; the despair which burst the unseen bonds around him, and with a convulsive motion, let out the last of life. It must have been a spectacle of horror, when punishment came in the shape of a prohibition of the one act of mercy which might have made some amends for a whole lifetime of wrong.

Then there was a legend of another man whose daughter married against his will. He lived somewhere in a retired country house, far off from any town. This man was subject to a disease of the heart, and one night, feeling the symptoms of an approaching attack, and that strange presentiment which so often comes before death, he roused his household and sent off a messenger on horseback, not for a surgeon, but for a lawyer. He wanted his will made instantly. The messenger could not be expected back for at least two hours, and long before that the spasmodic attack had come on, but still in the intervals of his paroxysms, that determined man wrote as though against time. When the lawyer did arrive, all that was left of the living will which had been so active and energetic a few hours before, was the last piece of writing. It expressed the deceased's intention in the strongest terms, utterly to disinherit his rebellious child, and to give his property to some charitable institution. It was complete, even to the signature; only the flourish usually added to the name was wanting, as though the hand had failed. But that writing was not a will, it was not in proper form, nor attested. In the eye of the law it was but an invalid piece of paper, and the daughter took that which her birthright entitled her to.

Wills generally afford a frightful temptation to the worst part of our nature. I really believe that more cunning, more falschood, more worldly anxiety, and more moral wrong are blended with the subject of "wills" than with the whole mass of law parchments extant. A will should not only be properly made, but properly placed, and more than one should be cognizant of its whereabouts. I have known many cases of gross turpitude in the shape of destroying wills, and can record one rather curious anecdote, affording a vivid illustration of unprincipled greediness defeating itself. Two gentlemen in the city, close friends from their school days, were in the decline of life. Mr Edmonds had a large family with comparatively small means, while Mr. Raymond was worth two hundred thousand pounds with no living relative but a nephew of the most profligate character.—This nephew had been expensively educated and had spent unlimited money for the worst purposes and the uncle at length became very weary and disgusted with the young man's depravity.

"Edmonds," said Raymond, one day to his friend, as he handed him a roll of paper, "here is my will. I have left my nephew ten thousand pounds, and the rest of my property to you, who I know will make good use of it."

Edmonds remonstrated and implored, but was eventually compelled to take the will and lock it up in his private desk. Within a few months, however, by dint of earnest entreaty, Mr. Edmonds prevailed upon his friend to make another will, and just reverse the bequests; leaving the nephew the bulk of the property, and Edmonds the ten thousand pounds. This will Edmonds read, and saw safely deposited in Raymond's iron chest at his private residence. Within the following year Raymond died. The nephew found the will, and as it afterwards appeared, such was his baseness, that to secure, in addition to the rest, the ten thousand pounds left to Edmonds, he immediately burnt the document, knowing that if his uncle died intestate he himself was heir at law.

On this villanous announcement Edmonds, sinking his conscientious scruples, produced the first will made by Raymond, and claimed the chief of the property; and the unprincipled nephew, after making full confession, during a fit of delirium tremens killed himself.

MORE STATISTICS.

Mr. Editor:—As you are ever persevering in your meritorious pursuit of facts bearing upon all subjects, and especially upon the liquor traffic, and its results, will you allow me to give you an item from a Manchester paper of this week:

"It is a remarkable fact that there are now but three or four paupers at the city farm.—We believe that another city containing 20,000 inhabitants cannot be found, where there is so small a number of paupers."

Manchester has about 15,000 inhabitants, and liquor is sold and drank equally as free as in Portsmouth, as the writer can attest.—There is a much larger poor population in proportion to the number of inhabitants in the former than in the latter city, and perhaps double the number of foreign residents, and yet Manchester city has now but three or four paupers supported at the public expense.—Now, I would ask, Mr. Editor, upon what ground you would account for this difference, and if there are not various other things to be looked at, in the estimate of the causes of pauperism, besides the effect of liquor laws or their absence in a community? May not the comparative age of these two places have something to do with the matter? Is it philosophical to attribute our large pauperism to the absence of a "Maine Liquor Law,"—while Manchester, which yearly consumes a much larger amount of spirituous liquors than we do, is almost free from pauperism? Or is there a difference in the climate, or in the beverage, or in the capacity of the people to endure the effects of it? Do tell us, Mr. Editor, all about it. AN ENQUIRING MIND.

We like such a correspondent as this, who not only states facts and asks questions, but also furnishes materials for the answers.

It is not philosophical to ascribe pauperism to "absence of a liquor law;" but it is so, to ascribe it to the drinking of liquors, which produce their effects exactly alike, with or without law, and whether used openly or secretly.

The other cause suggested, the comparative age of the places, has a vast deal to do with the question; and this cause, with the peculiar condition of Manchester, as a city actually created by its manufactories, is perhaps sufficient to explain the whole difference between Manchester and Portsmouth, supposing the habits of both to be alike at present.

As a young place, Manchester can have no old tenants of her Almshouse, who have lived therein forty years: none of the families who have been struggling many years against the poverty forced on them by an intemperate head, but come to the house at last.

As a mere factory settlement, it has a large preponderance of young female operatives who have no domicil there at all, and if sick and poor are not chargeable on Manchester, but on the towns where their parents have a residence. And most of the new comers, male and female, are in the prime of life and bloom of health: conditions in which even excess and folly may be indulged for some time, with apparent impunity; and in which the Almshouse is not reached so readily as if these people had spent forty or fifty years in such habits, and were like the ripe pear, ready to drop at the first blast of Autumn.

No such comparison of ages can avail much between Portsmouth, Newburyport and Portland. The last place is the youngest; but yet not so young as to have its comparative age amount to any thing in this discussion. We are, nevertheless, glad to get hold of all the facts on the subject; and wish we could see fair comparative statements of a hundred large towns in New England, in regard to Almshouses, prisons, and police arrests.

A NEW PIANO.—It is well known that Liszt, considered by many the greatest pianist in the world, has withdrawn himself from public life for a year or two past. "Spiridion," the entertaining Paris correspondent of the Boston Atlas, says his retirement was caused by dissatisfaction with the piano—it would no longer accomplish his desires. He has accordingly devoted all his energies to the production of a new instrument, and the best piano makers of Germany and Russia were employed in the task. The work is said to be accomplished, and "Spiridion" writes:

"M. Alexandre wrote to him recently, informing him that he had succeeded in making the desired instrument. M. Liszt flew hither. M. Alexandre's invention is not merely a piano; there are three finger-boards superposed one on the other, and which give the player the power of combining all the effects of a full orchestra; two of the finger-boards are pianos, the other calls into existence flutes, clarionettes, hautbois, violins, violoncellos, human voices—everything, an organ, wind instruments, cord instruments. The piano may now join the stage-coach, the signal telegraph, and the other discarded wonders of our ancestors. Its day is ending."

Twenty-seven acres of ground are to be purchased in Worcester for a public park or common.

OUT DOOR PREACHING.

Street preaching was held this afternoon by Parsons and three or four other speakers. No attempt was made to arrest them and no disturbance occurred. 20,000 persons were present. Three regiments were under arms all day.

This is pretty fair for the news agents of the telegraph, and yet no doubt quite incorrect in one important particular, viz. that the preaching was Street Preaching. This is forbidden by law, and it is not likely that Mayor Westervelt would order out three regiments to protect illegal assemblies. He or his police made a grand mistake in arresting Parsons on the previous Sunday, as he was not preaching in the street, but in a large spar yard, by leave of the owner; and the police had no more business to take him out of it, than to carry off the minister of Trinity Church or the Church of the Puritans.

It has been deemed a smart thing on the part of these intolerant and bigoted controversalists to expose each other's personal foibles, in stimulated market-place language, without one appeal to the reason of the party attacked to reform. Ignorant people take up and adopt the sentiments uttered by the cultivated defamer, and thus a feud is created and sides are taken. Paddy is attacked because he asks the mother of God to intercede for him; and he returns the compliment in a sentiment borrowed from a cloistered teacher, who knows as little of human nature as he does of the inhabitants of the moon. Thus the dispute begins, and it ends in dividing communities disposed to be kind towards each other. This description covers only a class of preachers. There are proud exceptions in our city and in every city. There are men in the Catholic church, as well as in the Protestant church, who are truly pious, and who teach peace, forbearance, toleration and forgiveness. But the fact can be authenticated that professed spiritual agents have done much to create the excitement which, senseless as it is, is now the occasion of very general alarm.

The N. Y. Express says:

It might be well to ask just now, who is to blame for the long delay in getting city telegraphic apparatus in operation. Had it been in operation, in the event of a riot to-morrow, 600 of the police could be on the ground a quarter of an hour after it breaks out. Such a body of disciplined men could disperse any riot, without the assistance of the military. The danger now is, if the military is called out, and a collision occurs, that the Irish military and the American military companies may come into contact. The Irish military force hereabout is strong. In the city and suburbs we know of two Irish regiments of Infantry and one of Artillery, besides a number of independent companies."

The Journal of Commerce says of Parsons: "His language, at times, is said to be very denunciatory of the Roman Catholics, many of whom have been foolish enough to be present, and then to get angry and riotous. Their interference to prevent 'free discussion' has, in its turn, exasperated a portion of the Protestant population, insomuch that apprehensions have been felt by the city authorities of serious riots."

Archbishop Hughes had also issued a manifesto or letter to the Catholic clergy and laity, recommending them to keep away from "the preaching;" but the tone of the letter is regarded as calculated rather to inflame the passions of those who are disposed to have a disturbance than to conciliate good feelings.

The right of free discussion is vital to our liberties, and may not be alridged without the most urgent necessity. It is not enough that the speaker says some foolish things; for, as different men judge differently as to what is foolish, harsh, or wrong, it is plain that unless a large liberty is allowed in these particulars, "free discussion" is but a name.

ERIE RAILROAD WAR.—A Pittsburgh dispatch of Saturday the 17th, says:

"The United States Circuit Court has refused the injunction of the Cleveland and Ashtabula Railroad against the city of Erie and others.

In the case of the Buffalo Railroad against the Erie and North Eastern Railroad, the city of Erie and others, the injunction has been granted."

Perhaps the dispatch is all correct, but a great part of it is Greek to us, because of its extreme brevity, connected with the fact that we do not know the different railroads by their proper names, while the despatches and papers call them sometimes by one name, and sometimes by another.

☞ The Sarah Sands is an iron steamship, with screw propellers, 1350 tons burden, having four masts. Her arrival at Portland is hailed by the papers of that city, as the commencement of a new commercial era there. She brought 205 passengers, and lots of freight for Montreal, with some for Portland.

SPIRITUAL MANIFESTATIONS.—During a trip on the Mississippi, the subject of conversation turned upon the "spiritual rappings," in which a proselyte to the new faith remarked that the spirits of the blessed were allowed to roam through many worlds in the land of bliss; for instance, said he, "Andrew Jackson Davis tells us that he has been in five different stages in heaven." His little boy—an apt lad—looking up in the disciple's face, said, "Pa, did he change horses at every stage?"

LEGISLATIVE WIT.—"I believe," said a very tall representative from a country town, "that I am one of the tallest members in the House."

"Yes," added a fellow representative, "and one of the slimmest, also."

This unexpected confirmation occasioned a roar of laughter, in which the first gentleman heartily joined.

LOCAL.

TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.—To each person not now on our list, who shall subscribe for the Daily or Weekly Chronicle for the year 1854, and pay for the same in advance, we will supply the paper to Jan. 1, gratis. Terms for the Daily $3—Weekly $1.

CITY NUISANCES.—We will mention but two, at present. The first is, a lot of boys who have no business at the Post Office, but who congregate in the lobby and on the sidewalk, from five to six o'clock every evening;—rude, noisy and dirty; smoking, spitting, pushing and wrestling; making it unpleasant and uncomfortable for gentlemen, and much more so for ladies, who have occasion to call at the Post office, or to pass by it.

The other is, the distribution of coal-ashes in every street, lane and alley, making a fine dust when the wind blows. There is a city law against this, but no one seems to mind it much, as it is not enforced. We think another provision is called for, viz.: the establishment or employment of a city cart or two, which should call regularly for the ashes and dust at the houses and stores, and convey them to some sunken spot which the city wishes to fill up. This use of rubbish, in larger cities, is common, and might be turned to good account here.

☞ Rev. Mr. Peck's Lecture before the Eureka Club of Temperance Watchmen, on Monday evening, was a spirited affair, and was well received by the large and intelligent audience which nearly filled the Temple. He gave a very clear and favorable view of the Order of Temperance Watchmen, and of the operation of the Maine law.

DANCING ON THE ICE.—A few evenings since, a number of young men of versatile imagination took it into their heads to have a dance on the ice, and it proved to be capital sport for those who could skate well. In going "down the centre," and "down the outside," in a contra dance, all those who skate easily will soon find the superiority of gliding rapidly over the ice, to that of tripping over a dusty floor. When "all hands round," "all promenade," &c., are called, in a cotillion, "grinding bark" on the ice, is found to be much easier than taking steps in a ball room. One advantage of dancing on the ice is, that the dancers have plenty of fresh air, which is very rarely the case in a dancing hall. The only objection to this mode of dancing—and a very serious one it is too—is the necessity of substituting gentlemen in the place of ladies for partners. There are a few ladies in this city who can skate; but not enough to make up a good set for a contra dance,—and even if there were, the long trailing dresses at present in vogue, would make them rather awkward partners on skates.

EASTERN RAILROAD.—We learn from the Boston Chronicle, that a temporary depot for the Eastern Railroad is in process of construction on Causeway street, near Friend street, and will be completed in a few weeks. It will be built of wood, but will be sufficiently large and substantial to answer the purpose for which it is intended. It is not certain that the company will erect a depot on the site originally contemplated, as it will cost about $400,000 to extend the road into the city to that place. The work of laying the rails will soon be commenced, and trains will doubtless run over the road by the last of January.

DEATH OF TWO YOUNG FEMALES.—Two young women, named Annette Sampier and Elizabeth Burnham, were found dead in their beds at the Merrimack House, in Newburyport, on Saturday morning. These girls for a short time past have been living at a house in Seabrook, N. H., kept by one John G. Chase. Their reputation has been bad, and some days since they were threatened by the neighbors that unless they left the town they would be complained of. On Friday evening they engaged lodgings at the Merrimack House, and as we understand, at 11 o'clock called for peppermint cordial. Next morning their bodies were cold. The oldest was 22 years of age.—Traveller.

These are the victims, but where is the fowler who spread the snare? And what shall we say of the public opinion, which lets him go unwhipt of public justice, but condemns them to infamy and distress from which death offers a coveted escape.

Leaving this thought, let us say, that while a terrible retribution has overtaken these frail and fair, but desolate and wretched ones, another, not less terrible and complete, lies waiting as quietly and surely as the pent-up electricity in the thunder cloud, to discharge itself on the other guilty but hidden parties to their deeds of shame and darkness.

Galignani's Messenger gives a brief account of the death and burial of Mademoiselle Olympe. About two years ago she was employed as a bookbinder, but never missed a ball at Asmere's or Mabille's, and at the former place she so captivated a German baron that he married her. He died about eight months ago, leaving her from 30,000f. to 40,000f. a year. After his death she became melancholy and her health declined. She went out on Sunday to drive in the Bois de Boulogne, and, on the return of the carriage to the hotel, the footman, on letting down the steps, found that his mistress did not alight. She was lying dead on the seat. She had only reached her 22d year.

The wife of Mr. Stinson, of Topsham, Me., on Thursday night, retired to bed with her husband in perfect health. In the morning her husband arose, thinking his wife was asleep, but soon discovered she was a corpse. It is supposed the cause of her death was an affection of the heart.

LOSS OF AN EAST INDIA SHIP.—New York, Dec. 19.—The ship R. B. Forbes, which arrived at this port yesterday from Calcutta, reports that in lat. 27 35 N., long. 68 W., at 8 A. M., do date given, fell in with the ship Roman, Capt. Hepburn, 117 days from Canton for New York, in a sinking condition, having experienced very heavy weather and become unmanageable. Took the captain, three officers and eight seamen and a few stores. At 9 o'clock, A M., the brig Wm. Price, from Rio Janeiro for Philadelphia, came up, and took off the remaining seven seamen, and one passenger. Lay by her till 3 P. M., when we left her.

The Roman was a No. 1 ship, belonged to New York, and had on board a valuable cargo of tea and silk, consigned to Messrs. Oliphant & Son, of this city.

This is probably the ship Roman built at this port by Geo. Raynes Esq. in 1850.

THE CATHOLIC TROUBLES IN NEW YORK.—New York, Dec. 17.—Great exertions are being made by a portion of our citizens to soothe the excitement created by the meeting in the Park on Wednesday, and by Archbishop Hughes's letter of yesterday. Patrick Lynch has written a long letter to his countrymen, giving them good counsel, and discrediting the insinuations of Bishop Hughes that there is a conspiracy forming against them among the Protestants. A committee of influential Catholics have been also among the Irish societies in the city, counselling them to abstain from agitation and violence.

A BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.—Deputy Sheriff Lewis of Groton, arrived in this city on Saturday evening, and arrested Rev. Jacob W. Cooper, a Methodist clergyman of South Groton, for breach of promise. He was carried back in the custody of the sheriff to Groton. The Reverend gentleman was expected to occupy the sacred desk in one of our Methodist churches yesterday. He promised to marry two ladies in his congregation.—Lowell News.

MESILLA VALLEY.—Washington, Dec. 17. It is stated on competent authority, that the rumor that our minister at Mexico had threatened to seize the Mesilla Valley unless the Mexican government conformed the Garay grant, is without foundation.

MILD WEATHER.—"This is grand weather mem, for poor people," said Mr. Tigh, the rich neighbor of Mrs. Partington, on one of the past warm days, and indulged in a half chuckle about it, as he rubbed his hands together. It is a remark that almost everybody would make, and mean it, too, at a time when coal, by the capacity of man, was eight or nine dollars a ton, and cold weather, by the blessing of heaven, that tempers the wind to the shorn lambs and ragged children, was withheld, but not Mrs. Partington. "Yes," said she, gently laying her hand on the sleeve of Mr. Tigh's coat, and looking him in the face. "Yes, and don't folks use this good weather too much for an excuse for not helping the indignant widows and orphanless children? Depend upon it, cold weather is best for the poor, for then the rich feel the cold, and think more of him, and feel more disposed to give 'em consolution and coal. Cold weather comes down from heaven o'purpose to make men feel their duty, and it touches the heart, as the frost touches the milk bitcher and breaks it, and the milk of human kindness runs out, and the poor are made better for it. Cold weather is a blessing to the poor, depend upon it. She stopped here, and Mr. Tigh cast his eyes down and struck his cane several times against a brick at his feet, then bidding the old lady good morning, he moved away. There was a large "Dr. to sundries" on his book that night, which the bookkeeper will find it difficult to explain, but heaven knows all about it: the secret gift, in charity, and the prayer of the poor recipient, involving blessings on the unknown benefactor, were great records that night in the angel's book.—Post.

We understand that the Armory Commissioners have decided, 5 to 1, in favor of the civil system of superintendence, and that the President has decided to adopt it in the Springfield and other Armories.

Pittsburg is agitating the question of compelling every manufactory and other establishment in the city to consume its own smoke, and thus prevent the falling of soot, which fills the atmosphere and blackens every thing, animate and inanimate, in that smoky city.

"It Shines for All."

"MARSH'S PALENT OIL" was introduced to the citizens of Portsmouth, by the subscriber, in the winter of 1850, since which time the sale of the article has been steadily increasing. The following extract from a letter (received last week from the manufacturers) we deem it our duty to lay before the public.

"We are the only ones in the world who know how, or can make Marsh's Oil; the article which has gained such a wide reputation for being the safest, best, and cheapest known Fluid—it never explodes—but always gives satisfaction; and will be a benefit to whoever retails it in the various towns

Owing to the high reputation our oil has gained, some have been so unprincipled as to color Fluid and represent it as being the same as our oil (which is not the case,) and charge some 2, 3, or 5 cents per gallon more, just as they can dupe their customers. These imitations do no real harm to us; but in some cases they have caused sad accidents; and even loss of life and a general complaint by the consumers that it is not so good as Burning Fluid—which is a fact—for it is impossible to color Fluid without injuring it—still there are those who will do this for the sake of 2 or 3 cents per gallon."

The subscriber will be constantly supplied with suitable Lamps and Wicks for burning it.

THE approach of another Winter, with its usual leisure for Farmers and others, induces the publishers again to call attention to the

AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER,
At $1 per Annum, in advance.

Being published in connection with the DAILY MORNING CHRONICLE, we are enabled to offer a record of news more thorough than Weeklies generally; and being entirely independent of the "arbitrary sway" of any and all parties and sects, our record of passing events we trust is clear and impartial.

The coming year seems big with events of great political interest, and a paper having no party bias will be found interesting as a chronicle of the doings of all parties.

LOCAL MATTERS

Have a prominent place in the Weekly Chronicle, so that a native of Portsmouth resident at home or abroad, will here find mention of all matters of interest in this vicinity.

The Weekly Chronicle is of medium size, printed on good paper, and contains but few advertisements—giving twenty columns of news and miscellanies reading each week, at the low price of one dollar a year.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105½ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is, then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles, by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1836) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him THIRTY DOLLARS instead of twenty as paid both by inventors, will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in the and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most faithful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can not employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of pursuing their application in a manner to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV, late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sales of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cheapness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discounts to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&w6m p22

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fill disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN AND DOES.

ABIATHAR G. BRITTON.

The Boston Chronicle records the death in that city on Wednesday the 15th inst. of the Hon. Abiathar G. Britton, of Orford, N. H.

Mr. B. had arrived in the city but a day or two previous, and was on his way to Albany, to remain with his son, resident in that city, who is prostrated by a dangerous illness.—but he was himself suddenly attacked and fell almost instantly before the arrow of death. Though at an advanced age, he appeared on Monday to be in perfect health, and spoke feelingly of the number of distinguished sons of New Hampshire who had died within a brief period, with all of whom he had been on terms of personal intimacy. Mr. Britton was educated, we believe, to the profession of the law, but it is many years since he has been engaged in the practice of it. Possessed of ample fortune, he was ever the friend and promoter of the various enterprises of his State. He has been a member of both branches of the legislature, and was a delegate to the last Constitutional Convention of New Hampshire. No man in the State was a warmer personal and political friend of the lamented Webster than he, and perhaps no one could furnish for the instruction or entertainment of a company more interesting reminiscences of the departed statesman. But his voice is suddenly hushed forever—and to the honored names of New Hampshire's dead must now be added that of ABIATHAR G. BRITTON.

JENNY LIND.—The Charleston Courier of the 13th, publishes a letter from a lady, formerly of Charlestown, but now a resident of Dresden, under date of 22 September, from which we make the following extract:

"Jenny Lind, whom I believe I have already mentioned as living opposite to us, has a little son—she nurses him herself. On the doctor's remonstrating with her, and, by way of persuasion, assuring her that her voice would suffer—nay, that she ran the risk of losing it, if she persisted in fulfilling this maternal duty, she said—'Peut n'importé, je remplirai les devoirs d'une mere a mon infant,'—really a sublime sacrifice on her part. She lives perfectly secluded—she sees no one—her husband she has converted, or, to use her own words, 'he is baptized by the grace of God.' She says that the idea of her having been upon the stage will be a cause of remorse for life, for which she never can forgive herself. The good Germans think, on the subject of religion, she is more than an enthusiast. She made so noble a use of her powers while a public singer, that I am sure she should view it in a different light. I am told she has not much of a fortune, as she would prefer living in England, but on account of the expense has chosen Dresden as a place of residence."

Some of these things are pleasant gossip; others sheer nonsense. Jenny, though she may be laughed at, by some shallow pates, as a fanatic, for converting her husband, is nevertheless a sensible woman for thinking it no great matter if her voice does suffer a little, while she enjoys the pleasure of performing maternal duties for her boy. But her doctor is a donkey, if he inculcates or believes the doctrine, that a good healthy woman's nursing will make her lose her voice, or hurt it materially.

"The expense of collecting the revenue at Gloucester is about $8,000 per annum, and exceeds that of any port in New England save the following:—Boston, Salem, Portsmouth, Portland, Providence and New Haven. The number of foreign arrivals at Gloucester this season, have been very large, and the duties collected must have exceeded that of any previous year. Besides 150 foreign arrivals from the British Provinces, with wood, fish, coal, salt, lumber, &c., there have been many cargoes of salt from Liverpool, Turks Island, St. Martins, and other places: also large and valuable cargoes from South America, of molasses, sugar, coffee, cocoa, &c. The port of Gloucester is not like many of our New England places that we could mention, where thousands of dollars are annually paid to government officers, and not one cent of revenue is collected for the year. One district in Maine cost the government $5000 last year, and had only one foreign entry during the year. Custom Houses are now building at such ports for the accommodation of the collectors of the revenue, costing some $30,000 or $40,000."

To this the Eastern Argus pertinently replies:—We know not to what district in Maine the Traveller refers. But our contemporary is probably aware that foreign entries are a very small portion of the Custom House business in this State. At many ports they may not have even "one foreign entry during the year," and yet be of great importance to the revenue. The "papering" of vessels, the making out of coasting and fishing licenses, and the prevention of smuggling, are of more consequence to the government than the Traveller is probably aware of.

LINES

"Well, thou art happy, and I feel
That I should thus be happy, too,
For still my heart regards thy weal
Warmly, as it was wont to do."

And yet, its chords are all unstrung,
They cannot wake one note of gladness;
Vain, all attempts at mirth, or song,
They will breathe forth the tones of sadness.

Those dreamy hours, when summer's smile
Gladdened all nature into bliss,
Have fleeted past, like mocking wile,
And left the dreariness of this.

The saddened look, which nature wears,
Is like the impress on my soul,—
A chilling blight has passed o'er both,
And stilled the music of the whole.

The cheerful song of birds and bees,
Which waked an echo in my heart
Is changed now, for the wailing breeze,
That dirge like chimes its gloomy part.

Alas! the grapes we tried to cull
Have turned to ashes in our grasp,
Leaving a pain as deep and dull,
As Cleopatra's deadly asp.

Oh! what is life, without love,
It joys, its charms, its dearest grace,
And what would love be, if 'twere not Reflected in some much loved face?

"That star of our idolatry,"
Which, ever beaming warm and true,
Calls all the freshest feelings forth,
Like flowers, which drink the morning dew.

The morning dew! how soon 'tis gone—
Thus, oft our dearest hopes depart,
Like vapor, vanishing at noon,
Leaving us but—a broken heart.

"To dream of joy, and wake to sorrow,
Is oft the lot of those who love;"
Alas! that such a dark to-morrow
Should be my mournful fate to prove.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 21. 1853.

GOVERNOR GILMAN.

EXETER, Dec. 20, 1853.

Messieurs Chronicle:—The New Hampshire Historical Society held an adjourned meeting in this place yesterday. How many acting members it counts in all, I am not able to say; but should judge that the number in attendance was not very large. Still the aged antiquarians present seemed fired with the enthusiasm of youth, and inspired with new zeal in the collection of facts tending to develope the history of the early settlement of the State. The most important item of business was the reading of a memoir of Gov. Gilman. Indeed to present this memoir to the descendants of that distinguished gentleman, and to the people of the town where he spent the most of his life, seems to have been the chief object of the meeting.

The document was exceedingly interesting, written in fine style, by Hon. Charles S. Davies of Portland. But that gentleman, though present, was too feeble in health to deliver it in person. It was read chiefly by a gentleman from the same town, and was listened to with profound attention by a large concourse of our citizens assembled on the occasion.—For eloquence, force, and beauty of language, it is seldom surpassed by any composition of the kind. In this particular, it did as much credit to the writer, as he attempted to bestow upon the subject of his memoir.

The ancestors of Gov. Gilman—descended from an honorable family in Hingham, England—were among the first settlers of the town of Exeter. The name, though it does not appear in the records of the first political association formed in the place under the celebrated John Wheelwright, is nevertheless distinguished in the subsequent course of its history. It was Gov. Gilman himself, however, that gave the name its highest distinction.—By his talents, industry, patriotism, force of character and disinterested labors, the name has become intimately connected with the history of the State; so much so, that the faithful historian must of necessity give a brief biography of the man.

It is not the purpose, nor is it possible in this brief sketch, to go over the ground occupied in the memoir. A vote of the Society has ordered it to be published among the Historical Collections of the State. In due season, all who have access to those papers, will be able to obtain its perusal.

One thing, however, connected with the memoir, seems specially worthy of note. The author took particular pains to free his departed friend from the charge of using his official influence in favor of the Hartford Convention. At the time that somewhat notorious body held its session, Mr. Gilman was Governor of the State. He had been importuned strongly, by distinguished persons in other States, to convene the Legislature for the special purpose of sending a quota of delegates to that Convention; but, though strongly opposed to the war, he steadily refused to take any step that might involve the honor of the State, or call in question his own patriotism. Such is the view of the biographer. Yet the whole vindication has left the lingering suspicion that Gov. Gilman did sound the minds of some of his Council and others on the subject; but but finding them adverse to any active measures in favor of the Convention, he wisely concluded to let the matter drop in silence.—The whole affair is of but little consequence, except so far as it shows the present state of public feeling on that subject. The Hartford Convention, whether justly or unjustly need not be said, has become so odious in the public mind, that neither the biographer, nor the particular friends of Gov. Gilman, are willing to have his name rest under the imputation of using his official station in favor of it. There is not the least doubt, however, whatever may have been his views on that subject, that he was really a patriot and a true hearted man, who, if necessary, would have sacrificed his life for the good of his country. And perhaps the same may be said of most others who took an active part in that singular movement.

The Gilman family, connected in some way with the late Governor, is quite numerous Whether the name has arisen to the apex of its glory, remains yet to be disclosed. The fire of talent and of mental force is certainly not all extinguished For energy, business habits, force of character, and an iron will, few men could excel Capt. Nathaniel Gilman, one of the most prominent bearing the name now living in the place. Unfortunately his political opinions have not placed him in the "line of promotion," and permitted him facilities for occupying an important position in the affairs of his native state. But political opinions, like winds, are continually changing, and it is possible that himself, or some of his posterity, may yet reach a higher glory than that which surrounds their distinguished but departed relation. The prize is before them, and the right to compete for it has become a sort of common inheritance for all the people, whether they bear the name, or not. The name, the honor, the example of Gov. Gilman have become a sort of common light, throwing around its rays for the guidance of others in the path of honor and eminence in the world. Not his own kindred merely, but the citizens of his native state, and of the country at large, share an equal part in the glory that marked his brilliant course, and his name will long be cherished by the people of his native land. Yours respectfully, —— ——

THE WEARE MONUMENT.

To the Editors of the Portsmouth Chronicle.—

Gentlemen:—In your paper of the 19th inst., in some notes in reference to the inscriptions upon the Weare Monument, you say you would be obliged if I would point out the errors in those inscriptions, if there were any besides those you have noticed, which are very immaterial. I will gladly do so.

1. The first inscription, "Gov. Weare," is erroneous. Meshech Weare never was Governor. No such office or title was known in this state from 1775 to 1792. His title was President Weare, and by that title only, was ever known or recognized.

2. The inscription is that he was President of New Hampshire from 1776 to 1784. This is an error. He was not President till 1784. He was chosen in the early part of that year, under the constitution adopted in October, 1783. He resigned the office in June, 1784, having held the office but a very short time. It is proper to say here that President Weare was chosen a member of the Council in 1776, under that form of government was neither Governor nor President.

3. The inscription is that he was Chief Justice till 1784. He resigned in 1782, and Judge Livermore took his place.

4. The first office which President Weare held, as mentioned in the inscription, is that of "Speaker of the House of Representatives, 1752." Now he was appointed Justice of the Superior Court of the Province of New Hampshire by the king of England, several years before he was Speaker, and he held his commission till 1775.

In the inscriptions upon the monument, historical accuracy is of the greatest consequence, and it seemed to me, upon noticing the account of this monument and the inscriptions it contained, which you published some short time since, that if your account was correct, these errors were of such a character as might occasion some public solicitude and complaint, and I deemed it just to the committee to immediately suggest the errors and to say they would be corrected, for no one can suppose that the committee appointed by the State to take charge of this business would allow historical errors of so grave a character to be cut into the marble forming the monument intended to perpetuate the memory of the illustrious Meshech Weare.

JOHN H. WIGGINS.

Dover, Dec. 19, 1853.

☞ Above we give Mr. Wiggins's corrections. That in regard to the title of President rather than Governor, seems to us to be of consequence: but the other errors pointed out do not seem to us to be very important. All the corrections needful, however, can be made when warm weather comes, with the expenditure of a little labor and money.

"A VOICE FROM ST. HELENA."

Napoleon, in conversation with O'Meara, May 27, 1817, said:

"In the course of a few years Russia will have Constantinople, part of Turkey, and all Greece. This I hold to be as certain as if it had already taken place. Almost all the cajoling and flattering which Alexander practiced towards me was to gain my consent to this object. I would not consent, foreseeing that the equilibrium of Europe would be destroyed.

In the natural course of things, in a few years Turkey must fall to Russia.

The Powers it would injure, and who could oppose it, are England, France, Prussia and Austria. Now, as to Austria, it will be very easy for Russia to engage her assistance by her Servia and other provinces bordering upon the Austrian dominions, reaching near to Constantinople. The only hypothesis that France and England may be alied with sincerity, will be in order to prevent this.

But even this alliance would not avail.—France, England and Prussia, united cannot prevent it. Russia and Austria can at any time effect it. Once mistress of Constantinople, Russia gets all the commerce of the Mediterranean, becomes a great naval Power, and God knows what may happen.

Above all the Powers, Russia is the most to be feared especially by you.

All this I foresaw—and I wanted to establish a barrier against those barbarians by re-establishing the kingdom of Poland, and putting Poniatowski at the head as King, but your imbeciles of ministers would not consent.

A hundred years hence I shall be praised, and Europe, especially England, will lament that I did not succeed. When they see the finest countries in Europe overrun and a prey to those northern barbarians, they will say 'Napoleon was right.'"

Perhaps this is all right: but we can tell better after the events get behind us.

FAIRS.

That Portsmouth abounds in fair ladies, is fact universally acknowledged by all who know anything about the matter—those not agreeing to that opinion, of course, being set down as among the ignorant in this respect. And just now, amid the general flood of varied entertainments in our good city—Lectures, concerts, &c.,—Ladies' Fairs seem to abound.

☞ The ladies of the Universalist Society will hold a Fair at Jefferson Hall, commencing this evening, and continuing on Thursday and Friday evenings, for the sale of Fancy Articles, Refreshments, &c. In addition to the usual amusements, a series of Tableaux vivans, or living pictures will be presented.

We have witnessed a rehearsal of several of them, and can assure our readers that this feature of the fair will be a most attractive scene. Among the pictures to be represented, are "The interpretation of the Writing on the Wall, at Belshazzar's Feast," "Joseph interpreting the Dream of Pharaoh," "Ben Adin's Dream," and as a grand finale will be presented the "Crowning of Queen Victoria," in which fifteen persons magnificently dressed will appear. This one picture will be worth the price of admission. On Thursday afternoon will be afforded an opportunity for children to attend. Admittance 6 1-4 cents, for parents or others accompanying them, 12 1-2 cents.

The proceeds are to be devoted to beautifying and improving the interior of the Universalist Church. The large number of young persons connected with this Society, enables them to get up such affairs in the best style, and we doubt not a considerable sum will be realized.

☞ The ladies connected with the Methodist Society, have made extensive preparations to hold a Social Festival at Jefferson Hall on Monday evening next, Dec. 26. No exertion will be spared to render the occasion one of pleasure and interest—and from an acquaintance with the managers, we promise a good time to all who attend. Of course music must lend its charms to the occasion. The object of this gathering, besides enjoying the pleasure and profit of a social hour, is to aid in defraying the expense recently incurred in repairing and improving the Methodist Church and Vestry. Particulars will be given in a day or two.

☞ Dr. J. V. C. Smith of Boston, gave a lecture on Turkey, at the Mechanics' Lyceum in the Temple, on Tuesday evening, which amused as well as instructed the large audience. He had been on the spot of which he spoke; and in the off hand style of a live Yankee, to whom notes would be an encumbrance, he told as many of the things which he saw and heard there, as he could any way crowd into an hour and a quarter. His sympathies were with the Turks in the present contest, because they are more tolerant than Russia would be, to missionaries and christian civilization outside the Greek Church. Yet he considered the fixed fact of polygamy and woman's degradation in the Turkish Mahommedan polity, as a barrier to any valuable progress the nation could otherwise make;—he trusted it might be broken down, but could hardly tell how.

☞ Prof. Taylor, the Magician, at the Cameneum, had but a small house last evening; and after performing a few of his feats, refunded the tickets or money—and is to perform this afternoon and evening only. His feats are skilful, and worthy of attention by those who are fond of such amusement. See advertisement.

SINGING.—Mr. J. W. Clark is to open a School for instruction in Vocal Music, at Academy Hall, this evening—for particulars respecting which, see advertisement. The especial object of the school is to improve church music. It is to be hoped for the sake of music in Portsmouth, that this course of lessons will be fully attended. There is no more pleasant or profitable way of passing an evening, than in a good social singing-school—the beginners learning, those who have sung before, reviewing; and after recess, all joining in to learn and sing tunes. "Music hath charms."

ANOTHER FACT.—Mr. Editor:—In comparing Portsmouth with Manchester, there is another little item that should go into the account. In the vicinity of Manchester there is a County Almshouse where all foreigners are sent, and all others who have not gained a residence in the city. This city is hardly a dozen years years old, and all those who come into the city poor, would not be likely to gain a residence. It would be strange if the people of Manchester should have many in their almshouse for a long time to come.

Yours, A.

SHIP ROMAN.—The brig William Price has arrived at Philadelphia, and brings eight of the crew of the ship Roman, from Canton for New York, who report that the captain set fire to the vessel before abandoning her.

☞ Mayor Seaver, of Boston, declines running again for that office.

☞ There was a fall of snow in Philadelphia and New York on Monday evening.

She was the sixth generation in descent from the patriarch John Stone, and well illustrated Paul's idea of the deacon's wife, being "faithful in all things." Her attachment to the home circle was so devoted that, it is said, she was never without the limits of Beverly, during her long and responsible life.

CONGRESS.

MONDAY, Dec. 19.

SENATE.—Mr. Norris asked unanimous consent to introduce resolutions relative to the death of his colleague, Mr. Atherton—granted. Mr. Norris then delivered a eulogy, and offered the customary resolutions.

Messrs. Hunter and Williams followed, when the resolutions were adopted, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Benton stated that Jose Gallegos, delegate from New Mexico, was present, and ready to take the oath, which was accordingly administered.

Mr. Houston, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported a bill making appropriations for the Civil and Diplomatic expenses of the government for the year ending June, 1855. Also a bill supplying the deficiencies for the current year, and a bill for the payment of invalid and other pensions—referred.

A message was received from the Senate announcing the death of Senator Atherton, when Mr. Hibbard of New Hampshire delivered an eloquent eulogy on the character of the deceased, concluding by offering the customary resolutions.

Mr. Orr of South Carolina also made a few eulogistic remarks when the resolutions were adopted, and the House adjourned.

The block of eight splendid dwellings on Brooklyn heights, N. Y., known as the Colonade row, was entirely destroyed by fire at an early hour Tuesday morning, together with two or three adjoining dwellings. They were all occupied by single families who were asleep at the time the fire broke out, and the excitement among the inmates was consequently very great. No lives, however, were lost. The loss on the building is about $100,000. The loss by the burning and breaking of the furniture must be very heavy.

PARSONS'S SERMONS.—The New York papers state that Parsons, in the spar yard, last Sunday, had an audience of 20,000 men, civil and well behaved, to whom he preached an advent sermon.

During the discourse of Mr. Parker, a temperance lecture was delivered from the adjoining shipyard of Mayor Westervelt, which was well listened to. The Courier remarks upon the character of the vast assembly, that it was gratifying to state that it had never seen so large a gathering composed of such entirely respectable and orderly citizens. There was not an intoxicated person present, and every man seemed to feel that it devolved upon him personally to demonstrate that the citizens of New York were quite fit to be trusted with the full and uncontrolled exercise of every right belonging to a freeman.

That is it, exactly. The 20,000 men who went, not so much to hear an unlettered preacher, as to uphold the right of free speech—and the other thousands who would stand still for an hour to hear a temperance lecture, not many of them either drunkards or rowdies.

The prospect is now, that no more preachers will be arrested in New York City for fear some priest ridden foreigners should mob them;—and there is a further prospect that the city ordinance which now forbids street preaching there, will be repealed.

MAINE LAW.—Mr. B. Rush Bagg, a justice of the peace in Detroit, has decided that "an act, entitled an act prohibiting the manufacture of intoxicating beverages, and the traffic therein," approved February 12th, 1853, by the Legislature of Michigan, is "unconstitutional and cannot be enforced." The opinion of the learned justice is very elaborate, filling nearly three columns of the Detroit Advertiser, a large sheet, in nonpareil type.

Will some of our friends in Michigan please to inform us who the learned, Squire Bagg is; and whether his character and standing entitle his decision to any respect.

LIQUOR AND THE LAW IN BIDDEFORD.—The Biddeford Journal contains an account of a recent seizure of liquor in that town with the arrest of the keeper, Charles Staples, who lived at the fork of the Alfred and Kennebunk roads. When the authorities appeared at Staples' door, the suspicion of the inmates was aroused, the door slammed in their faces, barred and braced. Presently the officers heard coming up out of the cellar the sound of smashed rum barrels and gurgling liquors. Upon this they forced in the door, and were soon half way up to their knees in the mixed liquors that flooded the cellar. Jugs were put right side up, bungs, faucets, &c., were speedily restored to their proper places, (in such barrels and kegs as had hoops and heads remaining) and these, with the owner were taken into custody.

Staples was taken before a Justice, who fined him $20 and costs—amounting, in all, to more than thirty dollars. He appealed.

THE WARFARE.—The Boston National Democrat is publishing some extracts from a Pamphlet, published by Benjamin H. Greene, and written by George B. Loring, July 1, 1842. These extracts show clearly, that Mr. Loring, who is the present Post-Master of Salem, Massachusetts, entertained and expressed sentiments, ten or eleven years ago, which condemned slavery as opposed alike to true policy and enlightened humanity. It is indeed a pretty strong dish of selections, and the Democrat says it is published for the benefit of readers in the United States Senate, as this gentleman's name will appear before them for confirmation.

We shall see, in due time, how much of an offence this expression of opinion appears to be, in the Senate. As for the general sentiment itself, of disapproval and condemnation of slavery, we suppose it belongs to all mankind, excepting only the comparatively few, whose position, interest or prejudice, leads them to excuse or defend what is so obviously wrong.

"It Shines for All."
"MARSH'S PATENT OIL" was introduced to the citizens of Portsmouth, by the subscriber, in the winter of 1850, since which time the sale of the article has been steadily increasing. The following extract from a letter (received last week from the manufacturers) we deem it our duty to lay before the public.
"We are the only ones in the world who know how, or can make Marsh's Oil; the article which has gained such a wide reputation for being the safest, best, and cheapest known Fluid—it never explodes—but always gives satisfaction; and will be a benefit to whoever retails it in the various towns.
Owing to the high reputation our oil has gained, some have been so unprincipled as to color Fluid and represent it as being the same as our oil (which is not the case,) and charge some 2, 3, or 5 cents per gallon more, just as they can dupe their customers. These imitations do no real harm to us; but in some cases they have caused sad accidents; and even loss of life and a general complaint by the consumers that it is not so good as Burning Fluid—which is a fact—for it is impossible to color Fluid without injuring it—still there are those who will do this for the sake of 2 or 3 cents per gallon."
The subscriber will be constantly supplied with the genuine article, and with suitable Lamps and Wicks for burning it. G. N. CARLETON, d19 15 Daniel street.

Judd's Baking Powder.

THIS is a Nutritious and Healthy Baking Powder, to be used instead of yeast, and is made of prepared Corn Starch and Arrow Root.

In the ordinary method of raising bread with yeast, a large amount of the best portion of the flour is lost by the decaying process of fermentation. 100 lbs. of dried flour, yeasted and baked, and then dried from moisture, leaves but 86½ lbs.—13½ lbs. is lost by fermentation; but 100 lbs. of dried flour and 6 lbs. of this powder, baked and dried as above, leaves 105¼ lbs. of real unfermented nourishment. There is then, gained from a barrel of flour, used with Judd's Baking Powder, about 40 lbs. of bread.

This powder contains no injurious substances, but is a simple, nourishing compound, put up on dietetic principles by Mr. Judd, the inventor, a thorough practical Chemist. It is daily used and recommended by some of the ablest physicians at New Haven, who are acquainted with the manufacturer and his process of preparing it.

It is manufactured by Wm. L. Rogers & Co., New Haven, and is put up in boxes of three sizes, at 12, 25 and 37 cts. each, with directions attached.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 28 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber, (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most faithful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR,—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Greenwich street, New York.

PROF. ALEX. C. BARRY'S

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound.

FOR beautifying, curling, preserving, restoring and strengthening the Hair, relieving diseases of the Skin, curing Rheumatic Pains and healing external wounds. Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of Barry's Tricopherous pervades the Union. The sale of the article of late years have increased in a ratio that almost exceeds belief. Prof. Barry, after a careful examination of his sales book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from half a gross upward, during the year 1852, was within a trifle of 950,000.

It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous when the public have furnished such an endorsement as this. The cleanliness of the article, and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the people. This was all that the inventor desired. Every bottle advertised itself.—The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The ladies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind.—The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity, and by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States, and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c., and by Weeks & Potter, Brewers, Stevens & Cushing, and Wm. Brown, Boston. d&wm je22

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fall disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!
